Brakeman Killed, Two Men Injured, As Trains Collide

Wabash Diesel Hits Caboose Of CNR Freight at Glencoe

GLENCOE (CP)—A 55-year-old CNR brakeman was killed and two other railroad men injured seriously in a train wreck on the CNR-Wabash main line half a mile west of here early today.

The victim was identified as Fred H. Boyce of London. Boyce was killed in the caboose which was struck by a Wabash diesel freight train. Both freights were eastbound.

The injured were identified as E. J. Rawson of St. Thomas, a fireman on the Wabash diesel and Alex Lyttle of London, conductor on the CNR freight. The men were rushed by ambulance to hospitals in London and St. Thomas. Rawson is believed in critical condition.

ENGINEER UNHURT

The CNR caboose, in which Boyce and Lyttle were riding was reduced to kindling wood. Wreckage was strewn over a wide area after the Wabash diesel had plowed into the caboose. The diesel also plunged to the north side and lay partially on its side.

Jack Reith, St. Thomas, about 70, engineer on the Wabash unit, escaped unhurt. Both firemen left Windsor early in the morning, the Wabash bound for St. Thomas and the CNR train headed for London. The two freights had blended into one on the line for separate routes a quarter mile east of the accident.

Coroner Dr. C. A. Lockwood, and Dr. W. L. M. Freele, both of Glencoe, are investigating the accident. Provincial police assisted at the scene preparatory to an investigation by CNR police.

Cannot Locate Controversial Message on Arms

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill said today that personally he did not recall send a telegram in 1945 ordering Field Marshal Montgomery to stock-pile German arms. But if they had to be handed back to the Nazis to stop a Russian advance.

He told the House of Commons the telegram had not been traced in his office records. "Though a research to the utmost extent has been made and is still continuing."

Four Trapped Beneath Truck

OAKVILLE (CP)—Three women and a man were trapped in their smashed car early when it crashed between the dual wheels of a transport truck.

Police Const. Guthie, 19, is in critical condition at hospital with a broken leg and head injuries. She was trapped in the car 20 minutes.

Driver of the car, William Clarke 21, and two persons in the back seat, Shirley Wright, 19, and Jean Bignell, 19, were not seriously injured.

The car was dragged 200 feet by the transport which was loaded with 14 tons of steel bars.

American Hubby Now Homebody U.S. Council of Churches Discovers

BOSTON (AP) — The American husband is becoming a homebody, the Rev. Dan Poling, president of the Family Life Specialists of the National Council of Churches after back-to-back extended peeks into households in the United States.

"There is a growing solidarity within the American family," says Poling, editor of Dan Hazen's Journal, chairman of the council's department of family life.

"We can see clear signs of the domestication of husbands and children."

Instead of gadabouts and rovers, they're becoming homebound creatures who help do the shopping at the supermarket and putter in the basement with "Do It Yourself" equipment.

But this is to the good, the specialists say, if they add that there's still a lot of disturbances lowering on the home scene—of almost as many varieties as there are in mink.

The department recently concluded exhaustive surveys in three cities—Dayton, Ohio, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Grand Rapids, Mich., and found "boom" settling up family counselling clinics.

"There is a greater interest now than ever before in home life than there used to be a decade or so ago," said Bishop Poling. "Young couples are especially serious about it."

There was also an abandonment of a fad to shelter children from any kind of problems—a policy which he said produced "soft souls for a hard existence."

Also on the plus side, there is a healthy movement back to the woodland. There's less of this domination and blighting of lives with kindness, so that children lack the ability to make decisions."

U.S. AIR FORCE NAMES GENERAL TO OTTAWA POST

Select Co-Ordinator Of Activities in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States Air Force has appointed Brig.-Gen. James C. Jensen to a permanent Ottawa post as co-ordinator of its activities in Canada, the RCAF announced today.

An RCAF spokesman, who said details of Gen. Jensen's job would have to come from American authorities, suggested, however, that appointment of a general officer was indicative of the growing number of joint defence projects being undertaken by Canada and the U. S.

In the past American military officials have usually come to Canada on an observer basis, or for conferences. Gen. Jensen, however, will be coming to stay, Colonel Mayhue D. Blaise, air attache at the U. S. embassy, said. It is a brief interview that General Jensen and his family are due in Ottawa Thursday or Friday.

FORMER HEAD

The RCAF statement said Gen. Jensen will be head of the staff of the operational plans division, directorate of plans, organization of the USAF's Washington headquarters.

The statement said Gen. Jensen escaped injury both from a parachute jump and a crash landing in the Swiss Alps during the Second World War.

"He did not actually send a telegram in 1945 ordering Field Marshal Montgomery to stock-pile German arms. But if they had to be handed back to the Nazis to stop a Russian advance.

"His job will be to assist the RCAF and the United States Air Force in matters between the services of the two countries."

At present the USAF maps its bases on a basis of six control points as Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon air force base in Newfoundland. Its personnel also operate Pinetree radar chain stations in northern Ontario, and detachments of American airmen are stationed at Canadian air force bases as observers.

Publishers Win Appeal On Technicality

TORONTO (CP) — Superior Publishers Ltd., and William Zimmerman, president, Tuesday won an appeal from a $100 fine and conviction in May for printing crime comics.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup, who headed the five-man Ontario Appeal Court, said the indictment charged more than one offence. He said the section of the act requires that a person be charged with a singular offence: that of printing a crime comic.

The indictment, which the court quashed, charged 12 different offences.

W. B. Common, director of public prosecutions, said there was only one offence—the printing of a crime comic.

The chief justice said in a written statement that the printing of a book or magazine for a periodical or a book "which exclusively or substantially comprises matter depicting pictorially the commission of crimes, real or fictitious" is an offence under the subsection in the Criminal Code dealing with "immoral, indecent or obscene" plate looking at a number of different publications which are not concerned with or related to each other."

Ford Company Accuses Union Of Introducing New Issue

TORONTO (CP)—The Ford Motor Company of Canada said Tuesday night the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) has set up a new issue to "prolong the strike at Windsor and continue to keep thousands of employees away from their jobs."

The company made the comment in a statement issued shortly after exploratory talks between union and company leaders broke off when agreement could not be reached on how wide negotiations should be for Ford's 5,700 striking workers.

The two-hour closed meeting was held under the chairmanship of Hon. C. Daniels, Speaker of the Ontario legislature, in a downtown hotel.

The company statement, signed by Ford President Rhys M. Sale, said:

"It would be impractical either to negotiate or establish an agreement for four groups of its employees at widely scattered locations and working under varying local conditions."

The union said it would not split its ranks by negotiating separately and wanted locals at the strike-bound plants at Windsor, Oakville, midway between Toronto and Hamilton, and suburban Etobicoke to sit around the bargaining table, and Mr. Davies, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Windsor-Walkerville, said that two of the union's four negotiators at the meeting were insistent that no negotiations could begin until Ford accepted a province-wide agreement covering all its unionized plants.

Union leaders later denied Mr. Davies' statement and said that Gosnell was prepared to sign a province-wide agreement.

Weather over the White Mountain national forest where the liner disappeared was cloudy at dawn and the "ceiling" low at 2,400 feet, Navy Lieut. Comdr. Ralph Casts indicated conditions would improve later in the day.

SEE IF HQ

Air search headquarters was set up at Greater Pease air force base, Manchester, N.H. The air force said 100 military planes could be thrown into the search if needed.

Of the seven aboard the missing plane, there were passengers and the others crew.

The search centred in the area after hunters reported a fire in the vicinity of Mount Pequawket reported hearing an explosion-like noise some time before noon Tuesday.

The plane acknowledged at 11:15 a.m. EST Tuesday a report on weather conditions at Laconia station, the Berlin airport at Milan, N.H. Northeast Airlines at Boston and Concord, N.H., at 11:30 a.m. that the plane return to Laconia and "ceiling" weather and other conditions at Milan. That message never was acknowledged, the airline said.

Urges 100-Year Plan to Give A-Power to Have-Not Lands

NEW YORK (AP)—An "atomic Marshall plan" for the financing of atomic power plants in underdeveloped countries over the next 100 years is proposed by a leading United States manufacturer.

John Jay Hopkins, chairman and president of General Dynamics Corp., made the proposal in a speech today before the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Text of his speech was released in advance of delivery.

"I propose," said Hopkins, "that there be initiated now a 100-year program for the financing and construction of atomic reactors in the power-short, food-short, water-short life-short areas of the world by American private enterprise and the American government working together with friendly national governments and their own private enterprise groups."

The program would be achieved by "diverting a very substantial part of the present astronomical economic aid from what has been a giveaway plan to what would be a paying proposition."

As an example Hopkins suggested that India and Pakistan could use some Marshall - plan funds still unspent to build reactors.

Attempt Made To Sabotage R.N. Submarine

LONDON (AP)—The admiralty said today that an attempt had been made to sabotage the engines of the 1,120-ton Royal Navy submarine Sidon while it lay at sea a week ago.

The admiralty spokesman said the sub's crew of 30 was being interrogated by admiralty security police and that no charges yet had been made against anyone.

Daily Express said the sabotage attempt was made by placing a hand grenade in the sub's engine room. It said the spokesman said: "As far as the admiralty is aware, no damage has been found in the engineroom."

Guilty of Fraud

TORONTO (CP)—Martin Eden, 58, of Toronto Tuesday was found guilty of defrauding the father of a mentally retarded child of $844. County judge Robert Morrow sentenced Eden to 18 months in jail.

William Card's father of the child, the sale price $794 for a drug and $50 for x-rays.

Mrs. Card said Eden aimed a folding camera with a flash attachment at the child and called it a new type of x-ray camera invented by a German scientist.

Blind Woman Turned Away Because of Dog

OTTAWA (CP)—D. Leo Dolan, director of Canada's travel bureau, said today how not to promote tourist trade—the story of a blind woman turned away from two restaurants and a hotel because she had a seeing-eye dog.

Without mentioning names or places, Mr. Dolan told a federal-provincial tourist conference the blind tourist was a woman from the United States. She had written him that she was refused admittance to two restaurants and a hotel because she had a seeing-eye dog to guide her.

Mr. Dolan said he could understand establishments perhaps turning away a "poodle in arms" but regulations against seeing-eye dogs were ridiculous and silly. Such dogs were part of the life of a blind person.

Labor Official Supports Rail Subsidy Plan

REGINA (CP) — The secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada supports a proposed federal subsidy to the railways to compensate for losses on unprofitable runs, the low Crow's Nest pass rates on western grain.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan in a report awarding railway workers $7,000,000 annual fringe benefits.

"Instead of the three specific groups (the railways, the shippers and railway employees) named by Chief Justice Sloan continuing to bear the loss of revenue due to the low Crow's Nest pass rates, I suggest that a subsidy to be borne by the Canadians should be the answer," he told delegates.

Seen on Mountain In New Hampshire

NORTH CONWAY, N. H. (AP)—A civil air patrol plane searching for a missing Northeast Airlines twin-engined plane with seven on board reported sighting wreckage today on the side of Bald mountain, five miles north of Berlin, N. H.

There was no immediate word whether survivors were seen.

Bald mountain, one of the lesser peaks of the White mountain range, is between Berlin and the Berlin airport, eight miles outside Berlin. The plane the DC-3 was flying when it vanished Tuesday night.

Report of the wreckage sighting came almost simultaneously with reports from the CAP's Berlin office that faint radio signals had been picked up there.

SEARCH SHIFTED

The radio signal came about 8 a.m. from within a five-mile radius of Berlin.

A broad air search directed by the United States' Air Force which had been working out of the North Conway area immediately shifted into the Berlin region.

Weather there earlier than 20th planes took off with the first light, from fields at distant as Quonset Point, R.I., naval air station and Limestone (Me.) air force base, and from the New Hampshire airports.

Weather over the White Mountain national forest where the liner disappeared was cloudy at dawn and the "ceiling" low at 2,400 feet, Navy Lieut. Comdr. Ralph Casts indicated conditions would improve later in the day.

Body Of Woman Is Found In Bush At Collingwood

Was Slain by Blow on Head Some Time During Summer

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Police chief Louis Elliot said today a young woman whose badly decomposed body was found in the bush late Tuesday died from a sharp blow on the head.

He said clothing indicated the woman was slain during the summer months.

The chief said the woman's skull was fractured. Three hunters found the remains on the outskirts of town. All the flesh was decomposed from the skull and an arm was found 30 feet away, police said.

The skeleton was found with a green sweater under the skull, red socks on the feet, a purple dress and a black, low-heeled woman's shoe on the right foot. The other shoe was nearby.

Coroner Dr. Robert Story said the woman was between 20 and 30, five feet, two inches tall with long, dark brown hair. No one is reported missing in the area.

Chief Elliot said murder indicated the body was dragged 150 feet from a sideroad running into Highway 26 near this town 40 miles west of Owen Sound.

Coroner Dr. Story believes the bones of the arms were pulled away by dogs or foxes. A top layer of leaves covered the woman was beside the body.

The three hunters were Jack Wonner, 35, of Collingwood, Clifford Monaghan, 28, of Ottawa and Robert Nott, 36, of Collingwood, found the woman in the afternoon.

Chief inspector Wilfred Franks of the Ontario provincial police said the false teeth eliminate the possibility of the girl being Marion McDowell, kidnapped from her boy friend's car in Scarborough township almost exactly a year ago.

CNR Employees Meet Marler And St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP — A 12-man delegation representing the Canadian National Railways System Employees Federation met Tuesday with Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Transport Minister Marler about employment conditions on the government-owned line.

The delegation made representations with respect to a number of CNR shop employees laid off in recent months.

No statements were made either by the prime minister, Mr. Marler or the railway representatives following the meeting.

Hotel Offers Shakespeare With Dinner

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Shakespeare with dinner is on the menu of a hotel here.

The Shakespearian performance was first offered Monday night by the St. Catharines Civic Drama League to an audience seated at tables in a huge circle around a stage — a theatre-in-the-round, the first of its kind in the Niagara peninsula.

The bill included Robertson Davies' short comedy The Voice of the People, a scene from Shakespeare's play entitled Queen of Henry, and Dinner was served during intermission.

The theatre-in-the-round' gives the audience a feeling of intimacy with the actors and permits a minimum of scenery.

Director Hall is the same as that employed at the Stratford Shakespearian Festival except that the auditorium you can have roast beef with Falstaff.

Canada Expects About $400,000 From Japan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada expects to receive about $400,000 from Japan in compensation for seizures made as prisoners in the Second World War. The amount is Canada's share of a total of $15,-000,000 Japan agreed Tuesday to pay to 13 countries whose soldiers were held as prisoners.

Canada's share will go into the war claims fund, but will not mean any additional benefits to the 1,500-odd Canadian soldiers interned by Japan.

They have already been paid off with funds realized from the liquidation of Japanese assets in Canada seized during the war.

However, still unsettled are about 20 claims lodged by dependents of Canadians who died after interment in Japanese camps and 11,000 claims lodged by civilians who suffered imprisonment.

Russia Proposes Chinese Attend Debate on Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia formally proposed today that Red China and Communist North Korea be invited to take part in the UN debate on Korean peace.

The move was made in the General Assembly political committee by Soviet delegate Yakov Malik.

He told the committee it is impossible to expect any objective discussion of the Korean question without the two Communist regimes being represented here.

Prince Wan Waithayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, immediately served with a proposal that South Korea be invited to participate in the debate.

American sources said earlier W. S. delegate James Wadsworth would call for inclusion of South Korea, but would stand firm against any bid to Peiping or North Korea.

UNEARTH OLD TEETH

LONDON (AP) — Communist China claimed today to have unearthed proof of a primitive human roughly related to the mysteriously misnamed Peking Man.

Reports dating from about Peking's year in the Neolithic age, 4,000 to 5,000 years ago, mention part of Shansi province, Peiping radio said. Chinese paleontologists of Science estimated the owner of the teeth belonged to the period between 200,000 and 300,000 years ago.

WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: While southerlies continue across southern Ontario today, a disturbance will produce rain, and warmer than usual temperatures. Wednesday will be mostly fair and cold. Outlook: This snow area will move across the lower Great Lakes Thursday followed on Thursday by colder air and occasional snowflurries.

American Medical Association Told Ominous Spiritual Disease Spreads

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An ominous "spiritual disease" seems to be spreading in the United States, a medical physician declared today, and a change of heart is needed to fight it.

The physical and mental health of our people is relatively good, AMA's board of trustees declared that the only remedy "lies in a change of heart."

"It is my sincere belief that the greatest need of our country today and one of our greatest needs is a spiritual rebirth, a return to God and to basic principles. And the re-birth must come in the heart of the average citizen—and in the average doctor of medicine."

He called upon doctors to remember that they are also citizens—that they should be active in community life, participate in education, in work for boys and girls, in charitable and philanthropic organizations.

Santa Claus Coming to Town And Big Reception Planned

Santa Claus is coming to town at 1.30 p.m. Saturday and a halt won't be alone.

In fact, the whiskered old gentleman will be accompanied by one of Belleville's largest parades ever, including 20 dairy lads and lasses, seven bands and more than 200 gaily costumed clowns.

Santa will be riding in his sleigh drawn by eight reindeer, and Bill Jamieson, as his driver.

The parade, a mile and a half in length, is expected to take more than an hour to pass any given point. It promises to be the most colorful and most melodious parade to be staged locally in years.

Everything from Martians and their space ships to the Tooter-ville Trolley will be in the parade. All floats are being sponsored by local merchants, clubs and individuals and are having the finishing touches put to their elaborate decoration in a number of workshops throughout the city.

Floats in the parade will include Long John Silver and his pirate crew sponsored by RCSCC Ship "Quinte". This float will be accompanied by the sea cadet corps and the sea cadet band.

MARTIANS INCLUDED

Outer Space as original by the men's clothing stores will have Martians with bulging green eyes equipped with silvery space ships.

Other floats include: Little Red Riding Hood by Delaney Dairy; Little Bo-Peep by Bert Farrar; Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer by Carson Elliott and the Belmont Restaurant; Old King Cole by the variety stores—Kresge's, Woolworth's, Metropolitan and Zellers Ltd.; The Three Little Pigs, by the O.S.D. Motor Goose by Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies Ltd.

Other scary floats will include: Nelly Belle, Trolley and its clown band; Cinderella's pumpkin coach and her single glass slipper by the Bata Shoe Company; the Queen of Hearts and her Pastry Palate; and Snow Queen and her attendants, by Ron Keet and Bill Jamieson.

Ramcess Temple float from Tweeds and the Shriner coach will be in the parade along with Jack and Jill, sponsored by Clemens Confectionation; a giant Christmas tree, by Northern Electric; the float in honor of the anniversary of Rotary International by the Rotary club; Christ church choir float with a large organ and Christmas carollers and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs by Jack Both Ltd.

PROVIDE SANTA'S SLEIGH

The T. Eaton Co. is providing Santa's sleigh and also its magnificent sleigh and reindeer. Float coordinator is Reg. Pipe Band; Kinmount Boys' Band and drum majorettes; RCAF Training Command Band; Belleville and Trenton Salvation Army Band; Belleville Citadel Band from RCSCC Quinte, and a clown band on one of the parade's floats.

The Santa Claus Parade Committee, sponsor of the parade, has been working on details for more than five weeks. Fire Chief Cecil Reid, Pipe Band; and firefighters have been working overtime on the construction and decoration of some of the floats, while individual and special group committees have been toiling industriously on their original creations.

The parade will proceed down West Moira Street to the upper bridge, down Front Street to Dundas, back up Pinnacle Street over the upper bridge again and back to No. 8 CNRA on West Moira.

Santa has 800 pounds of candy at the Moira Street Fire Hall for distribution to boys and girls after the parade.

Trophies, Awards Presented At Makers' Banquet

Trophies and other awards won at the British Empire Dairy Show were presented to prize winning cheesemakers at the annual cheese makers' banquet held Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple.

Approximately 250 cheese makers, their wives, dairy department officials and others enjoyed a sumptuous turkey banquet with all the trimmings prepared by George Channell of Maple Inn, Bloomfield. Chairman for the banquet program was Jack M. Bain, chief dairy instructor far Central and Western Ontario.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Sidney E. Larman, of Holloway St. United Church, who delivered a thought-provoking address on the art of salesmanship as applied to religious teaching. Robert Gillett, chief dairy grader for the Belleville district, introduced the speaker with association appreciation being expressed by C. E. Lackner. On behalf of the cheese makers Mr. Larman was presented with a tie-clip, silver, one of the first prize winning cheese at the cheese show.

SPLENDID PROGRAM

The surprise entertainment of the evening was a group of three local public school girls and a winsome high school miss who demonstrated their ability in the art of tap dancing, recitation and singing.

Linda Lennox, of Queen Mary School, favored with a tricky roller skate tap dance number and later in the evening with a tango tap dance, and petite Judy McKnight, age 7, did a duet received tap dance and baton number.

Readings were given by Little Miss Donna Matthews, who surprised her audience with her first public appearance as an elocutionist.

Miss Suzanne Cavers of the B.C.I. recipient of the Barbershop District award as being the local singer showing the most progress, sang two difficult and catchy number, "Hey There" and "High and Mighty." Mr. Hay Lennox acted as master of ceremonies and also pianist for the community songfest.

It was the first time that trophies and other prizes had been presented to cheese makers at the banquet. From the comment heard later it was a popular move and one which will undoubtedly be repeated at future cheese makers' banquets.

CLARENCE MAYBEE (Smithfield)

The funeral of Clarence Maybee, Smithfield, was held on Wednesday, from the United Church, Smithfield. Rev. John Glover, Marmora, officiated and the services, assisted by Rev. Finley of Smithfield.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

The deceased was born in Brighton township 78 years ago and had resided at Smithfield for the past 36 years. A carpenter by trade he had worked until a short time before his death. He died in Kingston General Hospital on Sunday, November 21st, following a brief illness.

He is survived by his wife, the former Zella Ireland, one daughter, Mrs. E. A. Weinmaster (Marion), of Gravenhurst, and one son, George of Belleville.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. O. R. Degrea (Jarsley) of Belleville; Mrs. Hattie Phillips, Newport Richey, Florida, and two brothers, Manley of Frankford and Ezra of Wellington, Ontario.

The deceased was a member of the official board of Smithfield United Church. He was a member of the United Lodge, No. 29, A.F. and A.M., Brighton, Ontario.

MRS. EFFA ARMENDA CALNAN

Mrs. Effa Armenda Calnan, 163 Station street, died in Belleville General Hospital, Wednesday, December 1, after being in failing health for some time. She was in her 76th year.

The deceased was born in Prince Edward County, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lont, and lived at Bayside on the 1st concession of Sidney township prior to moving to Belleville about one year ago.

She was predeceased by her husbands, Burton Hall and Albert Calnan. She is survived by a son, Gerald Hall, of Pickering Beach, Ont.; a sister, Mrs. Albert Fox, Belleville; and a brother, Lewis Lont, 1st concession of Ameliasburg township.

The deceased was a member of Tabernacle United Church, and the Woman's Association and the Woman's Missionary Society.

Bishop Evans Tells Kiwanians Of World Council of Churches

Right Rev. Kenneth Evans, Anglican Bishop of Ontario yesterday explained the work of the recent World Council of Churches as an example of Christian cooperation to be followed in every community.

Speaking to the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club here, the Bishop observed the immense press publicity given the council and posed the question: "Is it just ballyhoo or does it mark something very significant?"

He said he believed it was the latter but that it will only come to bear full meaning if Christianity is promoted in a co-operative spirit in every community "for the defeat of all that is evil."

Bishop Evans said the "questions" today is "how much do the right people care" and "how far can we go enough with the state of the world that they will make a great effort? Are they ready to co-operate with all men of good will?"

"Hitler," he said, "had that question placed before him."

PREPARE FOR WAR

"He came to believe that the democratic and Christian peoples of the world did not care enough to go that on that premise that he prepared for war."

He said only a repetition of that premise could lead to another war.

The World Council of Churches was "wonderful, almost unique, demonstration of the readiness of the mass of people in all countries to co-operate to preserve the good and preserve Christianity in this age under which it is under attack."

A unique instance of the council was that all the communion services had already determined their course previously. As an instance he was been a council representing all communions, except Roman Catholic, which had examined Haelf beforehand "and in spite of all that, to co-operate in this great fellowship."

OPEN DISCUSSION

"It was prepared in heart and mind to be wise.

The council represented some 40 per cent of Christianity, he noted, and although "one must say that it does not represent a majority of Christianity" in the immense diversity of the people, who attended and of the gathered moral and diverse communions from every continent and stratum of society, "they got a frank and open discussion."

He told the club there were reports that the council was factually reported behind the Iron Curtain as "the herald of the slavist against democracy."

Keynote of the council was Christ, the Hope of the World."

"It was a great note to strike at this time," he said.

"I believe that people in distant lands, who demonstrate actively by war but in the aftermath of war . . . there has gone out to these people a great renewal of the gospel that God is the Hope of the world."

REFERS TO CO-OPERATION

He referred to the practical co-operation of the various communions that enables them to throw in money and personnel in a "global strategy" to aid work in the mission fields "in an interdenominational way on the part of Christ."

"Obviously it is only in union, only in concert that the efforts of our churches can be planned in these times."

"Despite all that has been accomplished for Christian co-operation," he said, "we believe that the future holds something better. . . even in Canada."

He stressed that that action "has got to take grass roots," referring to need for realization of Christian co-operation in all communities.

"It is in Christ as the hope of the world that our common faith stands, And that common faith has got to be put into some form of friendly co-operative action."

Seasonal Track Workers Given 7-Cent Boost

MONTREAL (CP) — Seasonal track and maintenance workers on Canada's major railways have been awarded a seven-cent hourly wage increase in a federal conciliation board report made public Tuesday.

The employees, of whom there are 10,000 throughout the country during peak periods, are members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, AFL-TLC. The report covers employees of Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

A majority report was handed down by Professor H. D. Woods, head of the McGill University commerce department, who acted as chairman, and Michael Rubin-zieh, a Montreal lawyer who was the union nominee. The railway nominee, S. W. Crabbe of Toronto dissented from the recommendations.

The report would reduced the work week to 50 from 54 hours. Basic hourly wage rate under the award will be $1.05.

Special Task Force

TORONTO (CP)—The metropolitan executive committee Tuesday ordered creation of a special task force to clean up river valleys in the metropolitan area to prevent flooding next spring.

Cost of the project is estimated at $225,000, half of which will be paid by the province.

Works commissioner Leslie Allen in charge of the projects, said failure to remove debris will result in spring flood waters backing up against metropolitan roads and bridges.

Movement Afoot to Have Word 'Ontario' Stamped on Cheese Manufactured in Province

Fuller recognition of quality Ontario cheese on domestic markets outside the provinces is the aim of a movement by the Ontario cheese industry to have the word "Ontario" stamped on all cheese made within the province.

Charles N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, told members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association at the opening session of their convention Tuesday that there was a movement afoot to have the word "Ontario" alternate with the word "Canada" stamped on all Ontario cheese.

He noted that there was heavy movement of Ontario cheese to the West and at present there was no way by which the consumer could identify Ontario cheese as such. "Stamping the name Ontario on all cheese Ontario would have this effect," he said.

He said it would mean recognition of the effort of Ontario producers to produce quality cheese and would possibly increase sales by increasing the demand for Ontario cheese in the Canadian West.

Mr. Heath also asked that there be consideration given to the use of improved cheese boxes made from plywood which were available. Present boxes resulted in many damaged cheese, and plywood boxes would afford better protection for the product. The slightly additional cost of from 10 to 15 cents per box could feasibly be borne by the trade, he suggested.

Regulations governing the official weighing of cheese were now being questioned and the matter will be discussed by a special committee set up to consider cheese making problems. Regulations governing the official weighing of cheese have been in effect for over half a century, Mr. Heath said.

MORE YOUNG MEN NEEDED

C. E. Lackner, director of Dairying for the Province of Ontario, declared that something must be done to encourage more young men to enter the cheese-making industry or it will soon be next to impossible to secure a good maker.

"More attention must be given to the maker," said Mr. Lackner. "The maker is the key man in the cheese industry, yet he is not being paid enough to keep him in the profession."

The speaker noted that good makers were continually losing out to other industry where more money could be earned.

The short cheese making season was one of the drawbacks preventing young men becoming interested in the labor just could not earn sufficient money during the season to enable to keep his family.

This was one of the reasons why he favored larger factories that could remain open the year round.

Mr. Lackner noted the constant decline in the number of factories operating. In 1939 there had been 859 factories operating. By this year the number had fallen to 224. But still it was difficult to find a good maker.

"I don't mean that there are not good cheese makers. The quality of cheese shown at this exhibition proves otherwise, but the standard of cheese makers has dropped in the past few years."

Another argument in favor of larger factories was the financial ability of such factories to purchase special equipment, such as milk clarifiers which tended to reduce the amount of sediment in cheese.

DEFECTS IN CHEESE

Other speakers during the afternoon program included W. E. Brennan, district dairy products grader of Kemptville, who talked on defects in cheese, and D. M. Beattie, associate chief Dairy Products, Grading and Inspection Services, Ottawa, who gave a report on the 1954 grading. He noted that the score of cheese this year had risen appreciably by one half a point over that of last year but this did not take in the entire year's production.

Mayor John Both officially welcomed the cheese makers to the city noting that Belleville cheese was widely known for its top quality. Warden Fred C. Mitchell extended greetings from the county and also referred to the good quality of Hastings County cheese. He wished every success for the Belleville cheese show.

Association president Bert Jones in his president's address, referred to the high score of cheese shown at the exhibition and extended thanks to association members. Judges Jack M. Bain and Robert Gillan and to dancers of prizes. He paid special tribute to the association secretary, Mrs. Lillian Matthews, who had spent long hours in working for the success of the cheese show.

Frank S. Follwell, M.P., paid tribute to the dairy industry generally, declaring that without prosperity in the cheese industry other branches in the dairy industry also suffered. He stressed the importance of quality production if export markets were to be maintained and also noted the progress in packaging and merchandising of cheese.

Invocation was made by Rev. William J. Taylor of St. Thomas' Church, who reminded his listeners of the importance of attendance at church and of worshipping God.

Workers Vote In Favor Of Strike Action

HESPELER, Ont. (CP) — The Woolen Worsteds Union (Ind.) announced Tuesday night that 70 per cent of employees at the Dominion Woollen and Worsteds Ltd., here have voted in favor of strike action to back up wage demands.

The union executive said the vote was taken earlier this month. No date was set for a walkout.

The executive met to discuss a report by a conciliation board which recommended no change in the contract. The report was released Tuesday.

The conciliation board was asked to report on a dispute between the union and the company over restoration of a 15-per-cent wage reduction accepted by the union last March.

ASKED TO ACCEPT

The company asked the union to accept the reduction so it could continue operations in the face of what it called "competition with imported woollens and worsteds, mainly from the United Kingdom."

The board said in its report: "A careful review of the situation brings the conclusion that to recommend any increase in wages from the present level at this time would only result in a complete shutdown of the plant."

It recommended that existing rates of pay should continue for a year and that wage talks should be reopened in six months.

A union spokesman said present average wage at the plant is 98.2 cents an hour. He said it was the lowest in the textile industry.

Women's Canadian Club Told Of Work of National Film Board

Last evening, Dr. A. W. Trueman, M.A., D. Litt., chairman of the National Film Board, addressed the Women's Canadian Club, in Queen Elizabeth School, MacDonald Avenue, on the work and aims of the National Film Board in the development of the documentary film and its purpose in interpreting Canada to Canadians and other nations.

The nature of production in which the National Film Board engages is to provide people with a film which gives information and stimulates ideas, and conveys to them things which will interpret Canada to themselves. To do this a wide program is needed to detect points of new growth; native culture; language groups, as English and French, as well as forming judgments and imagination.

A CERTAIN PROGRAM

The Film Board is not engaged in individual films, but in a knit, certain program for the use of Canadians; it is a balanced program, not a series of isolated films. The subject matter deals with the economic, scientific, and social life of Canada as a whole made up of individual parts.

In the economic subject matter the conservation and development of mines, forests, fisheries, and water powers are dealt with. In the social, the man, his job, family, community and nation are dealt with. Different parts of the country are studied, and a balanced program produced, as technicalities and the arts; language and industry.

DISTRIBUTION

The distribution system consists of both the English and French, and is shown by the Odeon Theatres and the Famous Players as was the Royal Journey which was seen by more people than any other film shown, in the non-theatrical group.

The non-theatrical group reaches small groups, as churches, schools, and labor groups, and are obtainable as film libraries and film councils which have one-third of the National Film stock. This is the essential expense as local councils assist the Board in gaining knowledge of public needs through these privates places. There is always a steady flow of new subjects distribution.

AIMS

The aims of the National Film Board are to provide information which makes of Canada a unity; that the English and French will know what the western provinces are doing. No one province holds the spotlight; all are given equality. It provides Canadians with information by films, and does away with 'inert' ideas, which are not seized or utilized to avoid the 'passive' conception of ideas.

Information is presented through the medium of pictures and sound; the film is a sparking device, lifting the idea out of the lethargic category. The documentary film stimulates an audience, giving it vitality; it begins to think and to discuss what is seen. The film helps the audience to see Canada as a whole by the use of material skillfully presented. It shows Canadian life in all its richness of the present, as the present is all there is, containing the past and the future.

TO INFORM

The National Film Board seeks to inform Canadians about their country through the eye-gate and through the ear-gate; to help its citizens to be better citizens, and their country to be a stronger and more united one.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon for his interesting talk, and introduced to his audience by the president of the Canadian Club, Mrs. W. J. Langlois.

Coffee was served following the address.

Allan Patrick, Hurt on Sunday, Unconscious

TRENTON (Special) — Allan Patrick, seriously injured by a car while walking on the highway at Glen Miller Sunday night, has not regained consciousness, according to a report issued at the Trenton Memorial Hospital today.

The 83-year-old man, a resident of Glen Miller, was returning home from a visit with his sister when hit.

John Henshell, of Trenton, the driver of the car, told police he did not see Mr. Patrick in the rain and darkness until he was upon him. The elderly man was thrown to the pavement near the entrance to the bridge crossing the Trent river at Glen Miller.

Dr. J. D. Beecroft has been treating the injured man.

Merchants Set Store Hours

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton Retail Merchants Association, meeting here today, set closing hours for the last nine days before Christmas.

Stores will remain open Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 15.

Starting Friday, Dec. 17, stores will remain open until 9.00 p.m. in the evening.

On Christmas eve, shops will close at 6.00 p.m., it was decided by the majority, with five merchants voting in opposition.

Other years merchants kept stores open for business on the night before Christmas until 9 p.m. Last year many merchants found late closing Dec. 24 very disappointing. The movement for early Christmas-eve-closing this year met with strong support, although objectors argued stubbornly for the 9.00 p.m. closing.

Sentence Suspended On Charge of Assault

TRENTON (Special) — James Puffer, of Brighton, was convicted of assaulting an airman and received a suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in weekly police court here yesterday.

Puffer was charged after he hit the airman with a beer glass in a local hotel last week. Evidence showed the glass shattered, cutting the airman behind the ear and clashing his suit.

The Brighton man was also ordered to pay $38 costs.

Will Immunize 165,000 Children Against Polio

HAMILTON (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario outlined Tuesday a plan to immunize 165,000 Ontario children against poliomyelitis next year.

Officiating at the opening of Hamilton's new $225,000 health centre, Dr. Phillips said the children will be given Salk vaccine starting in March. Another 165,000 children, not given the vaccine, will be given periodic examinations as a control check on the effectiveness of the vaccine.

DEER HUNTING PROBLEM

Members of Zone Five of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters have decided to ask the Department of Lands and Forests to curtail the sale of deer-hunting licences in Ontario.

The Canadian Press dispatch which contained this information did not reveal the manner in which the zone meeting, held at Weston over the week-end, suggested that this curtailment could be carried out.

Would licences be issued on a first asked, first given basis?

Or would they be reserved for "home town" hunters?

No matter what system was used, the Department would find itself the target of much criticism, unless there happens to be a modern Solomon on the province's payroll.

Delegates to the Weston meeting said that the existing deer herd was being subjected to too much hunting pressure.

If this is true in Zone Five, however, there are other parts of Ontario where the reverse situation exists. In some areas in Western Ontario conservation officials have been urging an open season, but their suggestions have met with a hostile reception. In some cases, in order to prevent an excessive deer population causing over-browsing of the range and bringing starvation to all the deer, they had to thin out the herds by organized hunts late in the winter.

The Weston meeting was told that surveys show only one hunter out of every three or four has met with success. That is hardly satisfactory from the viewpoint of the hunters. But will not this lack of success automatically reduce the demand for licences?

If it is desirable to reduce hunting pressure, perhaps a shorter season would serve the purpose. The objection, of course, to such a remedy would be that it would further reduce the hunter's chances of bagging a deer. Obviously though, if the deer herd is suffering from excessive hunting pressure what is required is to devise means of reducing the kill, not increasing it.

HOW TO MARK A BALLOT

Of all the mistakes attributed to voters the most easily corrected are those which spoil ballots.

A spoiled ballot is an absolutely unnecessary by-product of an election. There is nothing simpler than the mechanical process of marking a ballot. However, at each election there are a certain number of spoiled ballots and it is apparent that many voters still do not realize that failure to observe the simple rules of marking a ballot will nullify all effort expended in going to the polls and the mental exertion of making up one's mind about the issues and the candidates.

A ballot should be marked with an X only. Tick marks, dashes, dots, a written "yes," an O or an inky finger print will not do. All that is required is a simple X and only an X. The X should be placed within the space opposite the candidate's name for which the ballot is being cast and should not touch the margin lines around the allotted space.

Regulations have been altered within the past two years to permit voters to mark their X with either pen or pencil—any pen or pencil.

Voting is a right and a privilege. Everything that could possibly be done to make voting easy has been done. The line, however, must be drawn someplace and that someplace is the X opposite the candidate's name. Unless a ballot is marked in the forthcoming municipal elections in accordance with the foregoing simple rule it is a sacred heritage that should not be defiled by thoughtlessness or wasted because of carelessness.

THESE STATISTICS ARE LOADED

An article in the Saturday Review provides an unique opportunity for giving ourselves an approving pat on the back.

The Saturday Review quotes figures to show that during the twenties magazine circulations were under 70 per cent fiction and 30 per cent non-fiction. Now the trend has been reversed, with 70 per cent of the contents of magazines being non-fiction.

There has been a similar trend in hard cover book publication. During 1953 bookstores sold three times as many copies of the ten leading non-fiction titles as of the ten leading novels.

Here, then, is evidence that we are a serious, practical generation, averse to wasting our time with light reading.

But wait a minute! These statistics, we fear, are loaded.

In the twenties there were no TV sets, prohibition was in force in the United States and automobiles were less numerous.

Before we conclude that there has been a vast change in attitude, we should have some assurance that yesterday's television readers have not merely been converted into TV-viewers, tavern patrons and Sunday drivers.

PLAYING PATIENT

I'm going to play patient for nurses in session
And tell them my views of their noble profession.
I know a few things I shall certainly mention
From sunrise to bedtime I've had their attention.

Knowing well I was due to be jabbed with a needle.

I've been ill, but I'll vow that I've seldom been surly.
I've smiled when they've brought my breakfast too early.
I've been known to spend sleep without any excuses,
To swallow their pills and their daily fruit juices.
I've mutilated their thermometers many a minute
While they made me jump with me still lying in it.

I've ridden their wheel chairs, in blankets well swaddled,
Arm in arm with my nurse down the hallway I've toddled.
I've said not a word when their writing chore started,
I knew for the doctor my case must be charted.

I'd shout from the house tops and every church steeple:
The nurses, God bless them, are wonderful people.

Mr. J. D. O'Flynn, sheriff and a clerk of the court for Hastings County, was elected a member of the executive of the County Clerks' Association of Toronto recently.

Four hundred guests were present last evening at the informal euchre and dance given by the American Hardware Corporation of Canada for employees and friends at its plant on Coleman St. The event, which was held on the second floor of the building, was the first of its kind here and the guests much enjoyed the hospitality given them. During the early part of the evening there were 55 tables of euchre in play; the winners were as follows: Ladies' first, Mrs. A. Stapleton; ladies' second, Mrs. R. S. Gibson; consolation, Miss Redner; men's first, Mr. Todd; men's second, Mr. Pat Drumm; consolation, Mr. F. D. White. The door prize, which was a handsome bridge lamp, was won by Miss Stella Elliott, and the men's door prize, an electric toaster, was won by Mr. Clifford Gibson. At midnight an excellent supper was served at dancing followed. The following were selected for prizes in dancing: Miss Ruth Thunder, Miss Muriel Leavey, Mrs. Frank Dahmer, Miss Helen Stevens and Miss Frances Magviacono. The following composed the committee in charge of the arrangements: Mrs. Edwards, Miss Nona Dorey, Miss Dorothy Craigher, and Messrs. Dawson, Boyd, Clive Ryan, Bill Elliott, Joe Fitzpatrick and Jack Wilson.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONFIDENCE IN LEADERSHIP

People do not follow a leader in whom they do not have confidence. In fact there is no free path to leadership except through confidence. You have to believe in a man before you consent to follow, or be guided by him.

To have the confidence of your friends, the people for whom you work, to be trustworthy, no matter where you are placed, are worthwhile goals. This confidence is something money can not buy. It has to be within one. If it is there, however, that person having it—that is, the confidence of others—owns the highest of recommendations.

No leader has power without the confidence o those under his leadership. He cannot lead if he does not give him confidence! It works both ways. In every emergency people look for the leader if there always has to be one. If we didn't have leaders, by every avenue of our social and business life, we would get nowhere.

It takes personal dedication and unselfish service to establish one's leadership, but few other things give such satisfaction. We feel that life is well worth living, when we take the opportunity to be a minister to the needs and calls of other people. We and people around us grow.

It is essential for all leaders to have the confidence of those whom they have been chosen to lead. Should this leadership be one by appointment, in itself it is an expression of confidence. The king is the man who can. It is the spirit that inspires confidence and the will to dare and do. It is far better to win this confidence in leadership than to find fault with it. Could we do better—and would we?

Political Nightmare

Gay Churchillian Wit

(By I.N.S. in The Ottawa Journal)

On the nineteenth of March, 1945, Winston Churchill, who is Minister of Defence, wrote the following note to Ralph Assheton, chairman of the Conservative Party Organization:

"I notice in the newspapers that the Central Office is issuing to candidates instructions that no one over seventy should be selected as a candidate at the forthcoming election. I naturally wish to know at the earliest moment whether this new applies to me."

Apparently it didn't.

A few nights ago, thinking apprehensively of the morrow's Parliament Day, I browsed into Sir Winston Churchill's set volumes to refresh my memory on one of his twinkling sallies about the Admiralty. It was a rating parallel that I tracked through my old marginal markings and kept on reading for many evenings.

What a happy warrior! No wonder President Roosevelt enabled him on his birthday in 1942: "It is fun to be in the same decade with you."

"Fancy the gay mischief of the man who, contrary to the sinking of the Bismarck, the most heavily armed ship in the world, cabled to F.D.R.: "Now it is a different story. The effect upon the Japanese will be highly beneficial. I expect they are doing all their sums again."

It isn't necessary to go to Churchill's collected works to find his sallies. His "we'll fight on" oral, try to find lift to the soul. His humor, often at his own when things were grimmest, must itself have been a powerful weapon.

In the dark days just prior to the fall of France Premier Laval called him with an air of exceptional formality that "the President of the United States has had intervened, and that aggressive action must be looked for which might only draw reprisals upon France." Said Mr. Churchill: "This idea of not irritating the enemy did not commend itself to me."

A little later, on the soil of France, General Weygand lugubriously asked Churchill what the British would do when Hitler's hundred divisions invaded England. "I said I was not a military expert, but that my technical observers were of opinion that the best method of dealing with German invasion of the island was to have as many as possible on the way over and knock them about in the sea," he dead as they crawled ashore."

When he became Prime Minister, in May, 1940, he formed a large cabinet. "But all the responsible work laid upon me," he declares, "was done by a small group of colleagues. They were the only ones who had the right to feel that the heads out on Tower Hill it we did not win."

In February, 1942, after a Cabinet reshuffle amid political tension, Churchill observes: "My personal authority was even enabled to be enhanced by the uncertainties affecting several of my colleagues. I did not suffer from any desire to be relieved of my responsibilities. All I wanted was compliance with my wishes after reasonable discussion."

Said Harry Hopkins to a banquet with the Russians and others in Tehran: "I have made a very long and thorough study of the British Constitution, which is unwritten, and of the War Cabinet, whose authority and composition are not specifically defined. As a result of this study I have learnt that it is the prevalence of the British Constitution and the powers of the War Cabinet are the envy of every Winston Churchill wants them to be at any given moment."

On another occasion Churchill declared: "I did not like having unharnessed Ministers around me. I preferred to deal with chiefs of organizations rather than committees. Everyone should have a good day's work and be accountable for some definite task, and they do not make trouble for trouble's sake or to cut a figure."

And as to Parliament: "I was not prepared to invite a disembodied Ministry to have its say among our secrets."

When the authorities in Singapore were preparing for that bastion's tragic fall signals were sent to London and Cairo for destroying the ammunition stores. Churchill commented: "The ordinary means method is to fire the ammunition at the enemy in the natural and prescribed course when the fall of a fortress is imminent."

In Washington, in December of 1941, U.S. Secretary of War Stimson came to his room one time and said he had ordered his fleet to sail from Hawaii to an island but the admiral had decided to turn back. "Your admiral in a case like this?" asked Mr. Knox. "He ought to be shot at once." Replied: "It is dangerous to meddle with admirals when they have always got the weather or fuel or something to argue about."

Actually in September of a year earlier Churchill had written on such similar troubles. As the allied expedition to Dakar was being organized he signed a memo saying Vichy French cruisers and destroyers must be allowed to pass unmolested through the Straits of Gibraltar. These movements could be of the greatest assistance to the expedition's success, but the Director of Operations (Forrester) wrote: "It is important action to inform the First Sea Lord, Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, Churchill drily, "the reasons which have been received in due course the propriety of this order forbidding displeasure."

Much later, of course, came the prolonged argument between Americans and British as how best to get through Germany the advancing Allied troops should move and whether the advance of the advancing Russian troops should be allowed to move. Politics entered into the picture, history. Churchill fought to have our side proceed at full pace. He knew it was important that we should shake hands with the Russians as far to the east as possible.

Mendes-France Faces Big Test

(New York Times)

Now that Premier Mendes-France has begun dealing with the habits of his fellow-citizens he may find that famous Gallic thrift, the French human rearmament and the Saar were child's play. The Premier has adopted a series of measures on Wednesday that would cut down the huge annual alcohol consumption of wine and liquors.

Not wines, of course. Any Premier who tried to deprive the proverbial 50,000,000 Frenchmen of wine would be dealing with another French Revolution. At the very least, the misguided man would become ridiculous, which is politically fatal in such a cruelly witty country as France. M. Mendes-France will be lampooned mercilessly as a prude, and he will be labeled as a milk drinker, but at least he is tackling an evil that is the bane of his fellow-countrymen will acknowledge.

Wine, we are told to be more cafes or bars in France per capita than in any country in the world. According to official figures, like $1,500,000,000, are given for annual industrial wages, but the estimated bill for alcohol consumption, we are told, is more than three times as great as that in the United States.

What has happened in France, it is said, is that certain economic and social levels to the drinking of hard liquor. The Premier's phrase "lives to eat" has always frowned on the American habit of taking a cocktail or whisky before a meal, contending that it paralyzes the taste buds. But many workmen have taken to the habit of spiking their morning coffee with some form of eau de vie.

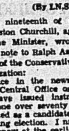
The French are essentially a hard-working, thrifty people who do not take naturally to excesses. Life has been tough for the older part of this generation of Frenchmen, which may explain

'Great Cake' Really Big

(New York Herald Tribune)

One of the interesting sidelights of the visit to America by Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret is the recipe she ran into on her visit to Woodlawn Plantation in Virginia. The recipe, attributed to Martha Washington, is entitled "To Make a Great Cake." And it begins "Take 40 eggs and divide the whites from the yolks and beat the eggs well."

Cakes, of course, were different in those days, when large families gathered around the festive board and the local bakery didn't deliver. Housewives had to be of a generous quality to this mighty recipe, which involves such ingredients as a pound and a quarter of powdered sugar, five pounds of fruit, half a pound of citron and a quart of French brandy.



It probably took a lot of time to cut it, too. It could be approached by Mrs. Washington's way. A child seated down at the end of the table had to feel apprehensive time. It be quite a long time they got to him. Slices could te cut thick, with plenty of butter, and seconds and even third, helpings, and the wine and brandy must have had a good deal of bite to the flavor. It is necessary to say that Mrs. Washington's way like that any more? No wonder George Washington was a big drinker and a smiling woman.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

SO YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE AN OPERATION

When I was an intern I was fond of the odor of ether. When I ever I handled either or administered it I took several whiffs of it and enjoyed the last, if it was a big job. After a few months of experience in hospital I lost my fondness for the odor of ether and inhaled as little as possible when in the operating room.

Dr. Brady

It was after I had been practising in Penn Yan and Elmira for sixteen years that I had occasion to take ether as an anesthetic (for appendectomy) and it was the preparation for operation and the post-operative treatment.

From the internal tension or bursting sensation (not real pain) I felt within four hours from the first 'internal uneasiness I had ever experienced. I realized that something radically wrong and I was greatly relieved in mind when my good friend, colleague and mentor, the late Dr. A. H. Baker of Elmira, examined me and decided it was appendicitis and that he'd operate. Then he announced anoci-association, and evening removed a gangrenous appendix. I had no drainage but left me to enjoy an "uneventful" convalescence.

I remember clearly only three things about the operation. First, the indifference and fortitude from fear or anxiety with which I approached the operation. Secondly, due to my knowledge of modern surgery but mainly to the anesthetic effects of the drugs administered by hypodermic injection hours before the operation. But now, in a neutral state or a state of indifference — the anoci-association which was introduced to surgery by the late great Dr. Geo. W. Crile of Cleveland.

Now, as you know, I'm good at calling people, hypothetical people, names. If anyone were to call me a coward I'd have to call him a liar. I am a coward. I'm afraid to go up in an airplane, afraid to look down from a roof or climb a ladder above the second story windows. I have irrational fears, phobias. But even persons of great valor may have their little phobias.

From what I know as a doctor and what I have learned as a patient I can assure any one who is as timid or cowardly as I am that we have no fear of operation, no matter what it may be, is not an "ordeal." It is a comforting thing to know this, I think.

First, anoci-association robs the operation of any terrors it might otherwise have, makes you face it as calmly as you would a haircut. Then whatever the operation may be it will be painless, thanks to local or general anesthesia. And finally, the incidental or secondary risks are seldom if any considered today.

The surgeon now has and routinely employs the means to prevent the three complications of shock and to safeguard operation hazardous in the past: hemorrhage, infection, and shock.

Instead of dreading the prospect of an operation one should welcome it, just as I welcomed Dr. Baker's decision to operate on me. Without operation that gangrenous appendix in there would have killed me in a matter of hours or days I would have had local peritonitis or what the old timers called "inflamation of the bowels" and you would have been well, the world would have lost one of the eight-eight best bowlers on our green.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

THE HATEFUL DREAMS

It is an amazing circumstance that Karl Marx, father of socialism and communism, the man who declared that he wanted to make the world a neighborhood of comrades, was himself unable to get along with practically any living soul. Several of his friends committed suicide. His career was one continuous quarrel after another with his associates. Only his dear friend, Fredrich Engels, stuck to him and refused to quarrel with him.

Marx's dream of Utopian social brotherhood was a dream indeed. It seemed to be utterly unable to put any of his theories into practical operation. He longed for the brotherhood of man, yet he called no man brother upon the earth. He wanted to make peace with the world but he failed in every possible way with his own family. He was at daggers drawn first and last upon the earth than any other single individual who ever lived. Because he wrote in a dark little room in London, an area in Siberia was imposed on 48 states of our country is now a prison camp, said to contain twelve million prisoners. Because of one book which Marx wrote, you and I are paying the taxes necessary to hold two people in recent centuries.

Marx, the theorist, wanted to make peace with a neighborhood; he has made it, as he made his own life, a battleground.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

So much is being published about psychiatry these days in newspapers, magazines, slicks, movies and even in the five cent comic books, that it is little wonder if large numbers of formerly cheerful people are going about with uneasy expressions.

The principal thing the psychiatrists fail to impress upon their student public is that the brain is an organ, the same as the liver or lungs. The fact is of self-importance that has characterized the human race for the past few thousand years, there has existed for a long time a widespread impression that the brain is something more than an organ, a mysterious and special, something semi-supernatural like the soul or the spirit. But it is just meat, like the rest of us.

Like the liver, it can be off-color for a few days, Or, like the liver, it can be diseased and cause us all sorts of trouble. With regard to everything but our brains, we are all willing to admit that our health has its ups and downs. Nobody is continuously healthy or continuously sick. We have the conscious opinion that with regard to our brains, we are fairly sound. Or we let the brain deserves no more special treatment than our noses, our ears or our kidneys. Even then, we can overstuff it with the wrong food and drink, or we can get a head cold or perhaps catch cold or pick up a flu germ, and be temporarily off our heads.

The same bloodstream that carries bugs to our intestines or our livers or our hearts goes right on around the merry - go - round through our brains. It may upset us of a minute or two. Yet we like to imagine our brains as being walled off, in a sort of holy-of-holies, apart from our more vulgar gadgets.

A man can have a cork on his toe and not feel unhealthy. But bad temper, dullness, depression, recklessness, droopy spirits, anxiety, morbidity—nobody will suspect that these may be due to a corn on the brain. But why not?

First Election For Council In Twelve Years

AMELIASBURG (Special) — There will be an election for councillor for Ameliasburg township for the first time in 12 years.

Entry of 30-year-old Robert Sheppard, an Ameliasburg resident for the past six-and-a-half years, into the race for township council precipitated the first election in a dozen years.

Sheppard's unexpected entry caught council without voters' lists, a development that is complicating the campaign.

Must Construct Network Of Expressways

MONTREAL (CP)—C. E. Campeau, assistant director of the city planning department, said Tuesday Montreal will embark on expressways to solve its traffic problems.

"A well-designed four-lane expressway will carry the same number of cars—at nearly double the average speed—that five 40-foot wide ordinary city streets can carry," he told the Royal Automobile Club.

A network of expressways must be built according to a master plan, Campeau said, "making one belt around the centre of the city and another at the limits of the built-up metropolitan area."

"Radials will link the centre of the city to these expressways," he said.

"An east-west expressway, about 18 miles long, has been designed to link the western provincial highway to Toronto with the Repentigny bridge. All preliminary studies have been completed on this expressway and engineering plans could be started immediately."

Cost would be between $2,500,000 and $10,000,000 a mile, bringing total costs of the outer-belt expressway to about $175,000,000, he said.

Merchants Plan To Conduct Consumer Poll

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Retail Merchants Association of British Columbia announced Tuesday it plans to conduct a consumer poll throughout B.C. on the sale of beer and wine in grocery stores.

"We will place huge forms in nearly 1,000 food stores starting within a week or 10 days," said Grant Deachman, manager of the association which last week sent a circular to B.C. merchants asking their opinion on sale of beer and wine in food stores.

Mr. Deachman said store customers would be asked to sign the forms expressing their desires for or against such sale.

Sale of beer and wine in food stores would require an amendment to the present B.C. Liquor Act.

Oliver Says 'Real Culprit' Was Government

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, said Tuesday night the "real culprit" in the recent highways irregularities was the government itself.

"Anyone who would allow a sore like that to fester for the last 10 years until it broke out should be held responsible," Mr. Oliver told 300 members of the Lincoln County Liberal Association at their annual meeting.

He said the Liberals will hold Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government to blame and hold do everything in their power to oust them.

Mr. Oliver also criticized Ontario Hydro for "gross extravagance" calling its spending of more than $1,000,000 on public relations.

"People in Ontario are getting Hydro at cost, but the cost is getting very substantial," he said.

Inquest Ordered

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Crown attorney Lloyd Goodwin Tuesday ordered an inquest into the deaths of David Hindle, 27, and Thomas (Rocky) Lavell, 27, victims of what is believed to be a shotgun murder-suicide at nearby Niagara-on-the-Lake Saturday.

The date of the hearing will depend on the condition of John Lavell, 49, father of Thomas and thought to be the lone witness of the shooting. He is in hospital suffering from pneumonia.

Freed Conditionally

MADRID (Reuters)—Fourteen of 15 men accused of Freemasonry and sent to prison for terms of up to 16 years, have been freed conditionally, it was disclosed Tuesday.

They were sentenced in secret earlier this month by a special tribunal for the suppression of freemasonry—illegal in Spain since 1940. They were charged with attempting to reorganize Freemasonry.

The one still in prison, Enrique Ramos Romero, will have to serve his sentence of 15 years, it was stated.

Former Swim Champion Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former swimming champion Virginia Hopkins Watson, 32, died Monday night of peritonitis that followed an abortion, police reported Tuesday. Officers quoted her husband, Arthur Watson of Hollywood, as saying she told him just before she died she was afraid that having a baby would interfere with her chance to break into the movies. Police are looking for the doctor who performed the operation.

Order New Trial At Montreal For Wife of M.P.

MONTREAL (CP)—A new trial has been ordered for Lillian Pursey, 41, wife of the British Labor member of Parliament for East Hull, charged with knowingly possessing $1,700 in fake American money.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure set Feb. 1 as date for the new hearing after an all-male jury reported after 2½ hours they were "evenly divided" and might sit all night without reaching agreement.

MAY STAY

She will probably have to stay in Canada until the second trial, unless defence counsel can persuade Mr. Justice Lazure to return her passport to her temporarily. One of her lawyers has been under court order to keep her passport until the case is closed.

The attractive woman, who has been married to a Hungarian nobleman and later to a Greek lawyer, both now dead, stepped down from the dock and kissed her husband, Cmdr. Harry Pursey, before leaving the courtroom.

The commander had flown from Europe to be present at his wife's trial. She was arrested Sept. 20 in a downtown furrier's when RCMP found more than $1,700 in United States counterfeit currency in her bag. At the time she was on her honeymoon, having been married in Trenton, N. J., Sept. 11. Her husband had been called back to England.

DIDN'T KNOW

Mrs. Pursey said in her defence she did not know the money was counterfeit and that she had found it in the effects of her second husband after his death.

England Wins From Germany

The game was slower than expected but the victory helped restore some of England's lost prestige in International soccer.

England's goals were scored by Roy Bentley, Ronnie Allen and Len Shackleton. Alfred Pack scored Germany's goal.

Germany won the world soccer championship in Switzerland earlier this year but the team which lost to England today was a mere shadow of that squad, having lost eight players because of illness or injury.

Provincial Police Conference Concludes

TORONTO (CP) — A three-day conference of Ontario provincial police district inspectors from all part of the province ended today.

Officials said the conference dealt with problems of administration and matters of law enforcement. It was an annual meeting.

Attorney General Dana Porter spoke briefly Tuesday night at a banquet for the visiting inspectors and executive officers.

Fall Plowing Now General In Province

TORONTO (CP)—Fall plowing is general through most parts of the province, the Ontario agriculture department says in its weekly farm report.

Wet weather has prevented harvesting and tractory getting on the ground in some areas but in others plowing is almost finished. Rain in western and central Ontario has delayed corn and soybean harvesting in a few areas.

Livestock in many districts, except in northern Ontario, are being put to pasture.

Snow, if any, has been light in most parts of Ontario.

In Norfolk county some tobacco has been shipped but full-scale shipments are not expected for at least a week.

VOTE FOR ATOM PLAN

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—UNESCO voted Tuesday to join President Eisenhower's "atoms for peace" plan. The United Nations Educational, scientific, and Cultural Organization voted unanimously for a resolution that will make it play an important role in developing peaceful uses for atomic energy. Both the United States and Soviet delegates praised the plan.

'Americanisms' Are Not Helpful To Tourist Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada should use its own background, charms and beauty to attract tourist dollars and forget about "Americanisms," a conference of tourist officials was told Tuesday.

The "Keep Canada Canadian" message came from Resources Minister Comtois to delegates from every province as they completed a two-day meeting of the ninth federal-provincial tourist conference. Objective of the conference is to exchange ideas and co-relate tourist trade programs.

The minister and other delegates deplored the fact some Canadian resort operators fly the Stars and Stripes and serve American dishes in the hope of attracting United States tourists. Mr. Lesage said Americans don't come to Canada seeking Americanism. They want something different.

Tuesday night delegates were guests of the minister at a dinner addressed by Charles A. Horsworth of New York, executive vice-president of the American Hotel Association. He told them that vacation travel, once confined to summer months, now is becoming a year-round business due to increased use of the automobile and improved travel facilities.

The conference heard a progress report on the 5,000-mile trans-Canada highway begun in 1950. R. M. Bullock of the trans-Canada Highway Branch of the public works department said that though the highway is only about one-third complete, progress is being made.

Mrs. Murray Black is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONALS

Mr. Elmore Chesher, Miss Carol Chesher, Master Tommy Chesher, and Mrs. Irene Germain have returned to Rochester, after spending a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Chesher, Trent Road.

Weddings

HAMILTON—POTTER

The Baptist church at Bridgetown, N.S., was the setting on Saturday, November 27, at 11 a.m., for a pretty wedding when the Reverend Mr. Colpitts united in marriage, Evelyn Alice Potter, of Bridgetown, R.R. 1, N.S. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. V Potter, to Seymour Hamilton, of Belleville, son of Mrs. F. R. Hamilton. Potted plants, ferns and evergreens were arranged in the church and altar.

The wedding music included the "Wedding March," from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as the processional. "The Wedding March," by Mendelssohn as the recessional, and a solo, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely formal bridal gown of white velvet in floor length with overdrape of nylon net. A pearl-studded headdress held the fingertip veil of tulle illusion. She wore shoulette in sweetheart and carried a white Bible created with red roses.

Miss Shirley Taylor, of Bridgetown, N.S., was maid of honor, attired in a blue silk formal with lace and overdrapp with matching blue lace jacket. She wore a matching headdress trimmed with real pearls and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. Ross Potter, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Hutchinson, ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held in the church vestry. The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by tall white candles.

For the wedding trip to Bermuda by plane the bride chose a two-piece boucle ensemble in aqua blue, with matching feather hat and fur tie jacket. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville and Halifax.

MARACLE—DERBY

On Thursday, November 25, at three o'clock, Glenour United church, was the scene of a pretty informal wedding when Doreen Marilyn Derby, Glenour, and Gibson Seymour Maracle, of Shannonville, were united in marriage.

Rev. L. Hardy, of Cox Hill, officiated.

Mrs. Hardy provided the music. Given in marriage by her father Mr. James Derry, the bride wore a two-piece blue knitted suit. Mrs. Betty Clapper, Belleville, was bridesmaid.

Mr. Fred Paul, Buffalo, N.Y., acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Ken Maracle and Mr. Alex Murphy, Belleville.

Being the first to be married in the new church, the bride was presented with a white Bible donated by Mrs. W. A. McMurray.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon was served in the church basement.

FOULTON—WIDOR

CAMPBELLFORD.—A pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon, when Florence Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Widor, of Campbellford, became bride of Robert Claude Foulton, son of Campbellford. The Rev. Owen G. Barbour, of Christ Anglican church, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gray silk dress with periwinkle blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Louise Renie Widor, who was gowned in sapphire blue velvet, matching accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Gordon Wesley Seymour.

Following a dinner served for the bridal party at the Trent House Hotel, the couple motored to Bancroft. On their return they will take up residence in Deloro.

KELLS—HALL

A pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized on Friday, November 26, at 7.30 p.m., at Holloway Street United church parsonage, by the pastor of the church, Rev. Sidney E. Larman, when Ferne Arleen Hall, of Belleville, R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall, became the bride of Keith Irwin Kells, of Belleville R.R. 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kells.

The bride was attractively gowned in white satin accented by pleated nylon trim and fitted lace jacket with seed pearl trim. She wore a matching headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Mr. Garnet Skinkle, of Belleville, R.R. 2, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Maple Haven, Trent Road, where the bride's mother, wearing a two-piece wine colored ensemble with corsage of Bettertime roses, was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore blue taffeta with corsage of Bettertime roses.

For travelling to the United States the bride chose a navy blue suit with red accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Kells will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Picton, Trenton and Belleville.

Christ Church Holds Sparkling Christmas Bazaar and Tea

To be greeted at the western door of Christ Church parish hall by a galaxy of tiny Christmas trees, festooned with red ropes, and later by the gracious receptionists, Mrs. C. Bonter, Mrs. D. Bothwell, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. Richmond and Mrs. E. Hickey, indeed a happy harbinger of the enjoyment in store for those many who attended the tea and bazaar sponsored by Christ Church.

The tea room was the epitome of the Yuletide spirit with its gaily decked pillars with their white ruffled duttings bedecked with frosted pine cones, and bronze-like gadgets; its walls adorned with smiling Santa Claus faces, and its window sills a bower of green sprinkled with white-tipped cones.

THE HIGHLIGHT

But the highlight was the long tea table with its Christmas red tablecloth embroidered with silver trees interspersed with silver bells, and centred with a tiny bongalow fashioned from white wood, with yellow paper curtains for windows and door, and salted peanuts in the guise of snowdrifts on the ridgepole was a row of pink gumdrops. Surrounding the little bungalow was a white picket fence, watched over by a tiny, black, Scottie dog, with a bags on how. A tall, old-fashioned lamp post, and little evergreen trees, with red and white candy Christmas canes, added a lovely Christmassy touch, as did the various snowmen and Santa Claus faces. Flanking this ornate centre, were large, frosty candles in brass sconces, which shed their flickering light upon the scene.

Each little guest table, with its white cloth, was centred by a Christmas cracker, with red and red napkins, giving forth the songs of Noel amid the fruits of the vine, red and green grapes, and tiny mounds of green and pink after dinner mints. Added to this pleasing touch were the tiny, whipped-cream-topped individual butterscotch pies served by the smiling attendants, making in all, something just a little different from the ordinary tea.

The tea room was in charge of the Contact Club, with the convenors being, Mrs. B. Bishop, and Miss W. McCormick. The receptionists were Mrs. J. Creegan, wife of the rector, and Mrs. D. Lennox, president of the Contact Club. The hostesses included, Mrs. Gavin Scott, Mrs. B. Bishop, and Mrs. W. McCormick.

PRESIDING

Those who presided at the tea services included: Mrs. Arthur Page, wife of the rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill; Mrs. Everett Smith, wife of the assistant rector of Christ Church; Mrs. Ian Stewart, Mrs. Percy Welsh, Mrs. Cleo Colling, and Mrs. William Robson, wife of the rector of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Those who replenished were: Mrs. R. Taylor and Mrs. R. Thorne. Assisting in the kitchen were: Mrs. J. Bunnett, Mrs. W. Moult, Mrs. R. MacInnis and Mrs. Cooke. Those who served included: Mesdames E. Burch, W. Mills, K. Baldwin, K. Lake, E. Clarke, R. Lennox, F. Beeby, V. Flindall, E. Mossman, J. Rose, K. Woodley, S. Wiggins, R. Boulter, C. Anderson, A. Stalker, R. Rogers, D. Boyce, F. Murray, H. Ford, G. Lidg, G. Hancock, Hume, C. Patterson, J. Fletcher, R. Nichols, G. Adams.

NURSERY

Those in charge of the nursery with its play pens, it various toys, and kiddie cars where the tiny tots could while away the hour while the mothers enjoyed shopping and a cup of refreshing tea, were Mrs. H. Sweet, Mrs. Cormick and Mrs. F. Huson.

The assembly room upstairs was given over to the various booths, and resembled, with its beautifully bedecked Christmas tree, a scene from the Arabian Nights tales with the colorful decorations and wonderful assortment of articles displayed.

The fancy work booth, convened by Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. B. Clegg, had a fine display of crocheted lace runners; luncheon cloths; tablecloths; hot mitts; frilly white doilies; cushion tops; bedspreads; dainty bags, with appliqued crocheted flowers, chair sets, woven green place mats; knit socks; fancy pin cushion of chair with reclining man, his feet resting on a footstool; crestone laundry bags and many others. Those assisting here were: Mesdames F. Welch, W. Beard, Quirt, Domoally, Collins, Armstrong, Marks, Colling, McLeod, Rowboltham, Coleman, Askey, Dewy, Button, Parry and Bush.

MISCELLANEOUS TABLE

The miscellaneous table was busy from the time it opened, and was an enchanting spot with its many, many articles including teapots, silver compacts, vases, costume jewellery, frying pan, knitting bag, salt and pepper sets, silver candy dishes, pursey bags and plenty of beggar's boys, fern, and African violets. Mrs. R. Orne, assisted by Miss L. Mossman and Miss Ann Hall in charge of these.

HOUSEWIFE'S FRIEND

The pantry booth was a housewife's friend in need with the jams, jellies, and canned goods and fruits, apples, pears, beets, honey, fresh eggs, sugar, shortening and tomatoes. All in charge of Mrs. L. Mason and Mrs. F. O'Connor.

The parcel post booth was adorned with green and yellow and silver tinsel, and was another attractive with its prettily wrapped parcels, some small, some round; and others large and still more square. These were selling at 10c parcels each, and finding ready buyers. Mrs. J. Miles had charge of these.

The final little candy table, with its fine assortment of prettily packaged candy, little baskets in colors, and in silver was a great drawing card. There were all sorts of delicious and chocolate confections. This was convened by Mrs. Cole, assisted by Mesdames D. Maybee, H. Frid, A. Stalker, D. Burns, R. Green, H. Putman, H. Cooke, F. Peden, E. Simmons and W. Gander.

MANY PRETTY APRONS

The apron booth was surrounded by a hedge of women, three deep, in quest of Christmas gifts. The aprons were many in color, design and shape. Some were of Mauve organdy; others were of crinoline material in double tier with scattered violets between, and having pale pink ties; others were grey with borders of turkey red, yellow aprons with print borders edged with lace, all over aprons, children's aprons, half aprons both plaid and plain, and in mauve and yellow prints, all very useful. Convening these were Mesdames, R. Wallbridge and E. Godden, assisted by J. Withers, E. Waterhouse, P. Drury, Chapman, E. Over, Peterson, Belcoy, W. Heard, Frith, L. Hall, and the Misses B. Thomas and F. Ayling.

HOMECOOKING

The home cooking was convened by Mrs. R. Bailey and Mrs. R. Slavin, assisted by Mrs. Dowsett, Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. M. Thompson, Mrs. Chaplin (cashier), Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Kempston, Mrs. Herron, Miss L. Graham, Mrs. Vanner, Mrs. Watkis, Mrs. H. Dawson, Mrs. Ling, Mrs. Symons, Mrs. Holway and Mrs. Bateman.

This delicious assortment included pies of all varieties, lemon, mincemeat, cherry, apple, date, butter tarts, fruit cakes, banana, white cakes, chocolate cakes, butter tarts, bran muffins, cup cakes, coconut macaroons, and pinwheel cookies.

A booth was given over to wall plaques and little figurines, some white, and others nicely colored. There was also the Nativity scene, and the camels, donkeys, lambs, and sheep. Mrs. A. Bongard, assisted by Mrs. F. Bateman and Mrs. Williams were in charge of this.

STUFFED ANIMALS

Stuffed animals were in evidence and included Peter Rabbit, stocking dolls, Floppy-Mopsy, the talkin dog, the circus elephant with the colorful rolling ball, a cute grey and blue monkey, Donald Duck looking as real one could almost hear the 'quack, quack,' and a cute little Scottie dog, and many others. Mrs. W. Day was the convener here, assisted by Mrs. W. Allen, Mrs. R. MacLaren, Mrs. L. Watson.

The men were not to be outdone as they had a fine booth of hobbycraft, which included doll's furniture, wall brackets, fishing kit, all painting, wren houses, tugboat, leather goods, small purses, doll cradles, coffee tables and a fine assortment of desk. Mr. Pallant, assisted by F. Harper, Rev. E. Smith, and M. B. Button were in charge.

The doll booth was a delight to the eyes with its little doll dresses, cradles, and many dolls, some girls and boys, all dressed in black and white check capes with black hats, bonnets and caps. One doll, or rather two dolls in one, a part of double decker, in one position was a fair haired little beauty with pretty flaring skirt, and in his other position was a cute little Topsy with black hair. Mrs. G. G. Wright and Mrs. G. Watkin were the convenors assisted by Miss F. Fitzgerald and Mrs. L. Benning.

The children's clothing, convened by Mrs. A. Cooper, Mrs. S. Beggs and Mrs. Hutchinson, had many items of fine sewing craft in skirts, dresses, overalls, shirts, mitts, stockings and everything that a little child might like or need. They were assisted by Mesdames J. MacDonald, J. Spencer, G. O'Brien, W. Lancaster, T. Clarke, G. I. Reid, Z. Luttrell, C. Musclow, W. Edwards, H. Stevens, L. Donnoly, C. Ling, J. Ling, J. Fleming, C. Hayes, A. Ashton, and A. Swain and Miss M. Hayes.

The treasurer for the afternoon were Mrs. B. Wells, Mrs. L. Donnoly, Mrs. F. Murray and Mrs. A. Swain.

The overall convenors were Mrs. A. Jordan and Mrs. M. B. Button. Mrs. Walker was in charge of publicity, and Mrs. R. Godden of the tickets.

The bazaar was officially opened by the Right Reverend Kenneth C. Evans, M.A. Ph.D., L.L.D. D.C.L., D.D. Bishop of Ontario, who was introduced by Archdeacon J. S. Pearce, rector of the church.

An outstanding bazaar and tea bringing much credit to the convenors, and to the many who assisted in its most successful conclusion.

College Hill Choir Holds Pot-Luck Supper

Last evening approximately 30 members of College Hill United Church senior choir and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Houston, Trent Rd., for a potluck supper prepared by the ladies.

Following the repast a social evening was enjoyed—iq various games and community singing, led by Mrs. Houston. A game called "Traveller's Dilemma", provided much hilarity. Other games included musical parade, charades and quizzes, in charge of Miss Marilyn Wood, Mrs. Houston, and Mrs. Douglas Watson.

Appreciation in song was expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Houston for their hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston have led the junior and senior choirs for two years.

Miss Jean Gee First Chinese Woman Lawyer

VANCOUVER (CP)—As British Columbia's first Chinese woman lawyer, pretty Margaret Jean Gee, 26, believes it's never too soon to start out on your own.

Just three months after she became the first woman at her race to be admitted to the bar in the province, Miss Gee is established in a richly-furnished downtown office.

"You have to start sometime," she says, "so I decided to do it right now."

Most young lawyers spend their first few years with an established firm, and Miss Gee admits the early going is hard.

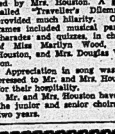
"I'm certainly not setting the world on fire, but already I have a practice that keeps me busy." The reason is that she is her own secretary, bookkeeper and receptionist.

NEW CHINESE CLIENTS

Asked if most of her clients come from her own people, Miss Gee said:

"Strangely enough, most of them so far have been Occidentals. People expect me to have Chinese clients, but it doesn't work out that way."

How did she decide to become a lawyer?



"It was just a process of elimination. I didn't want to go my mind until I was in university."

In her graduating class she was one of four girls among a class of 90. She scored a 73-per-cent average, placing her well in the top third of the class.

Right now, her career comes before marriage.

"I'm all for marriage, mind you, I just think there's a certain time and place in a person's life, and this isn't the time in mine."

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

The regular meeting of Springbrook Women's Institute was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Percy Bateman. The president, Mrs. C. Gordanier, welcomed four visitors and 26 members and conducted the business.

Letters were read regarding the short courses for members at Guelph from January 3 to 7th—and one from Kate Aiken about bazaar ideas.

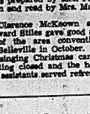
The treasurer reported a favorable balance from catering to a dance and the Hallowe'en party. Two birthday dues were handed in.

After discussion of the need for 'glow' signs at Bonariaw it was voted to approach the proper authorities.

Mrs. Fred McKeown, convener of agriculture, had charge of the program. Mrs. Burton Bateman gave an interesting demonstration of chocolate candy making. The motto, "If You Feed Your Farm, It Will Feed You" was given by Mrs. Gerald Burtitt. All joined in giving an item in current events.

The topic, "Progress of Farm Machinery, Past, Present and Future" was presented by Mrs. Fred McKeown and read by Mrs. Mary Story.

Mrs. Clarence McKeown and Mrs. Howard Stiles gave good accounts of the area convention held in Belleville in October.



After singing Christmas carols the meeting closed and the hostess and assistants served refreshments.

CONCERNING CHRISTMAS CARDS AND MOURNING

There are two questions concerning the sending of Christmas cards that call for our gentle consideration. Both questions have to do with being-in-mourning, and both questions are being asked by many readers in these days before Christmas.

1. Is it proper to send Christmas cards to people in mourning?

Yes, it is proper . . . If we choose the cards we send with tender thought of their special mission. With the suitable card and with the right words we can thoughtfully express our loving kindness, our understanding. It is natural to consider cards of religious inspiration, perhaps a lovely reproduction of a Madonna or other religious masterpiece, or a traditional message of the Christmas story. Or choose a card with a conservative design on the cover, and on an inside page, with no printing on it write your message of comfort: "Dear Mary, I do want you to know that I am thinking of you these days, with devotion and with tender understanding."

Note 1: Instead of sending a card, we may, with fine taste, write our message of devotion and understanding on plain white semi-note paper. The few sincere words you write may be long or short as needed at Christmas time.

Note 2: Don't ever be afraid to send a card printed "With sympathy to you at Christmas." Certainly a tasteful idea to end the printer's words rather than your own. Make your own personal by writing them yourself, on your letter-paper or on white note-paper, or white correspondence cards; for example, "With loving thoughts to you, and with understanding, dear Mary." Sincere words to reach the heart of the friend.

2. Is it proper for people in mourning to send Christmas cards?

Yes, it is proper . . . but naturally it depends entirely on the person's feelings and inclination. Naturally too, relatives and friends of those in mourning will not expect them to send Christmas cards in the face of this would add any strain, any burden to the burden already being carried. However, if they do wish to send cards to relatives and very intimate friends, those will be honored will be deeply touched and justified by this gallantry-of-the-heart that forgets its unhappiness in wishing happiness to others.

Note 1: The person in mourning may choose to write a greeting or a message on an inside, blank page of a card with a religious picture or a seasonal design or the word "Greetings" on the cover; or on thin white note-paper or white cards. Phrases to write: "Loving greetings to you. And every good wish for your Christmas and New Year." Or simply, "My good wishes and best wishes to you, dear friend."

Note 2: Of course a person in mourning should not send Christmas cards to social friends, or to mere acquaintances.

HATS AND GLOVES AT EVENING WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Hats or head-coverings of some sort are always worn at evening weddings in our church. What about gloves at an evening wedding? — R.

Gloves should be worn.

DAUGHTER PLANNING HOUSE-WARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My parents have just built a new house, and they will move in soon. I live with them, and I would like to give them a housewarming. Would that be proper? Who is really supposed to make the arrangements for a housewarming, the owners of the house, or relatives or a friend? Would it be all right to have it on a Sunday? What is the usual hour? What should be served? — P.T.

The hostess and host of the new home are the ones who usually give the housewarming. This is quite natural, for they are the ones who like to do the inviting to relatives and friends to "come to our new home." They know best when they are ready to give the house-warming, whom they particularly want to invite, what they want to serve. However, it is not improper for a friend or a group of friends to give it as a "surprise."

My suggestion is that you urge your parents to give the housewarming, and then you give them your daughterly cooperation in making the plans. A housewarming is most often given on a Sunday, generally most convenient for all concerned (or Saturday, second choice). Three-to-seven may be the hours, or 4-to-7, or 3-to-6. Sandwiches of various kinds are always a good standby; small, delicious ones of simple fillings, perhaps made of different kinds of breads; small cakes, interesting kinds of cookies; tea and or coffee, and any other beverages preferred; nuts, candy, foods for nibbling, any of the delicious packaged items, nuts, popcorn, mints or other candies.

GIVE A LILT TO YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD SIGNATURES!

Do it yourself . . . word your Christmas cards to your dearest friends, so that these special cards will sing a happy little Christmas song. Rather than just signing your name in the usual way, have fun making a personal bow to your friends.

All you need are a few high-hearted words. For example: "Hello, Hello! It's Christmas; And here come your devoted friends Polly and Peter to sing joyously to you, 'May your Christmas be merry and bright!' Or: "Here come the Allens happily saluting you at Christmas-time. Jack and Julie, and Joan and Johnnie too!" Or: "To our dear friends here, Nancy and Dave, your loving friends here, Carol and Arthur, are singing Happy Christmas and Happy New Year!" Or: "Every good wish for the Season's happiness to the Three Martins—Katherine and John and Kate—from the Smiths: Henry and Sue, and Anne and Ken. P.S.: "Lassie' wags a joyous way to say, 'Me too, please!'" Or: "With a song in our hearts to you dear friends at Christmas time. And may your New Year be bright with happy days and happy ways!"

NEAR THE END of an exciting family get-together holiday, children are likely to be rather boisterous. This is the time to draw on your reserve supply of patience, and to have a couple of quiet games ready. You might warn Daddy in advance to expect unusual behavior.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW CAN SHE CHANGE HER MOTHER'S ATTITUDE TOWARD DATING?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 16 and I don't know what to do about my mother who is from the old country and came here when she was 27 years old, where she met and married my father, who was born in the United States.

My mother won't let me go on dates with boys. Sometimes we get in terrible fights about this. My father doesn't disapprove of dating, but he doesn't say much about it because he wants to keep peace in the family.

I think I am old enough to date, and all the girls I go with have dates. What can I do to make my mother understand that there is nothing wrong with dating?

— PEGGY.

Dear P.G.F.:

The first thing you could do would be to stop having fights with your mother and see if you can't reason out the matter with her. Watch for ways to help her around the house, always being loving and respectful when you speak to her, and trying to think of thoughtful little things you could do for her that will show her you do love her and want to please her. I think that might accomplish a lot eventually toward changing her attitude, because if she saw you trying to do things for her it would make her more willing to do something for you.

Try to realize that, having been born in another country, where customs are different, your mother probably can't understand, and so doesn't approve the freedom girls and boys have here. She's not going to change her attitude because you quarrel with her about it. Instead, that's likely to make her even more set against giving you privileges. But if you can help her to adjust herself gradually to ideas other than those she was brought up by, I think you will, I think, be able to solve this problem in time.

Have you tried talking things over quietly with your father, in a way that will not seem to be criticism of your mother? Tell him you can understand why your mother feels as she does, but that you would certainly appreciate it if he would explain to her that it's customary for boys and girls to date together in this country and that he thinks you should be allowed to do so, too. Also, talk with some of the girls at school who is understanding and friendly with the boys and girls there. So might be willing to pay your mother a visit once in awhile and, by gradually making a friend of her, get her straight on some of the things she doesn't understand.

Enough Steaming Hot Coffee for Once

By Mary Moore

We received a beautiful and practical gift—one of those new stream-lined automatic electric percolators or coffee-makers I think they are called nowadays.

Last night I had my first opportunity to try it out on a dinner party. Pete was home and in his role of butler-extraordinary brought it in at coffee time, plugged it in in a wall outlet at my right. While we ate our dessert and talked it quietly and genteelly perked with its little light lit at the bottom. Soon the light went out which was the signal: "I'm ready to pour now, Mary."

It was too—boiling hot—and there was enough coffee for six hot coffee for six people twice around—twelve cups, I'm so enthusiastic I'm purring over it. Now I wish the price of coffee would come down.

I'm reminded of the struggle we had just getting that first cup of coffee every morning! Even when we were on vacation this past summer. Won't our new coffee-maker be a godsend to take on our holidays next year! (If we can afford a holiday after Marianne's wedding that is!) You don't even have to wait for water to boil for you start this new percolator with cold water. The bubbled almost instantly. A lovely and highly satisfactory piece of equipment.

I have been trying to make one package of yeast raise enough dough for three regular-size loaves of bread, and last Saturday I did it without lengthening the dough-raising time. Again I have made a few small changes in the ingredients of the whole wheat loaf. I hope you will try it because it makes a perfect whole wheat loaf in my opinion. I bet to sound boastful, but all of my relatives and friends and neighbors say so.

HOMEMADE WHOLE WHEAT BREAD (3 LOAVES)

Before measuring the fresh whole wheat flour, (which by the way came directly from the mill the day it was ground) I stirred it around with my hand and measured 2 cups into the clean dishpan and added 1-3 cup wheat germ. To 1-2 cup warm water I added 1 tablespoon strained honey, then sprinkled 1 package granular yeast over the water to soften and let soak 10 minutes. I mixed 3-3 cup skim milk powder until smooth into 1 cup cold water then added 1 tablespoon salt, 3 tablespoons soft butter, 1 tablespoon strained honey and 1 3-4 cup very hot (but not boiling) water and stir until butter was melted. I stirred in the yeast which by this time had risen to the top of the measuring cup, and then stirred the whole business into the wheat germ and whole flour and wheat germ. You have to get your clean hands into it now—punch and knead it in the dishpan; give it 35 or 40 kneadings and turnings. Smooth top, scrape down sides of bowl, brush top of dough with oil or melted butter, cover with a folded tea towels and let rise 2 hours in warm place—I stand mine on shelf of stove above the cooking surface—temperature about 76 deg. Fahr. Punch dough down when risen about double and let rise again about 1 hour this time. Shape into loaves, with smooth tops, put in three regular-sized buttered loaf tins and let rise about 1 hour or until doubled. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1-4 hour. Brush crust with about 4 inches from bottom of oven. Cool on rack.

Let me know how you like it.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

LINES AROUND THE EYES

Some call them "crow's feet," some call them "laughing wrinkles." But to the woman who has them they are no laughing matter. She fears they are forerunners of other, deeper furrows—and sometimes she is precisely and exactly right. That is why she should make an effort to tone up her facial tissues.

Tiny lines around the eyes may appear when a woman is in her thirties. In such a case it is not time that has done the beauty damage but the habit of squinting and drawing the eyelids together. This occurs all too often to the "sun worshippers" who fail to wear dark glasses when exposed to glaring light.

The fibers around the eyes are small and delicate. Place your finger under your eye. You will notice that there is only a thin layer of flesh there. On other areas of the face the muscles are fairly large. As long as they are strong, wrinkles will not appear.

A five minute massage each day will do wonders in the way of tissue toning. This treatment should be given at bedtime. With facial muscles relaxed during sleep, a nourishing cream will be absorbed.

Start with a face washing, then dry the skin thoroughly. Emollient do not moisten well on a moist surface. Wrap the towel around both hands, dry your face by using quick little upward slaps.

Spread a heavy cream from one ear lobe across the mouth up and down on your neck. Iron the flesh from skin tip to ear lobes. Do circles over the cheeks, being careful not to force the flesh up under the eyes.

To smooth out squint lines, place the first finger on the inner corner of the lid and sweep outward to the temples.

In the morning dash on cold water, apply an astringent or skin tonic.

FRANKFORD

Y. P. U. Plans Christmas Activities

FRANKFORD — The young people of Frankford United Church met in the church on Wednesday evening, with 13 members present. President Bill Foster took charge of the meeting. A devotional period followed. Scripture was read by Miss Marilyn Vanwassenaer and a message on "Lord, Increase Our Faith", was given by Mr. S. Martin.

A business period followed and three committees were formed to assist in the arrangements of the Sunday School Christmas concert. John Pahtehnicky and Reg. Williams were appointed to the task of acquiring the tree for the concert. Barbara Stickle and Joyce Brown were appointed to obtain the decorations; Keith Richards, Donald Vanneck, and Mr. Martin were appointed to buy and package the candy for the concert. Everyone will help decorate the hall on December 8.

A discussion on badminton followed and following this, the members retired to the hall for a game of progressive crokinole with Miss M. Wannamaker taking charge of the groups. Miss Dinah Brown won for the girls with a score of 580 and Mr. Bill Foster won for the boys with a score of 580. Miss Barbara Stickle and Mr. John Pahtehnicky took the honors of having the low scores.

MADOC JUNCTION

40th Anniversary Marked By Fine, Useful Gifts

MADOC JCT. — Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stapley were most pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening when members of their immediate family, their children and families, brothers and sisters, assembled at their home on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Following a delightful time spent in a social get-together, Mr. and Mrs. Stapley were asked to take seats of honor—two upholstered chairs they had received from community friends here at the time of their marriage.

ADDRESS READ

An address expressing congratulations and best wishes was read, and they were presented with a lovely chenille bedspread from the Stapley families; several beautiful gifts of china from Mrs. Stapley's brother and sisters, and a trilight floor lamp from their children and families. They also received several messages of congratulations from relatives unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapley graciously expressed their thanks for the lovely gifts and the happy evening planned for them.

Refreshments were then served including the wedding cake made by Mrs. Their daughter, Mrs. Robert Reid (Hilda) and iced and decorated by Mrs. Frank Stapley.

Relatives were present from Picton, Belleville, Foxboro, Stirling, West Huntingdon, Bonarlaw and Trenton.

Their many friends in the community join in extending congratulations on this happy occasion and wishing them many more years of health and happiness.

WELLINGTON

St. Andrew's Guild Holds Bazaar, Tea

WELLINGTON.—St. Andrew's Guild held its annual Christmas bazaar and afternoon tea on Friday afternoon in the town hall.

There was a long domestic table full of lovely pins, cakes, cookies, tarts and other dainty fillings. This was attended by Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. W. Dorarn and Mrs. W. King.

The Touch-and-Take table had many lovely parcels on it. Mrs. N. Russell was looking after this.

The fancy work table held many nice handmade doilies, and knitted apparel. Mrs. Colin Lane was in charge of this table, while Mrs. Will Thompson had a table full of lovely aprons of all sorts of sizes and colors.

Mrs. Spriggings had a number of lovely cacti for sale, while Miss Nash and Mrs. A. Ogilvy looked after the country store.

Afternoon tea was served at small tables set throughout the hall and was well looked after by Mesdames Gale, Lavender, Fitzgerald, Robertson, Hoey, Tripp, Ailsworth and Platt.

KILLED BY ELEVATOR

TORONTO (CP)—A 39-year-old elevator operator was killed Monday when he poked his head over a shaft assembly gate to look for an elevator. Police said Marian Romanec died when the elevator descended and crushed the third floor where Romanec was standing and crushed his neck.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The young people of the Y.P.U. met at Bayside School on Monday evening.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Yateman on the birth of a son in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Thursday, November 25th. Mrs. Yateman returned to her home on Sunday.

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton was in attendance at the Bellville Presbyterial at Grace United Church, Trenton, on Wednesday.

Little Miss Linda Yateman and Master Billy Yateman spent the week-end with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yateman.

Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth, of Belleville, spent a few days last week with her mother, Mrs. William Yateman, who has been ill.

Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Geo. Hilliam, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. Albert Hockaday, Mrs. Gingras, Mrs. Casey Ketchenon, Mrs. Leonard Young, Mrs. J. Morrow, Mrs. Ritchie Ketchenon, Mrs. C. Mack, Mrs. Floyd Dudley and Mrs. Clayton Shickta, of White's Church, attended Wesley bazaar on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery opened her home on Thursday for a W. A. quilting.

Mrs. James Sandercock spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Wilson of G.S.D.

Sunday School and church services were held at White's Church on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Temperance superintendent, gave a temperance talk and showed a picture to the children of three horses that drink only pure, clear water.

At the church service, Mr. McConnell, of the temperance society, used several stories to illustrate his address.

PICTON

Grand Master of Odd Fellows, Newton Foster, Welcomed

PICTON. —More than 200 Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and guests gathered at the Royal Hotel, Saturday night at a reception in honor of Newton Foster, of Kingston, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in Ontario. Picton Bay of Quinte Lodge No. 143, was host on behalf of Bay of Quinte District No. 47, at this enjoyable event.

In an inspirational address, the Grand Master stressed the importance of co-ordination between branches of the Order and also within each branch.

Another highlight of the program was the showing of a 30-minute sound film, in color, entitled "A Century of Progress", depicting the great humanitarian work of the Order, especially through its Cancer-Polio and Tuberculosis Fund and Hospital Bed Committee, the film revealed some of the colorful pageantry at Grand Lodge, a church parade at Kingston in which Picton Oddfellows band is seen, the Oddfellows' home at Barrie with scenes showing how Christmas is spent there, the Order's rehabilitation centre at the Gravenhurst San., and instances where hospital beds, wheel chairs and other appliances are supplied for those stricken in various ways. Some of the fund-raising projects were also depicted in the film which marks the Order's first hundred years in the jurisdiction of Ontario.

Ably presiding as chairman was Amoe Hicks. Ross Jeffrey, Noble Grand, extended the welcome of the host lodge. The Grand Master was introduced by Russell Gardiner, Picton, District Deputy Grand Master.

Appreciation to the Grand Master was expressed by Ben Begbie, P.N.G. Mrs. Cecil Lobb sang a lovely solo, "Faraway Places."

VISITING BROTHERS INTRODUCED

Visiting Noble Grands from Belleville, Brighton and Trenton, were introduced by Robert Cockburn, P.D.D.G.M., each responding briefly.

Members of the Canton, who were present in uniform and who formed a guard of honor as the Grand Master entered the hall, were welcomed by the chairman D.D.G.M. Gardiner introduced Rev. J. Cantrell, of Belleville, an associated P.N.G., of the local lodges, who recalled happy associations during his residence at Milford, and Rev. F. J. Whiteley, of Picton United Church, a guest. He referred to many kindnesses shown by the churches and their ministers, and their co-operation in reporting deserving cases to the C.P.T. committee.

Toast to the ladies was proposed by the C.P.T. chairman Phil Dodds, who referred to the strong link forged by the ladies. He spoke of them as the inspiration behind the great work of the Order and of their never-failing support of all branches of the work.

High Priest of the District Encampment, Earl Fox, of Stirling, extended greetings, as did R. Galbraith of Kingston, Grand Marshal of Grand Lodge in Ontario, Joe Poulton, D.D.G.M., for Madoc District No. 45, Bert Keenon, D.D.G.M., for Kingston District, Ralph Hubbs, Picton, District Deputy of Encampment.

PRESENTED WITH CHEESE

Chairman Amoe Hicks, as a memento of his visit, presented the Grand Master with a Prince Edward cheese. Mrs. Russell Gardiner presented a bouquet of roses and chrysanthemums to Mrs. Newton Foster, who in response referred to the many happy memories as a result of visits to all parts of Ontario with the Grand Master. She spoke in glowing terms of the work of the Picton Rebekah Lodge.

On behalf of the Mochpelah Rebekah Lodge, Miss Maude Carson presented D.D.G.M. Gardiner with an inscribed leather wallet as a token of appreciation of his services as staff captain.

Prior to the program, Chris Lockyer, a guest, led a sing-song with Rev. Mr. Whiteley at the piano. Mrs. Laverne Wright responded to a demand for a solo during this period.

The long tables were centred with 'mums and attractive triple-link place cards for the head table were contributed by Mrs. Arthur MacDonald. Harry Palen and R. Jeffrey were in charge of the film. Thanks to the toastmaster were expressed by P. Dodds.

'Very Tired' Marie Dionne Gives Up Second Venture At Living in Outside World

MONTREAL (CP) — A "very tired" Marie Dionne has given up her second venture in the outside world.

It was learned Tuesday night the 30-year-old girl, weakest of the four remaining quintuplets, left school here last month for a weekend at home in Callander, Ont., and never returned.

Her older sister, Mrs. Maurice Giroaurd of Waterloo, Que., said the quint is "a very tired girl."

"She has gone home to get a good rest. She is not ill but she needs peace and quiet."

Mrs. Giroaurd said Marie and Annette, who were both studying at Marguerite Bourgeoys College run by a Roman Catholic religious order, left late last month to spend All Saints Day at home.

"But when she (Marie) got there she saw Mum was lonely and decided to stay for a while. Annette came back a few days later."

Reached for comment at Callander, Sister Dionne, the College's mother superior, said Marie was not sick and she came home because she didn't like the school. Officials said she left because of ill health.

Both Mr. Dionne and Mrs. Giroaurd said Marie has no plans for the future. Mrs. Giroaurd said it is not likely she will return to the school this year.

Mr. Dionne said Annette, Yvonne and Cecile are doing well in their studies here although "they find it difficult at times." Yvonne and Cecile are nurses' aides at the Hôpital L'Esperance Hospital in suburban Ville St. Laurent.

Mrs. Giroaurd said Marie seemed happy at the school and was doing well in her work. She said the quints went out to a show every Sunday and sometimes during the week. They often went shopping.

It was the second time in a year Marie abruptly left an outside institution and returned home. Last summer, shortly before Emilie's death at St. Agathe, Que., Marie quit the Quebec convent of the cloistered order of the Blessed Sacrament after eight months as a postulant. She was reported homesick and in ill health. She has improved continually since then and she felt well enough to start at school shortly after Labor Day weekend.

At the same time, Mrs. Giroaurd denied rumors that Marie plans to announce her engagement to a medical student in the near future. School officials also said the rumor was news to them.

Indian Pretty Well Tied To Corner Grocery

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Indian, like the white man today is pretty well tied to the corner grocery, James W. Anderson, Hudson's Bay Company fur trader for 45 years says.

Their ambition today is to live as much as possible with the whites," Mr. Anderson said in an address to the Manitoba Historical Society.

Before the First World War the Indian was occupied all year round and was not interested in material gain.

In this "best" period for the Indian they had "just enough of the white man's things — guns, steel traps, tea, tobacco—to ease their way of life but not to disturb it. The Indian is tied to the white man; with him he will rise or fall.

Mr. Anderson said the First World War was one of the "greatest disrupters" of the Indian way of life.

"The Indian became more and more dependent on the white man for life's necessities until today his independence is disappearing."

Predict Prices Of Canned Goods Will Stay Steady

TORONTO (CP) — Housewives can expect canned goods prices to remain steady this winter, despite crop loss through hurricane, fruit canner representatives report.

The statement was made at the 21st annual convention of the Ontario Food Processors Association being held here.

CLASH WITH REBELS

PARIS (AP) — A French parachute trooper and 23 Algerian rebels were killed Sunday in a clash in the Aures mountains of that North African territory. Reports reaching here said 10 other members of the French security forces were wounded and 15 rebels were captured.

Two Teen-Age Iowa Farm Girls Have Best Steers

CHICAGO (AP)—Two teen-age Iowa farm girls completed a history-marking sweep Tuesday, beating out more than 800 adult competitors to win two of the International Livestock Exposition's most coveted awards.

Tiny Janice Hullinger, 18, of Manly, won the steer grand championship—high point of the show—with Sheety, a 1,060-pound Aberdeen-Angus summer yearling. The reserve grand champion, a summer yearling shorthorn, was shown by Barbara Clause, 19, of Spencer.

Selection of the two girls for top cattle honors set an exposition precedent. It was the first time in the 55-year history of the show that girls had won the steer championship and reserve championship of the junior feeding contest and then went on to share grand championship honors.

DEFEAT 350

Janice and Barbara, both 4-H club workers, defeated some 350 other youngsters Saturday in the junior show before entering the open classes. It was the first year of competition at the big Chicago show for both girls.

Louada Manor, Farms, Ltd., of Peterborough, Ont., won a first prize and placed in four other divisions in the shorthorn class. Louada's five-animal entry took top honors in the get of sire competition.

Louada placed second in the junior get of sire division, third with a pair of yearlings, fourth with a pair of calves and sixth with an entry of two females of any age. Grant Campbell of Moffat, Ont., was sixth in the junior get of sire contest.

SHIP BURNED

GRAND BANK, Nfld. (CP)—An 86-ton passenger vessel was destroyed by fire off the south coast village of St. Bernard's last week but the crew reached shore safely, it was reported here Monday. The ship, was identified as the Inglis which once sailed under Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club colors. There was no indication of how many were aboard.

DIES OF SCALDS

TORONTO (CP)—Anthony Tassola, 5, accidentally pushed into a large basin of scalding water three days ago, died Monday. Anthony and his brother, Donald, 3, were being undressed for a Sunday bath by their mother, Mrs. Pauline Tassola, when they overturned the vessel. In order fell into the basin which had been left on the floor to cool.

McCarthy Backs Knowland's Demand for China Blockade

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steady pressure aimed at arousing world feelings is shaping up as the main United States plan for winning release of 13 Americans jailed by Red China, despite new urging for more direct action.

Support for a tougher approach came last from Senator Joseph McCarthy, who declared he is "in complete sympathy" with the proposal of the Senate majority leader, William F. Knowland (Rep., Calif.), to blockade the China coast.

And the Wisconsin Republican said in an interview that he doubts a single American warship would be needed to create a blockade. He suggested that the U.S. could impose one by simply telling its allies they would get no more aid as long as they kept shipping goods to Communist China.

Senator John J. Sparkman (Dem., Ala.), on the other hand, was against a blockade. It would but only a difference of opinion.

amount to "an act of war" and would be in violation of the Korean armistice agreement," he commented in a separate interview.

State Secretary Dulles' "short of war" strategy for liberating the 11 U.S. airmen and two army-employed civilians appears, however, to centre on the marshalling of world opinion.

Dulles was expected to go into more detail at a 3 p.m. (EST) press conference today on what he has in mind in saying during his Chicago speech Monday night that the U.S. would "exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens."

Dulles ruled out, with backing from the White House and public Tuesday, any "war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Knowland told reporters he saw no great break between him and the administration on that score.

Does Strip-Tease On Cold Tarmac Of Paris Airport

PARIS (Reuters)—An attractive 36-year-old American woman was under observation in the American Hospital here after doing a striptease on the cold tarmac of Orly airport in two o'clock this morning.

She made her way across the tarmac casually stripping off as she went. Every item of clothing, including shoes, rings, and underwear, was scattered over the concrete.

On arrival at the American departure office, she broke out of a big plate glass windows fronting on the tarmac and with only a slight cut on the arm, strode boldly through.

French clerk took her by the arm and led her past goggle-eyed policemen and customs officials to the main lounge. There he bought her a cup of tea.

Police rescued the tarmac for the divested garments and hurriedly covered the woman with a decent minimum. She was taken by car to the American Hospital.

STEADY SMOKERS

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Cigaret consumption in Sweden last year equalled 732 per capita, according to newly-issued statistics. The addition 20 cigars per capita were used, besides 2,000 tons of snuff and 1,500 tons of pipe tobacco.

Premier Opposes Loaning Workers Down Payments

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Tuesday he is opposed to governments loaning workers down-payments for new homes.

"Giving away houses will solve nothing," he said.

The premier made the statement in a delegation that presented the provincial cabinet with the annual brief of the 100,000-Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

In the 10-page brief, the CCCL suggested a federal - provincial agreement to provide workers with down-payments for their homes. The brief said this could be done through interest-free, long - term loans, repayable over a maximum of 40 years.

"ACTUAL RATE"

At the actual rate of housing construction, said the brief, "we will be building houses in 1960 for persons who needed them in 1950."

The main obstacle to housing expansion in Quebec was that "a per cent of the working population earned less than $3,000 annually.

Mgr. Duplessis said the CCCL's request was equivalent to asking the government to pay the down-payment on workers' homes and the interest on loans for a number of years.

Practically Born With Bagpipes In His Hands

By ALAN HALEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain Tuesday relived its finest hour with the 80th birthday of Prime Minister Churchill.

The anniversary of the "Votes of Old Britain at Bay"—as post-play-wright Sir Alan Herbert once called him—evoked a nostalgic flashback for a moment of high drama.

Throughout the land, minds turned to the terrible time 14 years ago when Churchill's ringing words rallied the people to a cause that seemed lost—victory over Germany in the Second World War.

Those were grim days, but they had a quality few Britons have forgotten. In retrospect, there is an aura of excitement about them. Somehow there now seems a Great Britain almost unbelieving to recapture the spirit of wartime, to regain the shared feeling of camaraderie and shared adventure, of living on the nerve-ends, beside which the peacetime existence seems drab and tam.

There is nothing bloodthirsty in this odd yearning. Movie-maker Sir Michael Balcon describes it as "a vague, unwitting nostalgia." Sir Michael, head of Ealing Studios, says he is contributing to the weekly British magazine, Truth, that this nostalgia is caused not by memory of those days but by a desire to back again but by an awareness of their general atmosphere.

The examples may help explain why Churchill has retained a special gratitude which cuts across party lines.

As the years roll by, it becomes plain that Churchill is a political rarity—a figure who has reached historic stature in his own lifetime, one whose name may ring in future ages with the same inspiration-stirring s und as those of Napoleon and Alexander the Great.

Churchill, by no means diffident about his own abilities, might disclaim such praise. He has said that all his speeches did was focus the courage of the British people.

In his speech Tuesday at Westminster Hall referring to wartime days, he said:

"It was the nation . . . that had the heart. I had the privilege to be called upon to give the roar."

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—John (Jock) Chalmers has a cupboard full of medals for his performance on the bagpipes. But he was practically born with a set of bagpipes to his hands.

Born in 1905 in Forfar, Scotland, Jock and his three brothers were taught the pipes by their father, an ex-regimental sergeant-major of the 5th Black Watch Regiment. He was only 16 when he climbed the judging stand at the highland games at Montrose, lugging a set of pipes nearly as big as himself.

The medal he received for his playing of the competition pieces was the first in a long series which the highlander of Weyburn has collected.

VETERAN'S ADVICE

Speaking of those who would like to take up the pipes, Jock says "a person needs a good ear, good fingers and perseverance to practice incessantly."

Tiring of a landscape gardener's life, Jock came to Canada in 1887 and settled in Weyburn. At the Scottish meet in Regina in 1926, he took a fling in every piping event and won the grand aggregate and a free trip to Banff highland games. There he took a third in competition with some of the best Canadian and United States pipers.

By 1933 Jock, an employee of the Saskatchewan Hospital, had organized the Weyburn boys' pipe band. After that he visited his home town in Scotland and there met Mary Lamb.

In 1939 he enlisted with the Saskatchewan Horse Regiment as a piper, but later transferred to the First Hospital Regiment and was posted overseas.

In September, 1945, Jock went back to Forfar and married Mary Lamb. They now have an eight-year-old daughter, Mary Joan.

Big Debate On Social Credit Occupies Press

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—A big debate on Social Credit and its application in Canada has occupied the New Zealand press ever since the Nov. 13 election.

The New Zealand Social Credit Political League, on its first entry into politics, failed to gain a seat in Parliament but surprised the established political parties by obtaining about 12 per cent of the total vote.

Meanwhile there has been more about Alberta and British Columbia in the newspapers in the last few weeks than in the whole of the last decade.

TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Prime Minister Sidney Holland's National party government, re-elected with a reduced majority, has taken the Social Credit vote seriously and plans an independent inquiry into all aspects of the party's reform.

Social Credit in Canada has been discussed at length in the press, the newspaper, the Auckland, in an editorial challenged Social Credit supporters to say where the doctrine had worked anywhere in the world, and where any government under any label had done the things which the party pledged itself to do.

F. C. Jordan, one of the Social Credit leaders and an election candidate, replied that governments acting on the tenets of Social Credit had "overcome the wicked waste and increased debt inherent in the present money system." He cited the Alberta government.

The newspaper said Jordan had not met the challenge and that Alberta's prosperity was due to developments in oil and other of the province's natural resources.

Americans' Overwork Greatly Exaggerated Says Frenchman

By FERNTON GROVES

PARIS (AP)—"The 40 hours," a Frenchman's book published here recently comes up with the conclusion that Americans are practically normal.

"The overwork of Americans is greatly exaggerated," says Raymond Cartier, a correspondent of the magazine "Paris-Match." He spends much of his time in America.

A lot of Americans may die of heart disease and cancer, says Cartier, "but all the other causes of death are becoming increasingly so rare that heart disease and cancer tend more and more to become the only killers."

He observes that Americans don't find escape in alcohol any more than Europeans. And Europeans go astray in believing American family life is breaking up.

FAMILY SEMBLANCE

"The immense majority of the divorcees of both sexes are not seeking to break up the home but simply to change it," he explains. "The large part of divorces are undertaken with the remarriage already in sight—and the partner already chosen."

Unlike Europeans who take lovers and mistresses, he says, Americans prefer to break up the marriage rather than nullify it.

"The hard truth," he asserts, "is that America is coming to resemble Europe more and more. Everything is growing in that direction, increasing bureaucracy, mounting socialism, and obligatory military service in time of peace."

Cartier notes that many European observers find America too mechanized, half of the population rushing to bars at 6 p.m. to quiet their nerves, or passing hours on a psychoanalist's couch "talking of love instead of making it."

"The misunderstanding is that this 'American way of life' doesn't exist," Cartier writes. "The basis of the life of an individual—spiritual, cultural, social and in his family — are approximately the same in west Europe and in the United States."

2ND THURLOW

W. Gray Marks 75th Birthday

2nd THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Wesnie Gray, Jr., of Bellville, enifridate the immediate family and relatives of the former's father, Mr. W. Gray, in honor of his 75th birthday.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gray Roslin; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Vivian, Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Holway, Belleville; and Mr. and Mrs. M. Crawford, Foxboro Road.

Many suitable gifts were received for which Mr. Gray voiced sincere appreciation.

Cards were enjoyed during the evening.

Refreshments were served and a happy time spent.

Mr. Gray's many friends and neighbors of the 2nd Thurlow extend congratulations and wishes for many more happy birthdays.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Miss Ann Barker (Author of 5)

It's a proud "something - is - brag - about" day when baby first starts to creep. But once the little Gulliver gets a taste of adventure, he's going to want more and more freedom. So, when baby gives you that "don't-fence-me-in" look, it's time to give him more elbow room than to play pen. Start letting him out of the play pen for a little time each day in certain territories. (Always remembering to keep an eagle eye on the traveler.) By letting baby investigate a new nook and cranny each day, you help him develop confidence . . . and independence.

Further developments: About this time, baby will probably have enough teeth for another new adventure! "Chewing foods." That's the time to introduce Gerber's Junior Foods. You'll find the change-over extra easy with Gerber's Junior Fruits, Vegetables, Meats, dinners. For they have the same evelly-mineed bits that encourage chewing, are easy for tots with a few teeth to manage. All have the natural, true-flavor goodness, the tempting true colors baby's become used to in Gerber's Strained Foods.

Pocket this for future reference. Here's how one mother increases the life of her baby's creepers. She buys the over-all type with two big patch pockets. When knees wear through, she detaches the pockets, sews 'em over the gaping holes.

Mother, here's a special offer! Send for three of these attractive handy Refrigerator Can Covers, to snap on your opened cans of Gerber's Baby Foods before they're put in the 'frig. FREE to you by furnishing only 3 labels from Gerber's Strained Foods or Junior Foods. Send to Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 68, Toronto 18, Canada.

Shirts, Shorts, Cap, Sandals Uniform On HMCS Quebec

ON BOARD HMCS QUEBEC—They may be wearing overcoats at home, but in this Canadian training cruiser the vogue is shirt, shorts, cap and sandals.

There are more sunglasses here than at the corner of Hollywood and Vine, for the ship has been in the torrid equatorial zone for the past fortnight, heading for Venezuela from southern Brazil, hence to Colon in the Panama Canal zone. The mercury quivers anywhere from 95 to 120 degrees throughout the cruiser's 549-foot length; you can fry an egg on the steel decks most any afternoon.

SLEEP ON UPPER DECKS

At night every available space on the upper decks is reserved for sleeping. Sailors slumber under a see-saw canopy of stars they don't see in Canada, some 3,500 miles northward. In the messdecks, hammocks are clustered round the port holes to catch the slight breeze caught by wind scoops. To keep up with work and training, yet dodge the searing, sapping heat of afternoon, each day is begun at five a.m., before the sun can wax too warm. Work starts at 5.30 here just as it does for the milkman back home. Breakfast is at seven and stand easy at 10.30. At noon the hands go to general drills, action stations, ABCD exercises (atomic, biological, chemical, damage control,) gunnery shoots, seamanship evolutions and the like. Dinner is at one p.m. and afternoons are free. It's too hot then for efficient work.

The ship stops at 4.15 so training classes can practise boat pulling. At ten to five the hands are mustered at evening quarters where they are accounted for and the day is finished with prayers led by the chaplains.

However, there are watches on deck and below throughout the 24 hours to run the ship and her many essential services.

HARD ON ENGINEERS

Engineering personnel bear the brunt of the heat. In the boiler rooms the thermometers show 108 to 110 degrees, in the engine rooms they hover around 108, but the hottest chore is tending the sea water evaporators, where a 120-degree reading is not uncommon.

Cooks sweltter in heat that would floor most housewives. PO Ernest Gulse, of Prince Albert, Sask., reports the mercury has climbed to 110 in the main galley when a hot meal is made for the 650 men on board. PO Clay Burrill, of Yarmouth, N.S., has the same high in his officers' galley. Emphasis is on cold food with a ration of lime juice for everyone and a ready stock of salt tablets handy to help the body maintain its fluid balance. CPO Jack Sutton, of Toronto, the regulating chief engineering artificer, quotes his department's golden rule for tropic steaming, "If you can't taste salt in the sweat, take a pill."

WATER RATIONED

In this ten-day, 3,800-mile run from Rio de Janeiro to La Guaira, Venezuela, the Quebec makes her own fresh water. The thirsty boilers of the four engines, which develop 71,000 horse-power and are designed to drive the ship at 31 knots, gobble about 40 tons in a day of normal sailing, so at times it is necessary to ration it for domestic use.

Eight men work round the clock at four big evaporators which process up to 90 tons of sea water daily. They have the hottest job and must make up the heavy inroads on fresh water reserves made by boilers and crew.

RESULTS IMPORTANT

The discomforts are minor compared to the results. More than 150 young men under training in various departments are gaining experience in a range of climatic extremes seldom available to sailors of the RCN.

Meanwhile the sun is browning personnel with tans a winter at Minaf couldn't match. AB Jacques Cloutier, of Ste. Therese, Que., who takes his sun-bathing seriously, is typical of hundreds of healthy swarthy-skinned shipmates. He may shiver in his greatcoat when the Quebec returns to Halifax, December 5, but his tan puts him one up on his palefaced, shore bound brothers.

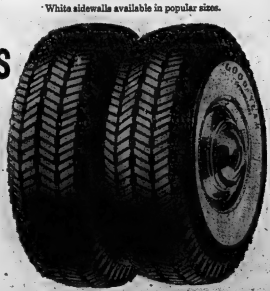
The only logical winter tire design!

1. To climb a hill, skiers use what is called "the herringbone". See how this skier angles his skis, leaving a track that looks much like a fish's skeleton. He gets slip-free traction because he cuts the sharp edges of his skis into the snow. With no trouble at all, a skier can climb a steep hill with this method. And, when you think of it, "the herringbone" is just plain common sense—the only logical way for a skier to climb a hill.

2. Here's the only logical winter tire tread in the world. It works the same way as skis in "the herringbone". See how the 4 rows of sharp-edged cleats in this tread are angled to cut into snow. That gives you sure grip on any road. There are 464 of these cleats with a total of more than 1800 sharp edges that grab, take hold, boost you along over any winter road—loose snow, packed snow, even ice. What's more, you'll find Suburbanites give you sure traction in the slush and mud of winter thaws and spring break-ups.



And the cleats are flexible so the tread cleans itself as it rolls—it's always ready to bite and grab again. Last but not least—this tread kills "snow tire hum" because the many varied-sized cleats break up the noise. You get a smooth, quiet ride even on bare pavement.

Why take chances with regular tires—or why bother with the nuisance and noise of chains or heavy lugged snow tires? See your Goodyear Dealer about Suburbanites. Have him install a pair of these amazing winter tires for more slip-free grip than any other winter tire on the market!

November 30, 1954

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It will be recalled that several years ago the City of Belleville acquired a number of sub-division lots for back taxes, unpaid service charges, plus a nominal sum per lot in cash.

In the light of the fact that the city began growing in population and that building lots were in demand, this would have appeared to be an opportunity to cash in on the city's land assets. However, it is a fact that 32 of these lots were sold to one individual for the sum of $3,750.00 or less than $100.00 per lot. In 1954, I, as mayor of this city, objected to the sale of lots without public tender and without a covenant clause in the sales agreement. This was, in fact, an opportunity for speculators to have a field day at the expense of the city tax payer. This procedure I vigorously objected to but was over-ruled by the majority of the council, with only myself and two aldermen supporting the tender form of sale. At each preceding council meeting where an offer to purchase city lots was submitted a discussion regarding the price was carried on at length. Through time it became apparent to some aldermen that the price was unreasonably low and I was given support in my ridicu — but not until the Company of Jack Both Limited purchased a few lots and the agreement was not completed, did the members of council that were opposed to offering the lots to Jack Both Limited come along with the idea to raise the price of the lots to a minimum of $500.00 and sold to the highest bidder. This I supported. This, in fact, ladies and gentlemen, is precisely what I had in mind when I allowed my company to submit a bid on city lots — knowing from past experience with the clique in the city council I anticipated what would happen, and the inevitable happened.

The offer to purchase was approved and later the by-law was rescinded and the lots advertised for tender, with a minimum of $500.00. With the result that one lot sold for $800.00 and the second lot for $850.00.

Now it was the intention of some of the council to sell these same lots for $300.00 each, prior to the Jack Both Limited's offer to purchase, with the result that the city gained in revenue on two lots an amount of $1,050.00 through my suggested procedure of selling lots at the inception of my term of office. This I hope, ladies and gentlemen, you understand.

A simple calculation shows that, while in the sale of one lot the gain in revenue, according to what I have just said, was $525.00, therefore on the sale of lots during 1954, which was approximately 150, the loss in revenue to the city would be 150 times $525.00 or $78,750.00. That, in itself, is one of the things I have vigorously worked for, and which in the end is working for the welfare of the citizens of Belleville.

Do you want the business of the city run for the best interest of the citizens? If so, vote for Mayor Jack Both on December 6th., 1954.

Make Belleville Tick — Keep Out the Clique

Thank You,

JACK BOTH.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

HONOR BATAS!

The Belleville Bntas baseball club, to change the sports subject for the nonce, will step into a strange character next week when they take the little women in tow, and sit down to the festive board as the guests of their sponsors and the city.

The "knife-and-fork" tournament is being given them in honor of their winning the co-championship of the OHA senior baseball classification in which they shared honors with the Oshawa Oaks.

As is well known in baseball circles the two clubs were rolled by the weather man, aided and abetted by "Hurricane Hazel." Due to the lateness of the season, the inclemency of the weather and long transportation haul, it was mutually agreed to call off the series and share whatever honor and glory went with the title.

The Bntas finished the season with a fine record, one that is all the more creditable because of the fact the team was composed of "home-brew" and district players. They won 16 games and lost 14 in league and playdown competition.

Under the sponsorship of the Bata Shoe Company Ltd. of Belcarra, the Batas with Jack Carson as manager and Vern Geyer as coach, entered a prospering Central Ontario Baseball League composed of Kingston, Belleville, Peterborough and Oshawa. Oshawa decided in an overnight move to enter the Toronto Vindsor League and a few days later Kingston notified league officials they would not enter in force. Belleville and the Potes, so to speak, were left holding the well-known baseball bat.

They approached the Vindsor League rather than toss in the baseball sponge and sought entry to that loop. They were met with cool shoulders but were admitted on a "pay-or-play" basis when the Oshawa clubs and Oshawa demanded their pound of transportation flesh.

The Batas and Potes went into a huddle, found themselves badly astride the traditional barrel—and finally executed to execute to the financial demands of the two Toronto teams and the Oshawa entry. Hence the "road show" afterwards. "We did it with mamas tucked away for future reference."

Fandom here gave the Batas good support, what with their new grandstand, and had it not been for the excess costs of transportation mentioned above would have finished in a lot better financial condition.

They came up with an excellent brand of baseball with a pitching staff composed of Art Wright, Bobby Buntea, Johnny Mowat, Sammy Micballand, with Dick Fitzpatrick and Allen Kelleher filling in during the season.

They won their way into the playoffs and eliminated the Peterborough Twins in the semi-finals only to fall before the Oakville Oaks. Oshawa in turn whipped the Oaks for the Vindsor League title.

However, since the Vindsor loop was an "outlaw" outfit (it did not have a constitution of its own) the Batas, Peterborough and Oakville affiliated with the Ontario Baseball Association for competition in that association's senior "A" playdowns. Oshawa protested, claiming that as Vindsor League winners they represented the OBA. That body turned down the protest and the OBA ordered the Batas to play the Potes.

Manager Carson's crew defeated the lads from the Kawartha and went on to the great surprise of the league, and especially Oshawa, to oust the Peterborough champions in a hard-fought series. Meanwhile Oakville defeated Petrolia and eliminated the Niagara Falls Cubracts, champions of the Niagara District Baseball League.

Regardless of the American imports of other years, the Batas fielded the best-balanced club last season. Harmony has been in many moons. There was a great club spirit and internal harmony. Manager Carson and Coach Geyer had the confidence and esteem of the players as a whole, and despite occasional "off days," the team came up with consistently good baseball.

In Art Wright and Bobby Buntea they had two of the better hurlers in the league. Art finished with a won 9 and lost two record, while Bobby had a four-four mark. He however, turned in a splendid relief job and was a few of the other wins were "saved" by Bobby's fine "pinch-pitching" work. Johnny Mowat had three and four while Pitz and Sammy had nothing and one and nothing and three respectively.

The Batas had six batters who walloped the ball over the .300 mark. These were topped by Coach Geyer who finished with .373, followed closely by brother Gerry with .358, Wallace batted .322 but only appeared 18 times at bat, with Fitz hitting .322. Claude Carr .311 and Peter Jones .310. Eight of the remaining players batted from .250 to .227. Tony Petitti batted .294 for 106 times at bat.

Whether the Batas could have overcome the "playdown jinx" the Oakville Oaks appeared to wield over them will never be known. However, in fairness to all concerned, the championship series was called off, as neither team would have been in shape to acquit itself properly. Both clubs were idle for nearly a month due to weather conditions, and the only reasonable thing to do was divide the title and call it quits for the season.

Probe Site For Ottawa Baseball Club

HOUSTON (AP) — The skeletal National Baseball League Tuesday named a three-man committee to investigate sites for a possible transfer of the Ottawa franchise.

Frank Shaughnessy, league president, Buzz Downie, Rochester baseball manager, and an unannounced representative of the Kansas City A's will visit Miami, Fla., immediately after the close of the minor league convention here.

Kansas City owns the Ottawa franchise but there have been reports that owner Arnold Johnson might not want to operate a triple A franchise on an ownership basis.

The International underwent a major overhauling last winter when Havana and Richmond were taken into the league. Addition of Miami would make it a problem of the costly long plane hops to Havana.

Curry Scores to Give Habs Seven-Point Lead Over Leafs; Bruins' Skipper to 'Run' Team

By The Canadian Press

Milt Schmidt's injured left knee took him off the ice and into a National Hockey League coaching job.

Milt, at 36 the craftiest centre in the league, will take over as coach — temporarily — of Boston Bruins when Bruins meet the second-place Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight. Coach Lynn Patrick, also general manager of the club, will be in the stands to keep an eye on things.

The move, Patrick said Tuesday, is designed to give Schmidt bench experience. Milt, a veteran of 18 years in the NHL, probably will retire at the end of the season and become coach of the Bruins' Pittsfield, Mass., farm club as manager.

ONLY FOUR

Schmidt will master-mind Bruins for only four games. He will return to the lineup when his knee is in shape, probably by late second.

While Patrick was giving the lowdown on his shuffling, the front running Montreal Canadiens came from behind to tie the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 3-3 at Chicago in the only league game Tuesday night.

It was Floyd Curry's goal at 18:14 of the third period that squelched the Hawks and enabled Canadiens' league lead to seven points over Leafs. The engagement, the eighth regular season meeting between the clubs, attracted only 4,506 fans.

Chicago goalie Alan Eagleson and Gordie Hollingsworth scored for Hawks. Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau tallied the other Montreal goals to give Canadiens their second deadlock in a week against Hawks.

TRADING GOALS

Topsquirmi moved Hawks into the lead at 19:20 of the first period when he beat netminder Charlie Hodge. Eagleson fired it 1-1 minutes later.

Richard sent Canadiens in front 2-1 early in the second but Alan Stanley tied it up at 6:06. Hollingsworth moved Hawks in front 3-2 early in the third with a 45-foot shot that left Hodge flat all the way. Curry came through with less than two minutes left.

Hodge handled only 18 shots from the Hawks, who have won only three games and tied five in 22 starts. Chicago goalie Al Rollins stopped 33 Montreal drives, 12 in the first period.

Two games are scheduled for tonight. Boston Bruins entertain Rangers in a match, the third-place Detroit Red Wings take on the fourth-place Rangers at New York.

BIG SEVEN

By The Canadian Press

Hockey's three top point-getters fattened their totals as Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks fought to a 3-3 deadlock in a game played in Omaha, Neb., Tuesday.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion failed to score but he picked up two assists to maintain his four-point edge over teammate Jean Beliveau. Geoffrion has the pack with 30 points on 18 goals and 12 assists.

Beliveau moved into sole possession of second place by scoring one goal and assisting on another to run his point total to 26. Maurice Richard tallied Montreal's second goal to run his point total to 25.

Remember When

'Peahead' Walker Turns Down American Offers

By W. R. Wheatley
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker of Montreal Alouettes told The Canadian Press Tuesday night he has "rejected all offers" from clubs in the National Football League in the United States and will coach in no Canadian city other than Montreal.

Walker did not name the American clubs or indicate the amount of money involved in the settlements from across the border.

"I like Canada and I like Montreal particularly," said Walker. His wife echoed his sentiments. The Southern-born Walkers plan to spend the winter in Atlanta, Ga.

There was every indication Walker will be back with Alouettes next season and go after the Grey Cup again, the all-Canadian trophy they missed in the 36-35 defeat at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos in Toronto last Saturday.

THINGS BEST

President Fred Skelcher of Alouettes said he considered Walker "the best coach in Canada" and that he expected Walker back next season.

Walker's contract does not run out until Jan. 1. He said negotiations would be very informal and will be carried out by correspondence.

Walker and several members of the Montreal team appeared at a reception in honor of the club.

"It was particularly significant that Walker, in a brief speech, referred to what "we" can do next season. Walker, obviously, is back in the delivery, voted the outstanding player in Canada this season, and said Red O'Quinn. Both are outstanding American imports.

ONLY RETIREMENT

The only reference Walker made to the Grey Cup game was that he had enjoyed football and football season "except for the last four minutes."

In that brief stretch Edmonton's Jackie Parker picked up a weird heave by Alouette Chuck Hunsinger and scampered away for the winning touchdown.

Hunsinger, the goat of the game, left Toronto immediately after for his home in Harrisburg, Ill. On a call Tuesday night from the crowd at his cheer went up for Hunsinger, and there were yells of "We want him back again."

Walker and the players were given a rousing ovation by the gathering.

EDMONTON (CP)—Nearly 40,000 enthusiastic fans are expected to flock downtown today to vocalize their appreciation of the team that brought Edmonton its first Grey Cup.

The coveted trophy and Ilse Leverezes—Miss Eskimo—will lead a parade in Edmonton Eskimo gridders, roughly 500 other athletes and marchers and seven bands along Jasper avenue, the city's main street, where shop windows and banners shout about Eskimos' thrilling 36-35 victory over Montreal Alouettes in the East-West football playoff Saturday.

The sidewalk exuberance follows the gleefully raucous welcome provided the Eskimos when they touched down at Municipal airport some two hours before dawn Monday. The players, some still limping, one on crutches, were mobbed by 2,000 supporters who refused to wait for the official public tribute today.

For most of the fans who flank Jasper avenue today, it will be their first look at the Grey Cup and their last look—for another eight months—at the thrilling, fury-spattered team that won it.

Edmonton, in a mammoth cheer for its first Grey Cup in the 55-year history of the national football trophy and a club counted out more harshly than any other challenger, is expected to turn out in force to better anything that has ever happened on Jasper.

The weather, probably won't be the best. Snowflurries are expected and the mercury will probably be some 15 degrees below freezing. The players will ride in convertibles, two to a car.

Behind Miss Eskimo, local luminaries and club officials will be the car carrying the Dave of the place, former Mississippi State back Jackie Parker who counted the winning touchdown with an epic 45-yard trot at Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Parker has already made known that he wishes, and plans, to return to the Eskimo fold next year. Sitting next to him in the convertible will be big (225 pounds) Rollin Prather, former Kansas University end whose announced retirement from the game will end five years of Eskimo service.

Boxing Ratings Get General Shuffle, Walls Number Six in Heavyweights

NEW YORK (AP) — The crowning of two new champions, and the results of several bouts among leading contenders in the past month brought about a wholesale shuffling of the ratings of five top contenders in the latest Ring Magazine rankings.

Le Marco was given the No. 1 contender's berth that Carter held.

Argentina's Pascual Perez won the flyweight championship from Japan's Yoshio Shirai. Shirai became the No. 1 contender and Leo Espinosa of the Philippines who had been first was dropped to second with unbeaten Dave Lowe of Wales third.

Other shifts in the lightweight division saw undefeated Frankie Ryff of New York advance to fifth place as a result of Art Persley's TKO loss to Wallace (Bud) Smith. Persley, of Red Chenier, was demoted from fifth to sixth.

The ratings included:

Heavyweight (champion Rocky Marciano, Brockton, Mass.): 1. Nino Valdes, Cuba; 2. Don Cockell, England; 3. Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati; 4. Bob Baker, Pittsburgh; 5. Heinz Neuhaus, Germany; 6. Kurt Walk, Toronto.

Light Heavyweight (champion, Archie Moore, Miami, Fla.): 1. Billy Smith, Atlantic City, N.J.; 2. Joey Maxim, Cleveland; 3. Harold Johnson, Philadelphia.

Middleweight (champion, Carl (Bobo) Olson, San Francisco): 1. Joey Giardello, Philadelphia; 2. Holly Mims, Washington, D. C.; 3. Hocky Catalliad, Cleveland.

Dozen 'Coaches' Apply For Ottawa Job

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Rough Riders' front office is starting to look like an employment office for football coaches.

More than a dozen of these footballers, some without coaching experience, have applied for the job of hitting the Big Four club from the despondency of its last-place finish this year.

But no one will be hired until six or seven and call for interviews," he said.

A replacement is needed for Chem Forward, resigned after his fourth season as Riders' coach with the drab season record of two wins and 12 losses. Apparently Crowe may bounce back into Canadian football, as reports persisted here that he may join Frank Clair's staff with Toronto Argonauts.

What effect that would have on Chuck Klein's future as Argos' line coach is unknown, but Klein is one of the possible choices for the Ottawa job.

Two former Calgary Stampeders coaches, Les Lear and Larry Pomering, have notified Riders they are available. Lear coached Stampeders in the first Grey Cup win over Ottawa in 1948, the last year the West won the Canadian football championship until Edmonton came through this year.

Pomering, who had a two-year contract, was fired a few days ago, joining the long list of easily-hired, easily-fired Calgary coaches. Bill Mackrides, former Hamilton Tiger-Cat quarterback, and Eddie Michaels, former Ottawa lineman, are two other applicants.

American TV Audience Favored Army-Navy Game

By NEIL SUPAHN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Television brought the Grey Cup game to viewers in the United States last Saturday but the Canadian football classic was up against some stiff competition.

The Army-Navy game in Philadelphia was nationally televised on the American Broadcasting Company network, starting a half-hour after the Edmonton-Montreal game kicked off on the National Broadcasting Company.

Despite the fact the Grey Cup final is Toronto was a thriller, with Edmonton winning 26-25 in the last few minutes, its audience in the U.S. was sharply cut by the Army-Navy fracas. A game which rates as the big national attraction for the American college football season.

ABOUT 30

But he added, NBC didn't bother to have the size of the audience checked by the rating companies because it was felt the Grey Cup couldn't hope to compete with the Army-Navy game, won 27-20 by Navy.

Gallery said the Edmonton-Montreal meeting "was as fine a football game as I've ever looked at." He said, however, there couldn't have been a tougher day on which to try to sell the Canadian final to American viewers.

Gallery said the companies which check on ratings might have done the Grey Cup as a matter of routine. If so, there may be some indication in a few weeks of how many Americans saw the game.

IN FAVOR

About the only thing in the Canadian game's favor was that it started a half-hour earlier than the Army-Navy clash. Many fans probably watched the start of the Grey Cup and possibly some found it exciting they didn't bother switching.

Ratings were taken on games earlier in the season involving teams of the Big Four and they will be available shortly. Canadian football was unsponsored commercially on television this season and the ratings are expected to provide the answer to two questions: Whether the games will be carried by NBC again next year; and whether enough people watched to make them attractive to a sponsor.

Grey Cup Record 'Take' Is $199,000

TORONTO (CP) — Harry McBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, estimated Tuesday that revenue of the Nov. 27 Grey Cup game will amount to about $199,000, the highest in history for the East-West football final.

Official figures will not be available until after Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes submit their expenses to the CRU, McBrien said.

Net gate receipts are expected to total about $127,000 after deduction of $18,000 for the Ontario Hospital tax. A record $72,000 was obtained for the television, radio, motion picture and program rights, compared with $40,000 last year.

PREVIOUS HIGH

The $186,940 in revenue for the 1953 final was the previous highest. Gate receipts this year totalled $126,940.

The TV rights for this year's final brought $45,000, radio $17,000, movies $8,500 and programs $1,500.

McBrien said Varsity Stadium rental amounts to about $22,000.

The CRU will take 15% per cent of the net revenue as its share with the remainder being divided by the Big Four Football Union and the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Piano-Playing Railroad Fireman Tinkles Way to Game, Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—Al (Flash) Bouvi, a piano player from Schreiber, Ont., who was "kidnapped" by unlobbited Edmonton fans on the trip east and saw the Grey Cup game, followed the fans back to the city.

He boarded the CPR train at Schreiber, fans related, intending to go to White River where he works as a fireman on the railway but as he turned out to be a fine pianist, the Edmontonians persuaded him to stay on to Toronto. The piano in the recreation car seemed just made for him.

Everyone liked him better as better as he pounded out jazz, boogie and popular old tunes for singing, so he was taken to the hotel and smuggled into the "great" game, the first he had ever seen.

He missed Saturday on the return but was happy to stay aboard for the whole trip to Edmonton, playing until his fingers had to be reinforced with adhesive tape.

Flash's escapade was "okay" by the train officials and he now will take the next train back to Ontario.

St. Mike's Wins Ninth Straight; Flyers Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's Majors kept up their hot pace in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Tuesday night when they defeated the Black Hawks 7-3 in the Maple Leaf Gardens to win the Majors' ninth straight win.

In the other junior A game, the last-place Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks roared to a 7-1 win over Barrie Flyers in a game at Kitchener in which 34 penalties were handed out, including four match misconducts.

The St. Michael's-Galt game was rugged and fast and produced some of the best hockey of the season. St. Michael's went ahead 3-1 in the second period and outscored the Hawks 4-3 in the third.

The Kitchener - Barrie game got erupted after 15 seconds of play when Smith of Barrie and Doug Bess of Kitchener tangled. Referee Hugh McLean had his hands full from then on.

A four-man battle erupted in the third period. Ted McAskill and Howie Young of the Canucks and Howie Glover and Ed MacQueen of Barrie were banished with majors. They got match penalties for continuing their fight.

Dutchies Edge Cataracts 4-3; Bulldogs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Tuesday night when they defeated Niagara Falls Cataracts 4-3.

The win put the Dutchies two points ahead of Sound Marcurys, but the Mercs have a game in hand. The teams meet tonight in Kitchener in what should be a bang-up battle for the top leadership.

In the other senior A game Tuesday night Windsor Bulldogs, paced by centre Reg Abbott's three goals, moved into fourth place ahead of Chatham Maroons when they defeated the Maroons 6-5 in Windsor.

Dutchmen took a three-goal lead in the first period on tallies by Bud Kemp, Jack McKenzie and Jackie Hamilton but the Cataracts came back strongly in the second and goals by Jimmy Robertson and Gord Kerr made it 3-2. Robertson tallied another in the third to tie the score.

WINNING GOAL

A two-man breakaway by Howie Lee and Gerry Theberge with only one man back gave the Dutchies the winning goal halfway through the third. Theberge made no mistake as he took Lee's pass and scored the big one.

Bulldogs led all the way in their game. They took a 3-1 lead in the first, lead 4-3 in the second and kept it up through the third. Abbott scored one goal in the second and one in the third to turn in a sparkling if beat performance.

Hapes Joins TiCat List Of 'No Come Back'

HAMILTON (CP) — Fullback Marie Hapes of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union Tuesday night joined the mounting list of Tiger players who are not expected to return to training camp next year.

Hapes said he has decided to quit football. The former New York Giant star said he would like to find a coaching job. He said he would talk to coach Carl Voyles before making commitments with any other team.

Other players who probably won't be back next year are Bill Lindsay, Ian, Vince Mazza, Les McClelland, Red Ettinger and Frank Dempsey.

Quinlan and McClelland expect to be drafted into the United States Army in January. Ettinger already has announced his retirement. Dempsey, former Chicago Bear backer, also is believed ready to retire.

Mazza, one of the most colorful Hamilton players, is in hospital recovering from a back injury. Doctors believe he will be all right after a few more weeks of rest but have advised him to give up football.

The probable departure of six first-string players leaves Voyles with a big winter shopping order to fill.

Teepees Meet Frontenacs In Trophy Series

MONTREAL (CP)—St. Catharines TeePees of the Junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association will go to Quebec Dec. 8 to meet Quebec Frontenacs of the Quebec Junior Hockey League in the first game of the Sir Wilfrid Laurier Trophy series, it was announced here Tuesday.

Senator Donat Raymond, president of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, recently donated the prize as a challenge trophy for competition between Ontario and Quebec junior hockey teams.

The TeePees are due to meet Montreal Canadiens here Dec. 7 and Trois-Rivieres Flambeaux at Trois-Rivieres Dec. 8.

The trophy competition will be a round-robin home-and-home affair. Other teams competing are Toronto Marlboros and Kitchener Canucks.

Further details of the schedule are not yet available.

LaStarza, Norkus Meet Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Roland La Starza and Rocky Castellani, a pair of handsome boxers with big championship bids in their memoirs, meet two powerful sluggers tonight on the Cleveland News' Annual Toyshop boxing card.

La Starza, of New York, once the top-ranked heavyweight contender, will be opening a comeback effort at 11-rounder against a crude but hard-hitting opponent, Charlie Norkus of Fort Washington, N.Y.

Cleveland's Castellani, like La Starza a fancy boxer, meets Moses (No Clinch) Ward of Detroit, another middleweight who comes more on punching power than footwork skill. That fight also is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Minor Hockey Is Postponed

DROPS CHARGES

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe D'Amato was reinstated as a manager of fighters Tuesday by the New York athletic commission. He was suspended Nov. 18 on charges he had forced boxers to contribute $100 each to the funds of the New York Boxing Managers' Guild. The commission decided Tuesday it had no proof and dropped the charges.

'God Had Arms Around Me' Says Actor After Accident

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"God must have had his arms around me. Otherwise I would be blind today."

That's the opinion of Sammy Davis Jr., brilliant young entertainer who lost an eye in an auto accident near San Bernardino, Calif., last week.

FLIES DRAMATIC SCENE

"I'm the biggest ham in the world," he confessed. "I had been waiting 28 years to play this scene. You know how dramatic it is in the movies when the hero has lost an arm or a leg. Like in 'King's Row'—remember?

"Well, my big moment came. I looked up from the hospital bed and there was the doctor saying. 'Sammy, we had to remove your eye.' And all I could say was 'Oh?'"

Sammy, who was otherwise uninjured, said his first reactions were of thankfulness.

"This can't hurt me," he reasoned. "I can still drink and eat as I could before. I can still sing as well. Nothing has changed.

FEELS HE'S LUCKY

"I've never been a very religious person, which is strange because my mother is a devout Catholic and my father's parents are strong Baptists. But I would only go to church when I felt like going —once or twice a year.

"Lying flat on your back in the hospital for eight days, you are bound to think about serious things. And I couldn't feel more lucky than I was. God must have had his arms around me. Otherwise I would be blind today."

The entertainer said he was astounded by the reaction of people in the show world and out of it. Between 30 and 40 persons, among them his pal Jeff Chandler, offered to give him an eye. Such surgery was impossible, but Sammy was given muscles so he will be able to move his artificial eye.

"One letter was from a seven-year-old boy in Vancouver," he related. "He had seen me on TV and liked me. When he saw my picture in the paper he asked if I was on TV that night. When his folks said no,that I had lost my eye, he said, 'Can I give him one of mine?' Letters like that tear your heart out."

Sammy showed me a stack of more than 200 well-wishing telegrams sent by everyone from Bing Crosby, Phil Harris and Jimmy Durante to "the waiters at Ciro's."

The hospital nurses were dazzled by his visitors. Eddie Cantor did a Jewish dialect routine to amuse him. Frank Sinatra was there and offered the use of his Palm Springs house for recuperation. Jack Benny came in and cracked: "I didn't bring you anything; I'm staying in character." (He actually had sent a lavish orchid bouquet.)

Jeff Chandler and Tony Curtis also paid visits, and Mickey Rooney called from Chicago. Jerry Lewis, with whom Sammy has feuded, cried over the telephone.

Heartened by all this, Sammy is eager to get back in the spotlight. After a couple of weeks' rest, he'll return here for a recording session. Then on Jan. 11, he'll open at Ciro's in Hollywood with his father and uncle, who comprise the Will Mastin trio.

AT THE CAPITOL
"THE COUNTRY PARSON"
Combines Entertainment with Stirring Story of Sacrifice and Love

When Astor Pictures' most important feature production of the year, "The Country Parson" opens at the Capitol Theatre, patrons will have an opportunity of seeing one of the truly great pictures produced in many years. Starring John Beal, one of Hollywood's most versatile actors, "Messenger of Peace," is one of those films which comes along once in a lifetime.

R. M. Savini, president of Astor, a pioneer independent producing and distributing organization, has hailed it as "a film that tugs at your heart-strings, while tickling your sense of humor and lifting up your spirits." This, coming from a motion picture tycoon whose company has released over 1,000 films in the past 23 years, speaks volumes for the 100% produced Hollywood production.

In "The Country Parson" will be recognized some of Hollywood's most capable artists, such as George Bakewell, Peggy Stewart, Paul Guilfoyle, Fred Easley and many others. Glenn Tryon, the well-known screen playwright wrote the photoplay from the Savini-directed.

T. G. Rogers, executive secretary of the Lutheran Laymen's League, was the production supervisor, and Rev. Lawrence Acker was Clergy Advisor. Walter Strenge, A.S.C., photographed the entire production.

"Messenger of Peace" was produced by Roland Reed Productions, Inc., at the RKO-Pathe Studios in Hollywood. Previews throughout the country, under the direction of Astor's president has established the fact that the film is one of the most unusual made in Hollywood in many years.

"The Country Parson" will be shown at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 6, 7, 8, with a special matinee Wednesday, Dec. 8th, starting at 2.00 p.m.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find your outlook is, according to the stars, for Thursday, December 2, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Holding to a wise, well-planned schedule will prevent the errors that come with haste, haphazard action, lack of system. Be specific in financial and business goals. Know your capacity to deliver.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Few clouds on the horizon but use care in handling tricky domestic problems, unexpected tasks put upon you, perhaps without warning. Be patient; smile.

May 21-to June 21 (Gemini) — You will need considerable adroitness and tact to counteract obstacles, unfriendliness. Seek harmony in all affairs, especially those related to home, family. Save thoughtfully.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Veg in daily life, teachers, officers, tradesmen, lawyers especially; watch dispositions, cultivate an amenable attitude. All of you: stress giving rather than taking now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Use Leo's smiling salesmanship and keep your good reasoning powers working overtime now. Influences somewhat conflicting. Some troublesome spots in the day could cause adverse situations if you are careless.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — In personal affairs, romance, marriage, social work operate on the cautious side. Some unexpected situations may cause a temporary slowdown. You can take this sensibly—DO!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Not too encouraging for other than familiar matters, daily duties. Specialized work calls for careful scrutiny, some reviewing before taking action. Don't hurry.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Success could be around the corner. It is worth looking for, but will have to be attained by energetic work, thinking. Don't miss out by being overconfident.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You may have to work hard for what you want now. Some obstructions likely in the early hours. If you're not alert, or are careless, you will add to obstacles.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Use caution in dealing with strangers, consummating money transactions, shipping, travelling, be diplomatic in home affairs also. Review news thoughtfully.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Don't go along meekly not knowing just where you are bound and exactly how. Your planet Uranus offers less encouragement today. Make your own bids for success, but hold back till you have checked.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — You may need to be on extra good behavior all day. You could upset good prospects by an inadvertent act or word. Discretion is essential in all matters, especially in finances, with family.

YOU BORN TODAY are generally studious, sincere; often possessed of fine talents, pleasing personality in appearance, giving an impression of poise. If you're to the better, you will accent discretion, generosity, friendliness. Don't lose your optimism ever. Keep in mind that others, too, are clever-keep cultivating your talents and compete always — but without strain. Originality and initiative are two of your assets which will be needed for the balance of this year. Keep striving always.

Birthdate: Pierre Waldeck-Rousseau, Fr. statesman.

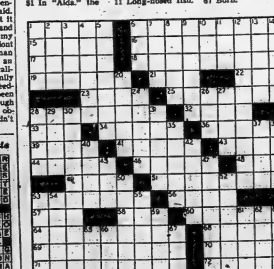
Little Benny's Notebook

The mailman came while we were eating breakfast, and pop picked up one letter and banged it down again, saying, Well of all the insufferable idiots, that chap takes the sawdust cake.

Why William, you haven't even opened it yet, ma said, and pop opened it yet, ma said, and pop said, I dont need to open it and I dont intend to open it. The handwriting on the envelope tells me all I need to know and more than I wanted to find out. I tell you the man that's responsible for my receiving this letter is one of the 7 natural wonders of boobyland. He ought to have his statue cast in mud and exhibited to the penguins at the North Pole, pop said.

I hope you're not going to let it spoil your breakfast, ma said, and pop said, Your hope is vain, my breakfast is already spoilt. I dont understand how a so-called human bean can any alive on his nutch as infinitessimal amount of so-called branes. By golies his family history would make intristing reading. His grandfather must of been the man who didn't know enough to come in out of the rain, and obviously his grandmother didn't have any more sense than marry his grandfather, pop said.

But goodness, William, I mean heavens, what did he do? ma said, and pop said, You may well ask. I ought to take this letter and slap his expressionless face with it. I entrusted him with it to mail for me, and the unutterable saphead forgot to put a stamp on it, he said.



Why didn't you stamp it yourself? ma said, and pop said, Because I'm the chap I'm talking about, but now at least I've proved I can take it as well as dish it out, and I think that entitles me to take a 3rd cup of coffee.

Which he did, being one more than is suppose to be good for him.

ANTI-FROST IDEA

PERTH, Australia (CP) — Research with vertical windmills to stop frost damage to crops is being carried on by the Australian scientific research organization. Dr. C. H. Priestley, meteorology chief, said the idea is to draw down warm air to ground level.

CRUSADING EDITOR'S FAMILY

Drapeau's Surprise Victory Climax of Five-Year Campaign

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—At 2 a.m. the morning of Oct. 26, Jean Drapeau, fresh from a smashing victory in Montreal's mayoralty elections, set out for a newspaper building in a dark section of downtown Montreal.

He climbed narrow, wooden stairs to the second floor, entered the paper-littered newsroom and shook hands with weary reporters. He went on to the composing room to thank the staff there and wound up back-slapping the delivery room staff loading trucks with papers of his "unprecedented sweep."

Just 24 hours before Montrealers elected the 38-year-old lawyer to head their city administration, few of the people supposed to know politics gave him much chance.

The staff of Le Devoir, the Montreal daily which gave him much support, hoped he'd lose out seven other candidates including political veteran Paul Sauve. Devoir's headline on election day merely quizzy and based on charges made by the former vice-buster, Judge Caron appointed Plante as legal assistant. Plante was joined by young lawyer Jean Drapeau.

Hearings by Judge Caron started in the fall of 1950 and, with interruptions due to legal disputes, lasted until the spring of 1953. Sometimes it looked as though legal entanglements would halt the inquiry altogether.

After hearings at which Judge Caron, Plante and Drapeau questioned witnesses including high-ranking city and police officials, the judge worked 1½ years on his report.

Meanwhile an organization called the Civic Action League went to work, picked Drapeau as its candidate for mayor and 33 other men, mostly political unknowns, to contest a group of the 66 council seats open to election this year.

The chances of Drapeau and other Civic Action League candidates looked slim until 2½ weeks before voting day when Judge Caron's report burst on the campaign like a bombshell.

Judge Caron, who took five hours to read his report denouncing vice conditions over a 10-year period up to 1950, ended by calling on dismissal and fines for 20 members and former members of the city's police force including director Langlois.

The Plante revelations, earlier the subject of a report on which no action was taken at city hall, led to formation of a public morality committee. The committee rounded up signatures for a petition demanding a judicial inquiry into corruption in the city.

The late Mr. Justice O. S. Tyndale heard the petition and appointed Mr. Jus tice Francois Caron of Superior Court to conduct the inquiry. Because the inquiry was based on charges made by the former vice-buster, Judge Caron appointed Plante as legal assistant. Plante was joined by young lawyer Jean Drapeau.

Hearings by Judge Caron started in the fall of 1950 and, with interruptions due to legal disputes, lasted until the spring of 1953. Sometimes it looked as though legal entanglements would halt the

ROYAL RECEPTION FOR SANTA IN HOLLAND

Oshawa (CP) — Council has been informed that the city is being sued for $500,000 by a Toronto construction firm in connection with building Oshawa's new sewage disposal plant. The action will be contested.

Construction on the plant has been halted. Aldermen Wesley Powers, chairman of the works committee, said the plant should have been completed last December.

The Toronto Construction Corp. Ltd. claims $235,108 is still owing and is seeking an additional $250,000 in damages for loss of business, credit and reputation.

Fred Cromie, city engineer, says the company has refused to repair the floors of the plant digester and clarifier. He said withdrawal of the work crew is not only a failure to execute work in an approved manner but also constitutes an abandonment of the work under the contract.

REDUCED DEMAND

VICTORIA (CP) — The Argonaut open-pit iron mine 190 miles north-west of here has temporarily suspended operations due to a reduced demand for ore by Japanese steel mills. The staff was reduced by about 80 men.

Wellington W. A. Elects Officers

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held Tuesday evening, November 23, in the town hall.

The Scripture reading by the Rev. C. P. Hearn was taken from the Sunday before Advent, St. John 6-8.

Mrs. M. Way thanked the members for their "Get Well" card at the time of accident.

Instead of reading the study book, the program was on Christmas and two Christmas readings were given, one by Mrs. Mathews, and one by Miss Nash.

The president called the meeting to order and told how proud the W.A. is of its girls in the G.A.A. and takes great pleasure in presenting them with the G.A. ring; the girls have been faithful to their church, working as Sunday school teachers; members of their choir and holding office in their Girls' Auxiliary.

The president, Mrs. William Devern, asked Mr. Heaven to take charge of the meeting for election of officers.

The nominating committee made their report and officers for 1955 are as follows:—hon. president, Mrs. C. Heaven; president, Miss Ruby Nash; vice-president, Mrs. E. Mathews; secretary, Mrs. G. Upton; treasurer, Mrs. Donald Upton; assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. Lavender; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Craig Platt.

Refreshments were served bringing the meetings to a finish until January. There will be no meeting during December.

New and Amended Farm Marketing Laws Sought

TORONTO (CP)—V. S. Milburn, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said here the federation is seeking new and amended farm marketing legislation.

In an address to the annual convention of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association, Mr. Milburn said the federation is recommending creation of a new cabinet portfolio, to be known as marketing and co-operation, to relieve the Ontario minister of agriculture of his heavy burden of duties.

He said there is a need for greater co-ordination of all farm organizations since the principles of marketing are the same no matter what the product.

C. F. Townsend, secretary of the association, said there is an increasing demand by farmers and fruit growers for bee colonies for pollination purposes.

MARMORA

Harmony LOBA Presents Slate Of 1955 Officers

MARMORA — The annual election of officers of Harmony L.O.B.A., No. 600, was the main feature of the regular monthly meeting held in the Orange hall on Thursday evening.

For this event the chair was taken by Grand Worthy Mistress of Ontario East, Mrs. Edith Bennion, of Peterborough. Also in attendance were Past Grand Mistress Mrs. Pilling and Deputy Grand Mistress Mrs. Rose Bessmith. Representatives of the sister lodges of Bethany, Havelock and Eldorado swelled the attendance of local sisters and added to the impressiveness of the occasion.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

The new slate of officers follows:

Worthy Mistress, Mrs. Yvonne Fox; Deputy Mistress, Mrs. Carrie Ford; Junior Deputy Mistress, Mrs. Clara Pack; chaplain, Mrs. Versa Deiller; recording secretary, Miss Jean Moffatt; financial secretary, Mrs. Jean Bell; treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Moffatt; director of ceremonies, Miss Grace McFarlane; senior lecturer, Mrs. May Terrien; deputy lecturer, Mrs. Lois Savaras; inner guard, Mrs. Pearl Scott; outer guard, Mrs. Elsie Neal; sick and visiting committee, Mrs. C. Pack, Mrs. V. Deiller and Mrs. E. Post; auditors, Mrs. C. Pack, Mrs. E. Post and Mrs. E. Neal.

The installation will take place on December 14.

DANCE

MARMORA — A dance was held in the auditorium of Marmora high school on Friday evening in honor of the boys' volleyball team and the girls' volleyball team, each having taken the championship of their respective leagues this year. The benefit was for Marvin Walker, who burt his left knee badly in progress of the game with Stirling when Marmora took the series.

Mrs. W. E. Oakes of Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. Pearce, and Mr. Pearce.

Mrs. Gordon Moffatt is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Flowers on the altar at St. Paul's on Sunday were in loving memory of Mrs. E. Pearce, being the gift of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, of Belleville, visited Mrs. Clifford Jones on Sunday.

Several local rugby fans attended the Grey Cup finals in Toronto on Saturday.

Mr. Clayton Tompkins is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

FIND ANCIENT TUSK

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (Reuters)—Giant tusk of a strange prehistoric elephant thought to have been nearly six feet taller than the present-day elephant has been found in the Orange Free State. It is thought to have belonged to a beast which stood about 15 feet high.

PRINCESS ALICE ILL

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Alice, 71-year-old Countess of Athlone and a distant cousin of the Queen, was taken ill Friday night while attending a dinner. The wife of the Earl of Athlone, former governor-general of Canada, left the dining room after complaining of feeling ill. Guests were told that it was not serious.

U.S. Has Arranged Mutual Security Pact With Chiang

Dulles Says Naval Blockade Possible if 13 Not Released

TAIPEH, Formosa (Reuters) — Jubilant Nationalist China today hailed the conclusion of a mutual security pact between the United States and Chiang Kai-shek's government.

The Nationalist acting foreign minister, Dr. Shen Chuang Huan, said the American and Nationalist Chinese "Iron stand in combatting communism has thus been crystallized."

Nationalist official sources said that "as far as we recall, this is the first time the United States government has stated that a treaty will be signed to resist Communist aggression."

Other high Nationalists said the pact would "upset the Communist timetable for Asian conquest."

Communist China's press and radio did not mention the pact during the day but attacked the U.S. generally for trying to promote war in Asia.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is forging the last link in a chain of military alliances designed to keep Red China's power from spreading in the Pacific.

State Secretary Dulles announced Wednesday that a mutual security pact will be signed with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa in the near future.

South Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand and parts of the Korean Asia already are covered by a system of similar treaties.

The new pact, if ratified by the U.S. Senate as expected, will assure American protection for many years to Formosa and the Pescadores Islands.

The islands have been shielded by the U.S. 7th Fleet since the beginning of the Korean war in 1950. Under the treaty the shielding may be on for years more.

The treaty is expected to go to the Senate early next year for ratification.

Dulles said the treaty means that if the Chinese Reds ever try Formosa strait to conquer the island the U.S. will retaliate against Red China. As support to the position, he said a U.S. counter-attack on the China mainland would be a probable result, but he did not want to say what the scope of retaliatory action would be.

MAY BLOCKADE

In another statement at a press conference Wednesday, ebbing up to a "tough" policy on Communist China, Dulles said the U.S. may yet consider a naval blockade for the China coast if American rights are not respected—that is, if the 13 Americans recently sentenced as spies are not released.

The Eisenhower administration, while taking a strong policy line in the Far East, is reported hopeful that gradually a modus Vivendi or way of getting along will be found without warlike actions. The treaty with China, Dulles made clear, is designed to contribute to that purpose.

Aside from Chiang's freedom to attack the mainland, Dulles said he expects an arrangement to be worked out whereby Chiang would consult with the U.S. on military matters. That would be considered a sort of Washington-Ike plan on Chiang.

In London, the foreign office said the Churchill government had been consulted on the newly announced pact but had been assured it "it is purely defensive."

The pact is a guarantee of American protection will cover Formosa and the Pescadores only. It is specifically a result of a conference held at

Obituary

WILLIAM HENRY ALFORD

The funeral of William Henry Alford was held from the Bellville Burial Company Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon for service at St. Paul's Anglican church at Roslin. Rev. L. Arthur Page conducted the service in the church and also at the graveside in St. Paul's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Michael and Jerry Corrigan, Clare and Murray Corrigan, William Conley and John J. Byrne.

WILLIAM ROY GILES

The funeral of William Roy Giles was held from the Bellville Burial Company Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. T. F. Townsend of Redeemer United church officiated at the funeral chapel and also at the graveside at Albury cemetery.

The bearers were Ralph Redner, Winston Pulver, Donald Spencer, Clarence VanDusen, Floyd Carter and Cecil McFaul.

HAROLD WESLEY FROATS

Harold Wesley Froats, 346 North Front Street, died suddenly at his home on Wednesday December 1st. He was in his 64th year.

The deceased was born at Osnabruck Centre, Ontario, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Froats, and lived in Aultsville prior to coming to Bellville, 30 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jessie Mae Wagar; two sons, Mrs. Lida Cooch, Bellville.

The deceased had been employed by the CNR Yards for years and was a master in the bridge and building division. He was a member of the United Church and a member of Bellville Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 11, Moira Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 111, Belleville Chapter No. 111 and Belleville Council No. 11.

Rites will be held on Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the Bellville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

BENJAMIN F. OGILVIE

(Personal to Intelligencer)

He retired as manager of the company here in January 1949, after filling the position for many years, and left here in the summer of 1950 to reside in British Columbia.

Mr. Ogilvie served with the Provincial Police force and during that time he represented the Company in Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, and prior to coming to Bellville, he was manager in Ottawa, Ont. He was known in this city, and had many friends to whom the announcement of his death will bring sincere regret.

He was an enthusiastic curler and fraternalist, he was a member of The Bellville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. and A.M. He was born in Nova Scotia 69 years ago.

Surviving him are his wife and one son, at home, and one son, and four daughters in eastern Canada and the United States.

Senior Citizens Club Observes First Birthday

The Senior Citizens of Bellville Club held its monthly meeting in Kiwanis Centre last evening with a splendid turnout to enjoy a fine evening's entertainment.

Those present were welcomed by chairman Leslie Field on behalf of the executive, and he reported on executive business.

Mrs. L. Mouit, the secretary, presented the minutes which were approved.

Entertainment was provided by the dancing and singing pupils of Miss Freddine Smith. Those taking part in the various items on the program were Valerie Smith, Donna Brook, Kathy Dutton and Doreen Smith, Judy Watson, Geraldine and Judy Gill, Frances Edgar, Kathleen Brook, Sharon Archer and Freddine Smith. The accompanist was Mrs. Annabell Brook.

Mrs. N. Montgomery presented a chrismas story that was well received, and Mrs. J. N. Garbutt and Mrs. Montgomery gave a very humorous sketch.

An invitation was extended by Miss Ackerman of the Bellville Youth to mention activities of the Senior Citizens Club to join in their Christmas party on December 16 at Moose Hall and it is expected many will accept.

Mayor Jack Bolh was a visitor for a few moments and he congratulated the club on its progress since its organization and wished it success.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Drummond and assistants and a chat was made by the chairman, Mr. Field, to mark the first birthday of the club.

During the evening community singing, with Mrs. Hardwick at the piano, was enjoyed by many and a fine evening ended with singing "God Save the Queen".

Candidates Face Heckling Barrage at Wharf St. Club

BY THE OBSERVER

The forty-fourth annual meeting of the Wharf Street Debating Club was held last evening, the clubroom filled to capacity. The room was packed to the doors — to use a hackneyed phrase — like sardines in a box. Question time was fast and furious, quips and retorts were bandied back and forth, and Mayor Jack Bolh, together with his two opponents, Don Thomas and Robt. Temple, was on hand, along with nineteen aspirants for aldermanic honors. The absentees were Messrs. James C. Allen, H. Jack Allin, Robert Gallinger and Mesdames Forrester and McCabe.

Chairman Eddie George called the meeting to order sharp at 8 o'clock and warned the speakers that the minutes would be allowed to each to air their views. By the time that word had retired to "a drawing-room story" they were up to the stale limit of fifteen minutes in but one sentence for their reception by the audience was of the flimsy kind and ribald, albeit good natured and witty. Chairman George had to rap for "Order" time and again up to his stated timetable, and by handling the hecklers with quick repartee.

Ex-Mayor George Tice was the first speaker and he received a personal honors "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow". He reminded the audience that it was his first annual appearance at the club and that the evening was a "step" in one of things to come, then the committee would have to enlarge the premises.

Mayor Jack Bolh was brief and to the point. He said that he was very proud of what he had accomplished during his first year of office and he intended to do all he could for the City of Bellevile as he had done in the past. He elected.

Alderman Don Thomas in a witty speech which brought down the house, reminded his listeners that it was his fourth visit as a candidate for municipal honors and if Foster Ward saw fit to vote for him as mayor, then the city as a whole would do likewise.

Ex-Alderman Robert Temple said that all the citizens of Bellevile had but one aim and that was to improve the city and a real system of planning should be carried out in every industry and at the same time practise economy and avoid waste.

Malcolm C. Burgess was the first of aspiring candidates to be given the Ogilvie brief and to the point he stated that he was not looking for publicity or honors, his only aim was to do his level best for the city as a whole.

Alderman Fred C. Clarke, appealing for re-election to the council, stated he had been a councillor for fifteen years and when he was chairman of finance he was proud to call half what they are today when he vacated the chair. As he saw it, the tax rate should be preserved but he promised that if elected taxes would not increase.

Robertson Collins voiced his keen pleasure at being able to speak on such a unhackneyed audience. He gave a graceful compliment to Mayor Jack Bolh's aspirants for office and pleaded for their support in the coming election.

Ronald David, tall as he is, was short and to the point. He said that if elected he would continue to do what he has always tried to do, work for a better Bellevile.

Alderman de Lecuw claimed that he knew Foster Ward as well as anybody. He spoke of promises made in the past which went unfulfilled. If elected his speech at all times would be in the interest of the working man with a special thought for those in the public works department.

George DeVaye had an uproarious reception. He said that it was his 17th annual visit to the club and that it was time to do the charge that he was the biggest disturber of the peace in the city. He called the audience to ask questions regarding his resignation from the chamber of Commerce. Almost everybody yelled "Tell us all about it", but George's lips were sealed. He was up and the questioned remained unanswered.

Leslie Wilson, Percy Digby and that it was the very first time that he had faced "the firing line", he would make but one promise, to strive to serve faithfully without fear or favor and that all youngsters got a square deal from him, if elected.

Mrs. Jane Forrester wrote a very graceful letter, which we quote: "Gentlemen: I've heard that your meeting is a lot of fun and I would like to be present able to attend, but perhaps it is just as well. The feminine influence might cramp your style, I am enclosing a subscription and I would like to apply for membership. And by the way don't forget to vote for Jane Forrester next Monday."

According to the enthusiasm with which your letter was received, you should receive quite a few votes, Mrs. Forrester.

Frank V. Grandame stated that his past efforts had been mainly to organize sport for the young people. He promised that if elected all his efforts would be aimed toward the betterment of the city as a whole even as he had done in the YMCA movement.

Ralph L. Graham returned to the city five years ago, since when he had taken a keen interest in civic affairs. He thought that promises had been given but rarely fulfilled and that a fair vote so that every expenditure would be carefully examined.

Ralph Wright was brief and to the point. He was born and raised in Bellevile and says that he has always had a pride. He would make no promises except that he would do his best.

Alderman Gerald Hyde has served for two years on council he briefly stated that he would be seven votes for alderman, he would be elected.

Frank Edward Huson pulled no punches when he stated that he was disappointed at the record of the past couple of years and that he was not at all pleased at the work of a council] They throw money away like they would were it water. If elected, however, he would do his very best to improve that body somewhat.

G. Fred Maund was very brief. He appealed for support and for a clean administration.

Mrs. Effie McCabe wrote as follows: "At committee, City and other planned meetings, I am unable to attend your meeting but if elected my aim will keep me in mind on Monday next, December 6, to vote as I think best. I promise only one thing—to do my best at all times for the welfare of Bellevile. Please accept my good wishes for the continued success of your club. Enclosed you will find my membership fee. Yours sincerely, Effie McCabe."

William J. McCormick, a new candidate in municipal affairs, had requested support on December 6 at the polls.

Allen G. Meagher stated that he had worked for Bellevile for the past 22 years and no matter who was elected for mayor he would promise to co-operate.

Alderman Bryan Reid said that he stood in the club two years ago and detailed his policy and that if elected he would continue to give of his best for Bellevile in particular and for the youth of the city in general.

Fred Robinson claimed membership in trade union for 42 years and that he had been employed for 44 years at the C.O.D. He ran for office last year, but hoped for success this year. If elected he would try for economy and justice.

Eric Roy Whitfield admitted that it was his first visit to the Wharf Street Debating club but would make but one promise, that if elected he would do his best to serve faithfully and well.

Brief talks by Bruce Smith, Bob Fralick, Ted Fenwick, George Forban, Lan Reid, Lee Girls, Carson Kilfott, Bill Argue, Lloyd Hamilton, Harold Mc Neil, Omer Sandercock, M.P.P., Glen Thompson and Malcolm Callaghan brought this uproarious meeting to a close. A silence was observed for the memory of the president, J. Cornell, and then the National Anthem, finally the serving of light refreshments and the 44th annual meeting of the Wharf Street Debating club faded into history.

There were few of the public school trustees present and P. Halloran spoke briefly on matters pertaining to education.

Ameliasburg Twp. Youth Is Hurt In Car Accident

Karl Adams, 18, of the 1st concession of Ameliasburg township, is in Bellevile General Hospital with a broken right ankle and lacerations about both eyes following an accident on the Massassaga Road early this morning.

Adams car left the road about 1.15 a.m. and crashed into a concrete milk stand. Adams, alone and unable to leave the car because of his broken ankle shouted for help for nearly three quarters of an hour before he was heard by George Flower, a farmer on the Massassaga Road.

Mr. Flower called the OPP in Bellevile and the accident was investigated by Constables D. Sears and L. Pellmero. Adams was brought to Bellevile General Hospital in Bush's ambulance.

No charge has been laid by police.

Candidates Will Be Heard At C of C Meeting

Candidates for municipal office in the election December 6 will address the annual meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in the Bellevile Collegiate tonight at 8.15.

A strict time limit will be imposed on all speakers with municipality candidates alloted five minutes and aldermanic, public and separate school trustee candidates allotted three minutes. A question period, in which members of the audience can address questions to any candidate, will follow after all speakers have been heard.

There will be no specific discussion of the money by-laws.

Freeman Burrows, president of the Chamber, will be chairman of the meeting.

Plywood Type Of Cheese Box Is Discussed

A lively discussion on the proposed adoption of a new plywood type of cheese box to prevent breakage and cheese damage during shipment, highlighted the Wednesday morning session of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association. One of the new type boxes, costing from 10 to 15 cents more than the veneer box, was on display for cheesemakers to see, and definite action was taken on the matter.

The morning session also saw a discussion on extraneous matter, led by W. R. M. Ward, dairy products division, Montreal, Quebec. Mr. Ward showed a chart comparing the percentage of acceptable grades determined from public samples forwarded from factories. J. F. Robinson, chief cheese inspector for eastern Ontario, and J. M. Bain, chief cheese instructor for Central and Western Ontario, also assisted in the discussion. The other morning speaker was G. A. Gaulin, dairy department, O.A.C., Guelph, who addressed makers' meeting on addition of salt to curd.

Afternoon speakers included Don Goodwillie, cheese auditor, substituting for W. C. Cameron, associate director of marketing services. Mr. Goodwillie reviewed the dairy industry and its difficulties, comparing conditions here with those in other countries. Mr. Goodwillie reviewed grading results in this area this year.

ABOLISH ACK-ACK

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's anti-aircraft command will be abolished in the near future because the weapons of modern warfare have "radically reduced the effectiveness of anti-aircraft gun defences," Duncan Sandys, Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons Wednesday night.

Discussion Group On Great Books Holds Meeting

The Great Books reading and discussion group, now in its third year, met in the Bellevile Public Library on Monday, with 18 members and the president, Dr. John Martin, presiding.

From a full diet of Aristotle, Plato, and St. Augustine, the subject of the evening was "Selections from Lucian." This brilliant wit of the second century A.D., made an amusing and interesting interlude. Mr. Ernest and Dr. Locke divided the "Questions" on the selections.

Many of the problems of that era have a duplicate today, and one of the chapters dealing with the expose of a charlatan could almost come from well known current magazines.

Lucian's writing, given in translation is masterly and his nuances well taken. This great Greek writer could have belonged to the age of Pericles and brought a gleam into a dark period of the world's history of literature, not equalled for many centuries, if ever.

Home Residents Entertained By Kinsmen Band

The Kinsmen Boys' Band under the direction of Alfred Cooper delighted the residents of the Hastings County Manor with a concert and varied program in the main dining room of the home on Wednesday evening. The program was arranged by Orlif "Bailey" Lloyd and his committee from the club.

The band gave six selections while Miss Barbara Thrasher accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harold Thrasher on the piano, gave a number of tap dance routines, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Sheila Canning accompanied on the piano and gave several vocal selections including "The Old House" and "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus". She also gave a tap dance.

Ken Yorke, superintendent at the home, thanked the Kinsmen Club members for their efforts to entertain the residents, Mr. and Mrs. Yorke entertained the band members and performers after the concert.

SPRINGBROOK BOY WILL REPRESENT SOUTH HASTINGS

Denton G. Burkitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt of Springbrook, was elected as representative of South Hastings for the Olden Boys' Parliament, which will convene in Whitby during the Christmas week. He won defeated a large list of candidates for the honor of representing the southern part of the county in this worthwhile organization.

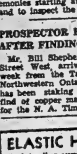
BELIEVED WORKING IN CITY FACTORY

A letter has been received by city clerk-comptroller, H. D. Bateman, requesting information concerning the whereabouts of Reuben Johnson, who is believed to be working in a Bellevile industrial plant or machine shop.

The letter, written by Mrs. Rose Johnson, in care of Mike Strifler, R.R.1, Laurel, Ont., states that Mr. Johnson's brother, Torsten Johnson, is ill in Toronto East General Hospital, and contact with Reuben Johnson is urgent.



Mr. Johnson is asked to contact M r.Bateman in Bellevile's city hall.

75 P.C. OF BIRTHS CITY RESIDENTS

There were 32 marriages, 39 deaths and 161 births in Bellevile in November.

Of the births, all of which were in the Bellevile General Hospital, it is estimated that 75 per cent were city residents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Agricultures, steels, refining oils and manufacturers eased but utilities gained.

A few low-priced mines were active and strong. Roche touched 26 cents, Quebec Chibougamau 29 and God's Lake and Consolidated Deckon climbed.

Noranda was off 81.12½ after Wednesday's $1 gain. Base metals were mixed and juniors easier. "Golds were mixed and western oils gained narrowly.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow on a plain quality offering today at the Ontario stockyards. Receipts: Cattle 40; calves 60; hogs 350; sheep and lambs 15; holdover from Wednesday 1,300 cattle.

Medium heifers 14-18; common steers and heifers 12-14; light boner steers and heifers 8-12. Replacement cattle: Good stockers 17-18; one load of short-keeps 18.50; medium stockers 14-16.

Calves were steady at 23-24 for good and choice vealers; mediums 14-21; common 10-14; grass calves for slaughter 8-12.

Hogs were 27 for grade A with 613 selling out on Wednesday at 27.25; Bi's sold at 26; sows 18.50 with 18 out at 19 on Wednesday.

Lambs were unchanged at 30-23 for good ewes and wethers; bucks were discounted $1 and heavies from 2 to 4 a hundredweight. Good light sheep 8-10; heavies 5-7; commons 3-5.

PRODUCE MARKET

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, graded, in floss cases: A large 34; A medium 28; A small 25-26; B 26; C 24-25. Wholesale to retail: A large 39; A medium 33; A small 30-31; B 31; C 29-30.

Butter: Cdn. first grade, 60-60½¢; western first grade 61.

AVERT STRIKE

WINDSOR (CP)—Threat of a strike of 145 bus drivers here was averted Wednesday when the bus company delayed its plans to reduce services on some city routes. The union said reduction in service by the company recently forced the layoff of 25 drivers.

RECORD STAMP PRICE

LONDON (Reuters)—A series of United States 1893 Columbus stamps, issued to commemorate the fourth centenary of the discovery of America, were sold here Tuesday for $37,100, a world record price for a single lot. Their original cost was only $874.

Authority Reports 34,150 Trees Planted in Past Year

A total of 34,150 trees was planted on properties of the Moira Conservation Authority during the past year, the Authority learned at its final meeting for 1954, held this week.

The report, presented by W. E. Edwards, zone forester, Department of Lands and Forests, Napanee, also looked forward to the planting in 1955 of 100,000 more trees.

The Authority is looking for land anywhere in the watershed of the Moira suitable for reforestation. However, it was brought out at the meeting that while it continues its own program, the Authority is more interested in reforestation by private individuals. A survey in 1950 of the watershed showed an estimated 97,000 acres of land suitable for reforestation. The program of the Authority provides for subsidizing of reforestation efforts by private individuals.

Regarding the soil and water conservation, role of the Authority it was reported that during the year seven plans were drawn up by the Soil Survey Service of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and presented to seven farmers in the watershed. The move was the first of its kind in this area and officials see it as a sign of the "increasing recognition of the need for conservation farming in this area."

The field officer's report, presented by Mr. Don Bell noted that there is a definite need for a stream improvement program within the watershed. "Our trout creeks are presently only yielding a fraction of their potential, he commented.

Mr. Bell's report also took note of the reforestation results or the past year and went on to say: "We have more lands available for reforestation than we can afford to buy on our present budget."

It seems that the reforestation of private lands can only be increased through our pointing out the values to be derived in dollars and cents from the reforestation of idle land."

The O'Hara Mill at Madoc will shortly be established as an historic site, Mr. Bell indicated. With sufficient finances by spring it is his conception that the Authority could begin reconstruction this summer, he stated.

Old Cherry Hill Cheese House Buys Cheese

Old Cherry Hill Cheese House at Brantford Ont., were the purchasers of the bulk of the exhibition cheese at the conclusion of the British Empire Dairy Show here Wednesday afternoon.

The Brantford firm purchased all show cheese with the exception of the square blocks at a price ranging from 32c to 37c per lb. The square cheese were purchased by W. H. Delaney of this city.

Mr. Thos. Heath of Wilton, former president and executive member of the cheese makers' association and local representative of the Old Cherry Hill Cheese House, purchased the cheese for his firm. The Brantford cheese donated the colored cheese served at the cheese makers' annual banquet Tuesday evening.

FLOODS RECEDE

LONDON (Reuters)—Flood waters receded in many parts of Britain on Wednesday as bright sunshine displaced the heavy rain and fierce gales of the last few days.

C. L. Jewell Opens Real Estate Office

Clarence L. Jewell, manager of the Belleville branch of the Bank of Commerce for 12 years prior to his retirement on pension in 1950, has opened a real estate office on the second floor of the Bank of Commerce building.

Mr. Jewell, prior to his retirement, was active in community work. He was a member of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital for several years and was chairman of the Board on retirement. He is a past president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club. Before coming to Belleville Mr. Jewell was manager of several branches of the Bank of Commerce in Ontario and for a time was an inspector at the head office in Toronto.

SOUVENIR COLLECTORS

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—origin of a giant balloon found on a farm near here remains a mystery. The big plastic bag was gradually cut up and large pieces were carted away by residents of the area, making identification impossible.

LADIES!

We know you may have to climb our stairs,
With corns and bunions through lots of tears,
But think of what you will find on the top.
A hundred savings you wouldn't drop.

The styles are great, and we're not bragging,
But without advertising we'd be sagging,
There's no fancy windows to cost you money,
You just pay for the dress that you think is a honey.

We've got lovely formals, and party dresses,
To make you look like you're right from Heaven.
It it's tailored perfection that you stress,
We can fix you up with a smart tailored dress.

So Ladies now you know the score,
At "Winnie's" you'll pay less for more.
In dressy, tailored, sports or plain,
Your looks will win you local fame.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF?

"In Damascus," writes Georges Fradier in "Unesco Features," "a geologist told me, 'Our university must be re-established.' In Baghdad, in the offices of the ministry of education, an official pointed to a wall map bristling with the sites of future scientific institutions, and declared: 'This city will become a scientific capital.' And even in those countries whose wealth was founded Less than ten years ago, these phrases would have sounded completely absurd. These cities may have been the glory of medieval science, but they entered the second half of the 20th century without instructors, laboratories or scientific libraries.'

Perhaps the Arabic world is awakening—or should we say re-awakening? For, as Mr. Fradier intimates, there was a time when the peoples of the Middle East marched in the forefront of culture and scientific achievement.

In the latter part of the 8th century and the first half of the 9th century Baghdad was the centre of an intellectual awakening that put at the disposal of the Arabic-speaking peoples the chief philosophic works of Aristotle, the medical productions of Hippocrates, the mathematical books of Archimedes and the geographico-astronomical books of Ptolmey. In astronomy, mathematics, medicine and chemistry, the Arabs not only preserved the wisdom of ancient Greece but made important discoveries and spread their learning into Europe.

Perhaps history will repeat itself. Perhaps the next century or so will witness another of those strange and mysterious impulses which have raised first one race and then another to world preeminence in the intellectual realm.

ROAD TO PROSPERITY

There are many lessons to be learned from an address given in St. Catharines the other night.

The speaker was Arthur A. Schmon, president and general manager of the Ontario Paper Company, and his audience was composed of members of the firm's quarter-century club.

Mr. Schmon said that a quarter of a century ago, in 1929, the Ontario Paper Company mill produced 331 tons of newsprint a day. With the same five paper-making machines, it now produces about 600 tons a day.

Production has thus been almost doubled, using the same machinery as was operated a quarter of a century ago.

The mill's basic wage rate is now three to four times that of 1929, although newsprint prices have barely doubled in the same period, said Mr. Schmon.

The increase in the wage rate has been made possible, of course, by the increased productivity of the workers in the mill.

An old story? The need to increase production is being constantly stressed? Yes, but there seems to be a new twist to this tale. Here is evidence that it is possible to raise production and that this has actually been accomplished.

Any person who will stop to think will realize that productivity must have increased greatly during the past decade or two, otherwise our standard of living would not have risen as it has. Nor is all this increase in productivity the result of the use of better machines. In some cases, at least, working techniques have also improved.

The workers at the Ontario Paper company plant can take a bow. Part of the credit, though, almost certainly belongs to their general management, which must have played an important part in devising methods by which his employees could increase their man-power output, while using machinery unchanged from that in use in 1929.

HOPE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Johannes Gerhardus Strydom has been selected by the South African Nationalist Party to succeed Dr. Daniel Malan as its leader.

That is good news.

No.

Good news that the new Prime Minister of South Africa is an extreme nationalist, whose ultimate object is to make the Union a republic?

No.

But good news that, in succeeding Malan, Strydom may have dealt the present Nationalist Party a death blow.

The present party was formed in 1951 as a coalition of Malan's Nationalist party and N. C. Havenga's Afrikaner party. Malan backed Havenga as his successor, but did not get his way. Now Havenga has announced that he will quit politics and retire to his farm. Unless he sticks to this decision, a rift has appeared in the Nationalist party ranks.

So, perhaps, there may arise an opportunity for a party of more moderate views, if only the liberal element in South Africa can discover a leader of the quality of the late Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, whom Malan ousted from power six years ago, in 1948.

Of Strydom's selection as Malan's successor it may be said that it is an ill wind which promises to blow much good.

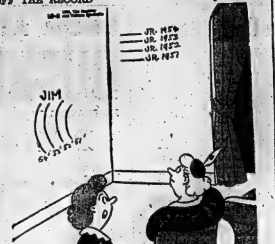
WHY PARENTS ARE YOUNG

I watch the mothers sit about,
Chatting an hour or two away,
Hearing their children scream and shout
And not the slightest notice pay.
They let them scamper up the stair
As if no accident could be.
They never seem to be aware
Of fears that are disturbing me.



On easy terms with bump and bruise,
To grow, with their friends they sit.
An eye a lovely child may lose,
But they don't even think of it.

At times my nerves begin to shake,
With dread my thinning blood runs cold
I cannot stand the risks they take,
It must be I am getting old.

I think how wise the Lord above
Was youthful parents to endow.
They have the patience and the love
That little children all require.
Grown used to much that childhood brings,
Unmoved its antics they behold.
They're not disturbed by all the things
That seem to terrify the old.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1934.

Mr. Mackenzie Robertson of the Belleville Creameries, Limited, Dave Thrasher of the 3rd concession of Sidney township, over his nearest opposition ex-mayor Geo. A. Bennett and a majority of 1,869 votes over the combined votes of his three opponents, namely, Ald. W. R. McCreary, Ald. Percy W. Greenleaf and ex-mayor Geo. A. Bennett. In every polling subdivision Mayor Mikel's majority was considerably in excess of all the votes recorded for his opponents. The electors were evidently not in favor of the opposition to adopt daylight saving during the summer months as Ald. Ellis was defeated by a majority of 1,679 votes. All aldermen were elected by acclamation and are as follows: George W. Dawes, Ernest H. Reverette, Joseph J. C. Manley, Philip Harrison, Allen H. Kerr-Johnson, Ernest J. Corby, Walter H. Patterson, Cahill A. Rutlan, Albert Robinson, George Albert E. Laroche. The only election held for school trustee was in Coleman Ward and George Sparkes is elected by acclamation. In Ward No. 1, 1,308 votes, Mulvey Ward will have two new faces to take the place of Phil. Harrison, elected an alderman, and George T. Woodley, namely, E. A. Geen and Allan R. Sherry, reclamation. Charles Hannas was the former trustee in Coleman Ward; he was elected recently to the Dominion Parliament.

40 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1914.

The annual meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 17, Sons of England, was held last evening and the following officers were elected: past president, R. Parmenter; president, E. J. Sayage; financial secretary, John Trent; treasurer, F. D. Ford; chaplain, R. G. H. Barlow; committee, T. Sayage, W. Simpson, H. T. York, J. S. Reeder; surgeon, Dr. E. O. Platt; inside guard, W. J. Bennett; outside guard, James Riggs; recording secretary, George Edwards; auditors, H. Lennox, J. L. Simpson and W. J. Elding. The installing officers Ollphant, George Edwards and James Riggs; juvenile advisers, the executive officers and J. L. Simpson, P. K. Fisher and W. Armitage.

50 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1904.

A banquet under the auspices of the members of the Belleville Cheese Board was held at Hotel Quinte last evening and it was a most enjoyable affair. James Anderson of Ameliasburg, the president of the board during the past year, occupied the chair and the following made brief speeches in response to the usual toasts: Mayor W. W. Chown, ex-mayor Ph. J. Grange, Dr. Simmons, J. S. Deneh, Dr. Dimmick, Dr. Derbyshire, J. T. Holgate, D. Derbyshire, M.P.P., Brockville), J. Alexander, A. W. Grant, T. Hodson, G. G. Pulsher, C. C. Pulsher, well and W. S. Morden. Vocal solos were rendered by Sleighth Burrows, John McIntosh, Thomas Hoglate, Sandy Burrows and Richmond Stark and a pianist present were the following from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Brockville, J. Alexander, A. W. Grant and H. Hodson all of Madoc; W. G. Pulsher, chief dairy instructor, Kingston; Cheese Inspector Derbyshire, Belleville; Wm. McIntosh, Thomas Hoglate, Sandy Burrows and Richmond Stark and a pianist present were the following from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Brockville, J. Alexander, A. W. Grant and H. Hodson all of Madoc; W. G. Pulsher, chief dairy instructor, Kingston; Cheese Inspector Derbyshire, Belleville; Wm. McIntosh, Thomas Brenton, W. S. Cook, Mark Spraguer, J. Wilson and John S. Kerr. The Oddfellows orchestra furnished excellent music.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EVIDENCE OF GOD IS EVERY- WHERE

If someone could explain to me the exact reason for the exquisite design of an oak, maple, or apple tree leaf, or the delicate formation of the ordinary grass form, and even go so far further and explain to me the reason for every insect and every wild flower, then I would listen to any theory as to the non-existence of God in the world.

The fact is that every day adds to my wonder of the world, its mystery, beauty, and balance. The power of the Sun, the challenge of the Heavens at night, and the crevice in the human mind that has solved so many problems, but which has yet to solve its problem of war.

I look out upon the great trees in the yard of my home that long to love and build their nests and rear their young, And how active they are, how brave and appreciative. Isn't it written that even a sparrow does not fall without the Father's notice?

Christmas Lament

(New York Times)

Christmas must be coming earlier than usual this year. For a month now the postman has staggered under great loads of gift packages, and since the bells rings twice the household is thrown into further unrest. Well, not all of the household but only the head thereof, who is becoming harassed to the point of nervous exhaustion by the approaching festival.

These catalogues. To most members of the household a catalogue is a choice, brief glimpses into heaven, but to the solitary dyspeptic who gets out before the middle section of the cow who must pay the bills. Those catalogues. Gaily colored with enticement, they come from all directions in an unending flow.

The question must remain open as to which is the more dangerous with gift catalogues, the women or children. The latter have the keener and illustratory slant their works toward the former, it being a truism that purchasing power lies there. But give a child a catalogue and immediately he wants everything in it. Give a child a catalogue and there begins a long discussion of electric trains, evening reading is wrecked and the child becomes a chameleon, identifying himself with one thing after another, interest and illustratory slant their works toward the former, it being a truism that purchasing power lies there. But give a child a catalogue and immediately he wants everything in it. Give a child a catalogue and there begins a long discussion of electric trains, evening reading is wrecked and the child becomes a chameleon, identifying himself with one thing after another, interest followed by demands, demands followed by offers to do the Sunday chores, offers are followed by a wistful expression that is calculated to break the hardest heart. Christmas seems to be coming earlier this year, for it was only in November that the head of the house been able to meet

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. J. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. E. Dean from Toronto visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cannon, on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary on Sunday. Many friends and neighbors called to wish them many more years of health and prosperity.

Weddings

ROSS—PAYNE

White, bronze and yellow chrysanthemums formed a pretty background in St. Joseph's rectory, Belleville, on Saturday, November 20, at 11.00 a.m., for the marriage of Marilyn Elinor Payne, of Point Anne, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Payne, to William Donald Ross, of Belleville, son of the late William D. Ross and Mrs. Donald Vance. The Rev. G. J. Buckley officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of pale blue Chantilly lace and sheer over taffeta in ballerina length, fashioned with empire waistline, and deep "V" neckline. She wore a matching headdress, and accessories, and carried pale pink roses.

Miss Helen Buchanan, of Point Anne, attended the bride, wearing pale yellow sheer over taffeta, made on similar lines to that of the bride's. She wore a matching headdress and carried bronze colored 'mums.

Mr. Jewell Day, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the wedding breakfast and reception were held at Golden Acre Inn, where the bride's mother, gowned in rosewood colored crepe and lace, with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. W. Ross, Brockworth, who wore a black dressmaker suit with burnt orange accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to Guelph and points west, the bride travelled in a flamingo colored knitted suit, with black accessories, and white carnation corsage.

Guests were present from Toronto, Ottawa, Peterborough, Deep River, and Pembroke.

NELSON—LOVE

Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, November 27, at 12.30 p.m., for a pretty wedding, when Helen Isabell Love, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Love, became the bride of Ralph Leroy Nelson, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Nelson. The Rev. R. A. Rowley, pastor of the church, officiated before a background of bronze, white and yellow chrysanthemums in tall white standards interspersed with ferns.

Mrs. F. Duff, organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. C. Tanner, of Madoc.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin in cocktail length, fashioned in fitted effect of lace and net. She wore a matching pearl headdress and shoulder-length veil, and carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses and stevia with streamers of white, feathered edge satin ribbon, knotted with roses.

Mrs. C. Coulson, of Rossmore, as matron of honor, was gowned in mauve lace and net in cocktail length, with matching floral headdress. She carried a nosegay of Gloria roses, mauve and white pom 'mums and stevia with yellow lacelon ribbon frill, and streamers of feathered yellow satin ribbon.

Mr. Gerald Nelson, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. George Dempsey of Toronto and Mr. William Old, of Belleville, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, who wore for the occasion, a navy blue ensemble with white accessories, and gardenia corsage, received the guests. She was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in rust wool ensemble with black accessories and gardenia corsage.

For travelling to the United States, the bride wore a powder blue ensemble matching top coat, and black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will reside in Toronto.

Guests were present from Toronto, Stratford, Madoc, Queensboro and Foxboro.

Tabernacle United Church Holds Attractive Yuletide Bazaar, Tea

A stained glass window depicting the Madonna and Child; three white-robed singers chanting the lovely Christmas carol, "Noel, Noel, Noel," was the vision that charmed the eye and ear on entering the door of the Tabernacle United Church yesterday afternoon, and set the heart aglow with the thoughts of that Christmas in Bethlehem over 1900 years ago. Even if the scene was a simulated one, and the music recorded, it was a fitting touch for the season, and a pretty premiere for the Christmas bazaar and tea sponsored by the church.

SCENE OF FESTIVITY

On entering the second door, the scene was changed; here the chief thought was that of festivity, with Santa and his reindeer sweeping across the space, over colorful booths of the bazaar, and flitting across red curtains in a bright red sleigh, with the "Merry Christmas" along its sides. Some fairy wand had changed the massive pillars into huge barley sticks, and every other pillar into striped candy cane snow men with prominent noses, oggling eyes, and mouths whose corners never would turn down.

Receiving the surging throng of patrons and guests were: Mrs. R. A. Rowley, wife of the pastor; Mrs. R. McCullough, Mrs. E. Cornish and Mrs. F. Davidson, who warmly greeted all comers with a smile and hearty handclasp, after which they roamed at will, from booth to booth, admiring and purchasing the article which pleased them most.

MEN'S BOOTH

The men's booth, convened by E. Taylor, assisted by H. McNish, H. Irwin, E. Boulton, J. Auchterlonie, E. Schlievert, L. Field, N. Robb, R. Johnston and S. Bridgman, was decorated with a wide band of silver foil on three sides of the arch over which red, blue, red and yellow colored lights glowed and shimmered. Here were some exceptionally well-made magazine racks, most ornate corner brackets, smoking sets and others small; also the wall brackets with star and crescent, known as "The Steps to Heaven," brackets, an exquisite wooden wishing well, fashioned as a TV light; sleeve ironing boards, dolls' cradles, a donkey cigaret dispenser, bath salts sprinkler, a fine pen and ink sketch of the pastoral, tie racks, shopping bags, doll's highchair, boudoir lamps, and a stamp collection.

GORGEOUS APRONS

The apron booth was loaded with gorgeous aprons in dainty chambrays, organdy and were in all the shades of the rainbow, both in the half and all-over styles. One particularly pretty apron was done in green crochet with mauve satin ribbon dividing the panels; another was in blue crochet; while others had French poodles sprinting over a white background; there were pink aprons in checks and stripes, and mauve aprons with green borders, and green aprons with mauve borders adorned with white crochet. Mrs. C. Hogle and Mrs. W. May were the busy conveners, assisted by Mrs. M. Burgess, Mrs. S. Waters, Mrs. F. Paul, Mrs. L. Robinson and Mrs. G. Brickman.

The children's wear, in charge of Mrs. A. Firth and Mrs. A. Wilson, assisted by Mrs. F. Huddleston and Mrs. W. Judge, was well stocked with knitted articles for the wee man of the house; lovely pink knitted baby sacques with matching bonnets; little boo-tees with Peter Rabbit on the cuffs; mittens, mitts of all colors, a pretty pair of pale blue knitted booties; a white, embroidered nylon dress, with lace trim, and various other articles too numerous to mention.

The candy booth was in charge of the Keen Age Club, with Mrs. Hudson as convener, and Mrs. G. Davies, Mrs. R. Fogun, Mrs. C. Shaw, Mrs. F. Douglas, Mrs. G. Priest, Mrs. G. Allen, Mrs. E. Burley, Mrs. M. Wiley, Mrs. A. Hulley, Mrs. R. Boldrin, Mrs. R. Lathaugne, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mrs. S. Lock and Mrs. R. Cole assisting. For those with the sweetie urge, there were candy canes, bags of cellophane holding a nice assortment of creams, chocolate fudge, divinity fudge, Turkish delight and other Christmas stockings also well filled; cherry-topped chocolates, candied grape fruit peel, and vanilla creams.

A brightly lighted Christmas tree bearing little gifts was surrounded by many packages in pretty wrappings; some were long, some round, others were square, and still others again of nearly all shapes and colors. This was sponsored by the Explorers' Group with Mrs. R. Rowley as convener, and Miss Mary Ann Cowlie as co-convener, assisted by Mrs. R. Aitkens, Misses Gloria Armstrong, Judy Oliver, Joan Banker and Karen Flindall.

C.G.I.T. BOOTH

The C.G.I.T. girls had an attractive booth of little doll CGIT girls, all in that natty blue and white uniform; also pretty felt comb cases; Christmas stockings in red and in white with white snow men; felt collars in red; fancy felt belts. The conveners were Mrs. L. Andrews, Mrs. N. Howard and Miss Jean Poste, assisted by the Misses Linda Hoag and Patsy Ireland.

The homecooking table was long and every inch of it was filled to overflowing with good things to eat, all conveyed by Mrs. F. Grandame assisted by Mesdames E. Schlievert, J. Kingston, H. Langridge, R. Bovay, G. Ackerman, C. Marriott, W. Hunnisett, W. Bovay, W. Yay, D. Elliott, F. Mitchell, M. E. Neil, H. Woodcock, R. Nelson, Atkins and Woods.

MANY NOVELTIES

The novelties were convened by Mrs. D. May, Mrs. M. Smith and Mrs. H. McNish, assisted by Mrs. R. Johnston, Mrs. D. MacLean, Mrs. E. McAllister, Mrs. G. Oliver and Mrs. F. Dier. There was almost anything one could think of here; decorated glass tumblers, a doll in a pink knit outfit, fancy bridge favors, crocheted doilies, artificial roses, pin dish cloths, a pretty outfit for a doll in blue coat with matching beret; also a three-piece set of skirt, coat and slacks; lapel pins, knit dusters, a number of pot holders, a lovely knitted and lovely handkerchiefs with tatted and crocheted edges in pink, blue, white, pink and yellow.

The linens drew a large number of purchasers with the dainty towels; embroidered pillow and lace-edged pillowslips; tea cloths, luncheon cloths, bath towels in all shades; one was in pink with white lace edging, and yellow towels with yellow edges. These were conveyed by Mrs. F. Shane and Mrs. G. Stanton, assisted by Mesdames W. Cowles, R. Pettifer, J. Irvine, M. Graham, R. Brickman and R. Clarke.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

The tea room were filled to overflowing with many guests who were enjoying a tete-a-tete with friends, as well as the dainty sandwiches and the little one-bite cakes. Both tea tables were prettily appointed alike, with lace cloths, centred by a candy cane sleigh filled with white 'mums, red carnations and mignon with sprays of glossy pine, interspersed here and there with golden bells, and gleaming crimson little globes. Tri-branched candelabra flanked the centrepiece, holding aloft tall candles in red, white and green, bearing out the Christmas motif.

Those receiving in the tea room were: Mesdames W. Ramsbury, R. H. Varcoe, H. R. Moorman and L. Wannamaker. Those who poured tea: Mesdames W. B. May, R. R. Moorman, L. Wannamaker, A. D. Archibald, H. R. Varcoe, W. Embury, R. B. McCulloch and M. F. Duff. Replenishing the plates. Mesdames A. Bell, S. McGuire, S. I. Joss, C. Mott, E. Mossman, R. McBride, R. Irwin and Miss V. Grose. Making tea: Mrs. C. H. McBride and Mrs. W. Wonnacott.

SERVING

Those who served included: Mesdames L. Andrews, E. W. Boulton, N. Hallam, M. M. Hackett, G. Hall, C. Hogle, L. Wambolt, G. A. Stewart, F. Nelson, A. Weese, M. Smith, J. Buchanan, J. Cornell, A. Thompson, D. MacLean, E. Barlow, I. Wainman, R. Clark, B. D. Salisbury, B. McCann, G. Fenn, Misses Helen Miller, Lillian Spracklen, Hazel Thompson, Jane Smyth, Jean Poste, Shirley Badgley and Evelyn Thrasher.

The conveners of the tea room were Mrs. C. Mott and Mrs. S. I. Joss. The treasurer was Mrs. E. A. Greenleaf.

Besides the various booths there was also a nursery in charge of Mrs. M. McClelland, assisted by Mrs. W. Jewell, Mrs. J. Babiak, Mrs. M. Gariepy and Mrs. F. Bovay. Here the little ones were parked during the time the mothers were busy shopping and having tea.

CHECK ROOM

Another innovation was the making of a check room, where coats and furs and oddments might be left during the bazaar. This room was in charge of Miss Ethel Horton, with Mrs. A. D. Archibald and Mrs. E. Grills as her assistants.

Mrs. F. Davidson, as convener; Mrs. W. Dougherty and Mrs. E. Cornish as co-conveners of the bazaar and tea are tendered appreciative thanks for the splendid arrangements, and the successful conclusion of one of the finest bazaars of the season, also to the decorating committee, under the sponsorship of the Explorers Companions Club, Mr. and Mrs. R. McCulloch, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mulvey, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Andrews for their artistic and delightful taste.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lionel Barrymore's $25,000 estate will go to 40-year-old Miss Florence Ornelle Wheeler, his nurse for many years. The veteran actor, who died Nov. 15 at the age of 76, named Miss Wheeler as his sole beneficiary. His will, filed for probate Wednesday, specified that anyone succeeding in establishing claim to the estate should receive no more than $1.

OPEN LIBRARY

OSHAWA (CP)—A new $450,000 public library gift from Col. R. S. McLaughlin, founder of General Motors, was opened Wednesday by Premier Frost. Col. McLaughlin provided the money for the building after a plebiscite to raise it failed several years ago.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

INITIATIVE AND INDEPENDENCE MAY SOLVE THIS PROBLEM

Mrs. W. has been married for eight years to a second husband. And she couldn't be more unhappy.

"We never can talk anything over together," she writes. "If I even try to, he will flare up in a rage.

"Another problem is that he pays practically no attention to me either at home or ourselves or when others are present. He is very affectionate with any dog or cat, always petting or talking to them, but never an encouraging word to me. If he would only give me a few kind words, or just a pat on the shoulder once in awhile, but he never does, not even a kiss or a goodnight at bedtime. I would gladly work my fingers to the bone for him if I felt that I might have a home but I don't believe some way of keeping my worries or my mind.

"I don't have any children or happiness in life. What am I to do?"

Now when a wife is neglected by her husband as this one is, she has a choice of two things to do. One is destructive, the other constructive. Unfortunately, many women choose of them, perhaps—are apt to do the destructive thing purely because it is the easiest, while the constructive thing requires initiative and courage.

I am very much afraid that this wife is one who employs the destructive measure, which is to stick around home, overwhelmed by self-pity, telling herself over and over what a miserable husband she has, how unfaithful it is to be neglected, and asking herself hopelessly what she can do about it. So she does her housework, bemoaning her misery and waiting for the solution of the problem to come to her, whereas the thing to do is to get up and go out after the solution.

It is true that this particular wife has taken one step toward trying to find a solution by going outside her home. But unless she has developed something really interesting, something that will capture her imagination and her attention so that she will not only have more cheerful things to think about but will also have something of interest to talk about at home, I'm afraid it will not get very far toward improving the situation. For if, merely to get out of the house, she has taken on some dull, routine work that requires so little mental effort that her mind is free to brood over her troubles all the time she is working, all she will accomplish is to add fatigue to her worries.

On the other hand, if she can find something to do that will demand some creative thinking from her, her thoughts will automatically get out of their present groove and into a new one, while she is working at least. Then, even though she finds the old worries waiting for her when she gets home, her mind will be fresher, somewhat rested, so that they will not be quite so hard to bear.

It is very important, though, that in addition to her job, she take on some recreational activities that will also give her new things to think about and new friends to enjoy.

The whole point is, that if she will put a program like this into effect, she will accomplish at least one definite thing: possibly two. First, her burdens will not seem quite so overwhelming because they will not be the center of her life any longer. And second, if she shows her husband she is a woman of initiative, independence and self-respect, instead of one who thinks about nothing but how badly she is treated, it may surprise him into a new respect for her which could go far toward solving the problem.

Srd Hillier

THIRD HILLIER — Mrs. Wm. Wright entertained the Hillier Institute at her home on Friday evening. The Christmas meeting was planned, the meeting to be held in Hillier Town Hall, when gifts for the Children's Aid of Picton will be given.

Mrs. Lloyd Halladay, and son, of Elgin, Mr. Ben Halladay and Master Wayne Halladay spent the week-end with Mrs. Halladay's sister, Mrs. Chas. Berwyn of Hillier and Mrs. Arthur Tucker and Mr. Tucker of Gardenville.

The members of Christ Church, Hillier, are meeting on Monday evening to discuss a new furnace for the Rectory at Wellington along with the Wellington church members.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Counyne and Marilyn of Cold Creek, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Benway.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lloyd and boys of Cold Creek, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Benway.

Getting Steam Up For Christmas Pudding

By Mary Moore

Twenty-three days from now you may be serving John the steamed puddings you make from today's recipes.

Does it scare you a little to think of all the jobs you have to work your way through, the shopping you have to do, the decisions you have to make in that short time? To say nothing of where the money for all of these activities is coming from!

To ease you into the steamed pudding cycle gently and inexpensively I'll give you a first rate simple carrot pudding with a few variations that is a general favorite. The other two recipes are a little more elaborate and traditional, for the meals when you are letting everything go.

SIMPLE CARROT PUDDING

One cup each grated or shredded raw carrot and potato, brown sugar, unsifted flour, seeded or seedless raisins, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk. As soon as the potatoes are grated add the soda to them and mix into the grated carrots. Add together the flour, salt and soda and mix the raisins through them. Combine with all remaining ingredients. Pour into buttered or greased pudding bowl, cover tightly and steam 3 1-2 hours.

NOTE:

Variations are: (1) Use granulated sugar instead of brown. (2) Add 1 cup ground apple and 1-2 cup melted shortening and 1 teaspoon more flour and lessen out the milk. (3) 1-4 cup chopped or sliced citron is a favorite addition. (4) Spices such as 1-4 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger may be added. This is at its best when served with Hard Sauce. (see below).

WHITE PLUM PUDDING (This is tops.)

If you are a plum pudding expert you will be very glad to add this to your file.

Two cups stirred but not sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1-2 cup best quality shortening, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs slightly beaten, 3-4 cup chopped seeded or unchopped light Sultana raisins, 1-4 cup mixed sliced red and green glace cherries, 1-4 cup wafer thin sliced citron, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt, and cut the shortening, which should be soft, into it, then stir in the eggs and milk until batter is smooth. Stir in fruits. Pour into greased mold or molds, cover tightly and steam 3 hours.

NOTE:

This pudding must be served with Hard Sauce. It is very short on sugar on purpose. If desired raisins may be increased to 1 cup and cherries left out or reduced to 1-2 cup and 1-4 cup shredded blanched almonds added.

RICH PLUM PUDDING (With suet.)

Three medium-large molds. Three lbs. raisins—fully seeded, half seedless are preferable, 1-4 lb. each lemon and citron peel, 1-2 lb. each blanched almonds and glace cherries, 1 lb. finely chopped suet, 2 cups brown sugar, 4 cups fine stale breadcrumbs, 1-4 cup flour, 1-2 Teaspoon each salt, nutmeg, 1 Teaspoon each cinnamon and soda, 1-4 teaspoon cloves and allspice (each), 8 eggs, 1-2 cup fruit juice (apple, pineapple or grape), Sprinkle the raisins and peels with the flour. Sift baking soda and salt and spices with the sugar, and add breadcrumbs and suet and floured fruit and cherries and almonds. Mix well. Add beaten eggs and fruit juice and mix evenly. Pour into greased molds filling 2-3 full. Cover tightly and steam 4 hours.

HARD SAUCE

One-third cup butter, 1 cup icing sugar, 1-3 teaspoon lemon juice, 2-3 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter until fluffy, gradually cream in sugar, then flavorings. Spread on plate, score with fork, sprinkle with nutmeg, chill until hard. Serve on hot puddings. This may be shaped into rosettes through pastry tube.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

HELP AT THE "AWKWARD AGE"

Girls in their early teens who are victims of shyness and self-consciousness are always unhappy. It is largely because of this period's state that they move in an awkward manner. They don't know what to do with their hands and feet. They sprawl in chairs, kick up the rugs, walk with jerky quick, steps.

Then change that every eye is upon them—and critical eyes at that. They compare themselves unfavorably with other girls, believing that their companions have prettier hair, nicer complexions, smarter clothes.

Adolescence is a trying period—trying also to parents who wonder how they can live with these strange young creatures. Mothers must be patient. If they will recall their own youthful days they may wonder how their families were able to endure them, with their queer mental quirks.

The wise mother will not only understand and be patient. She will also let the child know that she is loved dearly. There must never be a break in the bond between mother and child. That is a real tragedy. And it is usually the fault of the mother if this bond is broken.

All children are sensitive. It is cruel to criticize them. If they are clumsy and awkward it is because they have not learned to be otherwise. They don't want to be that way.

Every effort should be made to make a little girl attractive in appearance because it means so much to her. She must not look different from other girls, however. And she should not be made to wear clothes she dislikes.

Dancing lessons are a help to self-conscious girls. In dance classes they are taught not only how to be graceful of movement but how to develop pleasing manners.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

LET'S ALL JOIN THE CRUSADE TO WRITE "CHRISTMAS" . . .

NEVER "XMAS"

Please write "Christmas" in your Christmas messages. Please don't buy a Christmas card with 'Xmas' printed or engraved on it . . . either on the cover or in the greeting.

It's good news that there is a flourishing crusade against the use of the abbreviation 'Xmas.' This fine crusade has been going on for the past several years, and you can notice that on the 1954 cards with 'Xmas' on them. Fewer greeting cards, fewer enclosure cards, fewer gift-tags, fewer wrapping-papers carrying the abbreviation. Good news indeed.

Most of the publishers of Christmas greeting cards have joined the crusade against using the abbreviation 'Xmas,' either in the design or in the message. Surely all of us . . . all who buy and all who sell . . . have time to give full honor to this good and great word . . . Christmas. The word is Christmas . . . the beautiful, the inspiring, the sacred word Christmas!

HOW TO ADDRESS CARD TO MINISTER AND WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I address a Christmas card to our minister and his wife? — Ruth L.

If the minister has no degree (D.D. for example), address the envelope to:

The Rev. and Mrs. John Goode

If the minister has a degree, address the envelope to:

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. John Goode

Note 3: It is also correct to address a military man's wife by this more formal form (and some people prefer this):

The Rev. John Goode and Mrs. Goode

or

The Rev. Dr. John Goode and Mrs. Goode

SHOULD SHE GIVE HIM A BIRTHDAY PRESENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boy friend's birthday—we are not going steady—is to be soon, and I would like to know if it would be proper for me to give him a birthday present. I think it would be, but my mother, my grandmother, and my aunt think it would not be proper. — J.

I have a very strong feeling that the reason your mother and your grandmother and your aunt advise you that it would not be proper for you to give this boy a birthday present is that he has never given you a present on the birthday or other occasion, and that it's not a good idea for you to be the one who inaugurates the present-giving. If a boy knows what's what, it doesn't take him to have a girl give him a present before he's made any present-giving move by her, and it certainly may embarrass him . . . particularly when Christmas and the question of present-giving are so near at hand. So you're right—one girl lady if you decide against this present-giving, and instead send this young man a good-looking and appropriate birthday card, or write him a friendly birthday note.

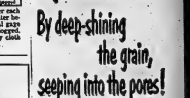
Girl Guides To Build Second Mexican Centre

TORONTO (CP)—The Girl Guide movement decided at a recent world conference to build a second international centre near Cuernavaca, Mexico, to be known as "Our Cabana."

First world centre, a chalet, was built in Switzerland in 1932. Here guides and girl scouts from all nations have taken training and enjoyed mountain climbing and winter sports.

The Mexican cabana is the first centre to be built in the western hemisphere and the Canadian Girl Guides Association plans to send representatives there.



Land has been purchased and construction will start soon.

Bethel Zion W. I. Has Monthly Meet

The November meeting of Bethel-Zion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Robson with an attendance of 18 members.

The president, Mrs. Marden Brough, opened the meeting with the Ode and all repeated the Mary Stewart collect.

It was decided to send a donation to the Hurricane Relief fund.

Mrs. Murney Simmons gave the motto followed by two solos by Mrs. Nelson Welsh of Moira. Mrs. R. Robson and Mrs. H. Beatty gave highlights of the Area convention. Mrs. Beatty gave a reading "Farm Wife". Mrs. Welsh then gave a demonstration on hand painting shine dishes. She also had on display a set of dishes and several other pieces which she had done herself.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Congratulations to Margaret Spencer and Denton Meikiejohn, who received their junior matriculation diplomas at the Stirling high school commencement on Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Finch entertained several young married couples to a card party on Saturday night. The following were among those invited: Mr. and Mrs. Melville Finch, Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Brian, Tommie and Kathy; Mr. and Mrs. Alf Atkins, Robbie and Carl; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reid, Ferne and David; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Meikiejohn; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Andrews, and Mr. and Mrs. Zomuind Ray of Campbellford.

Mrs. Gordon Meikiejohn and children visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gordon in Marmora on Sunday.

The Sunday School of Rylstone United Church will hold its annual supper and Christmas concert in the church this week.

Glenn Stewart and Glenn Anderson attended the Boys' Parliament in Batawa on Saturday night.

Mrs. Minnie Morton returned home on Monday from Brighton, where she spent the past few days with relatives.

West Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Wright entertained the members of the Endeavors class for the November meeting with Mrs. George Ashley offered prayer. Mr. Dan Cooke conducted the Scripture reading. Mr. Herb Rose brought the special address and as usual gave an inspiring message.

In the business period, it was decided to have the December meeting one week earlier on account of the Christmas entertainments.

Mr. George Ashley voiced the appreciation of the class for all those who helped with the program and to Mr. and Mrs. Wright for opening their home and to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright for preparing the program.

Following the benediction, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Floyd Sheffield and Mrs. Tob Emerson attended the funeral services for the late Robert McGee, of Madoc, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Strickland, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Millie Alexander, of Killiam, Albert, were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitchett.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Reid spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, of Odessa.

Mrs. Floyd Sheffield and Margaret were Sunday guests of Mrs. Fred Barlow, of Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McGee spent a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cooley, of Detroit, Michigan.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Fargey included: Mr. and Mrs. Willaim Brak and family, of Batawa, and Sarah and Arthur Wilson.

Mr. Jance McMechan, of Madoc, spent a few days recently at Mr. and Mrs. Melville Reid's and at Mr. and Mrs. Foster Wilson and Sarah and Arthur.

Rev. C. R. Chapman was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Safrin.

Mrs. William Bray left last week to spend the winter months with her daughters, Mrs. Morley Smith and Mrs. Kenneth Wright, of Belleville, and Mrs. (Dr.) Moran, of Buffalo, U.S.A.

The cottage prayer meetings are being well attended. The presence of the Fuller people is much appreciated. On Wednesday evening the meeting was held at Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wannamaker's home with Rev. Bob Johnston of Madoc, as guest speaker. Mrs. Johnston was also present and the duets contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston was much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fitchett and Marilyn were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Finkle of Stirling.

Mrs. Frank Hammond's many friends will be pleased to know she is gaining from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jeffery, of Belleville, were Thursday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Max Sarlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummell, of Massassaga.

Stirling

STIRLING — Several members of Stirling Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 220, spent Friday evening in Campbellford.

Mrs. Hugh Morton entertained over 50 relatives and friends to a birthday party in honor of her son-in-law, Mr. Grant Potter, local barber.

Mr. Ray Rose spent last week at Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott spent the week-end in Ottawa.

Mr. Sylvester Holden celebrated his 85th birthday anniversary on Saturday.

Misses John Good, Albert Wells and H. E. Cross, with several students, attended Queens-Western rugby game at Varsity Stadium, in Toronto.

PAY FOR THEMSELVES

MONTREAL (CP) — In less than six months the city has recovered half the cost of 903 parking meters delivered last May. Receipts from those actually installed reached $33,807.93—the odd cents being explained by the fact children sometimes put pennies in the slots.

MARMORA

C. W. L. Hears Reports, Enjoys Program

MARMORA. — The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Sacred Heart Parish hall on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. A. M. Jones welcomed the members and called upon Rev. Father Healey to recite the League prayer.

Mrs. Charles Brady was appointed convener of radio, film and television.

Mrs. J. H. English, treasurer, presented her report which showed a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. John Crawford and Mrs. William Foretell reported having made nine visits to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. William Monk and Mrs. Maurice Barlow were appointed to the visiting committee for December. The president thanked the ladies who had donated to the league booth at the parish bazaar also for the sale of tickets, the proceeds of which were most gratifying.

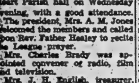
Mrs. Fred Lajoie turned in proceeds of a euchre party which she held in her home.

The president called on Rev. Father Healey to address the meeting. He thanked the ladies for their kindness and the efficiency shown at the bazaar. He also spoke on the Catholic Register drive. A program followed with Mrs. James Black acting as chairman. The numbers were: pianoforte solo by Mrs. J. A. Paquet; contest, "Johnny Jumbles Troubles," prize going to Mrs. James Allaire; reading "Case of the Missing Salads," Mrs. James Black; three hilarious numbers by Harmony Grease Spots quartet, Miss Mary Hughes, Mrs. Eugene Brady, Miss Eva Shannon and Mrs. Hugh Brady; reading "What to Get," Mrs. Hugh Brady; poem, "Souls," Mrs. James Black.

Refreshments were served by Group 3.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryan spent a few days recently in Lindsay.



Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walsh, Rochester, N.Y., to visit relatives and friends and while there will be present for the 20th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Phonse Farrell.

A large number from the community attended the shower in Read parish hall on Friday evening in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McAvoy. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Fahey are enjoying a new TV set.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughie McGuinness and Leon spent the week-end in Rochester, N.Y., attending the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Phonse Farrell.

ATTENTION VOTERS!

I would like to introduce myself to you. The Voter, I am Frank Huson, thirty years of age. A resident of Bellefonte and both and raised in Ottawa. My present occupation is that of real estate agent operating the business of F. E. Huson Real Estate Agency. My main interest other than my family and business is and has been for years the constructive welfare of the administration and planning of the city of Belleville. In the past three years I have attended City of Belleville council meetings. I think there is only some of our present council members and have acquainted myself very thoroughly with the methods of procedure used by these members.

First, I would like to bring to your attention the fact that $80,000 was thrown away by the very poor judgment of selling city lots in groups in direct competition each year, the city rather than holding and selling these lots properly, which would have been a great benefit to the citizens of this community as there is a very definite shortage of building lots available for homes. These lots sold for as low as $72.50 each and could have been sold for as high as $200.00 each. This land was turned over in a matter of weeks for a very great profit to the individuals concerned. This is a flagrant example or carelessness in the handling of the taxpayers' money.

Secondly, we will discuss the question on your ballots pertaining to the expenditure of $80,000 for a parking lot. Do you realize this will more than likely exceed $100,000? This question has already been passed by council without going to the public for a vote. Granted certain council members state the lot will pay for itself, but why spend this large amount of money when it is possible to establish parking facilities downtown without spending over $5,000. This amount would acquire a downtown parking lot. I would like to also point out that parking facilities could be arranged for without any expenditure if the council were willing to investigate this matter.

The third fact I would like to bring to your attention is the Arena Committee. City Council has given sufficient authority to the three members of this committee to spend $100,000 at their discretion. This committee has full authority to go ahead on this without consulting council or the citizens of Belleville. Granted the committee will tell you these monies will be paid back in arena profits, but one committee member who stated this also stated in his next sentence "the people of Belleville are not sports minded enough to back this expenditure" and advised against a public vote. This is controversial thinking and therefore is another indication of poor judgment.

The facts I have just discussed were pointed out to you for the very good reason of showing you just how the taxpayers' money is used. There is a total of $280,000 involved in these three items alone.

Your present council has spent over $50,000 on sidewalks and roads in the past year. It is now apparent that this work is defective and it will be necessary to make repairs in the immediate future. This would not have been necessary if council had checked into the work they originally authorized.

With a better-organized council, a council that definitely needs organizing and needs a greater amount of team work, I feel that these unnecessary expenditures could be alleviated and past mistakes not repeated.

My decision to run for alderman in this election was made because I feel that the city of Belleville has the possibilities of being one of the best cities in Canada. With a co-operative council working together with sound judgment and vision for the future, Belleville could be a well administered city, attractive to both new industries and to residents seeking a new home site. If I am elected I will endeavor to uphold the best interest of this city and to work in harmony with other council members in a united city council, aiming at the betterment of Belleville.

If after reading this letter, you feel you would like me to represent you in council in making as many improvements as I possibly can, then I would appreciate your vote.

Herbert Leavitt Celebrates 92nd Anniversary

MOUNTAIN VIEW.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Joyce was a scene of a happy gathering, when friends and near relatives joined in celebrating the 92nd birthday of Mr. Herbert Leavitt.

Mr. Leavitt has lived his entire life in Prince Edward County. He resides at present with Mrs. Joyce, his youngest daughter, at Mountain View.

Sheppard Defence Suggests Woman Was Assailant

By RELMAN MORIN

CLEVELAND (AP) — A courtroom still echoing with pretty Susan Hayes' story of her illicit love affair with Dr. Samuel Sheppard availed another vital step today in his murder trial—the legal decision that could free him immediately.

His lawyers moved late Wednesday for dismissal of the charge that Sheppard killed his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

Judge Edward Blythin said he would weigh the arguments over the defence motion and deliver his decision today. If he concluded that the state had failed to prove its case, he could direct the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty."

Otherwise, the prosecution having finished presenting evidence, Sheppard's defence would start to take shape.

ONE SUGGESTION

A startling suggestion already has appeared in this connection that whoever attacked the 31-year-old matron intended not to kill her but to disfigure her.

And the defence has implied that a woman may be involved in the savage beating that took Mrs. Sheppard's life.

This mystifying thesis emerged in points emphasized by defence lawyers as they called for a directed verdict of innocence. They insisted:

1. That the state must explain a fleck of fingernail polish.

IN SCRAPINGS

It was found in microscopic examination of scrapings from under Marilyn Sheppard's fingernails. She was not wearing any polish on her fingers the night of the murder. Her toenails were examined, but the particle found in the laboratory was not of that polish.

2. That she died from blood in her lungs, not from the blows on her head.

Defence counsel William J. Corrigan, his voice rising with emphasis, said the vital areas of her skull were not fractured. He contended that "this seems to indicate a disfigurement was intended."

3. That she may have been struck only a few times, even though 35 wounds were counted on her head and face.

The defence indicated it believes a garden rake may have been the instrument.

TITO ON MISSION

LONDON (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia sailed from the Adriatic port of Rijeka today on a good-will mission to India and Burma, Belgrade radio announced. The broadcast heard here said "tens of thousands" of persons gathered on the quay to see Tito off.

Three Indicted

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—A grand jury Wednesday indicted three persons at the Northeastern federal penitentiary at Lewisburg on a general charge of murder in the fatal beating of William W. Remington, former government economist on Nov. 22.

Remington also was a prisoner at the penitentiary at the time, serving a sentence for perjury in denying he passed government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

At 'Balmy' Fort Churchill, Where It Is Only Five Below, Army and RCAF Prepare Test

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—More than 900 officers and men of the Canadian army and air force have moved in on this sub-Arctic military post to test fighting man and his equipment against the winter elements.

Exercise Bulldog II on the shores of Hudson bay, 30 miles from this joint services post, will bring Western Army Command and No. 1 tactical air command together in an eight-day scheme.

The exercise has been planned on the theory that an enemy force is landed in the sub-Arctic. The army and RCAF will be required to launch an airborne assault to reduce the "enemy" lodgement, using Edmonton as the main base for operations and Fort Churchill as an advanced base.

VAN DOOS ARE "ENEMY"

Wednesday, a company of 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, moved to the exercise area from Fort Churchill to play the role of the "enemy."

The 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, at Calgary, Ont., with airborne support elements such as artillery, signals, medical and army service corps, will form the assault force. Canadian Rangers in this area will also participate.

No. 1 Tactical Air Command, RCAF, based at Churchill, will control transport, reconnaissance, administrative and medical evacuation aircraft. Two RCAF transport squadrons, flying C-119 Packets will take part. They are 435 Squadron, based at Edmonton and 436 Squadron, based at Dorval, Que.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding, Western Command, and Air Commodore Sheldon W. Coleman, air officer commanding No. 1 Tactical Air Command, will have over-all control of the exercise.

Buildings have been erected to simulate a northern weather station, which will be put off the air Friday to indicate the "enemy" landing.

To create the realism and difficulties of northern operations all personnel, weapons, equipment and supplies of the attacking force will be parachuted into battle.

Weather will be the important factor. This week Fort Churchill has been "toasting" in five-below weather and light winds, but the situation could change overnight.

A corps of newspaper, radio and television men flew into Churchill Wednesday to cover the scheme.

Better Base Produced

OTTAWA (CP)—The army announced Wednesday that after five years of research, a lighter, cheaper and more durable base plate for firing mortars has been produced.

The new, 25-pound circular base plate is made of high-grade aluminum alloy and can be produced for $65, about half the cost of the steel plate now in use.

The army said the old 40-pound steel base plate had a tendency to crack or break with rough or prolonged treatment.

Mother, Young Son Killed,

TORONTO (CP)—A 19-year-old mother and her young son were killed Wednesday night when struck by a car as she pushed the child in a stroller along a suburban Etobicoke highway.

Police said Mrs. Saunders was walking along the dimly-lit highway when struck by a car as it attempted to pass another vehicle.

Officers said the driver, Jack Oudenkirk, 18, of Etobicoke, told them he did not see the victims until it was too late to stop.

Moscow to Move More People To Soviet Farms Next Year

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Another massive effort for 1955, to move more people to Soviet farms to raise enough food for the growing population, is forecast in the Moscow press.

This is to be the second big push. And this time, it is indicated, a real effort will be made to weed out surplus employees in overstaffed government ministries.

They will be sent out to do their bit on the virgin lands, state farms and machine tractor stations.

The ministry of health is the first big government agency to announce that it is going to cut off excess personnel and offer those who are to be discharged some nice patriotic jobs on the farm front—and with financial inducements, too.

The problem in the Soviet Union is: How you gonna get 'em down on the farm in Siberia after they've lolled behind a desk in Moscow?

That is the job of Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party.

Khrushchev kicked off the first of his multiple farm drives in September, 1953. On this occasion he and the party's central committee admitted that the Soviet Union's livestock population was in many respects below Czarist times. He ordered an immediate stepup and told the peasants to stop chatting in their livestock quarters.

Then Khrushchev tackled the problem of declining grain production, chiefly with the idea of expanding acreage by plowing up fallow lands in Siberia and central Asia—some 35,000,000 acres in two years. That takes a lot of people but the Soviet government said it found a lot of volunteers for the job. The country was able to report a slight increase in grain production but still fell short of the goals in livestock raising.

Now the leaders want to open more acreage, with more people.

Awarded $9,291 In Judgment

WELLAND (CP) — Harold B. Lutz of St. Catharines Wednesday was awarded $9,291 in a suit against the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund of Ontario.

Mr. Lutz brought the action in Supreme Court after an accident last December. He said he was walking on the Queen Elizabeth way when a car without lights struck him from behind and drove off. He suffered fractures to his pelvis and legs.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan made the award.

Turkey's Premier Says Country Will Be Better

ESKISEHIR, Turkey (AP)—Prime Minister Adnan Menderes says Turkey will overcome current shortages and become a land of plenty in two or three years.

Four sugar refineries have been built in the last two years and four more are under construction, Menderes reported, with the result recent sugar shortages should not happen again. He believes Turkey will be a sugar exporter by 1956.

The prime minister cited these other developments:

Seven of Turkey's ports are being reconstructed.

Seven great dams are being built and various power plants are being erected. Irrigation works are also being advanced.

New processing plants for meat, fish, wheat, macaroni and canned goods are being constructed.

Cement production has jumped from 300,000 tons annually in 1950 to 1,000,000 today. By 1956 capacity will be 2,500,000 tons.

The textile industry will have 1,000,000 spindles in 1955, compared to 250,000 in 1950.

Menderes wound up his over-all survey with a tribute to the United States for more than $1,000,000,000 in economic and military assistance in recent years.

GORE

90th Birthday Honored By Community

THE GORE — Victoria Church was the scene of a happy gathering on Tuesday evening when the community met en masse to honor Mr. Herbert Dempsey, on the occasion of his 90th birthday.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend, as master of ceremonies, led the gathering in a lively sing-song and several contests which all enjoyed. A humorous reading was given by Miss Margaret Montgomery, and musical numbers by Mrs. Edwin Carmike, Mrs. Mac Hobbs and Mrs. C. Calnan.

All were then invited to the church dining hall where Mr. Dempsey was seated in front of a beautiful birthday cake. Mrs. Calnan read an address of appreciation of Mr. Dempsey's exemplary life in the community through the years and extended to him the community's best for the remainder of his life's journey, whether it be long or short.

Mr. Brickman and Mr. Vanclief presented the gifts — a sweater, pair of slippers and socks.

Mr. Dempsey, who, until he saw the birthday cake, hadn't suspected the nature of the gathering, tastingly replied. He disclaimed any worthiness of such honor and reminisced briefly about earlier days at Victoria.

All joined in singing "Happy Birthday," after which refreshments were served.

Seated with Mr. Dempsey were his son, Morley, with whom he resides; his only grandchild, Betty, Mrs. Bryan Cronk, of Wellington; Mr. Cronk and their little daughter, Beverly Alice, making four generations.

Mr. Dempsey is blessed with good health, a keen mind and wonderful retentive memory and all trust he may be spared for some time still as an inspiration to others.

A delegation from the township Conservative Association waited on Mr. Dempsey at his home and also made a presentation.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — A beautiful Sunday morning brought out fair congregations in Thomasburg to early morning services in both churches. Sunday School following the United Church service had an attendance of 64. Preparations are being made for the Christmas concert.

The bazaar and pie social on Wednesday evening in the hall was quite a success. Sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the United Church they were gratified by the response of the community to their effort. The Ontario Dept. of Lands and Forests, Tweed, added much to the evening's entertainment with their colored pictures on conservation and wild life of Ontario.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. W. Morton, Thomasburg, were sorry to hear of his having suffered another stroke early on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Ed. Thompson, who visited friends in Belleville last week returned home on Sunday.

Mrs. L. Mumby and infant son were discharged from hospital on Sunday. Mrs. Mumby is staying for a few days with her parents in Thomasburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kimmerly of Smoky Hill, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Morton and boys visited with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jones in Trenton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Morton and Janet were Thomasburg visitors on Sunday.

Canadian Legion Holds Banquet At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (Special)— One of the most successful banquets was held by Branch 109 of the Canadian Legion last week, when more than 160 persons attended a dinner in memory of comrades who fell during the war.

Guest speaker for the occasion was "Scotty" Broughton, of Brighton, who brought greetings from 48 other branches in district F. He complimented the branch for their thoughtfulness in honoring the Silver Cross women at their annual banquet. The silver cross mothers and wives were guests of honor at the head table. The zone commander also complimented the club and the entire district for their efforts in bringing in new members. Membership in the 48 branches in the district has increased by 1000 during the past year, he said.

The speaker outlined the three aspects of the Canadian Legion. These are remembrance, service and tradition. He said that the Canadian veterans are the most fortunate of any. The Canadian Legion, through the efforts of the Legion, had provided more benefits far ahead of any other country, for its veterans, he said. He also lauded the Legion scholarship fund, a scheme whereby the children of veterans are provided with university education, through a special fund set up for this purpose, and contributed to by all branches. Last year this fund provided 99 scholarships valued at $300 each, and five scholarships valued at $400 each, to children of veterans. The fund is mainly maintained thru' the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion branches.

Mayor Ralph J. Locke proposed a toast to the silver cross ladies, to which Mrs. Douglas Robertson replied.

A singsong was led by Ed. White and a number of recitations were given by entertainer George Fountain of Belleville.

Northport

NORTHPORT — Mr. Gilbert Haigh returned to his home on Sunday after being a patient in Belleville hospital for five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pulver, of Whitby, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Firman Pulver.

Major Cause of Oil Burner Service Calls Now Eliminated

Clogged filter screens have long been recognized as a major cause of oil burner shutdowns. Shell scientists spent 18 years looking for an anti-clogging ingredient. The answer: FOA-5X.

FOA-5X cleans as it heats. It keeps the filter screen in your oil burner clean during the heating season, eliminates a major cause of service calls, gives more efficient heat, and saves you money on fuel.

Call us today. We'll make all the arrangements.

MADOC JCT. — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges, Thomas and Paul, motored to Oshawa on Saturday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bridges and Bruce.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart, of Lakefield, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harlow on Saturday.

Mrs. Carl Bridges, Mrs. Warren Harlow and Mrs. Maurice Clancy called last Tuesday afternoon on Archie Madill, who is a patient in Belleville hospital.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Burton Coulter, of Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. B. Sharpe, Mount Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clare, of Foxboro.

50th ANNIVERSARY

A good number of relatives and friends from this community called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sarles on Sunday when they were at home to their friends and relatives on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarles were the recipients of many lovely gifts, baskets of golden and bronze chrysanthemums, and numerous messages of congratulations and best wishes.

Relatives and friends were present from Peterborough, Whitby, Trenton, Belleville, Madoc, West Huntingdon, Moira, Halloway, Picton, Foxboro and Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke, Annamae and Robert visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith on Friday evening.

Mr. Clarence Fitchett attended the meeting of Belleville Presbytery which was held on Wednesday in Grace United Church, Trenton.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke for dinner on Sunday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Murray Morgan, Ruth and Roscoe, of West Huntingdon; Mr. William Petherick of Petherick's and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ashley and Sandra of Batawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Valerie and Ronald, of Peterborough, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith.

Students from this community: Donna Staples, Thomas Bridges and Gordon Madill, received their intermediate certificates at the Stirling High School commencement exercises held in the Stirling theatre on Wednesday night. Friends here extend congratulations to Thomas Bridges, who received the first value Scholarship in Grade X and to Grace Clarke who received a proficiency prize in Grade IX music.

The deer hunters have returned home after a successful hunting season.

CAMPBELLFORD

Temple Filled To Hear Speeches By Candidates

CAMPBELLFORD — The Masonic Temple here was well filled on Monday evening when annual nominations were held for the town of Campbellford. Town clerk J. F. McGregor closed nominations at 8.30 p.m. and announced the following names for the various offices:

For Mayor: Mayor R. J. Locke, F. M. Rutherford, G. H. Free, and Wm. R. Nicholas.

Public Utilities Commission (two to be elected for a two year term): A. C. Newman, Howard Heagle and R. J. McGregor.

For Council (six to be elected): F. S. Linton, Geo. Vice, Wm. R. Nicholas, Isobel Tatham, Geo. Nicholls, W. A. Kingston, Wm. Masterson, G. I. Blair, F. M. Rutherford, F. H. Macmillan.

For Public School trustee (four to be elected for a two-year term): H. L. Macmillan, S. Hopping, Harold E. Crydeman, Forrest R. Dennis, Wm. C. Tatham, Ken Hazell and John P. Caswell.

Following the posting of nominations with the clerk, Mr. McGregor announced that the meeting would be adjourned until December 6, at which time the election would be held.

A public meeting was held and Clerk J. F. McGregor was chosen as chairman of the meeting.

OUTLINE YEAR'S WORK

First to speak was Mayor R. J. Locke, who has served as mayor for the past two years. He spoke mainly on the town's efforts to attract new industry, and told methods employed by council to do so. He praised the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce along this line, and thanked them for their support, co-operation and financial assistance. Mr. Locke told the gathering of the town's industrial canning. Mr. Alex. P. Wales, of London, England, who has been retained by the town as a retainer of only $600 per year, to secure new industry. Mr. Wales works exclusively for the town of Campbellford as far as industry is concerned.

Reeve D. R. Maybee outlined the amount of road repair and maintenance that had been accomplished during the past year, and described the sidewalk installations ward by ward and street by street.

Councillor W. A. Kingston described the situations that exist under equalized assessment program, and explained the effect it should have on the tax rate.

A. J. Meyers, chairman of the public utilities commission, said 1954 had been eventful and trying year for the commission.

STIRLING

200 Attend Holstein Breeders' Banquet

STIRLING — Two hundred people attended the annual banquet of Hastings County Holstein Breeders at Carmel Hall, in Thurlow township, on Thursday evening.

A large number of Holstein Breeders from Sheridon and Sidney townships attended this event.

Mr. Charles Treverton, president of the Hasting's Holstein Breeders Club, chaired the meeting and Frankford male quartet furnished special numbers.

Pean trip and gave a travelogue

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, introduced two people seated at the head table and during the evening brief addresses were given by Mr. C. E. Nelson, Port Perry, to Holstein Fieldman; and Mr. A. J. Tamblyn, Orono, Salesman for the Holstein Breeders club.

Mr. James Rowan, Newcastle, director of the Ontario Holstein Breeders' Association, voiced greetings from the parent organization.

Mr. J. Allen Francis, assistant agricultural representative for the county introduced the special guest, Mr. W. B. George, head of the chemistry and soils division of the Kemptville Agricultural College.

Mr. George is serving his third

He thanked the P.U.C. employees and the HEPC for their co-operation during trying times.

Mr. Meyers explained that the town at present is at times unable to supply the peak demands for power, and must secure power from outside sources during these periods. At present, and for the past two years, no contract has been in effect between the town and the HEPC. He said he hoped that in the near future a contract to the mutual benefit of the HEPC and the town would be signed.

He claimed that the town could actually have saved money during the past year, if such a contract existed.

Mr. Meyers explained that the only place from which power could be purchased was from the HEPC.

The PUC spent about $9,000 for power during three months this summer while much needed repairs were being made to the large generator, which went out 1,800 hp. While this was being repaired, a great deal of work was also done on the pit machinery at the plant. This is now back in operation, and carried the town over a crucial period immediately following the wrath of Hurricane Hazel, which burned out one generator at the plant a few weeks ago.

Other nominees spoke briefly. Candidates had until 9 p.m. on Tuesday to qualify for election.

STIRLING

River Valley W.I. Holds Euchre Party

STIRLING—The second euchre party of River Valley Women's Institute was held at the school house on Friday evening with guests in attendance from Uniondale W.I., Ridge Road and Stirling.

There were seven tables in play and the four prizes were provided by R.V.W.I. Ladies' high, Mrs. Elva Heasman; low, Mrs. Ada Bush; men's high, George Striker, R.R. 2, Belleville; low, George Heasman.

A turkey has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kent, River Valley, and tickets are being sold.

There will be three card parties at the school house on the first three Friday evenings of December, with the draw for the turkey.

Miss Faye Irvin, home economist, was guest speaker at the River Valley 4-H Sewing club held at the school house on Wednesday evening. The home economist demonstrated with the use of flannelgraphs, a great deal of interesting tips on wardrobe charts, colors and patterns. The girls will complete at the school on the Christmas holiday to begin their blouse project.

Mr. Morley Ayrhart has returned home from Kingston hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Boyce visited Mr. and Mrs. James Drummond, Downsview, over the week-end.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker spent a few days with Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Walker at Hamilton.

15 years of living and working in this community, most of which time I have been active in education, recreation, as well as taking a deep interest in conservation and Chamber of Commerce activities — all aimed at doing my bit in the development of Belleville and surrounding area as a fine place for industry to locate and prosper and for business and agriculture to expand.

December 1, 1954 a.m.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am informed that my opponents are much concerned regarding the budget meeting of council in December 1953 — a meeting called to approve the tax level for 1954. This meeting I did not attend and, in fact, I advised the mayor by letter that I would not attend.

Elections are held, as you are aware, in the month of December for the following year and the inaugural meeting of the new council is held the first Monday in January, therefore I was only mayor elect until inaugurated in January, 1954.

At that time I made enquiries of reliable sources if it were the procedure for the council of 1953 to set the tax rate for the council of 1954, and was informed that this procedure had never been followed in the time that my informants acted as mayor and others who had served this city as aldermen. Therefore in consideration of the new aldermen and myself I was not prepared to accept this new procedure without checking certain departmental estimates with the council of 1954.

After investigation and rechecking the estimates they were revised so that your tax rate remained at 41 mills. This rate could have been reduced but your council decided that street oiling should be placed in the general rate. The street oiling for 1954 amounted to $25,600.00, this expense was formerly assessed to property owners as a local improvement or extra tax.

You will understand that, as one mill on Belleville assessment means approximately $19,000.00, the amount of $23,600.00 is the equivalent of approximately 1½ mills which was absorbed in the general rate. Therefore if the procedure of assessment as followed in 1953 had been maintained in 1954, the rate would have been approximately 39½ mills.

These ladies and gentlemen, answers the question which my opponents would like to make a serious issue of, to shadow the real issues and to distract your attention from accomplishments gained by mature consideration.

As I have indicated, we have stemmed the rising tide of taxation in 1954. It will require the same efficient leadership to hold the line of taxation for 1955. To secure new industry is of prime importance to Belleville, and to do that we must present a balanced budget and an attractive tax rate, to prove the city's stability to prospective industries.

New industrial activity means more jobs, more payrolls, more homes, greater assessment and ultimately lower taxes. We cannot waste dollars of the tax payers' money. I believe it is important that the mayor of this city should be experienced in business administration and public works construction.

I make but one promise to the voters of Belleville and that is to guarantee, if elected, economical operations consistent with progress and a square deal to everybody. I believe I have endeavored to accomplish for 1954 to your satisfaction.

RESPECTIVELY SOLICITING YOUR SUPPORT AND INFLUENCEENCE FOR OFFICE OF MAYOR, 1955. VOTE MAYOR JACK BOTH DECEMBER 6, FOR SOUND ADMINISTRATION.

Thank You.

JACK BOTH.

Steel Upswing Continuing

NEW YORK (AP)—The upswing in the American steel market continues to surpass all predictions, Iron Age, the national metal-working weekly, says.

Operations this week scheduled at 81 per cent of rated capacity, up a point from last week and another high for the year.

Fast as production is gaining, it still is not keeping step with the hot pace of new orders, the weekly adds. Despite careful screening of orders by the mills, the new orders are being taken so fast that delivery promises are being exceeded on nearly all products.

Some automobile manufacturers have started placing orders beyond the normal lead time, or time between the placing of an order and its delivery, Iron Age says, calling this an important new development.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

COMETS TOMORROW

Uneasy is the head that wears a crown, so some blokes wrote years ago, and that applies to this senior "B" group. The Cornwall Colts are still hanging to the top rung by the merest margin and last night a new threat loomed up to give them the heave-ho. Kingston Goodyears whumped the strong Whitby "Wrens" by an 8-4 count right in the Colts. Clinton is in third spot with 16 while our side brings up fourth position with 14. And that means, mesdames et meadames, that the Memos must go all out here tomorrow night to de-tail the flashing Comets. A win for the American club will vault them into top slot with the Colts. Brockville, meanwhile, visits the unlucky Petes.

The Memos, we understand, will be at full strength, or nearly so for this important battle. The last time the clubs met here the game ended in an overtime seven-all tie. The Memos defeated the Comets 6-1 in Clinton, N.Y., in the initial clash of the teams. The Comets have won seven, lost three and tied two, a neat record in a league that can change its scenery overnight. A good crowd should be on hand as this fray looms up as being one of the best of the season.

NEAR RIOT!

They had a near-riot up Peterborough way the other night after the referees had handed out two penalties in overtime to the Whitby-Bunnys Petes that allowed the Clinton Comets to rear in with the equaliser with just 35 seconds to go. In fact the local gendarmerie had to escort the arbiters to their dressing room when angry fans threatened to get out of hand.

Here's what Marse Perdue, Peterborough sports scrivener, said about the ruckus:

"After letting a lot of holding and interference go throughout a senior "B" game, refs shouldn't clamp down in the last two minutes of an overtime frame and hand out a couple of two-minute sentences to a team. That's what happened here last eve and it costs Petes a win. Clinton tying it up at 4-4 with seconds left to go. Players and fans were pretty riled up about it but police got the arbiters out safely as some of the customers threatened 'em."

We have never had the pleasure of seeing Messrs. Stan Bosler, or have we, and Feverеau operate here in a whistle-tooting capacity. On second thought we believe Marse Bosler looking capacity. On second thought we believe Marse Bosler did appear here once—and should have "stood in bed." However, Pal Perdue comments "after letting a lot of holding and interference go," etc." That is definitely a new brand of refereeing insofar as this senior "B" loop is concerned. In games played here, Kingston and other "B" spots the official shoes have been on the other foot. As has been mentioned in this column before, it seemed the whistlies have been instructed to blow themselves. An average of over 25 penalties per game in a series of forty clashes doesn't indicate the officials are letting too much slide.

However, Messrs Bosler and Feverеau may operate in another league where officials don't take any chance of developing lung cancer with too frequent air expulsion exercises. If our memory is correct this Mr. Bosler is one of those refs who drew the ire of other clubs in the 1953 senior "B" group when they worked games in Orillia.

If what pal Perdue said about letting holding and interference go is true—and we see no reason to doubt his word—Messrs' Bosler and Feverеau might find themselves "plucked" when Professor Pat Patterson of the exclusive Ontario Hockey Association College of Applied Arbitration marks the season's examination papers.

For after the blistering instructions given to students and graduates at a special pre-season meeting where Prof. Patterson stressed, pointed out and demanded in no uncertain terms that rough play must be stopped before it started, so to speak, it would seem any deviation from these instructions would mean demotion if not extermination.

This is the first instance brought to our notice of straying from the firm, straight line hewn by Prof. Patterson. Other members of the class, if their performances here and elsewhere along this senior "B" trail are criterions, have rightly overdone it. Not, it would seem, to incur favor with the "Ole Prof" but to show, by crackey, that they are true to the old school, in traditions and mainly to the professor and his tom-tom-out instructions.

As a matter of fact the sentences have been handed out down here like election give-aways. The record here is two in the opening 24 seconds which proves that the referees' pre-game whistle practice must have run late overtime—or the boys were scared fifth columnists in the pews might report a slackness of duty to the prof.

It seems, though, that Messrs. Bosler and Feverеau recalled their school instructions too late in the game. It was tough on the Petes when they were leading 4-3 and their second victory of the season looming up like Mount Vesuvius just 25 seconds away that the referees should suddenly remember that Overtime is here and 'tis far better to give than to receive. It seems a lot of the Pete fans felt the same way.

Since the above was written, we learn the heroic act of Marlеu Feverеau paid off. He has been appointed a linesman in the National Hockey League.

Columbus Team Goes to Omaha

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The American Association Wednesday unanimously granted St. Louis Cardinals permission to negotiate for transfer of its Columbus, Ohio franchise to Omaha, Neb., now in the Western League.

George Sisler, Columbus general manager, has been negotiating with the Western League, which is asking a reported $100,000 damages for loss of the Omaha territory. Cardinals own both the Columbus and Omaha franchises.

Ed Doherty, American Association president, said the negotiations were strictly between the Cardinals and the Western League.

Sisler said Cardinals had lost $400,000 in Columbus in the last two years. His term as general manager there.

Toronto Shellacks Boston 6-0 As Detroit Whips New York; Habs' Lead Cut to Five Points

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League is nearing the one-third mark of its 70-game grind with one big change. Detroit Red Wings have to work harder for wins these days.

For years the Wings spurted ahead of the other five clubs, and at this time of the year usually were five or six points ahead of the second-place outfit. Not any more.

The Detroiters had a soft time Wednesday night, however, as they whipped fourth-place Rangers 6-1 in New York and was the Red Wings' 13th victory in 22 games and left them in third place, as unfamiliar spot as the defending Stanley Cup champions.

LEAFS SWAMP BRUINS

Toronto Leafs, meanwhile, hung a 6-0 shellacking on Boston Bruins before 12,413 Toronto fans to maintain their one-point margin over Red Wings.

The Leafs and Wings picked up a bit of ground on the front-running Montreal Canadiens, idle Wednesday. Canadiens have 33 points, five more than Leafs.

Defenceman Red Kelly scored his 99th and 100th career goals breaking into the big time in 1947-48, and right winger Gordie Howe also tallied, twice, to lead Wings to victory.

POOR NIGHT

A small crowd of 8,562 New York fans had a miserable sheet anchor. Ranger goaltender Johnny Bower had one of his poorest nights and reporting Canadiens' Gerry Canuckt of the Western Hockey League two weeks ago, Bower, who was benched, he had allowed only seven goals in four engagements.

Vic Stasiuk and Marcel Bonin scored the other Detroit goals. Boots Raleigh in 1:11 of midway through the third period to deprive Terry Sawchuk of his seventh shutout of the season.

Gangling Eric Nesterenko, who has failed to find the standard predicted for him two years ago, showed the benefit of after-school coaching by King Clancy by scoring two goals against Boston.

It was Harry Lumley's third shutout and put him in front in the goals-against race for the Vezina Trophy he won last season. Big Harry has allowed only 28 goals in 23 games for an average of 1.65 goals a game. Detroit's Sawchuk is second with an average of 1.82.

Two games are scheduled tonight—Montreal at Detroit and Boston at Chicago.

Suggest Change In Professional Football Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—The day may be fast approaching, George Preston Marshall said Wednesday, when professional football players will no longer be allowed to get up and run after they have been tackled.

Marshall, outspoken president of Washington Redskins, said there is a move afoot to erase that rule from the National Football League books.

"Too many players are being injured because of it," he said.

The question came up during a discussion of the injury that sidelined Dale Atkeson. Washington's promising rookie fullback, for the rest of the season. Two of Atkeson's ribs were broken last Sunday when a Philadelphia Eagles player landed on him after he had been tackled.

MORE INJURIES

A "I think there have been more injuries this season than ever," Marshall said, "and most of them have come because players piled on another player who already had been tackled."

Marshall added this was the way the game had to be played, since a player now is allowed to get up and run until the whistle has been blown. Atkeson himself finished a 99-yard run earlier this season by scrambling to his feet after he had been tackled and going all the way.

Marshall and other club owners will make a pitch to revise this rule when the NFL holds its annual meeting next January. Ten of the 12 clubs must approve a rule change.

In Canada, football rules provide a 25-yard penalty for piling on but the player must be "fairly tackled" or have "ceased to advance" before the ball is considered dead.

Thus a player who is tackled but spins out of it, or falls to the ground can still advance the ball if the tackler hasn't got a good grip on him.

Just when a player is fairly held or ceases to advance is up to the official's to decide.

Barrie Edges Hamilton 3-2 In Junior Fray

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers came from behind in overtime to defeat Hamilton Cubs 3-2 Wednesday night in an Ontario Junior A Hockey Association contest that saw Barrie coach Hamilton be a wide margin. Great goal-tending by Dennis Riggin held Barrie in check, Bob Barlow scored the winning goal at 19:37 of the overtime.

In the first period the Cubs went into the lead at the 16:05 mark. Barrie held a big edge in play but poor shooting and fine netminding by Riggin kept the Flyers off the score sheet.

In the second period Hamilton scored again as they caught Barrie in the middle of a player change. The Flyers came back strong and got their first goal from Lovelay. Barrie tied the game at the 18:05 mark as Stacey drove a high hard one from the point that had Riggin beaten all the way. The Flyers out shot the Cubs 51-19.

Giants Stronger, Says 'Lip' But 'Going Will Be Tougher'

HOUSTON (AP)—Leo Durocher refused to predict another pennant today but declared the New York Giants will be stronger in 1955 and hinted that Brooklyn and Milwaukee will have to be better if they are to prevent his world champions from repeating.

Interviewed after attending the minor league convention here, the dapper Giants manager conceded his job "might be a bit tougher if the Dodgers' Roy Campanella and the Braves' Bobby Thomson would not be around."

"I don't know whether we can win or not," Durocher said frankly. "I do know we have a good ball team. It may be even better than last year's. But it might be harder to win. It all depends on how much the Dodgers and Braves help themselves from now until the start of the season. You've also got to remember that every club shoots at the champ. That's the way it should be."

Durocher also conceded he could use another starting pitcher but added quickly his team was set and that he had made no attempt to make a deal here.

"Sure, we could use a top-flight pitcher like Roberts or Simmons or Erskine or Conley, but where are you going to get them?" he asked. "Besides, we may come up with a good fourth starter on our own club. Anyway, we're not in the position we were a year ago when we simply had to make a deal if we hoped to get out of the second division."

Calling Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez his "Mr. Left and Mr. Right," who would pitch every four days regardless of the opposition, Leo said he was counting on Sal Maglie, 37-year-old clutch pitcher, as a once-a-week starter. He also praised Paul Giel, the 560-pound bonus pitcher as a "good strong kid and a fine competitor with a lot of ability."

"Giel will do a lot of pitching in the spring," he said. "I'll give him every opportunity. I think he's got a real good chance to be a fine pitcher. As for Maglie, he'll start once a week—he'll open every series against Brooklyn, I've got to save him for those Dodgers."

Durocher said he was counting heavily on Monte Irvin making a comeback and predicted the big leftfielder would climb back into the .300 class again next year.

Durocher said his infield was set and called Hank Thompson not only the best third baseman in the National League but the most underrated in all baseball. He called Willie Mays, the sensational center fielder, "baseball's greatest player today."

Grey Cup Heads Big Parade As Edmonton Welcomes Eskys

EDMONTON (CP) — A happy band of husky young men rode two-by-two down Edmonton's main street Wednesday and the rest of the city went slightly mad.

Just to show them who couldn't believe their own television sets, the Edmonton Eskimos paraded to a triumph down Jasper avenue, preceded by the object of all the affection—the Grey Cup, silver symbol of Canadian football supremacy making its first appearance here.

Ticker tape and strips of paper for every purpose snowed down on the Eskis as they glided along the 18-block victory route, two to a convertible.

About 60,000 business men, housewives and schoolchildren enjoying a special half-holiday crowded every vantage point from street level to rooftop, roaring a welcome to the footballers, cheering and tossing an occasional friendly snowball at members of the seven bands which accompanied the parade.

The cup itself was shown off to the throng by Miss Eskimo, Ilse Leverent, warmly clad in white furs and sitting on a huge float with a court of other city beauties.

Also on the march were mayorettes, cheerleaders and footballers from Edmonton high schools and representatives of various sporting groups, stepping out briskly to combat the nippy 20-degree weather.

The players later attended a civic banquet in their honor at which Alberta's Lieutenant - Governor Bowlen, Premier Manning and other dignitaries added their praises.

Quote of the night was from Henry Singer, Eskimos' second vice-president, at the civic dinner. He congratulated coach Frank (Pop) Ivy as "the only coach in the West to win the Grey Cup and still have his job four days later."

Norkus Spoils LaStarza's Plans With Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—Free-swinging Charlie Norkus dealt a punishing blow to the comeback plans of Roland LaStarza of New York Wednesday night by winning a unanimous 10-round decision from the big Negro contender in a heavyweight contender.

The televised bout saw the willing slugger from Port Washington, N.Y., carry the battle to La Starza most of the way in a slow-moving contest. He climaxed his attack in the final round with a sizzling roundhouse left to the head that had La Starza reeling in a clinch when the gong sounded.

In another featured bout on the Cleveland News' 29th annual Thrillshop fund boxing show, Cleveland's Rocky Castellani, the No. 3 middleweight contender, sent outclassed Moses Ward of Detroit crashing to the canvas four times before finally scoring a technical knockout in 2:30 of the eighth round. Castellani weighed 165, Ward, 160.

The heavyweight victory was the 30th for Norkus, against 12 defeats. He had a 2½-pound weight advantage on La Starza who fought at 190.

While it was only La Starza's sixth defeat against 53 victories, the loss hit hard at his future hopes. Stopped by champion Rocky Marciano in 11 rounds in a 1953 title fight, he had been out of action since he lost a close one to England's Don Cockell last March in London. He had counted on Wednesday night's fight to earn him a return shot at Cockell, bye the No. 2 contender; or a match with Nino Valdez, the No. 1 contender.

Ross Returns As Argos' Head

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Ross of Toronto was returned by acclamation as president of the Argonaut rowing club at the annual meeting Wednesday night. Jos Wright Jr. and Ted Punchard were re-elected vice-presidents. Ross, Wright and Punchard therefore will guide the destinies of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union next season. The team is controlled by the rowing club.

Hornets Beat Hershey 6-3; Take Over Lead

The Pittsburgh Hornets held undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League today after staying in the lead for the first two weeks of the season.

Pittsburgh replaced Hershey at the top by coming from behind with four goals in the third period to beat the Bears 6-3 Wednesday night. In the only other game, Buffalo and Providence played a 2-2 overtime tie.

The Bears took a 3-1 lead in the first and the Hornets came back with one in the second. The Hornets completely outplayed Hershey in the final session as they scored three of the four goals in the last 10 minutes.

Buffalo remained in the cellar, a single point behind Providence. Goalie Harvey Bennett turned back 48 shots while Buffalo's Hank Bassen handled 28.

ASSUMPTION LOSES

DETROIT (AP)—The University of Detroit defeated Assumption College of Windsor 70-61 Wednesday night in the opening basketball game for both teams.

Yanks-Orioles Finally Complete Player Deal

HOUSTON (AP)—The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles finally completed their 18 - man "Bob Turley" deal Wednesday after the minor league draft machinery had disposed of a low total of 44 players for $135,450.

Details of the "Turley deal" had leaked out by dribs and drabs until only official confirmation was lacking. The two clubs made it official after the final draft session "unfroze" the rosters of minor league clubs.

Infielder Kal Segrist (.281 at Kansas City), infielder Don Leppert (.313 at Birmingham) and left-handed pitcher Bill Miller (0-1 with the Yanks) go to Baltimore in the new switch. Outfielder Gene Woodling, shortstop Willie Miranda, catchers Gus Triandos and Hal Smith and pitchers Harry Byrd and Jim McDonald had been announced earlier.

The Yanks will get six new players, including five for their farm system in addition to the original package of pitchers Bob Turley, Don Larsen and shortstop Billy Hunter. Thus the deal comes down to nine for nine, although only four actually wind up on the Yankee roster.

Grey Cup 'Goat' Role Pays Off, 'Cheer Up Chuck' Campaign Deluged

MONTREAL (CP)—The "Cheer up Chuck" campaign started by a Montreal radio station was snowballing into such proportions Wednesday that the station was deluged with dimes.

The campaign is something of a goodwill effort to cheer Chuck Hunsinger, Montreal Alouettes' halfback, the goat in the team's loss of the Grey Cup game last Saturday to Edmonton Eskimos.

For their dime contributions each fan's name will be among the signatures to a telegram telling Hunsinger he is appreciated and to forget the Grey Cup episode and come back next season.

Jimmy Tapp, manager of station CJAD said more than 1,000 letters and dimes had poured into the station Wednesday and the end was nowhere in sight. The idea was the first put on the air Tuesday night. Wednesday the station had assigned two girls to handling the mail and looking after contributions brought in by individuals.

Whole staffs of business firms—offices, factories and the Montreal chamber of commerce—were getting in on the cheer contribution. Youngsters came trooping into the station with their mothers, handing in their names and dimes.

Some fans have come up with novel ideas in making their contributions—home-made cardboard footballs with the dimes inside; business cards with the dimes affixed by tape.

"It's amazing," said Tapp. "Several fans telephoned us yesterday asking where they should address a telegram or letter to Hunsinger. Finally we decided to take over the job ourselves—a telegram with all the names, at 50 cents a name.

"If there is any money left over from the cost of the telegram we will add names of youngsters in hospitals and orphanages. If we're short the necessary money, the station will make up the difference."

Tapp said many business firms are assigning a collector from their staffs. One snappy blonde brought in 100 names and $10.

SELL WHITMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob Watt, road secretary for the Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League, said Wednesday veteran outfielder Dick Whitman has been sold to Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

Dutchies Whip Mercurys 5-1; Take Loop Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen took a good hold on first place of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league Wednesday night by scoring an easy 5-1 win over Owen Sound Mercurys.

The win gave the Dutchmen 29 points, four up on the Mercurys.

It was turnabout in the other senior game, Chatham Maroons, playing with only 13 men, swept to a 5-2 win over Windsor Bulldogs in Chatham to move back into fourth place. Tuesday Windsor defeated Chatham 6-5 to take over fourth place.

Kitchener had 2,719 home-town fans roaring when they broke into a 3-0 lead in the first period. Paced by right winger George Scholes who scored three goals, the Dutchmen moved right along to their easy win. They outshot the Mercs 33-16.

Chatham, without the services of regular goalie Al Bennett and with only 13 men dressed because of injuries outplayed the Bulldogs all the way for the win. Substitute goalie Dick Piatowski turned in an outstanding performance to spur his team along.

BOXER DIES

Fights Tonight

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Standings of the National Hockey League's four gold-pursuers remained unchanged after Wednesday's action, but the gap is rapidly narrowing.

Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Kenny Mosdell were idle as Owen Sound Mercurys' Scholes did Tuesday night's fight to earn him a return shot at Cockell, bye the No. 2 contender; or a match with Nino Valdez, the No. 1 contender.

'Sugar Ray' Gets Suspension

DETROIT (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, former world welterweight and middleweight boxing champion, was suspended indefinitely Tuesday by the Michigan board of athletic control for refusing to go through with a Dec. 8 fight here.

The suspension also applied to Robinson's manager, George Gainford, who is directing the former champion's comeback attempt.

William Matney, secretary of the Michigan commission, said the suspension will hold in all National Boxing Association states.

Robinson, who fought a six-round exhibition at Hamilton, Ont., Monday night, had discussed a Dec. 8 fight against Joe Rindone of Boston.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for Friday, December 3, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A good day; advantages for difficult matters work requiring either mental or manual skill; also for making money. Intelligent management and sound investments. But think!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Venus' aspect now stresses unselfish thoughts and action; you will gain more eventually, by thinking hand now. Day has fresh opportunities in many useful fields but careful reflection is advised.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mixed vibrations — with difficult tasks and domestic interests highly favored and personal desires taking second place. Be sensibly considerate.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's position now indicates a need to put aside strictly personal wishes where you can in order to give greater support to other and more vital matters. B... there need be no anxiety.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — In weighty problems and responsibilities you can achieve good or just mediocre results, depending largely upon the way you handle and accept them. If agreeable and helpful, you'll win.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Similar indications to Gemini and Cancer today. Put aside fear and doubt and go to work with your usual faith and ability; hope, no matter what the day's duties. Seek God's help always.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Follow your conscience and good advice from others. There can be fresh gains in familiar matters. also in new endeavors if you exercise your fine mental powers.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Let there be no idle hours today if you have a full program to execute and fulfill. Handle things in the order of their urgency and importance. Also take pauses for rest, reflection.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Very invigorating Jupiter vibrations to aid sound thinking, decisions, all worthwhile matters. At the same time, Mars' aspect suggests the avoidance of quarrelsome attitudes, unpleasant discussions.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Your Saturn's aspect favors tedious tasks, hard work, handling tools, machinery, vehicles, both mental and manual efforts. Railroading, construction specially encouraged.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Again your Uranus smiles on your best efforts, on unusual (if workable) projects, promoting better relations between employer and employee, among friends.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Similar indications now to Leo and Gemini. Be attentive to your own interests but don't overlook the advantages to be gained by being helpful, cooperative with others.

...YOU BORN TODAY are enterprising, alert, active and generous ; have great vigor and wonderful religious beliefs as devotedly as temporal principles. You can succeed in unusual undertakings for you have diversified talents and the ability to put them over in a manner highly beneficial to self, family, associates. You likes usually have great physiques and are strong in health and mind. If true to your finer instincts, you will be a credit to loved ones, community and the nation. Avoid extremes and don't work at too feverish a pace. Birthdate: Gilbert Stuart, noted portrait painted; Sir Rowland Hill, author of the penny postage system; Newton Baker, U.S. statesman.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying. Senator Frizbean has been made president of the East West bank. My, ain't that grate, I says. Imagine, the East West has 38 branches. After all, a man only has 2 hands, she said.

Well, he has enough ideas, pop said. Oscar Frizbean dreemed of being a banker while he was still a poor farmer, and now he's the president of 38 branches, he said, which is certainly a success. I come true, the world would be a funny place.

It's a pritty funny place as it is, pop said, and ma said, There is no denying that cant come true if it is accompanied by the will power to will it and the confidents to be confident.

Oh boy, Reddy Merry, always seem I actually can't I said, and ma said, Goodness.

Of course it means you can, if you have enough bleef in yourself and enough persistents to back up your bleef, pop said, and ma said, Now William, dont start anything that Benny cant finish.

He can finish anything he wants to do, if he knows he's got it in him, just like Oscar Grizbean, pop said, and I said, Well oh boy, I know I want in lick Reddy Merry all rite.

Do you know you've got it in you? pop said, and I said, Well there's just one thing. Is there any difference between wishing you could and actually knowink you can?

All the diffrence in the world, pop said, and I said, Then I better quit th I positively know for sure. Which I better.

SENTENCE MP

LONDON (Reuters) — Capt. Peter Baker, 33-year-old book publisher and Conservative member of Parliament, was sentenced to seven years in prison Tuesday for forging financial documents totaling more than £83,000. Baker sprang to attention and bowed to the judge who sentenced him on six counts of forging the documents to get money for financing failing companies. He had pleaded guilty.

Cancelled Books 'Repaired' By Gluing in New Stamps

Cannons for Sale

Alarming Report Made on H-Bombs To Mendes-France

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—David Schoenbrun, CBS Paris correspondent, said Thursday that Premier Pierre Mendes-France has held secret talks with President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles because he fears continuing H-bomb experiments are endangering the very existence of the human race.

Schoenbrun said the leaders of France's top theoretical physicists, Prince Louis Debroglie, made an alarming report to the French Academy of Science two weeks ago that the danger point in atomic saturation and can be cashed at any bank. The banks are reimbursed by the government.

Detectives said the racket worked like this:

Cancelled vacation pay books, each with a few stamps remaining through each stamp, were stolen from a junk yard. The gang bought new blank books from a manufacturing department of labor for 35 cents, then obtained from a confection company—which didn't exist, the cancelled stamps and pasted them in the new book.

The repairs were covered by a heavily inked date stamp so that the counterfeit was almost impossible to detect, the police said in signifying glass. Then the books were cashed at a bank. They were worth $100 apiece.

Discovery of the scheme was made when a bank teller was instructed to cash one of the books at a downtown bank. The teller recognized it as the same man who had cashed a similar book some time before, and called police. FOUND IN CAR.

Police raided a New Toronto apartment and they found a suitcase packed with the pay books in a car parked outside.

Three men were arrested Thursday as they attempted to cash books at a downtown bank. Police searched more homes of Detectives said earlier arrests made but three men were held for questioning.

Police said that when regular pay books are cashed and turned into the labor department books are punched through each stamp. The cancelled books are given to the Poppy Fund to sell as scrap.

TORONTO (CP) — Two men have been arrested in Windsor in connection with a vacation pay book racket that may cost the provincial government $200,000, a spokesman of detectives Archie McCathie said today.

The arrests bring to seven the number of persons held in connection with the fraud, police said. They exposed Thursday when more than 1,000 cancelled pay books were seized.

Police said it will likely be months before the full amount of the loss is known. A legal fight may develop as to who must bear the brunt of the loss, the banks which accepted and cashed the forged pay books or the government, whose system of cancelling as estimated 25,000 pay books each year rebounded.

FAR FROM NEW

The racket ballooned in the last few days from what was thought to be that of one man trying to pass a "bum" vacation book to one of major proportions.

Detectives said Thursday night they now have discovered the swindle has been going on on the same scale.

Arrested were: Thomas Sophas, 29, Toronto, and Clifford Arthur Ryan, 49, Frank Deshayy, 33, and Zaccoulis Michalic.

They have been charged with false pretences, police said.

The government kept tabs on pay book system. Employers buy the books and put in the stamps representing the cost from payroll cheques. The books are given to employees around vacation time and can be cashed at any bank. The banks are reimbursed by the government.

Prime Minister Of Ceylon Pays Visit to Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The prime minister of Ceylon has a look today at some of the work Canadian scientists are doing.

Sir John Kotelawala, who arrived in Ottawa Thursday for a two-day visit at the invitation of the Canadian government, was to be shown through the National Research Council.

It was announced what projects he would see. But research there is known to include industrial machines and techniques, the use of which a number of Ceylonese engineering students are being taught under the Colombo plan.

Flying Saucer Project Worked On 18 Months

LONDON (Reuters)—Trade Minister Power said Thursday that Canadian scientists worked for about 18 months on a $100,000 flying saucer project but it was finally shelved.

However, the statement when he arrived in Southampton aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Howe, who will leave Sunday for trade talks in Geneva, said the government also planned the circular-shaped aircraft but finally dropped it.

WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) Synopsis: Generally clear skies and light winds made for a chilly night over southern Ontario, where the lowest reading being two degrees above zero at London. Over northwestern Ontario, however, southerly winds caused the mercury to climb steadily during the night, and this milder weather will prevail across southward across the province today and Saturday. Snowflurries will continue in the northern regions, but southern Ontario will see mainly sunny skies today and Saturday.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX REMAINS SAME IN OCTOBER

First Time in 9 Years Index Is Not Altered

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index was unchanged during October, remaining at 116.8 for the second consecutive month. It was the first time in nine years that the cost-of-living yardstick has shown such a period of stability.

Prices were lower for most meats, coffee, eggs, citrus fruits, clothing, fuel, furniture and electrical appliances as well as gasoline. Balancing these decreases were price rises for home-grown vegetables, canned vegetables, floor coverings, utensils and household equipment, as well as for home ownership costs, cost of personal care and the admission fees index.

The highest 1954 point reached by the index based on 1949 prices was 116.9, set last 117 in July. It dropped to 116.8 in August and remained at that point. This is slightly higher than the 115.2 in October last year, Bureau of statistics figures revealed today.

However, it was the first time in nine years that the index remained unchanged for two consecutive months. The last such occurrence was during March and April, 1945, when the index was 74.5.

Quebec Women May Get Equality Before Courts

QUEBEC (CP) — An old basic principle of French civil law that married women are "incapable of valid consent" in legal matters from the code, Gerard Lacroix, the province's Napoleonic civil code—theoretically speaking, anyway.

Lacroix, lawyer and Liberal member of the Legislative Assembly for Montreal Verdun, climaxed a three-year campaign in the Quebec Legislature Thursday by introducing a bill that may lead to elimination of the old principle from the code.

From groups pushing hard for a change in the civil code to those in speculation of eventual equality of married men and women before the law, there was no dissent. But that day is still a long way off, legal circles say.

Board Opposes Wage Increase At Chrysler

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board Thursday recommended no wage increase for the 5,200 Windsor employees operated by the Chrysler Corporation and turned down nearly half the increase requested by the United Auto Workers union (CIO-CCL).

The report offered only one concession. The board agreed it recommended that three days' leave with pay be granted for a serious illness on the death of his parents, wife or child.

It rejected the union demand for a wage increase of 15 cents an hour, five supplementary weeks, one additional statutory holiday a year and double time for Sunday overtime. The workers now can legally strike after seven days and last August 7,000 struck over the same issue.

Premier Frost Will Discuss Seaway Compensation Anytime

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost says he will discuss at "any time" compensation complaints by any of the 6,500 residents in the St. Lawrence seaway valley who will be flooded from their homes by the seaway power project.

The premier, target for fast-flying criticism from the municipalities involved over compensation offered by the Ontario hydro-electric power commission, said in an interview at Queen's Park Thursday that he thinks current legislation covering compensation is adequate. However, he would be willing to make changes if if necessary.

Mr. Frost also said that the government plans to open an office in Seaway valley to keep his administrative assistant with those who will be affected by the power project. He said the office will be ready to assist the people in moving and give them advice.

Officials of the 10 councils of the municipalities in the valley said Thursday night they had received no answer from Mr. Frost on their request for an appointment.

The premier refused to commit himself on whether the basis for compensation should be the market value, as Hydro wants it, or the replacement cost, as the valley residents want it. He said individual circumstances would have to be considered.

Mr. Frost also announced at his press conference that the provincial government is playing new development projects which, in the long run, will help the unemployment situation. He did not say what projects are under consideration but said they will enable the province to make a substantial contribution to "great expansion" Canada is experiencing.

There were 100,645 persons listed as with the National Employment Services last October as looking for work. The number of persons seeking relief was 259,276. These are the latest figures issued.

"It is a great mistake to leave peacetime problems in advance," he commented. "We want to bring about the best employment conditions possible. Ontario's effort can be a major contribution."

The premier also mentioned that the next legislature will probably sit about the same time as last year. A Queen's Park official said the date likely will be Feb. 16.

Answering for his cabinet, the premier denied that highways minister Doucett intends to resign. There has been speculation that Mr. Doucett would resign or be relieved of his post because of the highways department irregularities in the highways department.

The highways minister has been on sick leave for the last two months.

Premier Frost said the provincial cabinet has been meeting two and three times a week. Department estimates, usually completed by December 1, have to the cabinet in December, were submitted last November.

He urged strengthening of federal-provincial ties to eliminate "where problems can be solved by mutual agreement." He said the formal atmosphere of high-level meetings.

The premier said the provincial government would bear its part in solving the unemployment problem and asked that all levels of government assist.

The system of parliamentary assistants for overburdened ministers is likely to be used in the future but not immediately, said the premier. He favored spreading responsibility through special com-

Anti-Aircraft Regts. Appear Doomed in Canadian Army

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Army is down to its last anti-aircraft regiment and even it may not survive the economy axe next year.

Canada's defence chiefs almost certainly will eliminate conventional anti-aircraft defences and switch to a new system of aircraft plane tactics through the use of guided missiles.

That is the present outlook given by a defence spokesman following a British decision to scrap its entire anti-aircraft command and reduce the number of AA units.

British Defence Minister Harold Macmillan said Wednesday night in London the decision was prompted by the development of long-range, high-speed planes equipped with great altitudes.

The spokesman said Canada may or may not follow Britain's example, but the decision likely will defence chiefs.

He pointed to past developments in the Canadian Army to support his forecast. Last autumn artillery, which played so big a part in the defence of Britain, may have seen its last days.

When the Canadian Army was reorganized in 1946, the artillery aircraft unit left untouched was the 1st Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment stationed at Picton, Ont. The unit has batteries stationed at various strategic points in Canada.

First step Canada will take in switching to guided missile defences will be a test of United States' guided missiles at the Churchill, Man., rocket range soon.

Results of the test will probably be a big factor in determining what the course defence chiefs will take in setting up anti-aircraft defences.

Guided missile warfare has been extensively developed in the U.S., and said to experience the same difficulties as other Western countries in anti-aircraft defences.

Instructor Dies In Flames Of Crashed Plane

Though badly bruised and shaken, he attempted to rescue his instructor pilot but was turned back by the heat of the burning aircraft.

Killed was Flying Officer Harold E. of Westmount, Que. The student pilot is John Ross, 20, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Vic Somie, a neighbor of Leopke and Tedford told him the pilot was snapped off at about 7,000 feet. The plane began to fall in a flat spin, Somie said, the instructor released the canopy and the student baled out.

Mr. Somie said the aircraft nosedived "like a homing pigeon" with the engine plowing five feet into the ground, and caught fire. Police, firemen and nearby residents who ran to the scene found the pilot too intense to effect a rescue of the instructor whose body was recovered when the fire burned itself out several hours later.

The RCAF at Penhold said an investigation has been set up.

Plan Expected To Boost Number Of Workers

BRANTFORD (CP)—The Massey Harris-Ferguson Company Thursday announced a plan expected to boost employment in its plant to the peak-year level of 1951.

The announcement said it will start making the Ferguson line of farm implements here in addition to its regular Massey-Harris lines.

Introduction of the new line will increase the number of jobs by more men than the company had in December, 1953, and will be about the same number as were working in 1951—a record year, company officials said. In December, 1953, men were employed in 1951.

Weather Ideal For Sub-Arctic Defence Test

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) Forecast weather conditions were ideal Thursday for the first exercise of Exercise Bulldog II, a joint services exercise on the shores of Hudson bay.

Ten - above temperatures and light breezes that lessened the dreaded windchill of the sub-Arctic combined to make the day perfect for the 1,000 men of the army command and No. 1 tactical air command, Ottawa, which began the exercise.

The exercise also mentioned that the next legislature will probably sit about the same time as last year. A Queen's Park official said the date likely will be Feb. 16.

Answering for his cabinet, the premier denied that highways minister Doucett intends to resign. There has been speculation that Mr. Doucett would resign or be relieved of his post because of the highways department irregularities in the highways department.

The highways minister has been on sick leave for the last two months.

Premier Frost said the provincial cabinet has been meeting two and three times a week. Department estimates, usually completed by December 1, have to the cabinet in December, were submitted last November.

He urged strengthening of federal-provincial ties to eliminate "where problems can be solved by mutual agreement." He said the formal atmosphere of high-level meetings.

The premier said the provincial government would bear its part in solving the unemployment problem and asked that all levels of government assist.

The system of parliamentary assistants for overburdened ministers is likely to be used in the future but not immediately, said the premier. He favored spreading responsibility through special com-

U.S. Protestant Leaders Pray For Pope's Health

BOSTON (AP) — American Protestant leaders Thursday voiced their prayers for God to save the Pope in his illness.

At the assembly of the National Council of Churches, representing a large portion of American Protestantism, delegates stood for a minute's silent prayer for the recovery of the Roman Catholic pontiff. They unanimously approved a motion to earnestly pray to Almighty God that His healing power might restore Pope Pius to his hour of suffering."

The message also expressed sympathy for Roman Catholic friends in their anxiety over the illness of their spiritual leader."

The council's president-elect, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, of Philadelphia, proposed the interval of prayer and the message. He said a council committee on assembly business suggested the action because of "the illness of the Roman Catholic faithful, says that despite his weakness Pope Pius was "still taking note of the most important questions connected with his apostolic ministry."

U.S. IS PRESSING FOR UN ACTION IN AIRMEN'S CASE

Quick Response Won From 15 Korean Allies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States pressed today for United Nations action to free 11 American airmen jailed by Red China on spy charges. The move brought quick response from 15 Korean allies.

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. delegate, after a high-level meeting in Washington, called the allies into emergency session Thursday night to discuss the speediest course of action. He voiced confidence that the UN would support any American move.

Representatives of the 15 allies, including Canada, promised immediate consultations with their governments on possible steps. They scheduled another meeting for today.

CANNOT SEE

President Eisenhower said in Washington Thursday that he did not see "how the United Nations can possibly disabuse itself of a feeling of responsibility in this matter, and retain its self respect."

The airmen flew under the UN flag in Korea. Eisenhower said Eisenhower may underscore his interest in the case

CHILD RUNS INTO SIDE OF CAR; NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Doyle Graham, aged 5, of Carlton, escaped with little more than a shaking up late Thursday afternoon, when he darted out onto the road near his home and ran into the fender of a car driven by Harold Phillips, R.R. 2, Belleville. The lad was taken to Belleville hospital by Mark's ambulance and following a check-up was allowed to go home. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable J. McBride.

LOCAL MANAGER TAKES NEW POST

Carl Thompson, Corbyville, local manager for the Canadian Canners factory at Foxboro, has been appointed as sales representative of Canners Machinery at Simcoe. He began his new duties on November 29th.

Prior to his departure for his new position employees at the Foxboro plant presented Mr. Thompson with a fine leather brief case. In accepting the gift Carl expressed his appreciation and expressed the hope employees and growers will do the same co-operation to their new manager as they had given him in the past.

THURSDAY NIGHT COLDEST OF SEASON

Last night was the coldest night of the season in the Belleville district.

A sharp frost settled in over the entire district as temperatures sank to 18 above. Actually it was a freezing all day yesterday with the maximum temperature at 32 degrees and the minimum registering 16 degrees.

ADDITION TO SCHOOL OFFICIALLY OPENED ON SATURDAY

The new addition to Hillcrest Public School in Thurlow township will be officially opened on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Township officials, members of S.S. No. 6 school board, and others are slated to take part at the opening ceremonies.

SALVATION ARMY BAND TO PLAY ON WEST HILL

The Salvation Army band will open their 1954 Christmas carolling program this evening when they sing and play many of the well-known Yuletide favorites in the West Hill district.

This is an annual affair, that the organization presents during December, playing in different sections of the city each time.

CLERK OF TOWNSHIP SAYS VOTERS' LIST IS AVAILABLE

AMELIASBURG, (Special), — T. S. Walker, clerk of the township of Ameliasburg has declared erroneous a report printed in Wednesday's edition of the Ontario Intelligencer in which, it was stated that there were no copies of the township voters' list available.

He forwarded a copy of the 1954 voters' list, which had been revised Oct. 30th of this year and which, according to its cover, was posted in the clerk's office, Nov. 28th.

Necessity of Industrial Expansion Is One of Main Points Stressed As Municipal Candidates Address Voters

Belleville's municipal election campaign last night slipped into high gear as candidates for the mayoralty, aldermanic and school trusteeships aired their individual platforms at the annual meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at the Collegiate.

The meeting took no dramatic turn, no candidate presenting an open-provocative issue, while the question-and-answer period following the meeting did not pose any exciting controversies.

An underlying chord in the addresses of most aldermanic candidates was the necessity of industrial expansion for the city, one aldermanic candidate asserting if Belleville progressed at its present rate it might be annexed by Trenton.

Many of the aspirants to school trusteeship were absent from the meeting, chairman Freeman Burrows explaining that they were attending the opening of the new Winona Peterson school.

MAYOR SPEAKS FIRST

Mayor Jack Both opened the meeting as first speaker of the evening.

The mayor considered he had applied sound business experience during his term of office. He said that the present term will save you eight mills from estimates set for 1954 as originally proposed, which was well over ten percent of the total taxation.

George Hall, he declared, said that if council is not met with some unexpected maintenance expenditures, the tax rate will surplus of a sizeable amount as figures stand at the present time.

Robert Temple followed.

URGES CO-OPERATION

Said Wm. Temple: "Let the keynote of city business be co-operation." A mayor, he said, must represent all the people and he pledged himself to represent all the citizens in the future "as I have in the past three years."

With the development of areas surrounding Belleville, he claimed, "we must arrive at a broad overall plan for the city."

He proposed closer co-operation with the planning committee, and promised to institute talks with the Belleville Suburban committee.

"I feel it is only in this way that we can realize our potentialities," he said.

During his three years on council he had been interested in fire, planning and traffic committees. The fire committee he said was always able to negotiate with the firemen and there was never any need for costly arbitration, as was the case with the Police Association this year. He termed the recent arbitration as "unnecessary expense that could have been avoided."

He noted that during his term as chairman of the traffic committee the number of school guards had been increased while no fatal accidents to children had been reported in the past two years.

"I firmly believe it would be misguided economy to cut down on the number of school guards," he said.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS POSSIBLE

Don Thomas was the last of the trio speaking to the mayoralty, to speak.

To Mr. Thomas said he had no platform "in the accepted sense" but that he could see many ways in which the affairs of the city could be improved.

He referred to the long-term plan for the construction of a sewage disposal plant and the necessity for the construction of facilities. The construction of adequate storm sewers must be undertaken, he declared. Providing a proper sewage disposal system for the city is the problem taking which cannot be indefinitely postponed.

"Definite progress was being made until 1954," he said, "when the work was curtailed and key personnel left the city employment."

He also referred to what he termed the "penny-pinching policy" of municipal affairs in Belleville.

He voiced disapproval of the recent police operation which he said was unnecessarily costly.

He claimed that any money saved in 1954 will be more than offset by increased expenditures in subsequent years and that not spending money does not in itself represent saving.

BOTH RESPECT

Mayor Both was allowed two minutes for rebuttal of his opponents' statements. He denied most of statements propounded were "as phony as Santa Claus' whiskers." No long term plan for extension of sewers existed, he claimed. Regarding co-operation with council he said he was willing to co-operate at all times when it was for the interests of the city.

The mayor's rebuttal was cut short by the time limit.

TRUSTEE CANDIDATES

Patrick Halloran was the only separate school trustee candidate to put in an appearance at the meeting.

He reminded his audience of the large portion of city tax which is channelled into school administration, and claimed that in the last few years spending has started to get out of hand. He advised his audience to make sure the school board spends its money properly.

Bruce Bishop, seedsman, headed the list of candidates for public school trustees. In a brief address he promised to give his "time and energy" to the job of providing better school administration "with economy the keynote."

Howard L. House, entomologist, cited his experience on the school board and his extensive academic training, which he said had equipped him with the necessary background and perspective.

Beverley Quinocy, roofing contractor, was the only candidate of the three standing in Ward 1, Ward, to put in an appearance.

Mr. Quinocy claimed that more interest in schools should be just as keen as that taken in city council, since it is realized the large proportion school administration receives from city taxes.

James Ritchie, sales manager, standing in Ketcheson ward, said he had a sincere desire to delve into how children are being educated and into teaching facilities.

James Brisbin, accountant, running in Ketcheson ward, felt his education and business experience qualified his election.

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATES

James C. Allen, railway agent, led off the candidates in the aldermanic field.

Mr. Allen said he believed Belleville should have more industries and that every effort should be put forth to keep taxes to a minimum. If elected he would use all his efforts to that end.

Malcolm Burgess asked if the audience thought it was time that aldermen be elected by a ward system instead of by the city at large.

That way "each ward would have two aldermen to look after the interests of the people in the ward." Mr. Burgess was also the candidate who thought Trenton might annex Belleville.

WILL HAVE SURPLUS

Alderman Harry Clarke, chairman of city finance said: "We are going to end this year with a surplus and that is something a little new in the city." While the tax rate next year might not decrease he claimed, it would not be higher. Stressing that the voters should exercise their franchise, he told them if his record did not appeal he thought they should elect "some of this new material."

The time has come for a rigid economy, Robertson Collins claimed. The annual budget should be carefully scrutinized, he said. He solicited support on a platform of efficient, conscientious economy.

SEES LIVELY INTEREST

Enos David commented on the lively interest shown in this year's election and noted the entry of the two women candidates into the election as "worthwhile and needed." Among his interests in city affairs better co-operation of city business, co-operation in council, conservation and school council.

Edward De Leeuw noted that it was time Belleville and district had had representation on council. More and more municipalities are having labor representatives "and it is working out quite well." George Hall said he felt he had not missed one council meeting during his term of session of the labor issues he had brought before council through the years. "All I ask is a fair hearing and vote," he concluded.

MAKES FIVE POINTS

Leslie Bigley called five points to attention: (1) Eliminate waste and inefficiency in the city administration; (2) A square deal for everybody and no special privileges for any privileged few; (3) Full value for every dollar; (4) Run the business of the city in an ethical manner; (5) Sound planning for a bigger and better Belleville. "I will do my very best to serve you without fear or favor and if voted in I'll be a 'yes man' for anyone".

Mrs. Jane Forrester said that money is needed to meet the many expensive services that will be necessary to cope with the rapid growth of Belleville.

Mrs. Forrester and housewife T have learned the value of a dollar," she said. "I have attended many meetings and wish to be an alert citizen."

Mrs. Ethel Armstrong me. I have no axe to grind. I think the feminine viewpoint is of value."

Mrs. Forrester called for more consideration for parks and playgrounds and said "pollution in the bay is a disgrace." She said the planning of a sewage disposal plant is important and that she had an open mind on the city management.

STRESSES TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Ralph C. Graham concentrated his appeal on a platform of alleviating the city's traffic problems. He called Bridge St. "a bottleneck" and traffic, "the city's greatest problem."

He suggested breaking the Bridge St. bottleneck by removing parking from Bridge St. during rush hours to provide four lanes for traffic. He advocated prohibiting heavy truck traffic in residential areas; reduction of the speed limit in residential areas and provision of adequate parking in the downtown area.

He said that the senior governments (provincial and federal) "must be forced to assume more of the municipality's burdens" and advocated an extension of the one inhabitants in new areas. He stressed the need of a more aggressive industrial commission.

SAYS CHANGE NEEDED

Frank Huson claimed council is in need of reorganization and is due for a change. He also stressed the need for industrial expansion and said council's search for new industry to date had only produced one industry and referred to Trenton's six and the promise of two more next year. He advocated a stop to wasteful expenditures.

STORMS. — In loving memory of our father, William Storms, who passed away December 3rd, 1953.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
You far away for sight or speech,
But not far from memory's reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here.
And now is not.
—Ever remembered by sons Bill and Bobby. D2

STORMS. — In fond memory of my dear father, William Storms, who passed away December 3rd, 1953.
Dearest father, you left us sadly,
Left us with a heart full of pain,
Left us to mourn your memory,
Left us to grieve in vain.
Whatever else we failed to do,
We never failed to miss you.
Silent thoughts and many a tear,
Keep our memory green dear.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was active in forenoon dealings today but prices developed no trend.

Utilities were strong, motors easier and other industrial groups mixed. Uraniums and western oils were narrowly ahead but golds and base metals were steady.

Many low-priced mines were moderately active. First-hour volume was 1,451,000 shares.

General Motors dropped $1.75 and Ford A $1.50 in early trade. Among mines Sylvanite touched $1.55 on a 21-cent climb, easing later.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were generally steady at the Ontario public stockyards this week. Calves, sheep and lambs were unchanged while hogs were fully $1.50 a hundredweight lower.

The run of 6,000 cattle was added to a carryover of 1,350 common lifters, stockers and stock calves. Included in the fresh run were 1,136 western cattle, mostly stockers.

Heifers and other grades of steers were very slow and a fair proportion of the estimated carryover of 2,000 head will be made up of these grades. The balance will be stockers and stock calves. Cows and bulls held steady to last week's close and were readily cleared.

Choice steers, all weights $22.50-23; good steers $20-22; medium $17-19.50; common $13-16; good heifers $17-18; medium heifers $14-16; common $12-14; light lightweight steers and heifers $8-13; good cows generally $10; top of $10.50; light heifer cows up to $11.50; canners and cutters down to $5; good heavy bologna bulls $14-15; good beef butcher bulls to $12.50; common light bulls down to $8; feeder steer yearlings $23.50-26; good fed yearlings $22-23; mediums $18-21.

Replacement cattle: the bulk of the sales made for the week were to packers. Three 1,200-pound stockers at $13-17; good stockers $17-18; odd picked lots reached $18.50; common stockers ranged up to $12; good stock calves $17; an extreme top of $18.50; common $11-13; common down to $11.

Calves were 2,200 head; including 878 in the common stock calves. Good and choice vealers sold at $22-26; medium at $14-21; common $10-14; grass calves, for slaughter $10-14.

Hogs totalled 3,000 head. Grade A sold for $27 with a few lots at $27.25; B1's $26; B2's $25.50; dressed.

There was a run of 3,000 sheep and lambs. Lambs brought $20-21 for good ewes and wethers; ducks were discounted $1 and lambs as much as $4 a hundredweight; medium lambs $17-18; good light sheep $8-10; heavy sheep $5-7; common sheep $3-5.

Opposes Ending Butter Price Support Program

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario dairyman Thursday opposed suggestions that the federal government's price support for butter should be lowered from its present level of 58 cents a pound.

Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary, president of the National Dairy Council, said earlier the dairy industry has no right to insist that Canadian taxpayers support the industry on a permanent basis of paying subsidies. He spoke at the annual convention of the Ontario Creamery Association.

Main topic of discussion at the convention was Canada's huge surplus of butter.

William Rettie, chairman of the Ontario Cream Producers' Association, opposed any change in the government's floor price. He said the floor price was the producers' protection against imported vegetable oils.

Dr. H. A. Derby, a federal department of agriculture official, said butter production is expected to reach a record 314,000,000 pounds this year, 21,000,000 pounds greater than last year.

Some 115,000,000 will likely go into storage, he added.

Dr. Derby said Britain was no longer a hopeful market for surplus butter because its national dairy production target is 40 per cent of its 1939 production, compared with a prewar target of 34 per cent. He suggested India as a possible market.

Everett M. Biggs, Ontario dairy commissioner, said he did not feel the present surpluses represented a serious problem. He said it was possible Canada could face a shortage of dairy products by 1960 when the population would probably reach 17,000,000.

Education More Than Three R's Speaker Tells Large Audience At Opening of New School

School buildings and educational programs should be directed toward administering to the full time needs of children and the program should include more than the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic.

This was stated by J. R. McCarthy, assistant superintendent of Elementary Education, as he spoke Thursday evening at the official opening of the new Sir Winston Churchill public school on MacDonald avenue.

"Research has shown that the growth of children is continuous but the school program has not taken this into consideration," he said. "Their growth is not confined to the few hours per day, which for five days of the week and for ten months of the year is the case in classrooms."

Mr. McCarthy noted that the public and education was set about 50 years ago and until recently had never been changed. He said the pattern had not been changed was because critics and the change has gone along with the critics.

But a new educational program was being put into operation and Mr. McCarthy asked parents to withhold any criticism and base their decision on the facts. He noted, for instance, that it was more than just a pupil to stay with one teacher for two or three years and the change is made every year. Also there was more than the three R's in the school and children should be taught to become good citizens, how to get along with others, how to live and have an understanding of music and arts.

PLANNED TO ASSIST

It was toward such an end that the new educational program was planned and the new school buildings were planned to assist in the program.

The speaker regretted the critism of modern methods of education, stating that until the graduates were considered, the standard was immeasurably high.

He praised the staff.

In referring to the new Sir Winston Churchill School, Mayor McCarthy congratulated the local school board and said it actually had doubled the amount of providing classroom accommodation for rapidly expanding local population.

He brought greetings from the Hon. W. J. Stewart, Ontario Minister of Education, and other department officials and noted that in the past five years the department had given approval for the construction of 1,000 classrooms for 168,000 elementary school pupils and 50,000 high school pupils.

The environment of these new public schools was such that the children were given the opportunity to be their age and where they could live a full life at this best. "If you shortchange a child at six, you cannot go back when the child is 11 and say live it over again."

NEW STYLE CATCHING ON

And the idea of the new type school building was catching on. Seldom now was any objection heard from people who say "that the old school was good enough for me and should be good enough for today's children."

Schools superintendent L. A. Kells introduced the speaker with C. E. Tevill, expressing the appreciation of the public school board.

The auditorium of the new school was filled, when board chairman Wilbur VanTassel in his introductory remarks expressed the appreciation to members of the teaching staff and to city council for its part in passing the debentures necessary for the construction of the new building.

He also had praise for Department of Education officials and to Architect W. A. Watson and H. J. McFarland, contractor, for the new school. He felt that the completed school was an indication that the school board was a competent elected body.

Mr. VanTassel also had a word of thanks for parents in the area served by the school and to pupils who had been forced to attend other schools until the building was completed.

Referring to school costs the board chairman assured that the Sir Winston School board was cautious with the taxpayers' money but it was forced with the problem of trying to catch up with needed school accommodation at the same time not be caught with unused classrooms.

In closing he invited all present to inspect the school following the opening ceremonies and to remain for coffee and refreshments served by members of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association.

Board member Fred T. Symons as chairman of the special sites and accommodation committee, took over the meeting for the transfer of the building, which saw the general contractor Harvey McFarland of Picton, handover the keys to Architect W. Watson.

Mr. McFarland thanked the school board for the opportunity of working with them in the construction of the new building and said he hoped he had been able to save the city some money. He had a special word of thanks for his construction foreman and workmen.

Noting that the school had been called after Sir Winston Churchill, he said it was a privilege to build a school carrying the name of such an outstanding citizen.

In accepting the keys Mr. Watson also expressed his thanks to the school board building committee noting that they had been continuously on the job giving over details of construction.

Mr. Symons accepted the keys from Mr. Watson and noted that this was the third time in the past five years that the public school board had received the keys of a new building.

The school had actually been planned from the fall of 1953 but had been referred to 1953 for action and construction had gotten underway in April of this year. Paid assistance to the board members of his building committee including chairman Wilbur VanTassel, Grandame, G. H. Trill and Mac Smith.

School principal C. I. Frederick accepted the keys from Mr. Symons. "I am proud to accept the keys for this wonderful building," he said. "It is a fine example of modern design."

At the same time, however, acceptance of the keys meant a responsibility. The school was one of the greatest of all professions in it opened up opportunities for young men and young women.

Mr. Frederick had high praise for the staff, who he said had carried out the operation of the school during his absence through illness. Mr. Frederick introduced his staff, including vice principal Fred J. Dier and assistants, Mrs. Marion Brown, Miss Mary Cook, Miss Grace Tucker, Miss Iva Horton and Miss Irene McPhee.

Two choir numbers by a public school choir of about 75 pupils and mostly from Queen Alexandra school were much appreciated by the audience. One of the numbers was directed by Douglas Nichols, public school inspector, and the other by Miss Phyllis May, music director for the board.

At the conclusion of the program two members of the MacDONDE, Mrs. R. B. Fonger and Mrs. George Walkin, presented the school with a new flag. Mrs. Fonger noted that the presentation of the flag was a privilege as a province wide project of her organization. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and Prince Philip would be presented later. The flag was accepted on behalf of the school board by F. V. Grandame.

Orillia Citizen Dies in Accident

ORILLIA (CP)—Murray Lewis, 29, driver for the Orillia Creamery was killed late Thursday when the ice-cream truck he was driving went out of control and crashed into a tree on the old Barrie road about three miles west of Rugby. The impact pinned him in the cab.

Lewis, a lifelong resident of Orillia, is married and has two daughters aged 7 months and 2½ years.

New School Officially Opened

New Sir Winston Churchill School Displays Many Outstanding Features

They have been in their classrooms only for a matter of two days but already the new Sir Winston Churchill School has received the stamp of approval from its estimated 256 pupils, from staff members, and also from an interested group of parents and other taxpayers who Thursday evening attended the official opening of the new building.

And well the pupils may approve of their new school. It's the last word in the "little red school house" where the three R's are taught half a century and over ago.

Visitors at the new school on MacDonald Ave. heard the official opening ceremonies and then went on a tour of the city's newest school and for what they saw they had nothing but praise.

Functional design and economy of construction are two school board policies which have been carried out in building the new school. At the same time nothing has been forgotten that would make the building more comfortable and attractive.

ONE-STOREY BUILDING

The building is of conventional one-storey construction consisting of six classrooms, kindergarten and playroom-auditorium, along with principal's room, staff room and kitchen.

The kindergarten with its tiled floor, bright colors and junior sized furniture is a dream come true for the small fry. Although all of the classrooms are finished with their green chalk boards and other equipment they are distinguished by a different colour scheme. No two of the rooms are painted in the same colour. Rubber tiled floors and acoustic ceilings reduce room noise to a minimum. Lighting is over bowl indirect.

Halls in the new school have ceramic floors with brick and painted block walls. The playroom-auditorium, known as the auditorium, has tiled floors and a raised hardwood stage with built-in local speaker equipment.

Another feature of the new school is the most modern type of coal fired boilers which are completely automatic in operation. Stoker feed the coal into one side and ashes are automatically dumped into containers on the opposite side ready for removal. The boilers operate with a complete absence of clinkers.

SPOTLIGHT PHOTOGRAPH

The new school has been called the Sir Winston Churchill Public School and this outstanding British statesman has been doubly honored by the school board. His name appears in large letters on the exterior and in the main hall is a large spotlighted photograph of Britain's present leader.

Undoubtedly the new school is a credit to the public school board, its chairman, William VanTassel, and to Fred Symons, chairman of the building committee. It is also a credit to the contractors and to the architects, Watson and Wiegand, of this city, who designed the building. A large plaque carries the main entrance carries the names of the 1953 school board members, the general contractor and architects.

Construction of the new school is highly fire-resistant. It is built of reinforced concrete slab roof and floors, steel and masonry walls. The general exclusion of plaster materially reduced the cost.

Now a seven-room building, another six classrooms are already planned for the Sir Winston Churchill School and this is expected to be completed by the opening of the fall school term in 1955. Total cost of the building with equipment is expected to cost about $320,000.

General contractor for the school was the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton.

The sub-contractors were: Decorating, Jos. Large; electric wiring, Hibbard Electric; plastering, Pittsburgh Industries; heating and plumbing, Kelly & Cracknell; linoleum, Earl Darrah; roofing, Quinte Roofing; steel, Central Bridge Co.; tile and terrazzo, Spade Tile & Terrazzo.

Members of the 1954 Public School Board are: Chairman, Mr. W. A. VanTassel; vice-chairman, Mr. G. H. Trill; members, Mrs. R. McCabe, Mrs. D. Tugnett, Mr. C. Caverly, Mr. F. Grandame, Mr. C. Hewson, Mr. H. Olsen, Mr. Gordon Base, replaced by Mr. Ray Foote; Dr. J. Russell Scott, Mr. Mac Smith, Mr. F. Symons, Mr. J. Ward, Mr. A. C. Wilkin.

Outstanding Address Given by C. A. Bateman

C. Arthur Bateman, president of Bateman Motors, and a director of the National Used Car Dealers Association, was one of the principal speakers at the association's 8th annual convention in Miami.

Mr. Bateman's address, entitled, "Used Car Merchandising," was so successful that the association are distributing copies to its members throughout the United States and Canada. One automobile manufacturer has requested 2,000 copies for use by their franchised dealers.

Mr. Bateman, a director of the national board of the association for last year, was elected a regional vice-president for the coming year.

Howard Hanton, Clive Ryan Hurt Near Smithfield

Howard Hanton, personnel director of the Corbin Lock Company, resident at 209 Foster Ave. and Clive Ryan, member of the sales staff of the same company, residing at 319 Bridge Street E., in this city, were injured last Thursday evening near Smithfield.

Mr. Hanton was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital with a cerebral fracture of the arm, while Mr. Ryan was shaken up.

Mr. Hanton and Mr. Ryan were proceeding to Toronto and near the residence of David J. White, at Smithfield, their car was in a collision with a car driven by Mr. White, which was proceeding easterly.

Police say Mr. White was turning into his residence driveway when the accident occurred. Cpl. W. Lyle of the OPP, at Brighton investigated. Mr. Hanton's car was a complete wreck.

Two Sentenced To Reformatory On Assault Count

Convicted on a charge of assault causing bodily harm, Douglas J. Parsons, formerly of this city, and George Storms, also of Belleville, were sentenced to terms in the Ontario reformatory on Wednesday by His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson.

Parsons was sentenced to six months definite and two years indeterminate, and Storms to three months definite and 10 months indeterminate.

The two young men were convicted of assaulting John Hefferman in a Front Street alleyway some months ago.

Gideons Reach New Milestone

The month of November saw the Gideon Bible one-million-and-one half millionth copy of the Scriptures in Canada, by the Christian Gideons. This is the cumulative effort of the past 43 years, the period in which the Gideon Bible has been organized in Canada, and carrying on this Bible-placing ministry with association of Christian commercial and business men.

The one-millionth copy of the Scriptures was placed in January 1952, in Victoria Hospital, in Toronto, since which time a period of a little over two-and-a-half years, 500,000 Bible Portion Books have been sent out. Of this impressive total, more than one hundred-and-half a million, familiar sights in hotels, motels, hospitals, jails and other public places. New Testaments made up the balance and were presented to nurses in training, nursing personnel and to school children.

Apart from these Canadian placements, many thousands of copies of the Scriptures have been sent overseas to England and to Japan. The current 1 foreign placement of the Gideons International in Canada is the supplying of upwards of 2,000 copies of a bi-lingual Spanish-English New Testament for distribution in the Republic of Cuba. In Mexico, a work now well underway.

Find Husband Dead

SIMCOE (CP)—A quarrel between a farmer and his wife ended Thursday in the fatal shooting of a gunshot wound and his wife is being held with a fractured skull.

Police said Paul Zukuc, 57, attacked his wife with a rifle butt but she escaped and met her son, Paul, Jr., a short distance away from the house. While they were returning they heard a shot and found the man shot through the head, police said.

Simcoe is about 25 miles southwest of Brantford.

A SIGNIFICANT TOAST

The toast was proposed by Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Russian Communist Party, and was to the health of Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's president.

Premier Malenkov and Foreign Minister Molotov joined Khrushchev in drinking the toast. It is certain they did not do so merely to be polite, to avoid embarrassing a colleague who had pulled a bloomer. That kind of consideration for colleagues is not customary in Communist circles. And, anyway, men who are addicted to the making of bloomers of this nature do not become secretaries of Communist parties, in Russia or anywhere else. It is quite obvious that Malenkov and Molotov expected the toast. Khrushchev also said that he wanted to drink to the health of the Yugoslav Communist party.

Now the Yugoslav Communist party in general and Marshal Tito in particular have not been enjoying the favor of the Kremlin for several years. Why this sudden change of heart?

The answer may be easy. Just an effort to woo Tito and Yugoslavia away from the West.

Perhaps. But do Malenkov, Molotov and company really think that Tito is so naive that he will rejoin the Kremlin kids on the basis of a toast to his health? Is that the type of trusting mind one would expect to find in a Communist leader?

It will take much more than toasts to re-convert Tito to allegiance to the Kremlin. The Russian Communists will have to prove, by words as well as deeds, that they are prepared to grant autonomy to Communist regimes outside the USSR.

There are many opportunities for such deeds—in China as well as in the satellite countries of Eastern Europe.

So, if the toast meant anything, it meant much.

It will take much more than toasts in the future.

In any event, it must be the first time in history in which Communist dictatorial, right, left, centre, up or down, was offered a welcome into the fold while he was still vigorously deviating from the party line.

BRIGHT VISION

John Jay Hopkins, president of General Dynamics Corporation, may find himself assailed as a visionary.

He has proposed that the United States government and private industry launch a hundred-year program to provide atomic power for under-developed countries throughout the world.

This is visionary, it is the type of vision which could build a bright future for the world.

The unlocking of the secret of the atom placed in man's hands the ability to provide abundant power in areas lacking natural resources used in present-day conventional methods.

The difficulty is that atomic reactors are extremely expensive and are likely to remain so for years. They can only be constructed by experts and, once built, must be tended by highly skilled men.

The have-not countries not only lack power but also money and skilled personnel.

Perhaps, eventually, they might be able to lift themselves by their own bootstraps, but it would be a long and weary journey, attended by much misery, not only by the poverty-stricken inhabitants of these areas but also to the rest of the world, too.

Given ample supplies of power, these countries which Hopkins describes as "power-short, food-short, water-short, life-short areas," could eventually remedy their lack of food, water and a full life.

And the world make all the world safer, for despite our own prosperity, poverty in other parts of the globe remains man's most dangerous enemy, breeding plagues both physical and mental.

HOMEBOUND HUBBIES

"A woman's place is in the home."

We have all heard that old bromide—invariably trotted out whenever somebody, generally a man, wants to prevent a woman from doing something.

Now, however, the National Council of Churches in the United States has discovered that the American husband is becoming a homebody.

"We can see clear signs of the domestication of husbands and fathers," says Methodist Bishop Hazen G. Werner, chairman of the council's department of family life.

That statement may raise some eyebrows amongst the older generation of the weaker sex who had been laboring all these years under the delusion that they already had their "better halves" well trained and tamed.

Bishop Werner, however, says that instead of gadabouts and rovers, American husbands are becoming homebound creatures who help do the shopping and putter in home workshops.

All this, said, is to the good.

We are not at all sure how American husbands are going to react to the discovery that their place, too, is in the home.

Considering the disposition of some males when homebound, it does, however, seem to be a development which is unnecessarily hard on women and children.

Headaches-Cause and Cure

(By HAROLD S. WOLFF, Professor of Medicine and Neurology, Cornell University, in "This Week" Magazine)

At least 85 percent of us have headaches at some time or other, and about 18 percent have them often. Although headaches may be annoying and make some people very ill, they rarely indicate a serious condition.

No headache should be ignored even though, happily, the much-feared brain tumor is uncommon. The vascular type of recurrent or periodic headaches are not caused by a seriously threatening illness. And, contrary to popular opinion, only a comparatively small number of people still have headaches caused by their sinuses, their eyes or their teeth.

Since the number of headaches from the causes just mentioned are really few, what about all the others? Is there any real comfort for people who are sick with headaches to be told by their doctors that "there is nothing seriously wrong" with them, or that their headaches are due to "nervousness," anything they must learn to "relax." It is difficult for people with many years of such ecstasies to believe that their headaches are due to "nothing serious." Therefore, they keep looking fruitlessly for some "cause" for their pain.

Many reasons why people have headaches are now understood—for two commonest varieties of headache and vascular headache. This includes migraine headache. In the former, muscles of the head are tightly contracted for hours. Persons with such headaches often say, "The skin of my head feels too exhausted but can't relax". "I feel as if I had a steel band around my head."

These headaches follow emotional tension when one is expecting a period of prolonged, sometimes intense, mental or bodily activity, and when a person feels he must keep himself "alert" and "ready" for many hours, near the close of a long automobile trip or during a period of disencouragement and frustration.

Such headaches are often accompanied by pain in neck and shoulders or stiffness of the arms and hands. Usually they last for only a few cramp-like pains in the head, or a steady, dull ache that may continue for weeks.

Migraine headache, also called "sick headache"; "bilious headache"; and hemicrania, like many other names which reveal much about its recurrent nature, such as Sunday headache, Saturday headache, and wash-day headache. Migraine headache is often a very painful distortion of blood vessels of the head. Often during an attack the arteries can be seen and felt as rope-like structures, more prominent on the painful side than the other. The headache usually starts on one side, but may become generalized. It may begin at any hour, but often awakens the subject early in the morning. It may be very severe, throbbing, "pounding" and accompanied by nausea and vomiting.

People who have migraine headaches are driving themselves into extravagant amounts of energy trying to accomplish more and more and do everything "just right." They have an almost constant dread of being criticized for doing things wrong. These people are considerate, conscientious and industrious and because of this more and more responsibility comes their way.

Of course the most important question to ask is, how can these headaches be prevented? One or two tablets of aspirin will stop many migraine headaches, and even for headaches of the migraine type, there are other drugs which will help headaches that aspirin can't control. But nothing will help more effective than rest, and can give any more than passing relief.

Changes in attitudes involving habits of living, working and how to relax must be made to start the patient on the road to recovery. Often these changes can be made by sitting down on the number of things ordinarily done for certain particular periods of rest and relaxation; and in ending disencouraging things not being done "just so."

These changes would lead to being less rigid, to accepting oneself as being human and not perfect. Husbands, wives and friends may be ideal, but their good qualities can then be seen and enjoyed. Above all, learning to meet life with attitudes that reduce resentment, guilt, tension, fear of disapproval will be very serious efforts in this direction.

Treatment may be brought about by the patient himself, guided by his doctor in the "why's" of headache.

Dairymen Spoofing?

(Fort Arthur News-Chronicle)

The Ontario Concentrated Milk producers association has voted to approach the Ontario government "or other responsible bodies" to get one hour added to daylight for the farmers of the province.

This is probably the first time on record the Ontario government has been credited with having the powers of a Joshua whose fervent prayers procured and extension of daylight for a somewhat different purpose.

Daylight saving doesn't seem to be enough for the dairymen of the dairymen. It is supposed in its effort to add an hour on to the length of the day, but it is merely a misconception on the part of those who voted for it.

The cows don't do that and the dairy-men don't do it, much either. Making 10-p.m. out of 9 p.m. really doesn't add anything to the hours the cow is in milk.

What the dairymen really want is some means of keeping the lights on for the cows after the manner in which it has been done for the chickens so as to increase the length of the day, but it is merely a misconception on the part of those who voted for it.

The difficulty is that grass doesn't grow indoors and that's foodlighting, like that at the Port

Unorthodox But Efficient

(Whitner Star)

Another of those cases of unorthodox but efficient operated with eccentrics has turned up in Windsor, and the lucky woman out there left $10,000 in a cookie jar and her will in a coffee pot just before she died.

Whether those hiding places were the choice of the deceased, or that a good housekeeper soon would discover their contents is irrelevant. It would be disposed to look elsewhere, one cannot help thinking, for the kind of utterance classes that used to be taken for granted.

Apparently there is no way to teach these independent thinkers to trust in the greater security of banks. But it would be interesting that as a class of savers they are highly successful.

Almost invariably their cash nestings run to substantial sums, and there is no record anywhere of a bank run because earned at least by labor. If there is any successful eccentrics in this field of thrift, they don't seem to get their names in the papers.

Arthur stadium, would be impracticable on the farm.

Possibly the dairymen are only spoofing the daylight saving people by reminding them it can't be done.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

I have been noting with great interest the large number of children's books published to-day. Few sights are so inspiring as a child absorbed in a book. By entering into the world of books by himself or herself, a child fortifies itself against many a temptation and many an unhappy moment, for books are like human hands ever ready to help us.

The first book I ever read was Louisa Alcott's "Old Fashioned Girl." I was about 10 years old and me I vowed I could never read another book that would give me so much pleasure. Happily this didn't prove to be true, for I have read hundreds of books, and gathered thousands about me, as friends and companions that have cheered and uplifted me time and again.

It is a wonderful experience, however, for a child to be led into this world of books, and there are many thousands of fine books from which to select. My friends, Margaret and John Kieran, have recently had published a delightful book on Audubon, the great naturalist and painter of birds. It is simply and beautifully written, and should become the favorite of many a child, for it is interestingly illustrated and printed in excellent large type easily read. It should prove to be a great favorite with children.

I have already mentioned in a recent book review, "Clarence the Lion," a book written by an English woman, Clare Kipps, called "Clarence the Lion" a story of a lion cub, written about a sparrow that the lion befriended, and the two accompanied with for more than twelve years! A child should love this tenderly described story.

There is another favorite children's book called "The Little Prince" by the late Antoine de Saint-Exupery, or interest in the life and intriguing illustrated by the author. In "The Dolls' House," A. Milne has written a book that proved that she can write as charmingly for children as for us grown ups.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LANDING AT THE BOTTOM

A religious writer of several generations ago made the statement that there are two ways of coming down from the top of a church steeple. "One," he says, "is to jump down, and the other is to come down by the steps; but both will lead you to the bottom. So, also, there are two ways of going to hell: one is to walk into it with your eyes open and the other is to go down by the steps of little sins; and that way is the more common . . . The devil need only once get his head down to the level of your heart and you will soon be all his own. Never trifle with little sins."

We moderns have become so enamored of our age that we are likely to discredit much of the wisdom of the past. The material world round about us has changed remarkably in the past one hundred years, but the nature of man and the nature of his moral purpose still remain about the same as they have always been. Ancient counsel, therefore, may be as helpful—and often vastly more helpful—than modern counsel.

At any rate, it certainly is true that whether we jump into the evils of life like a man jumping from a church steeple, or go into them gradually, like one descending stairs, the end is the same. We land at the bottom.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE COST OF MEDICINE

A lady who sent for some Life Lessons the other day told me she had profited from other Life Lessons and loaned them to three people who spend a large part of their hard-earned money on medicine. She believes are now sufficiently interested to study physiology, hygiene and health, and save some of the money they are elsewhere squander.

That brings up the question of how much, if any, of the family or personal income is wisely spent for medicine. I mean, of course, for medicine not prescribed by the physician who is attending the patient.

Dr. Brady

There is no scientific evidence the pain-killers or sense-deadeners, such as aspirin, phenacetin, acetanilid, the barbiturates, cure any disease. So why dope ourselves or our children with such drugs when you or they are sick? Aspirin relieves headache, pain or discomfort is not unendurable! Damage of the kidneys, blood, etc., by such substances may sometimes be the chance of recovery if the illness proves more serious than it seemed to be in the early stages.

Millions are spent on patent medicines and do them-selves incalculable harm. Laxatives, liver regulators which the public has been persuaded to believe they must take in order to keep "clean" and healthy. It is extremely difficult to educate poor souls, especially when they have been indoctrinated by near-doctors or near-doctors who run drug stores, clinics or "internal" institutions. They seldom realize that each ungatural interference with the automatic regulation of the bowels irritates the lining membrane and initiates a secretion of mucus which they interpret as an indication for further interference, and so on for as they insist finds hold out.

A good deal of bladder, kidney, prostate, womb and ovarian trouble, hemorrhoids and other pelvic troubles in men and women are attributable to the unnatural side-effects of laxatives and medications of vegetable or herbal type. Many semi-invalids and nutritional deficiency complaints, owe their poor health to the internal filth habit, which prevents normal assimilation of vitamins and minerals from food.

Porpoises Are Smart

(New York Herald Tribune)

Studying the porpoise evidently is a more rewarding occupation than one might suppose. At least the scientists at the Marineland laboratory in Florida seem to be making some rather surprising discoveries concerning the characteristics and habits of these underwater animal. The porpoise can, for instance, play catch with a rubber tube, provided it can find a human being intelligent enough to throw it to him. He can hear sounds up to 100,000 cycles a second, stamping him as a creature with a keener ear for high-fidelity recordings. He can catch in his mouth a small fish thrown to him from a distance of fifty feet, which is more than most people can do.

Indeed, the all-purpose porpoise is such a remarkable beast that it is highly unfortunate he ever fell into such aqueous habits. The only thing that keeps him from giving the dog a good run as man's favorite pet is that he looks like a fish, acts like a fish and, in all probability, thinks rather like a fish. That he actually is a mammal and what is more, a mammal with a keen sense of humor, is quite a bit. Few people are willing to get wet just to play with or tickle the head of a porpoise. So, despite the remarkable discoveries of the Marineland scientists, few people seem likely to go their respective ways, which from the standpoint of the porpoise, at least, may be just as well.

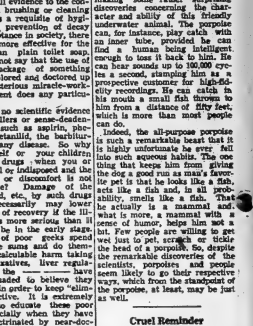
By GREGORY CLARK

At a junior hockey game the other day I sat where I could see the children's faces as they watched their children. And the impression they made on me was one to cause me to hurry home after the game and dig out of my dusty archives one or two of those photographs and entrance classes that used to be taken at school and teams.

The faded pictures I gazed upon were taken thirty to forty years ago. In them I saw faces that were bore little if any resemblance to the children I had been looking at an hour earlier at the hockey game.

The children of thirty years ago were tame. They were modest, polished. My own parents along each row of my almost-forgotten and wholly forgotten fellow pupils. And they were all in all a same-ness of expression, a queer similarity. Some were dark, some fair. Some were skinny, some fat. But in our little stiff bearing, our dumb expression, we were identical in one thing—no trace of individuality.

In my school days, not only was there no attempt to encourage individuality: it was systematically suppressed. So important were the few principles of reading, writing and arithmetic that we had to learn that there was no time to be wasted in cultivating what we thought slical individuality in the little brats. Time enough for us do become individuals after we had acquired the means of individuality and mass the ability to read, write and figure.



The modern children I had been studying at the hockey game were anything but same. They were wild and free. Unlike their mouse-like progenitors at their age, they were already half-adult in their bearing and expression. Their every gesture was already evident in their faces and behavior. We were boys all alike. They are brats all different.

Department of Labor Accepts Recommendation of Committee

The recommendation from the Belleville and District Apprenticeship Advisory Committee that the Department of Labor expand its present training program to provide for nine months' trade school training for apprentices in certain building trades has been accepted in principle by the provincial advisory committee.

Members of the local committee have been advised their recommendation has been discussed by the provincial committee and the matter will be further discussed with the idea of making provisions for apprentices in the small centres. The provincial body felt, however, that the shop training period should be for six months and not for nine as suggested by the local recommendation. The latter was agreeable to the local committee.

The recommendation of the local committee covered apprentices in the carpentry, plastering, bricklaying and masons, electric wiring and installation trades. It was asked the apprentices in these trades be given class room and shop training at a trades training school for nine months of the year for two consecutive years.

On successful completion of these two years the apprentice would be given temporary status in the trade which would be made permanent upon completion of an additional year as an improver.

Such a training program would cover boys from the smaller centres such as Belleville where the problems of the apprentices is more acute than in the larger centres.

Members of the local committee at their last meeting expressed pleasure on hearing that their recommendation had been accepted in principal by the provincial board.

PARTICULARLY INTERESTED

Committee member L. Alyea noted he had visited the local collegiate and was particularly impressed by the choice and amount of equipment received and on order for the electrical course at the school. He will contact the school instructor concerning a course of study that would be suitable for electricians in the area.

He suggested that local industry might be interested in helping out the school by supplying used and scrap conduit for practise purposes at a saving to the high school board.

A letter of resignation from committee member H. H. Murray was read and several names were suggested to fill the employer vacancy created by the resignation.

Mr. Enos David brought up the matter of training in telecommunication radio and TV mechanics. The meeting expressed considerable interest in this type of training and suggested consideration should be given to inaugurating a course at the provincial institute of trades. Mr. C. Hercus said he believed the director of apprenticeships was thinking along these lines and in all probability the local committee would hear more about the matter in the near future.

Attending the meeting were: chairman A. O. Drysdale, N. Smith, J. Musgrove, E. A. Orr, C. Hercus, E. Liddle, E. David, I. Alyea, K. A. Bland, A. Firth and H. S. Blakely.

New Licence Plates Will Have Only Numbers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's 1955 motor vehicle licence plates, minus the usual letter-number combinations, go on sale Jan. 2.

New plates will have only numbers—at least up to 999,999—for passenger cars and number-letter combinations. After the first million a letter will precede the number.

But there won't be any motorist with an exclusive "1" at the front and rear of his car. The plates will start at 1,001 and the first 4,000 will go to vehicles of the federal and provincial governments.

All the plates will be a standard size, six inches high by 12 inches wide. They will have white numbers on blue background and a white crown at the top centre. Periods will mark off the numbers into thousands.

MORE COMBINATIONS

J. P. Bickell, registrar of motor vehicles for the department of highways, says the new system of numbers will give more combinations than the old letter-number system. It will also eliminate confusion such as O's for zeros.

The standard - size plates are gradually being adopted by Canadian provinces and the states of the United States as the result of a recommendation of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Registrars.

Manufacturers have agreed to provide a fixed place at the front and rear of cars for the standard-size plates, said Mr. Bickell.

As usual, Ontario's 1955 plates are being made at the Ontario reformatory in Guelph.

Charlotte Whitton Unleashes Fury Of Sharp Tongue

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Scrappy, unlimbered Charlotte Whitton has unleashed the full fury of a woman's tongue in a roaring battle to trounce two men opponents and retain her mayoralty crown.

Many a seasoned observer believes she'll succeed — especially the women who form about 60 per cent of the local vote. The battle ends with civic elections Monday.

Holding the chief magistrate's job in a national capital is a rarity for a woman. But Flighty Charlotte, who once challenged a city father to step outside to settle a quarrel, has held it since 1950.

THIRD TERM

She's coming up for her third term, facing opposition from two husky men, a solid civil servant nearing retirement and a fuel merchant who has held the city boss job before and is a veteran campaigner.

But the woman mayor is not impressed. The opposition, she said with utter disdain, is an attempt to "free an old cat with two terriers." The terriers apparently are finding the cat hard to get over. She's set a hard, unyielding campaign pace, pounding at the opposition with words no voter can fail to understand.

"I'm no angel," she admitted in newspaper advertisements, "but I am a good mayor."

HER RIVALS

One rival is E. A. Bourque, 63-year-old Lawrence Park merchant who held the mayor's crown for two years before his defeat in 1850. Placid, friendly and rather slow and plodding, he is remembered for his work in expanding the capital by annexation of suburban areas. He has promised "sound, dignified administration" if elected.

Candidate David Burgess is a 64-year-old federal civil servant and civic hospital trustee who decided he could no longer put up with the mayor's shenanigans at city hall and got keen to get into the fight. His last venture in active politics was in 1926 when he was defeated in the federal Prince Albert riding by the late prime minister Mackenzie King.

Gen. W. W. Foster Dies Suddenly In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, holder of 14 decorations and one of Canada's most distinguished military figures, died suddenly here Thursday. He was 70.

He will be given a military funeral, arrangements to be announced later.

He came to Canada 60 years ago and served in both world wars. He was born William Wasbrough Foster in Bristol, England.

In the Second World War, Gen. Foster was appointed assistant to the war cabinet, and directed defence projects in the northern part of the country, acting as a liaison between Canada and the U.S.

Golf and Country Club Enjoyed Successful Year

TRENTON (Special) — The financial statement presented at the annual meeting of the membership of the Trenton Golf and Country Club showed the club had another successful season. Improvements to the golf course added considerable revenue in green fees, the report indicated.

The outgoing board of directors suggested that a fence be erected along the western boundary of the course between the club's property and the new housing project known as Champlain Heights. This would cost approximately $2,500, a director said. Members were told that the directors would have to consider building a new caddy house and professional's shop in the near future. Expenditure for this project was estimated at $4,000.

Business discussions and election of officers followed a turkey dinner, with 75 members sitting down to the tables.

Municipal Vote Monday Likely To Be Light

TRENTON (Special) — Present indications are that the vote cast in the election for municipal offices here on Monday will fall far short of the total number of ballots counted last year. Last year 2,800 votes (51 per cent of the possible vote) were recorded when a three-way fight for mayor developed and the six council seats were contested.

The apparent decline in interest in the voting Monday has been attributed to the absence of a contest for the Chief Magistrate's chair. Mayor Ross Burtt was returned by acclamation when four nominees did not qualify to run against him.

An old timer in municipal elections sums up the situation like this: "In all the years I have been around there have never been seen it go quiet at election time."

In the field for the six council seats are five members of the 1954 council: Claude Graham, J. MacDonald, N. J. McNair, R. Smithrim and Gerald Weaver; two newcomers, Harold Blakely and Joe Gould, and Jack Goldberg, who lacked a few votes to win a place on council last year.

The polls open here Monday at 10.00 a.m. and close at 7.00 p.m.

Many Attend 'Open House' At New Parsonage

In the pale glow of fading afternoon sunshine No. 7 Wareham Street, the new parsonage of Ballstone Street United Church presented a quiet and dignified appearance for the "Open House" yesterday with its freshly painted white woodwork making a pleasing contrast with the red brick facade.

Receiving the guests at the door were the host, the Reverend Sidney E. Larman, Mr. Garry Dobbin, and Mrs. Fred Wilson, accorded them a kindly welcome, after which they were escorted by attired, the former in deep violet corded silk with shoulder corsage of tiny yellow pom poms, and the latter in pale blue taffeta with matching shoulder corsage.

LOVELY INTERIOR

The dignified exterior of the parsonage home was softened and lightened by the restful loveliness of its interior. The living room, hall and dining room, which by means of archways gave the impression of one large room, were finished in graduating tones of pastel green with white woodwork trim. The floors of polished quarter-cut oak were partially covered in the living room with mushroom-tone broadloom which extended part way to the glowing fireplace, on either side of which were two new chairs, one upholstered in harmonizing mushroom shade, and the other in red. The double-shelf, walnut, arborite-topped end table, the tall, silver standard of rose-massive chrysanthemums, and the indirect light from the new white-shaded floor lamp added further charm to the room's homey hospitality.

DINING ROOM

The dining room, on the other side of the archway, had the same polished quarter-cut oak flooring, also partially covered with two floral design rugs from former parsonage home. At the east end of the wide archway a matching silver standard of similar chrysanthemums, and in the bay window overlooking the Bridge Street, stood a large sweet-pea white graceful leaves near by touched the floor.

The tea table, arranged at the far end of the adjoining dining room, was daintily appointed for the Christmas season, with a hand-crocheted lace cloth in the decru, centred by frosted pine sprays; candles bound with tinsel, tiny gold bells, silver leaves and gleaming blue and silver grapes hung from the spray in cluster tall cones of tiny silver glories. A complementary arrangements completed the centre of the buffet.

PRESIDING

Those who presided were: Mrs. C. Templer, Mrs. G. Coulter, Mrs. G. Dobbin, Mrs. R. Webster, Mrs. M. Hick, Mrs. J. Robinson, Mrs. I. W. Knight and Mrs. M. Frederick.

Those who served were: Mrs. Burroughs, Mrs. Mooney, Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Panter, Mrs. Vanoeten, Mrs. Keough, Miss Ann Hall, Mrs. L. Hendrick, Mrs. M. Hick, Mrs. White, Mrs. F. Westover and Mrs. Burke.

Accompanying the guests on their tour of the upstairs section of the parsonage were: Mrs. Joblin, Mrs. Kenrick, Mrs. Lowther, Mrs. Wellborne, Mrs. Jeffery, Mrs. F. Wilson and Mrs. Moynes. Here, the floorings were of large dress of interwoven lace and rosebuds. She carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds.

Mr. Glenn Cornell, of Niagara Falls, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, Mr. Ted Coppland, of Toronto, and Mr. Francis Callaghan, of Belleville, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held in the church assembly room, the bride's mother, in black French wool, with winter-white hat, black accessories, and corsage of red roses, received. The bridegroom's mother, who wore a silver-blue dress, peau de soie, with navy accessories, and corsage of red roses, assisted in the receiving line.

For motoring through the State, the bride chose a blue suit with winter white hat, blue accessories, and orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Cornell will reside in Bala, Muskoka.

Guests were present from Toronto, Niagara Falls, Tamworth and Thorold, Ontario.

FOSTER—CORFIELD

An interesting double-ring wedding was performed by the Rev. Everett Smith in Christ church, Bellville, on Saturday, November 6, when Margaret Alice Corfield, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Corfield, R.R. 1, Belleville, was united in marriage to Clifford Arnold Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Foster, of East Lake, Prince Edward County, the latter for the occasion.

John Croyden Withers, in church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Mary Thompson, of Toronto, who sang "The Wedding Prayer," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of white silk velvet, featuring a fitted bodice buttoned down the front to a long "V"-shaped waistline fitted to a shirred skirt. The long sleeves were sheath-like ending in points over the wrists and hand, and rhinestone encrusted headdress held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Barbara Redner, Carrying Place, R.R. 1, as maid of honor, was gowned in a floor-length gown of copper-colored peauglase taffeta; flared skirt, fitted bodice with bolero having three-quarter length sleeves.

Mrs. Norman Post, of Carrying Place, R.R. 1, as matron of honor, wore a similarly designed gown in Griffe gold peauglase taffeta, and Miss Marilyn Barber, of Consecon, T, as bridesmaid, was gowned in forest green peauglase taffeta; floor length skirt, fitted bodice with bolero having three-quarter length sleeves.

All wore headdresses of bronze and yellow roses, and carried nosegays of bronze, yellow and white mums.

Mr. Donald J. Foster, of Picton, attended his brother as groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Glynn Reynolds and Mr. William (Bill) Corfield, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in Bellamy's Lower Hall which was prettily decorated. The bride's mother chose allegro blue crepe tiostina for her daughter's wedding. The front of the gown was embossed with sequins and bugle beads. She wore a pink wool felt hat and pink gloves, with corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in plum shade crepe with long sleeves with matching hat and gloves. Mrs. F. C. File, the bride's grandmother also assisted, wearing grey crepe with black accessories and hat.

The bride's table appointed with white linen damask, was centred with the wedding cake, and flanked by candelabra with tapers of mauve and white, and vases of pink mums. Assisting those who served included the Misses Sybil Redner, Joanne Rozniak, Marion Conklin, Joyce Wood, Eleanor, Walt, Jean Barber and Mrs. Glynn Reynolds.

Following the reception the guests were invited to the home of the bride's grandmother, where the many lovely wedding gifts were on display.

For motoring to Niagara Falls, Western Ontario, Detroit, Chicago, Ohio, New York West Virginia, and Connecticut the bride donned a navy-blue suit, winter white hat, sand gloves, red purse and shoes, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Alliston, Gall, Toronto, Port Hope, Fenwick, Picton, Lindsay and Belleville.

Miss Marilyn Barber also entertained the girls' softball team at her home at a shower in honor of the bride and Mrs. Donald Foster and Miss Joanne Rozniak, of Picton, were co-hostesses at a personal shower at Mrs. Taylor's home.

EROS — SHANNIK

Tall standards of white and yellow chrysanthemums and ferns adorned the chancel rail and altar of Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 20, when Elizabeth Jane Hazel Shannik, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shannik, became the bride of Allan John Eros, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eros, of Vancouver, B.C. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Fred Shannik, the bride wore a lovely ballerina-length gown of white slipper satin with nylon net overskirt, fashioned with matching jacket. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiny coronet studded with seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Heather Musclow, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant, attractively gowned in pale blue nylon net over taffeta with matching headdress embroidered with sequin trim. She carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Mr. Donald Shannik, of Belleville, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and the ushers were discomfolation in the painful measures of Bo ccherini's minuet which Beethoven called "L'Adorence". Mr. Bolet came through the finale (called "Le Retour") with ebullience and gusto and seemed to be having a good time playing it as Beethoven did in composing it. This Sonata always goes well and is not hard to take, one that Mr. Bolet carried off extremely well.

The two Chopin opi were examples of the different facets of this Polish romantic's musical speech. The Nocturne in D flat major, Op. 27 No. 2 is a lovely journey into the morbidly and state that this composer often found himself falling into, and Mr. Bolet gave it just that meaning which only an artist can convey successfully to his listeners. On the other hand, the impassioned stillness of the Scherzo in B flat minor were again suited to the agile and flying fingers that Mr. Bolet possesses. The peri ty fury that Chopin is good in this work was admirably envisaged in the tremendous cascades of notes, and the heaviness in the chords that Mr. Bolet indulged in.

SELDOM HEARD PRELUDE

The most intellectual and meaty composition of the entire evening was the Prelude, Choral Prelude, Aria and finale of Cesar Franck. The work is deeply mystical and spiritual at times of the Cloisters which this composer rarely ever strayed away from. Even though tremendous climaxes are reached, we eventually reach the emotion of only peace and serenity as the closing measures bee lie these ears, but that Baldwin was unmercifully pounded at times. But the main thing is all is that we did enjoy the performance as our applause attested, and the final criterion in the long run.

Cuban Pianist, Jorge Bolet, Delights Concert-Goers

(By EUGENE LANG)

Members of the Belleville Community Concert Association were treated to a fine evening of sensational piano playing by Jorge Bolet, internationally acclaimed Cuban pianist, in the Collegiate Auditorium here Wednesday.

Mr. Bolet is a top-flight artist of the most widely heard recitalists on the concert stage, and is as much in demand for his orchestral performances as for his solo appearances throughout the U.S., Central America, the West Indies, South America and Canada. This year has also seen his first tour of the Federal Republic of Germany. Although a native of Cuba, he is now an American citizen. He has studied intensively at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, one of America's leading musical academies.

Mr. Bolet's program was unusual in that it was devoted entirely to music of leading nineteenth century keyboard composers. This century produced the greatest works for the piano so far in musical history and composers vied with each other in the realms of tonal invention and technical brilliancy in regards their works for the piano. Here is the works of the later Beethoven, Chopin, Franck, Rachmaninoff and Liszt. The music often took on the feeling of massiveness of design and conception. This interpretation that Mr. Bolet realized in his playing, that of massiveness and heaviness in the approach to the piano. Here was robust writing that was backed by an exceptional virtuoso technique that the artist could command for his every moment of brilliant pianistic display. The two Etudes of Rachmaninoff and the grotesque Mephisto Waltz of Liszt were made to be played by pianists like Mr. Bolet, works teeming with visual runs, leaps and bounds from one end of the keyboard to the other. These compositions held the audience with rapt breath as Mr. Bolet let loose with ever increasing surges of demoniacal force that many exceptional feats of eighty-eight keys at his disposal.

BEETHOVEN AND CHOPIN

The Beethoven Sonata in E flat major, Op. 81a entitled "Les Adieux" was just a wedding of solidarity infused with pensiveness in the opening Adagio and Mr. Clinton Vader and Mr. Gerald Webb.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion with white and pink streamers. The bride's mother, wearing navy blue crepe with corsage of pink roses, received the guests.

For travelling to Toronto and points west, the bride chose a navy, suit with red accessories and corsage of red roses.

Rickey Alexander Honored by Seven Little Friends

Yesterday afternoon proved a hilariously happy time for little three-year-old Rickey Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Alexander, 52 Emily street, when seven little friends, Janet Wealthman, Lorraine Kokesh, Sharon Armstrong, Bobby Rowboltham, Tommy Lafferty, Brian Royle and Michael Smith assembled in honor of his third birthday which he celebrates today. It is the party of the immediate family.

After playing with the pretty toys which Rickie received, which included a miniature piano, toy telephone, tom-tom drum, and others, refreshments were served consisting of a birthday cake with three blue candles, fancy and plain sandwiches, gingerale, milk, cookies and candy.

Rickey was also the recipient of personal gifts including clothes and pretty birthday cards.

Among the adults present were his mother and father Mr. and Mrs. Gerr; and his grandmother, Mrs. Irvine Hunter of Napanee.

St. John's Guild Re-Elects Former Officers

St. John's Guild of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill church held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of the president Mrs. R. Babcock, Herchimer Avenue, with approximately 14 present.

The rector, the Rev. L. A. Page congratulated the Guild on its most successful year, and presided for the election of 1955 officers, who were returned unanimously to their former offices as follows: Mrs. R. Babcock, president; Mrs. W. Messer, vice-president; Mrs. G. Corby, treasurer; Mrs. H. Putman, flower fund.

The serving of refreshments and prayer by the rector, brought the meeting to a close.

different in content — and these were really played with relish by Mr. Bolet. The Liszt Mephisto Waltz, the rhythmic Afro Cuban number, and the sparkling Dance of Moszkowski were all excellently portrayed.

Mr. Bolet is a first class pianist in every detail. But with malice to no one (least of all the pianist himself) may this writer go so far as to say that at times his interpretations were over virile to the extent that the piano ceased to be musical and wavered into the realm of a purely percussive instrument lacking warmth. Mr. Bolet has these ears, but that Baldwin was unmercifully pounded at times. But the main thing is all is that we did enjoy the performance as our applause attested, and the final criterion in the long run.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHCOTE FAIRFAX

SHE THINKS HE'S TOO YOUNG FOR HER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At the place where I work there is a girl who refuses to go out, she says I'm too young for her.

Dear T.Y.:

The answer to your question depends altogether on how mature you are. That is, the fact that you are younger than this girl in years, doesn't necessarily mean that you are younger than she is mentally and emotionally, and so, an appropriate companion for her.

Some people are older than their actual age; others are younger than their years. The factor that determines whether or not two people of different ages can be companionable is similarity of ideas and standards, tastes and interests. Possibly the way you behave in the office makes this girl believe that you are younger than she is in all these things, and so she thinks there would be no common ground on which you two could meet and enjoy each other's company.

Do you know what her chief interests are, and if so, are they subjects on which you are informed so that you can both talk and listen intelligently? If you never have made an effort to find out what she's interested in, start doing so; not in a way that would make her think you are prying, of course, but quietly. Then, when you know what she likes to do, you will be in a much better position to plan for a date she would enjoy. If she likes music, invite her to a concert. If she likes the theatre, get tickets for a play. If she likes bowling, or some other sport, invite her to spend an evening at a bowling alley, or watching basketball, a hockey game, or whatever.

The best way to find out if you're too young for her or old be a congenial friend with anyone is to see how open you are yourself on the things you each like to do. If you can find a meeting ground there, it doesn't matter very much be the difference in your ages.

A KISS AFTER A DATE IS NOT AN OBLIGATION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My problem is that I always seem to get very nervous on my date home from a date because I keep wondering whether or not I have to kiss the boy goodnight. Usually when a boy dates a girl more than once or twice, he expects a goodnight kiss.

I worry about this the whole evening, and that's why I never seem to enjoy having dates.

Carol

Dear Carol:

If a boy asks a girl out on a date, it's a sign that he likes to be with her, isn't it? And if a boy really enjoys a girl's company, and is the right kind of boy, he's not going to stop asking her out just because she'd rather not indulge in casual kissing. If he does drop her for any such reason, then he isn't a very worthwhile friend.

I'm not saying there's anything wrong about a quick, friendly kiss when a boy leaves a girl at the end of an evening out together. But I do think if he's taken her out no more than twice or twice every that kind of kiss could well wait awhile.

Personally, I happen to think that it's smarter for girls—and boys, too, for that matter—to have their kisses for the real love they will meet when they're the right age. And if you're that type of girl, I think it's fine.

So don't let anyone talk you into thinking kissing is an obligation you owe a boy for having invited you out. It's not, no matter what anyone tells you. When a boy brings you home after a date thank him in a warm, and enthusiastic way that assures him you had a fine time; and let that be your goodnight. Make up your mind this will be your way of doing things, and follow it out consistently. Then you won't be spending your evenings worrying about what you're going to do, because you'll know.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

NOTE: M.A.M. made a telephoned request for Pan Tans.

PAN TANS

Using the same yeast dough that you would use for hot cross or Parkerhouse rolls roll it out inch thick into an oblong 9 inches wide. Spread with soft butter. Cut into 6 long strips 1 1-2 inches wide. Stack 6 strips evenly, one on top of the other. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Place them, cut side down in greased muffin cups and let rise until ready to bake. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes.

QUESTION:

. . . As I have only been cooking about 2 years I find a lot of good hints and recipes in your column. . . . last year you printed Moist White Fruit Cake. . . . could you send me another copy? I lined my pan with foil. . . . would that account for it not slicing too well? Are you supposed to remove paper when it comes from oven, cool and then wrap again to be put away? Have you a recipe for Barbecue sauce that would keep? Which cookbook do you think is best?—Mrs. D. P.

ANSWER:

I have mailed the recipe for moist white fruit cake. I gave Pete one of those cakes to take back to school with him, when they were first baked and he complained of it not slicing—but he had cut it about 2 days after it was made. Mine were stored for 4 weeks well-wrapped and did not crumble, and did slice well. Could you have cut them a bit earlier? Leave the paper lining on the cake—I even leave it on when they are cool. Wrap double or triple wax paper, then towels and store in covered container.

BARBECUE SAUCE

Mix together 1 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon tabasco sauce, 1-4 teaspoon chili powder, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Bring to boiling point, pour into sterile jar and seal. If you want this to keep indefinitely, after sealing, immerse top for 1 inch, and process in hot water bath 30 minutes.

I have written to you about cookbook.

QUESTION:

I would appreciate a good recipe for a chocolate cake as mine are always dry. . . . also how best to cook a chicken which is cut up.—Mrs. J. R.

ANSWER:

MOIST CHOCOLATE CAKE

Two-thirds cup shortening at room temperature, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, 3 1-2 squares chocolate melted (3 1-2 oz.) 2 1-8 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each soda, salt, 1-4 cup buttermilk (sweet milk will do). Cream shortening until fluffy then cream in sugar gradually. Beat in eggs thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together. Blend chocolate into wet mix, then add dry mix alternately with buttermilk, about one-third of each at a time. Pour into 2 9-inch layer pans, bottom of which are lined with greased wax paper. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes. If this is baked in square or oblong pan bake 40 to 45 minutes.

Our favorite method of preparing cut up chicken has suggested this page often:

BAKED CHICKEN SUPREME

Dredge washed and dried cut up young chicken with flour that has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Place in medium-sized baking dish and dot with 1-4 cup butter. Bake 30 minutes in oven of 425 deg. Fahr., basting every five minutes with mixture of 1-4 cup each butter and boiling water. Turn chicken over, cover, reduce heat to 275 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes or until all pieces of dark meat are tender. Serve with gravy made by diluting fat in pan with 1-2 cup each water and milk and thickened with flour paste of 3 tablespoons each water and flour.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

EVERYONE . . . BUT EVERYONE . . . LOVES TO RECEIVE A CHRISTMAS CARD!

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I don't know why, but this year I seem to have an urge to send more Christmas greeting cards. I've never heretofore made much of a point of sending Christmas cards—just a few, to some relatives and a few close friends. But this year I keep thinking of many more friends I'd like to send cards to, some acquaintances I'd like to have know we're thinking of them at Christmas time, perhaps the older man who usually delivers our groceries, and the nice boy who delivers our newspapers. Now I'm wondering if it is really proper to send Christmas cards to mere acquaintances and to those who serve you during the year?

—Nan W.

Yes! . . . my enthusiastic answer to urge you to "follow the star" of your good idea.

A Christmas card is a pleasant gesture of Good Will, and so, dear lady, it's proper to send cards not only to intimate friends, but to not-so-close friends, and to acquaintances, and to those who serve us in say capacity. These cards may mean more—to—them—than you might possibly think. Hearts are always touched by a kind thought.

Christmas time is the perfect time to send cordial greetings to those people who serve you during the year. "The butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker," a special Christmas present. But now that I have his address, what would you suggest I send him as a combination birthday and New Year's present? (His birthday is quite near New Year's Day.)

—Anetta A.

If that special present you wanted to send him isn't too hefty, you might like to send it even now for Christmas via Air Parcel Post (I believe that's 80 cents a pound, or a fraction of a pound . . . not very costly for sending a sweater, for example). Or for his birthday-New Year's present, I'm sure he'll be thrilled to receive, money, money . . . send this via money order. This gift of "cold cash" will be heart-warming! Since I judge he has arrived at his station recently, he'll undoubtedly like to have some extra money to make trips. If he enjoys reading, you might now or later send him one or two of the books now on the best-seller list, or a biography of someone you know he's particularly enthusiastic about. And if you think it won't make him homesick, you might send him a subscription to his hometown newspaper! And do write him a long, newsy, devoted-cousin letter . . . that's the best of all gifts to a serviceman overseas.

Mother's Helper

YOUR OLDER children and their friends will enjoy a Christmas Caroling Party. They can sing to the neighbors and then have a hot supper together. It's important to have a couple of informal rehearsals beforehand, and they can be almost as much fun as the actual event.

The "older man" who delivers your newspapers. The always-willing postman. And if you give a gift or a Christmas tip to any of these-who-serve, always accompany it with a thoughtfully-chosen Christmas card. And it's nice to add a personal message to the printed message. For example: "Our greetings to you, our appreciation, and best wishes for your New Year."

FACIAL MASSAGE

When a woman notices that the tissues of her face are relaxing she would do well to have some professional attention. A course of treatments will prove to be a good investment since, not only will they do much to eradicate these signs of age but, in the process of having them, she will learn how to take care of the problem at home.

Methods of treatment vary according to different operators. But, in any case, the work is done with delicacy and precision. During her term of training, the operator has learned about the muscles of the face, their relation to each other and the location of nerves and arteries.

The first step is a thorough cleansing with a thin cream. Neck, chest and shoulders are included. Then a heavier cream is spread on and the manipulations begin. Deft fingers sweep up and down on the neck. If there are reflections that a spare rim is forming, it is picked up and rolled between thumb and finger to dissolve the fat cells.

Circular movement around the eyes stirs fatigue shadows and halts the progress of any little lines that may be forming. Frown lines are lifted. Even the word "ironing" treatment.

The entire area to be treated is then subjected to a light hammering to bestir the circulatory streams, the operator using all fingers and thumbs, one following the other briskly. The flesh will glow, which means that cell repairs are going on.

As for friction rollers, then an astringent or skin tonic is applied. And the face is ready for makeup!

A minor benefit in an hour of skilled relaxation, a luxury for women here in busy hectic times.

Bridge St. Church Choir Enjoys Dinner Party

A sing-song led by Miss Margaret Hillis, added to the merriment of the party.

Mrs. Clinton MacDonald introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton of Bayside, who spoke on "Humor."

Mr. K. Graham thanked Mr. Middleton for his interesting and witty address.

Good Program Planned For C.C. Conference

The third annual Christian Curriculum Development Conference will take place in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The theme of this conference will be "The Role of English in Developing the Integrated Personality."

An interesting program has been planned. There are to be four addresses by able speakers who are all teachers and familiar with the topic, after each of which there will be a question period. The addresses take place Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Dr. Edward McCracken of Jacques Cartier Normal School, Montreal, will speak on "Goals in the Teaching of English". Miss Dorothy Ryan, Ottawa Teachers' College, will address the session on "Teaching the Language Arts". On Sunday morning Rev. L. Shook, C.S.B., St. Michael's College, Toronto, is to speak on how to develop an appreciation for literature. The same morning Rev. Brother Phillip, F.S.C., of Laval University, Quebec, will handle the topic: "Choosing the Text".

Registration takes place Friday evening at 7.00 p.m. followed by the first general session and a panel discussion on "Democracy in Education."

At 8.30 a.m. Saturday the book exhibits will be open.

Each afternoon at 2.00 p.m. there will be group discussions, each group consisting of twelve delegates selected according to grade level interest. Another general session will take place at 4.45 p.m. Sunday.

The conference closes with a dinner at which Professor B. C. Dilke, M.A., from the Ontario College of Education, will speak on the personal interview.

Those responsible for this conference have carefully planned their program and chosen speakers renowned in the field of education. The following teachers from this district plan to attend: Rev. Sister M. Stanislaus, and Rev. Sr. M. Andrea from Trenton, Rev. Sister M. Evelyn, B.A., district OECTA president, Rev. Sr. M. Teresa, B.A., Rev. Sister M. Helen Rita, Rev. Sr. M. Andrew, Rev. Sr. M. Claude, B.A., Rev. Sr. M. Timothy, Mrs. K. Callaghan and Miss E. Burkett, all from Belleville.

THE POTATO RANCHER AND THE SLICKERS

One time old Fred who was a potato rancher went to the city with a suitcase full of cash to buy a Cadillac. When he arrived he met two slickers who said that they were also from out of town. They all went out together to see the sights, and it was then that the slickers confided to old Fred that they had a fast deal for him to buy City Hall for only 1,000 dollars. But old Fred was not to be outsmarted of his hard-earned cash and said, "You can't fool me 'cause I buy a lot of seed potatoes and I know that you only get what you pay for".

Public Speaking, Choral Test Held at Madoc HS

STIRLING — Hastings County Junior Farmer public speaking and choral competition was held Friday at Madoc high school.

The adjudicator, Mr. G. I. Warlow, director of publicity at O.A.C., Guelph, was in charge of the public speaking. Miss Eva Martin chose as her subject, "Canadian Agriculture on the March," and she will be eligible to compete in Toronto in March 1955 at the Federation of Agriculture annual meeting and the Junior Farmers' Conference.

Mr. C. A. Temple, teacher of music at Belleville Collegiate Institute, adjudicated the choral work with one entry in each class.

The Rawdon male quartet, Messrs. Edgar Graham, Ralph Johnson, Craig Watson and Glenn Watson, sang the assigned selection "The Miller's Maid" and their choice "Church in the Wildwood."

A mixed quartet, Misses Marilene Carlisle and Marlene Moorcroft, Messrs. Ralph Richardson and Boyd Moorcroft, the assigned piece, "Liberty" and their choice, "The Mansion Over the Hilltop."

The Hungerford ladies' trio, Misses Phyllis Kleinsteuber, Mardelle Wheeler and Norma Lynn sang assigned selection "Fairest Isle" and their choice, "Spin, Lady Spin."

All these selections were sung, words and music from memory and unaccompanied.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. Howard Smith and his sister, Mrs. Luella Hubbell who has been making her home with her brother since Mrs. Smith's death, two-and-a-half years ago, left on Saturday evening for Kingston where they will occupy an apartment at the home of their niece.

Mr. Smith came to Tweed from Collingwood about 20 years ago, when he was employed by the Imperial Oil Company. Oil was percolated from this company some time ago and for late years has been caretaker of the Bank of Montreal. Mr. Smith sold his home on North Victoria Street to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne, who took possession on Saturday, immediately after the auction sale of Mr. Smith's household effects. He has made many friends in Tweed who will regret to hear of his departure from the village. Mr. Smith has not been in the best of health for some time.

Canuck Bettors Pour Over $1 Million Through Pari-Mutuel Machines

OTTAWA (CP)—A record $61,053,367 was poured through Canadian mutuel machines by horse-racer-goers this year although there were fewer races and racing days.

The peak take compared with $77,790,586 wagered in 1953 and the $37,068,139 bet on the through-bred 10 years ago.

Ontario, Alberta and Saskatchewan showed increases in betting, number of races, racing days and prize money, but the other three racing provinces of Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia saw some decreases.

Wagering dropped $2,780,994 in Quebec, which was left with one racing association, the Connaught Park Jockey Club seven miles west of Ottawa, when the three in Montreal converted to harness racing to give the province only 12 days of racing compared with 86 in 1953.

Betting was down $819,283 in B.C. and $452,041 in Manitoba, but up $7,130,977 in Ontario, $782,381 in Alberta and $186,830 in Saskatchewan.

Thirty-one racing associations sponsored 2,696 races during 1954 days of racing compared with 2,916 races held on 376 days by 35 associations in 1953. The number of racing days was the lowest since 1947, when there were 339.

The agriculture department, issuing the figures Wednesday, said $57,101,161 of the total $61,053,367 wagered went back to bettors in winnings, biggest bonanza to punters in its record years.

Of the remaining money, the six provincial governments collected $2,139,781 in pari-mutuel taxes, down $370,617 from last year, and racing associations retained $1,813,800, up $130,861.

Ontario continued as the highest betting province by far; race-goers there accounting for more than 70 per cent of the national total with wagerings of $57,131,423.

Most money wagered at a single event was the $2,252,541 bet on 12 races during a 14-day program held at Ontario's Fort Erie track by the Belleville Driving and Racing Association. This compared with a low of $694 bet at a one-day meet at Estevan, Sask.

The largest amount wagered at Fort Erie during 1954 was $12,534,333, compared with $18,648,943 in 1953.

U.S. Has Stake In Canadian Trade Future

HOLLYWOOD, Florida (CP)—Americans, whether or not they realize it, have acquired an important stake in the future of Canada's foreign trade, Arnold Heeney, Canadian ambassador to the United States, said Thursday.

Addressing the convention of the International Bankers Association, Mr. Heeney said Canada buys more from the United States than the U.S. buys from Canada. Canadians had been disturbed by U.S. restrictions against some Canadian goods and by clamor for further restrictions.

So far, only agricultural commodities had been affected, but others seemed threatened, including lead and zinc, and there was difficulty in arranging for export of natural gas.

EFFORT ACKNOWLEDGED

Mr. Heeney said he acknowledged efforts by the U.S. government to avoid restrictions on Canadian trade when new restrictions were said to be unavailable.

Nevertheless, Canadians had experienced increasing difficulties in selling in the U.S.

Canadians had hoped that the recommendations of the commission on foreign economic policy would be implemented without delay.

"We now earnestly trust," the ambassador continued, "that some progress will be made at the forthcoming session of Congress to translate them into law.

"If the event proves otherwise, there will be further disappointment and, I fear, pretty wide disillusionment in Canada."

For the time being, said Mr. Heeney, the situation in the free world favors a broad movement towards restoration of a free and multilateral system of trade and payments.

Canadians believed it would be a major defeat for the free world if this opportunity to create a more stable economic system between nations were lost.

There was such a wide demand for Canada's basic commodities that she could be confident that, in the long run, they could be marketed on satisfactory terms. However, Canada could not afford to disdain the giant concern because foreign trade accounted for more than 30 per cent of her total production.

Trinity Church W. G. Plans Activities

SHANNONVILLE — The regular meeting of the Women's Guild of Trinity Church was held Thursday, evening at the home of Mrs. H. Topping with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner, with the president, Mrs. Fitzgerald, presiding.

Plans were made for a euchre to be held Monday evening in the Milltown School and a bazaar to be at the home of Mrs. John Dowdell, also a Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. A. Spencer.

Mrs. Page closed the meeting. Refreshments were served.

GLOOMY NEWS

LONDON (Reuters) — Tea-drinking Britons received a gloomy Christmas message Tuesday when importers predicted that the price of their favorite beverage would rise between three pence and eight pence a pound during the holiday period. The increase, sixth this year, is made necessary by recent floods in India and the prolonged dock strike in London, the experts said.

Alderman Gerald Hyde made one of the briefest speeches of the evening. He reminded the audience of his service on council and said if re-elected he would endeavor to serve in the same manner as in the past two years.

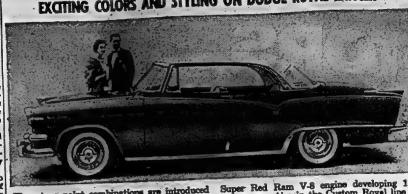
James Lynch, who followed Mr. Hyde was even briefer capsuling his address with: "My promise is that I shall do the very best I can."

G. Fred Maund promised to make a "comprehensive" study of civic affairs and said that a vote for him was a vote for sincerity, honesty and efficiency in civic administration.

Mrs. Effie McCabe took the stand and told her audience: "Again I am seeking your support, this time as a personal favor." She recalled her services in various capacities to the community and urged all to vote to protect your civic rights."

URGE CO-OPERATION

William J. McCormick said he had one promise to make as hard as he could to secure a council "with co-operation the keynote." He solicited support to "make a good city better."



Allan G. Meagher underlined co-operation in his address and promised to co-operate with whoever is elected mayor in anything brought before council that has merit.

Bert Robinson noted that this was the second time he was appealing for election. He said he would like to see more enjoyment with co-operation in industrial development.

Bert Robinson reminded the assembly that with industrial development provision should be made for expanding the services linked with that development. He said he was sure increased services did not mean increased taxes. He advocated better management and efficiency in the city.

Erle Roy Whitfield said if elected he would scrutinize every account that comes before council to ensure the city would get full value for its dollar. He also advocated new industry for the city.

EXCITING COLORS AND STYLING ON DODGE ROYAL LANCER

Three-tone paint combinations are introduced for the first time in the automotive industry to accent the new "Forward Look" styling of the 1955 Dodge Royal Lancer hardtop. Lower, wider and longer by 16 inches the Custom Royal Lancer hardtop shown here is powered by a Super Red Ram V-8 engine developing 183 hp in the Custom Royal line is a four door sedan and a convertible coupe. All models come equipped with PowerFlite fully automatic transmission as standard equipment.

Last candidate to speak was Frank V. Grandame, who said he would stand wholeheartedly for city planning. He said his past work in Belleville had been connected with the youth of the city and mentioned his organizational abilities in this capacity as an example of his capability to organize things on council.

ABSENT CANDIDATES

Aldermanic candidates who did not appear at the meeting were Bryson Reid, H. Jack Allin and Robert Gardiner.

School trustees candidates who also failed to put in an appearance were: Separate schools: Richard Barrett, William Doyle, Terrence Kelly, Paul Mercier, Kenneth Soden, John Barrett, William Hutchinson, Thomas Mahoney, Tweney Black, Carl Casey. Public schools: Lyle A. Langabeer, John Fenton, Gordon Tvill and Charles C. Male.

A round dozen of questions were answered by the candidates in the question-and-answer period that followed the platform speeches. Some unsigned questionnaires were disqualified.

First question was addressed to George DeVuyst and inquired the reason for his resignation from the Chamber of Commerce. He replied that he had resigned because he did not believe the Chamber should interfere with the city's management.

The bulk of the questions was shared between mayoralty candidates Temple and Thomas and Alderman Gerald Hyde. All of the queries put to Ald. Hyde, who is chairman of the arena commission, concerned the projected reconstruction of the Memorial Arena, concerning which property owners will vote on a $100,000 debenture issue here Monday.

ARENA QUESTION

Mr. Hyde contends that the debt can be paid by the availability of 1,000 extra seats in the arena when the view-obstructing posts are removed.

Querried last night on where the money would come from for the arena debt if the seats are not bought, Ald. Hyde replied bluntly "from the taxpayers." But he added, the commission believes it can sell every seat in the arena as every hockey game it the fans can see.

"Are you a property owner?" Mr. Temple was asked. He replied that he was not but that he paid $2,000 annually in rents in Belleville and also "shoulder" business tax. "I have no interest whatsoever in seeing the mill rate go up."

Mr. Temple was asked why there were no stops sign in Bayview Heights. Mr. Temple observed that there had been no specific requests for such signs to be erected in Bayview Heights. He said there was a standard rate of speed throughout the city and that that speed has to be observed by city council with approval from the Highways Minister in Toronto. He added that the police had been requested to concentrate their patrols in the area and to be on the alert for speeders.

FLUORIDATION QUESTION

All three mayoralty candidates were asked:

"Would you be in favor of the principle of fluoridation if elected?"

Mr. Temple based his reply on the recent results of fluoridation tests at Brantford which showed tooth decay in children had been halted and reduced in 69 percent of cases. He said it does seem that doctors and dentists think it is a very good idea.

Cost of fluoridation would be approximately $2,00 annually, which he suggested could be paid out by the Public Utilities Commission. "It has definite advantages and I am in favor of it."

Mr. Thomas felt there was little he could add to what Mr. Temple had said but thought he would have to be guided in the matter by the Dental Association and professional advice.

Mayor Roth said that the question could be answered very easily by the Brantford report. He said he had talked to several people who have investigated the matter and added that he would be "thoroughly in favor".

COMMUNITY CENTRE

Two further questions on the arena were put to Ald. Hyde. In essence they inquired why, if the commission was prepared to spend $100,000 on an old arena, it would not better to build a new community centre and remove the ice from the arena to provide for an inside market.

Ald. Hyde informed the audience that a new centre would cost an estimated minimum of $500,000, while government aid on such a project would be about $5,000. He said the arena commission had reached the conclusion that, barring an economic disaster to the community in the next 30 years, "we can pay for those improvements without any cost to you or me as taxpayers."

He emphasized that the commission did not want to work on the project if it did not meet with the people's approval. However, members honestly feel the improvements can be paid out of profits.

INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM

Both Mr. Thomas and Mr. Temple were asked what change in policy is needed to attract new industry. Mr. Temple stressed the need for the city to co-operate with the surrounding townships on certain sites for location of industry. He mentioned that draining Coleman Flats might provide land for industry.

Mr. Thomas agreed with Mr. Temple's theory and said that sitting down with the surrounding rural councils is something that has to be gone into. He said the city must have co-operation between Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow townships.

Mr. Temple was asked what might be done to make for providing adequate housing if additional industries were obtained. He replied that a planning consultant had advised council to set aside areas for industry so that taxes from industry would be in balance with taxes from residential properties. Areas should be set aside for use of private residences only he said.

NO OFFER FOR ARENA

"Has any private individual offered to buy the arena since its purchase by the city?" Ald. Hyde was asked. He replied not to the best of his knowledge.

Asked whether if the arena were heated more people would attend, Ald. Hyde informed the audience that the $100,000 debenture provides for removal of the posts and extension of the outside roof and also heating so that people can see and sit in comfort.

About 500 citizens attended the two-hour meeting.

Senate Condemns McCarthy's Conduct by Vote of 67-22 With Republicans Evenly Split

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy, Communist-hunting Republican from Wisconsin, has been condemned for his conduct by a vote of his United States Senate colleagues.

The vote was an official Senate rebuke for his conduct. What political or other consequences may result indirectly remains to be seen.

Altogether 46 charges, some of them overlapping, were filed against McCarthy last August. These were referred to a committee specially set up by the Senate to handle the case, and it recommended after public hearings that McCarthy be condemned on two of them.

The judgment of the Senate itself was handed down late Thursday and after the case in McCarthy told reporters he was "very happy to put this chapter over with."

BITTER SESSION

The vote of 67 to 22 adopting a resolution condemning McCarthy's conduct on two counts capped an extraordinary session of the Senate, begun in July, that became increasingly tense and bitter.

On the final roll-call Republican senators divided evenly, 22 to 22. A small lineup of Democrats also voted for passage of the resolution. So did Wayne Morse of Oregon, the Senate's only Independent.

Thus McCarthy became the first U.S. senator since 1929 to suffer an official rebuke from his colleagues for his actions, and the fourth in American history.

Despite the sharp party split on the issue Republican senators and others say they do not believe it will leave lasting scars within the party.

"APPARENT RIFT"

Senator Wallace Bennett (Rep., Utah), author of one of the counts adopted by the Senate, said in an interview that it will think the apparent rift will be too great or too permanent."

In similar vein, Senator Frank Carlson (Rep., Kan.), a member of the special committee which recommended censure against McCarthy, said he believes the Republicans will "pull together" once the next session starts.

McCarthy, asked if there were any basis to reports that he might break away from the Republicans to form a new party, replied "there's nothing to it."

"I am a Republican and intend to remain a Republican," he said.

"And I will do my best within the Republican party because that's the best place."

LEADERS DIVIDED

The Republican leadership in the Senate divided on the resolution, a form of condemnation. Voting against it were Senators William F. Knowland (Calif.), the party leader, Styles Bridges (N. H.), temporary president of the Senate, and Senator Smith (Colo.), chairman of the conference of Republican senators.

Voting for it were Senators Homer Ferguson (Mich.), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, and Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.), assistant floor leader.

Knowland said he regarded the issue as a matter to be determined by each senator on the basis of his own convictions, rather than on a party question. A similar view was expressed throughout by the Democratic leader, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

President Eisenhower declined comment on the Senate's action at his press conference Thursday. He said it was a matter of the Senate determining what is required in preserving its dignity.

TWO COUNTS

The resolution, as adopted by the Senate in its final form, condemned McCarthy's conduct on counts capped an extraordinary session of the Senate, begun in July, that became increasingly tense and bitter.

On the final roll-call Republican senators divided evenly, 22 to 22. A small lineup of Democrats also voted for passage of the resolution. So did Wayne Morse of Oregon, the Senate's only Independent.

Thus McCarthy became the first U.S. senator since 1929 to suffer an official rebuke from his colleagues for his actions, and the fourth in American history.

Despite the sharp party split on the issue Republican senators and others say they do not believe it will leave lasting scars within the party.

"APPARENT RIFT"

Senator Wallace Bennett (Rep., Utah), author of one of the counts adopted by the Senate, said in an interview that it will think the apparent rift will be too great or too permanent."

In similar vein, Senator Frank Carlson (Rep., Kan.), a member of the special committee which recommended censure against McCarthy, said he believes the Republicans will "pull together" once the next session starts.

McCarthy, asked if there were any basis to reports that he might break away from the Republicans to form a new party, replied "there's nothing to it."

"I am a Republican and intend to remain a Republican," he said.

"And I will do my best within the Republican party because that's the best place."

LEADERS DIVIDED

The Republican leadership in the Senate divided on the resolution, a form of condemnation. Voting against it were Senators William F. Knowland (Calif.), the party leader, Styles Bridges (N. H.), temporary president of the Senate, and Senator Smith (Colo.), chairman of the conference of Republican senators.

Voting for it were Senators Homer Ferguson (Mich.), chair-

Avro Creating New Engine With Great Power

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian builders of the new, faster-than-sound CF-105 jet fighter are creating a new engine that may turn out to be one of the most powerful in the world.

Authorities estimate that the engine being developed by A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., will have a thrust of between 20,000 and 25,000 pounds, capable of driving a jet fighter at about 1,000 to 1,500 miles an hour at normal flight.

This would compare with the 7,000 pounds thrust of the Orenda engine, produced by Avro, which now powering Canada's CF-100 all-weather fighter and the F-86 Sabre jets.

The company is understood to be developing the engine entirely on private capital in the hope of interesting the government in using it eventually to carry the CF-105, the prototype of which may be ready for testing at Avro's Malton plant by 1956.

NOT READY

The new Canadian engine, however, is not expected to be ready for assembly-line production in time to power the CF-105. Meanwhile, several officials have been considering the possibility of installing a power unit from the United States if there are delays in developing a Canadian engine when the first CF-105 is prepared for flight.

They say the particular American engine in mind but they are not free to name it. It will be enough of them by 1956 to make some available to Canada.

The CF-105 is being built as a successor to the CF-100. It will have, among other things, the latest in electronic gadgets and will be capable of more than 1,000 miles an hour.

CHILDREN KILLED

CORNWALL (CP) — Two Cornwall children died in hospital Thursday after being struck by a motor vehicle in separate accidents. Wallace Warner, 3, died after being run over by a milk truck, police said. Gilles Lecuyer, 10, died from injuries police said he received Tuesday when struck by a car.

WARING MARRIES

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)— Fred Waring, whose fame as a band leader dates back to the 1920s, took his wife to a honeymoon-ess" Thursday and married his pianist, Virginia Morley. Waring gave his age as 54, Miss Morley's as 39.

RELIEVES WILL UNITE

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Donald J. McDonald, head of the CIO's big United Steelworkers of America union, said Thursday he believes the CIO and AFL will merge within a year. McDonald is a member of the joint CIO-AFL special committee which is to meet after the holidays to work out a unification program.

Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway Only 35 Miles Long

By GARRY SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANCROFT, Ont. (CP)—In the heart of central Ontario an almost unknown little railway is making a new bid for popularity.

The Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway—the IB and O—is only 83 miles long but makes up in unique operation for what it lacks in length.

For this village 65 miles north of Belleville, the rails stretch due west to Howland, skirting some of the province's most scenic country. Three times a week a diminutive Canadian National Railway locomotive lugs five or six cars out of Bancroft on the four-and-a-half-hour trip to Barry.

Now part of the CNR system, the railroad was little more than a dream 65 years ago. In 1890 prospector Charles M. Pusey built the first four miles of track to haul ore from his mine to Howland.

A few years later Pusey secured a charter to extend the rails to Ottawa. Unfortunately his dream and his money expired together, 125 miles short of the capital.

Today the IB and O doesn't operate any passenger trains but it did then. Its curves and steep grades make high speeds impossible and the CNR's book of regulations warns engineers not to exceed 30 miles an hour.

Service is not on a spite of the three-day-a-week schedule rather than because of it. CNR timetable 155 puts the time of departure, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8:30 a.m.

Operating without benefit of stationmasters at the 12 intermediate stops listed on the timetable, the IB and O carries the only travelling train agent on the CNR. Riding in a spacious express car he has to keep tab on milk cans, potatoes, occasional parcels, pig iron and lumber.

Tourists now enter the area in droves every summer. Fishermen take the train, and the obliging crew will stop at any point in his favorite spot and pick him up again on the return trip late in the afternoon.

3-Way Mayoralty Race in Windsor Wide-Open Battle

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor's three-way mayoralty race this year is turning into a battle that is obscuring the few real issues at stake in the civic elections.

Voters next February will select a mayor, four controllers and 10 aldermen. Five members of the board of education and the separate school board will also be elected.

This year, for the first time, the entire council will be elected at one time for a two-year term. Previously, half the council was elected each year for a two-year term, with the mayor serving for two years.

A plebiscite in 1952 voted in favor of abolishing that system.

A BATTLE

The mayoralty race is turning into a battle of personalities. The present mayor, Arthur Reaume, 51, who is seeking his eighth consecutive two-year term, is running on his record as mayor who has improved city services, reduced the city debt, and at the same time prevented Windsor's difficult management-labor relations from getting out of hand.

Michael Patrick, 36, an alderman for the last seven years, is opposing Mayor Reaume by advocating the city-management plan of government for Windsor, and promising an increased, co-ordinated industrial promotion program.

Robert Fuller, 69, is running for mayor after a term as city controller. Before his election in 1952, he was a high school principal.

HIGH INTEREST

Most interest has been drawn to the mayoralty race between Mr. Reaume and Mr. Patrick. During the two election rallies held this week, Mr. Reaume has launched personal attacks on his opponent, charging him with using "scab" labor, "dealing in counterfeit gasoline coupons" during the Second World War.

Mr. Patrick denied the charges, and challenged Mr. Reaume to prove his statements.

He said he favored the city management plan of government, because it would present the only chance to clean up what Mr. Patrick has termed a "deplorable lack" efficiency in the civic departments that is costing taxpayers thousands of dollars a year."

He accused the present mayor of being afraid of a city manager because the plan would "wreck his long rule" over the city.

Under Mr. Patrick's proposal, a person would be appointed to city council to direct and co-ordinate all the civic departments, and present their jurisdictions overlapping.

A plebiscite to decide whether Windsor will go on daylight saving time next summer will also be held. Previous votes on this question, in 1952 and 1950, rejected it, but a bylaw passed by city council brought in the fast time last summer.

Defence In Sheppard Case Taking Shape

By REIMAN MORINY

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's defence began taking shape here today, emphasized by testimony that he broke into tears when a detective first accused him of murdering his wife.

The incident was related by his brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, first witness for the defence, who Thursday quoted the accused man as saying incredulously, "Those policemen think I killed Marilyn."

This was the first time the detectives interviewed Dr. Sam, and the witness went on to say of his brother:

"He was crying. He was extremely agitated and upset. The change in him was tremendous."

STRONG OSTEOPATHS

The three Sheppard brothers, all osteopaths, refer to each other as "Dr. Sam," "Dr. Steve" and "Dr. Richard." It was "Dr. Steve" who took the accused man to the hospital operated by the family on the morning of last July 4, when Marilyn Sheppard was battered to death as she lay in bed.

"Dr. Sam," his brother said, had been injured. Sheppard's story is that he was knocked out in a fight with a powerful assailant, presumably the murderer, in the bluff.

The state charges he killed his wife for motives ranging from his affairs with other women.

CONFLICTING CLAIM

"Dr. Steve" said he rushed his brother to hospital early July 4, examined him, ordered X-rays made of his neck, and administered sedatives.

Later, said detectives, arrived from Cleveland, along with the chief of police of suburban Bay Village, where the family lives. He said he permitted them to question the doctor and him self left the room when the officers requested it.

In his last testimony struck back at the state's claim that the prominent Sheppard family threw a "protective wall" around Sheppard in the early stages of the investigation.

Will Release Report

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Thursday a report on the development of Toronto works by the Toronto management consultant firm of J. D. Woods and Gordon will be released publicly.

Recommendations of the report, now completed, have not been made known.

Public Works Minister Griesinger requested that the firm make the report to aid in "streamlining" department operations.

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP) — The RCAF has invested $70,000,000 in Sq. No. 1 fighter operational training unit here, the only Sabre jet training station in Canada. A similar base at North Bay, Ont., trains aircrew for the two-seat CF-100, an all-weather fighter.

About 1,000 officers and men live and work at the Chatham station. They distribute more than $1,000,000 annually in this area. This does not include the wages paid 300 civilian employees, nor amounts classed as capital expenditures.

Approximately 30 young pilots for the single-seat fighter Sabres are in 12-week training at one time in junior and senior courses, completing their schooling on the ground and in the air.

After completion of the course, they mostly go overseas to fly a Sabre in one of the 12 Canadian fighter squadrons based in France and Germany under this country's NATO commitments.

FROM ACROSS CANADA

The young men from all over Canada are funnelled to Chatham from air school training in propeller-driven Harvards and T-33 jets. Each is a proud new officer, in his early 20s or even younger, earns $250 a month plus room, board and other benefits.

They have two things in common—youth and love of flight, preferably in the Sabre jet warplanes which reach speeds of more than 700 miles an hour.

"The Sabre is just about the ultimate," says F/O. Leonard (Bob) Marion, 21, of Kayville, near Regina. "You have to think fast when you're flying them, but it's sort of a challenge. And you get so you think ahead. When it's time to do something, you do it automatically."

Aircrew intake is limited to recruits between 17 and 24 years old.

EAGER PILOTS

"The student must be well motivated," says the unit's commanding officer, Wing Cmdr. W. J. Smith, DFC, of Vancouver. "He must have a burning desire to be a jet fighter pilot."

About 700 Sabre pilots have been turned out by this station since jet fighters began flying here in 1952 at the Chatham base, which is under the over-all direction of Group Capt. A. G. McKenna, DFC, CD.

Its emphasis is placed on night flying, as the Sabre is a day fighter, but each student pilot must accomplish one after-dark mission. No radar fails to the all-weather CF-100 loaded with radar.

Federal Control Of All Transport Is Said Needed

OTTAWA (CP)—Prof. John L. McDougall of the department of commerce at Queen's University, Kingston, said Thursday Canada's transportation problems can be solved only by federal control of railways, trucks and inland water carriers.

Prof. McDougall made the statement to a royal commission investigating the controversial issue of railway agreed charge contracts. Agreed charges are special rates given by the railways in return for a guaranteed percentage of a shipper's business.

Prof. McDougall testified as a witness for Canada Packers which is opposing a CPR-CNR formula to give the railways greater freedom to enter into agreed charge contracts with shippers.

Prof. McDougall said he does not believe Canada's transportation problems would be solved by giving the railways, trucks and inland water carriers unrestricted freedom to set freight rates. There still were too many sections of Canada where competition for transportation was either rudimentary or almost non-existent.

"The problems of these areas would feel deprived of a necessary and proper protection if they were subject to the whole tribunal to which they could apply for protection against what they would feel to be exploitation by the carriers which served them," he said.

During the last session of Parliament legislation was approved delegating federal control of interprovincial trucking to the provinces. However, the provinces have not yet reached agreement on a method of regulation.

TV NEWS
by Gene Hitchon

Here's some news that'll bring joy to your hearts: The supply of did that new films available to TV is not about run out.
Know what that means? It means that more and more new films are being created expressly for TV, incorporating the latest advances in television picture science, including back the old, established stars and introducing new ones.
It means that your entertainment fare on television will continue to improve, here on this end, so you'll get even more value for your TV investment.
The best movies are running full, brown-bow amounts of money, or they wouldn't get to be good, because it has become grossly competitive. But don't bury never about all that money. That's the sponsors' problem. All it means is that you get better, more varied entertainment.
We hope though, that they don't remove all the old flickers. Some of them were top stars and stories. The grim faced westerns, the delightful mimicry of Charlie Chaplin. We'd like to see Kevin and Sarah.
But it'll be nice to see all the new ones, too.
Say, why don't you make a point first thing tomorrow to radio a few recommendations of the modern movies that are being offered in today's Intelligencer. Tell them what stories by Dollyou want, what's not wanted, how to like 'em, but we'll see 'em for yourself at Hitchon Radio & Television 4 Bridge Street East.

THESE ARE SOME OF THE FACTS IN 1954
December 2, 1954 a.m.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

The election on Monday next, December 6th, polling boths open 9.00 a.m. to 7.00 p.m. You shall cast your ballots for mayor and any number of aldermen up to seven. Kindly permit me to summarize some of the important factors surrounding a municipal election. Municipal government is very important to all electors if they are property owners, or tenants, as the business affairs, tax rate, services, and development affects each citizen.

Co-operation and study of conditions, must be given to the many different phases of our development and maintenance, to protect our homes and to help our tax rate, so that rentals placed on tenants are kept in line with salaries that are received by these citizens.

Contracts which are let for maintenance of our services, must be supervised to make sure specifications and satisfaction in performance of those works are done so that our money shall return value and justification for investment.

At present our debenture obligations amount to $4,107,300.00 and still we have debentures for schools to the amount of $108,000.00 to be issued, and due payments must be provided for either by special assessment or local improvements which they are familiarly called, or met from general rate. Further it may be necessary for the starting of construction of our long delayed sewerage disposal system.

I am bringing these facts to your attention as a brief outline of what our municipal position is at present.

The situation is not given for the purpose of alarming our citizens, but for the purpose of giving a brief conception of the situation your council of 1955 has facing them for consideration.

Let's get together for harmonious study of our obligations, and our duty to all citizens, by a keen observation of expenditures in all departments of our administration. There are no short cuts, or magic patterns to sound business principles, but by care, study, and thought we overcome obligations, by proper preparation before contracting them.

I have endeavored to bring in a degree of business administration in the past year and if you electors feel that I have given sound leadership in protecting your many investments and further expansion

I appeal to you to vote Monday to re-elect Mayor Jack Both to the position of Mayor for 1955.

MAKE BELLEVILLE TICK — KEEP OUT THE CLIQUE

Thank You
JACK BOTH.

Three-Company Operating Group Now Completed

TORONTO (CP)—A. V. Roe Canada Limited has announced formation of a three-company operating group, of which it will be the parent company.

Crawford Gordon, Jr., president, in making the announcement Wednesday, said the group will be made up as follows:

Avro Aircraft Limited, formed out of the present aircraft division of the parent company, and now employing about 10,000 people.

Orenda Engines Limited, formed out of the present gas turbine division and now employing about 6,000 people.

Canadian Steel Improvement Limited, now employing about 400 people. This company produces precision forgings and a plant expansion program now underway will include a light alloy foundry.

A. V. Roe, which is a member of the British Hawker Siddeley group, has bought Canadian Steel Improvement outright from Hawker Siddeley, which acquired it from the crown last April.

The two new companies, Avro Aircraft and Orenda Engines, are private companies with authorized capital of 1,000,000 non-par-value shares.

Each has bought the related assets of A. V. Roe in exchange for fully-paid and non - assessible shares in the capital stock of each company—500,000 shares of Avro and 400,000 shares of Orenda—plus certain other considerations.

Fred T. Syme will be the operating head of Avro Aircraft, Walter R. McLachlan of Orenda Engines, and Cyril J. Luby of Canadian Steel Improvement.

All the plants concerned are in suburban Toronto.

EACH INDEPENDENT

Mr. Gordon said each unit will be independent of the others and each will be free to develop its own products and customers. He forecast an ever-enlarging future for Canada's aircraft industry.

Mr. Gordon said Avro aircraft has been given a development contract for the C-105, a Canadian supersonic delta-wing jet fighter which he described as one of the most advanced aircraft being designed today.

Orenda Engines had already spent $4,000,000 on a new jet engine project which would be unique in its utilization of titanium and was expected to open up new fields of jet power.

ATTENTION VOTERS!

I would like to introduce myself to you, The Voter. I am Frank Huson, thirty years of age, a resident of Belleville since 1924 and born and raised in Ottawa. My present occupation is that of real estate agent operating the business of F. E. Huson — Real Estate Agency. My main interest other than my family and business is and has been for years the observation of the administration and planning of the City of Belleville. In the past three years I have attended council meetings as regularly if not more so than some of our present council members and have examined myself very thoroughly with the methods of procedure used by these members.

First, I would like to bring to your attention the fact that $60,000 was thrown away by the very poor judgment of selling city lots in groups at prices prevalent some years ago rather than holding and selling these lots properly, which would have been a service to the citizens of this community as there is a very definite shortage of building lots available for homes. These lots sold for as low as $75.00 each and could have been sold for as high as $800.00 each. This land was turned over in a matter of weeks for a very great profit to the individuals concerned. This is a flagrant example of carelessness in the handling of the taxpayers' money.

Secondly, we will discuss the question on your ballots pertaining to the expenditure of $60,000 for a parking lot. Do you realize this will more than likely exceed $100,000? This question has already been passed by council without going to the public for a vote. Granted certain council members state the lot will pay for itself, but why spend this large amount of money when it is possible to establish parking facilities downtown without spending over $3,000. This amount would acquire a downtown parking lot. I would like to point out that parking facilities could be arranged for without any expenditure if the council were willing to investigate this matter.

The third fact I would like to bring to your attention is the Arena Committee. City Council has given sufficient authority to the three members of this committee to spend $100,000 at their discretion. This committee has full authority to go ahead on this without consulting council or the citizens of Belleville. Granted the committee will tell you these monies will be paid back in arena profits, but one committee member who also stated in his next sentence "the people of Belleville are not sports minded enough to back this expenditure," and advised against a public vote. This is controversial thinking and therefore is another indication of poor judgment.

The facts I have just discussed were pointed out to you for the very good reason of showing you just how the taxpayers' money is used. There is a total of $280,000 involved in these three items alone.

Your present council has spent over $50,000 on sidewalks and roads in the past year. It is now apparent that this work is in desperate need of repair and it will be necessary to make repairs in the immediate future. This would not have been necessary if council had checked into the work they originally authorized.

With a better organized council, a council that definitely needs organizing and needs a greater amount of team work, I feel that these unnecessary expenditures could be alleviated and past mistakes not repeated.

My decision to run for alderman in this election was made because I feel that the city of Belleville has the possibilities of being one of the best cities in Canada. With a co-operative council working together with sound judgment and vision for the future, Belleville could be a well administered city, attractive to both new industries and to residents seeking a new home site. If I am elected I will endeavor to uphold the best interest of this city and to work in harmony with other council members in a united city council, aiming at the betterment of Belleville.

If after reading this letter, you feel you would like me to represent you in council in making as many improvements as I possibly can, then I would appreciate your vote.

THESE ARE SOME OF THE FACTS IN 1954!

December 2, 1954 p.m.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

With the elections just around the corner, I feel it is necessary to explain the further charges made by my opponents in reference to the asking for the engineer's resignation. It is true that I presented such a recommendation but not without sufficient reason and thorough investigation and, in my opinion, there were sufficient grounds that the engineer did not act in the best interests of the City of Belleville, as outlined here. In the case of Defoss versus the city of Belleville, and the city of Belleville versus Defoss for contracts of sidewalks in certain streets in the city of Belleville, for which our engineer was responsible, the sidewalks mentioned cost between 40 and $50,000.00 and are now disintegrating and must be replaced, in the near future, at the expense of the citizens of Belleville.

These sidewalks were approved for final payment by the Chairman of Public Works, Alderman Thomas and the City Engineer, and, according to the specifications, it is their responsibility. There are also the sidewalks built this year, that were not built according to plans and specifications, in place of getting 5 inches of concrete we received only 3 inches of concrete in places, this was a contract for the amount of $13,-294.00.

Again there was the street oiling which cost $26,500.00 and was not completed according to the specifications. Water-washed ¾" pea gravel free from all dust was called for in the specifications, but I believe every one in Belleville can justly and honestly say it was very dusty material, and on front street the water was applied to control the dust, there is also the fact the engineer allowed city employees to sweep the streets, in front of the oiling of same, at the city's expense until it was stopped by the comptroller and chairman of public works.

These three projects were examined by Professor Lee of Queen's University and reports submitted speak for themselves, and it was stated by Lee that in the case of the oiling of the streets there was an excess of pea gravel to the amount of approximately $6,000.00. This in itself is a cost of approximately 25% in excess of what it should have cost under proper supervision.

The loss of concrete in the sidewalks was not stated.

These three items I have cited are the projects that were very noticeable, but how much more has gone unnoticed. I would not hazard to guess, but it would appear that a 25% inefficiency would be a minimum.

The amount of work, including contracts, performed in the past six years according to the engineer's figures is $1,060,192.91.

If we are to assume that the work was carried out with the same inefficiency as was applied in the three contracts just mentioned, it is also reasonable to think that the tax payers of Belleville have been taken down the river for 25% of the expenditures as stated in the oiling contract.

I point out to you that 25% of $1,060,192.91 is $265,048.23. I do not think the tax payers want to tolerate this inefficiency any longer.

I would like to draw to your attention, ladies and gentlemen, that Alderman Thomas was in office for six years and Alderman Temple for approximately three years. If they are interested in the welfare of Belleville why did they not stop such extravagance.

I have been in office one year; my pledge was for sound administration; this inefficiency is one thing I could not tolerate in my own business. Why not run city government the same way as big business?

This my friends is why my opponents charge me with lack of co-operation, and at the same time engineering costs went up from $13,157.66 in 1949 to $32,821.70 in 1953, an increase of $25,064.13, and in 1954 a saving of approximately $15,000.00 has been effected.

THE FACTS ARE BEFORE YOU, AND ON ELECTION DAY YOU WILL BE ASKED TO ELECT A MAYOR FOR 1955.

OMHA CONVENTION

Tomorrow morning the Ontario Minor Hockey Association goes into its annual convulsions at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. Some 300 delegates from all parts of Ontario, living proof that a man is never so tall as when he stoops to help a boy, will gather around the convention board to make plans for another successful year.

Starting at 10 a.m. the delegates will gather in the 17th floor ball room to hear reports, consider five proposed regulations changes, learn of the OMHA program for the coming season and elect a slate of officers.

Following the meeting, at approximately 1.30, the members sit down to the ninth annual luncheon—a luncheon, incidentally, paid for by each delegate attending, rather than by the host organization. Another typical example of the true amateurism of minor hockey and the men who govern it.

The big feature of the luncheon is, of course, the presentation of the OMHA's impressive "Honor Award" for outstanding service to minor hockey—won last year by the late Ernest Russell of Oshawa. The presentation will be executed by guest speaker, Jim Vipond, sports editor of the Globe and Mail. The winner will not be announced until that time.

When the luncheon adjourns, the members gather informally for what has become an outstanding feature of the annual OMHA gathering, the "bull-session" in 849. Here hockey games are replayed and notes compared in preparation for another big season. Finally, winding up the day, the delegates will attend the Leaf-Red Wing game at Maple Leaf Gardens and guests of Maple Leaf Gardens and the OMHA.

The convention will have up for consideration one minor amendment to the constitution, four proposed changes to the regulations, and an election in which they will choose a committee of seven from nine candidates. Fred Norman of Simcoe, has already been elected president by acclamation, as have the other major officers of the world's largest amateur sports organization.

The proposed constitution change, submitted by Secretary Jack Christie asks that proposed amendments and nominations be in the OMHA's hands three weeks prior to the annual meeting, rather than two as is now the case.

First proposal on the agenda suggesting a regulation change is submitted by the executive, and clarifies the point where the OMHA gives the visiting team choice of ends for all games. The OMHA executive proposes that such choice must be declared by the visiting captain or alternate captain before the Senior line up for the first face-off.

This agent and friend Devine left for Toronto this afternoon to attend a special meeting tonight, and will be at the press table at the convention tomorrow morning. Representing the Belleville Minor Hockey Association will be "Red" Doran and Bill Gault.

Gloom was cast over this part of the OMHA's version of "Lovers Canada" with the announcement that pamphar Doug Patterson, of Stirling, a member of the OHA executive, is thinking seriously of resigning. It seems Doug's business will not permit him to travel very much, and a minor hockey executive has to do plenty of that. It is hoped that Doug will place his name again before the convention for this part of Ontario can ill afford to be without his services. Doug followed in the footsteps of Sam (Tweed) Curry and has rendered yeoman service both to the OMHA and to minor hockey in his district since his election two years ago.

"We'll be rootin' for you, fella."

Omaha Expected to Become Member Of American Baseball Association

By Joe Reichler

HOUSTON (AP)—Omaha, Neb., was expected to officially become a member of the American League convention comes to a close.

Another development will be the naming of the five-man arbitration board by minor league president George Trautman to settle damages due the Western League for draft of its Denver territory.

On the player end, The Associated Press learned that the Brooklyn Dodgers are set to sell veteran third baseman Billy Cox for $50,000 to one of two American League clubs—Baltimore or Cleveland. E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, Dodger vice-president, also has asked for a couple of minor league farmhands.

NEXT WEEK

The inter-league transaction, in all likelihood, will be consummated at the major league meetings in New York next week. The only current hitch is Brooklyn's inability to get waivers on Cox. It is believed, however, that because of the fancy figure, the Dodgers will receive "gentlemen's waivers" on the player.

The Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds also were getting closer to completing a player trade that would involve outfielder Jimmy Greengrass or Wally Post and catcher Ed C. Bailey of the Reds and second baseman Junior Gilliam and a second-line pitcher from the Dodgers.

Only a matter of $25,000 stood between the Western League and the St. Louis Cardinals from concluding a pact that would transfer the Medinah Columbus American Association franchise to Omaha.

In a secret meeting with St. Louis representatives on Thursday, the Western League reduced its demand for damages on the release of Omaha from $100,000 to $60,000. The Cards countered with an offer of $35,000.

The minor leagues Thursday adopted 11 of the 23 amendments to the major-minor league agreement, passed four of the eight minor league amendments and threw out a resolution to revise or terminate the major-minor league agreement.

The most important piece of legislation passed was the amendment to ban commercial broadcasts and telecasts of baseball games on stations outside a club's home territory. This, of course, was subject to approval by the majors.

The minors went a step further by voting to retain the radio-TV amendment even if the majors reject it. Although the law exempted sustaining or non - commercial broadcasts, it was obvious there would be few ball games on the air if there were no sponsored.

LOWER PLAYER LIMITS

The minors also adopted an amendment that would lower the player limits and increase the number of options of all clubs from the majors down to class B. The majors, for instance, would reduce their limit from 25 men to 23 and increase their options from 19 to 21. This, too, must be passed by the majors.

The minors also voted to change the working agreement rule, raising the minimum age for selecting players from a club in class B, C and D at the end of the season. The majors also would pay spring training costs, travelling expenses for optioned players and a portion of the manager's salary.

Teams Sent to Dressing Rooms After Riotous Flare-Up; Bruins Edge Chicago Hawks

By The Canadian Press

It takes only a glance at the scoring statistics to figure out why Montreal Canadiens are running at the top of the National Hockey League race this season with power to spare.

Bernie Geoffrion, Maurice Richard, Jean Beliveau and Kenny Mosdell are just four reasons. There are others, like Jackie Leclair, Bert Olmstead, Calum MacKay and Doug Harvey.

They all rank among the top scorers in the 1954-55 campaign. Geoffrion, heading for his greatest year since hitting the NHL in 1950, Richard, Beliveau and Mosdell are the Big Four in that order.

Six of them figured in the scoring Thursday night as Canadiens whipped the third-place Detroit Red Wings 4-1 in a game of hot tempers and 26 minutes in penalties. The victory sent Canadiens into a two-point lead over the idle and second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

BEAT LEAFS

In the only other game, Boston Bruins scored twice in the last period to edge the last-place Black Hawks 3-2 before 4,118 fans at Chicago. Bruins, who have spent 20 in 22 engagements are in fifth spot, eight points ahead of Chicago.

The Montreal-Detroit game was the big one as Richard fired the 308th goal of his 12-season career and with two more he will become the first player in the big league to achieve the 400-goal mark.

Richard would have got reminder Terry Sawchuk at 9:56 of the third period to run his output this season to 34 goals, four behind the leading Geoffrion, Mosdell, Beliveau and Dickie Moore scored the other Montreal goals.

REBEL SCORED

Little Dickie Dubiel counted the only Detroit goal at 5:20 of the third period. That made it 3-1 but the Wings couldn't do a thing about catching the high-flying Montrealers.

Referee Bill Chadwick called 20 penalties, 10 to each team, in the riotous game.

Richard was given a 10-minute misconduct penalty in the first period. With two minutes left in the session, a free-for-all broke out in front of the Detroit bench and both teams were sent to the dressing room to cool off. Red Wing coach Jimmy Skinner and Montreal defenceman Butch Bouchard swung at each other but no damage was done.

FROM BEHIND

At Chicago, the Bruins came from behind twice to tie the score. Don McKenny broke it up briefly, ing goaltender Al Rollins at 13:39 of the third period on a play with Leo Labine and Fleming Mackell. It was McKenny's eighth goal of the 1954-55 season.

Mackell and Labine scored the other Boston goals. Bill Mosienko and Metro Prystai tallied for the Hawks, who have won only three games in 23 starts.

Only eight penalties were handed out by referee Frank Morrison. Two were majors, given to Mosienko and defenceman Fern Flaman after a battle erupted with four minutes left in the game.

Varsity Puckists Ready to Go

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Blues, who open their 12-game 1954-55 schedule in the Intercollegiate Hockey League tonight, are brimming with optimism.

The Blues, boasting 10 former Junior A players, take on Waterloo University of Montreal Carabins in the only league engagement. The intercollegiate season opened last weekend when Carabins defeated Montreal Laval University, 4-3.

Toronto club officials are optimistic that this year's team will return the Queen's Cup, emblematic of intercollegiate supremacy. Toronto last won the trophy in 1951.

"I'm really pleased with the team," coach Jack Kennedy said. "The boys are working hard and as long as we stay clear of any serious injuries, such as we had one that is keeping Sam Ashton out, we should do all right."

FROM LAKEHEAD

Ashton, with the senior team last year and with Port Arthur Flyers before that, suffered a fractured arm during practice last week and is not expected back for at least 10 weeks.

Kennedy added that his club is the strongest team the university has had since it won the college title.

"Reports from Quebec indicate that the three teams there have strengthened and with our stronger squad, top-notch hockey should be seen by the fans this season."

Dave Jackson and Dave Reid, two of last year's Memorial Hardy team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, and Phil Knox from St. Michael's College Majors of the same league, will line up with the Blues this season.

Camille Henry Purchased By Quebec Aces

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League Thursday night purchased 21-year-old Camille Henry, last season's rookie of the year in the National Hockey League, from New York Rangers.

George (Punch) Imlach, general manager of the Aces, said Quebec got Henry for cash and the promises to send a player to Vancouver Canucks, Rangers' Western Hockey League farm club. The amount of cash involved is not disclosed.

The diminutive forward scored 24 goals for the Rangers last season although he was used almost exclusively on power plays.

WAIVED OUT

Henry was waived out of the NHL Thursday night. League rules state that a player cannot be sent down to the minors unless all other NHL teams decline to take him for the $15,000 waiver price.

Imlach said the Canucks, as Rangers top farm club, had first crack at Henry after he was dropped from the NHL, but general manager Frank Boucher of New York agreed instead to have the Aces, as Canucks another player, as yet unnamed.

Henry told newspaper men in Montreal earlier this year he was discontented with New York and wanted to get away to his home town—Quebec. He said he wanted to play full-time hockey instead of the part-time role he got from Rangers. He has scored five goals and picked up two assists with New York this year.

BIG SEVEN

By The Canadian Press

Three members of Montreal's high - scoring forward quartet picked up points Thursday night in cooling the Canadiens' acquaintance of the National Hockey League standings.

Bernie Geoffrion, the scoring leader, assisted on one goal as the Canadiens thumped Detroit 4-1 and pushed his points total for the season to 31. He's a two-way top that department.

Maurice Richard picked up his 14th goal of the season and the 308th of his career to move into a tie with baseball star Dan Bellaveau for the runner-up sport. Veteran Kenny Mosdell got a goal and an assist to consolidate his hold on fourth place with 22 points.

Les Lear Named Stamps' Coach Claims Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Vern Degeer in his sports column in the Gazette today says Les Lear, who in 1948 piloted Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Union to their only Grey Cup title, will return to that club next fall as coach. Writes Degeer: "The announcement doubtless will come as a surprise and even a shock to Leslie's severest critics —but that's the way it is going to be."

Lear, a Canadian and former lineman with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and several United States pro teams, was fired as Calgary's coach after the 1953 season.

He was replaced in 1953 by Bob Snyder, who in turn bowed to Larry Siemering for the season just ended. The Stamps finished in fourth place in the five-team league and missed the playoffs. Siemering was paid off for the 1955 end of his two-year contract and Calgary announced the Stamps were in the market for a new coach.

Dear recently was mentioned as a possible successor to Clem Crowe as coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four.

In Calgary, Ed O'Connor, president of the Calgary Stampeders, said Lear had an application in for the job, but that is as far as things have progressed.

"We have put out a lot of feelers," said O'Connor, "and until we get replies from the majority of them there will be nothing done about the Calgary coaching position."

Eskimos' Star Due for 'Knife'

EDMONTON (CP) — For Montreal Alouette supporters—just to rub it in:

Edmonton Eskimos tackle Bob Dean, former Washington Redskins stalwart, tomorrow. Thursday he will enter hospital for a leg operation.

Dean will undergo surgery for varicose veins on his right leg, the one with which he kicked 31 straight converts this season without a miss—including the one that defeated Alouettes 36-25 in the Grey Cup game.

'Native Dancer' Named 1954 Champion Horse

NEW YORK (AP) — Native Dancer, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's powerful grey four-year-old who was retired in August because of a foot injury, was acclaimed "Horse of the year champion" race horse of 1954 at the annual dinner of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations Thursday night.

Although the great son of Polynesian-Geisha started only three races in the past season, winning them all, the TRA board of selectors gave him 18 votes out of a possible 36. The King Ranch's High Gun, previously named the three-year-old champion, received 14.

Other votes in the balloting for American champion went to the Belair Stud's Nashua, the two-year-old champion; C. V. Whitney's Fisherman, winner of the Belmont, to D.C. International at Laurel; and Wilson C. Dick, Jr.'s Helioscope, victor at the recent Pimlico Special.

Native Dancer retired with earnings of $785,940—fourth leading money winner in racing history.

Zulueta Meets Frankie Ryff

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Frank Ryff has come up so fast this year that he's a natural choice for fight rookie of the year as well as being in line for a shot at the lightweight title.

The 21-conquering, 23-year-old New Yorker will get the second big test of his budding career tonight when he faces clever, 30-year-old Orlando Zulueta in Madison Square Garden.

Frankie is the 3-5 choice although the clever Cuban is ranked higher in the ratings. Vailly is ranked as the fourth contender and Ryff No. 6.

The 10-rounder, which will be broadcast and telecast by NBC starting at 9 p.m. (EST), figures to be a duel of rapier left hands. Both are fine boxers lacking power.

Johnny Saxton Verdicts Fuentes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World welterweight champion Johnny Saxton of Brooklyn won a unanimous decision over Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles in a 10-round non-title match Thursday night at the Olympic Auditorium. The champion weighed 148, Fuentes 149½.

The decision of the two judges gave the fight to Saxton by two points while referee Frankie Van scored it 58½-51½.

The bout was staged amidst boos and stamping of feet from the fourth round on but if it attracted 11,864 who paid $30, $50 to see it.

Saxton left the ring with his right eye closed. His handlers claimed he was bothered. The Los Angeles Mexican had a cut right eye at the windup as wadded paper cups sailed into the ring.

Frontenacs Lead Quebec Juniors

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Frontenacs, who have lost only one of six games played, are running away from the field in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

The Frontenacs showed their power by overcoming a third period 3-1 lead Trois - Rivieres Thursday to defeat the Flambeaux 4-3 in overtime.

Sir Wilfred Laurier Junior Trophy Challenge Cup for Any Team in Canada

QUEBEC (CP)—The Sir Wilfrid Laurier Trophy this year will be fought for only by Quebec and Ontario junior A hockey teams, but it is a challenge cup for any team in Canada, it was announced Thursday.

Frank Selke, general manager of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, announced at a press conference that Quebec Frontenacs, last year's Quebec Junior Hockey League champions, have been declared its first defenders.

RELEASES SCHEDULE

Selke released a tentative schedule for the home-and-home series between Quebec, Montreal Canadiens and Trois-Rivieres Flambeaux of the QJHL and Kitchener Canucks, Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines TeePees of the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association.

The QJHL's one schedule, modified after Joesphere M Ir ais dropped out of the loop recently, still is being drawn up, he said, but competition for the Laurier Trophy will be part of the two leagues' regular schedules.

He said three trustees—one from western Ontario and one each from Ontario and Quebec — will be named "probably within the next two weeks."

ANY TEAM

Any junior team with a high standard of play in own league could challenge the holder and round-robins would be played where more than one team challenged.

The trophy was not intended to replace the Memorial Cup—given to the winner of a series between the eastern and western Canada champions.

Lt.-Col. Oscar Gilbert, publisher of the Canadian Affairs, Le Soleil and L'Evenement-Journal, will present the trophy to the Frontenacs Saturday.

The Laurier schedule as it now stands has all three Ontario teams playing three games in Quebec and the Quebec teams playing two games in Ontario. Difficulties in scheduling games at Kitchener may force the Canucks to play four-point games in Quebec, he said.

POINTS TO COUNT

Points scored by the Quebec teams against Ontario clubs would count in the Quebec standings, but Ontario teams would not count games played in Quebec in CHA points.

The schedule:

Trois-Rivieres at Toronto Jan. 23, at St. Catharines Jan. 25.

Montreal at Toronto Jan. 30, at St. Catharines Feb. 1.

Aussie Writers Blast Former 'Hero' For 'Outrageous Tennis Performance'

MELBOURNE (AP) — Lewis Hoad, once Australia's tennis hero, was criticized by Melbourne newspapers today as an "irritating and half-hearted" player whose career has been irreparably damaged by an "outrageous performance" in the Victorian championships.

Alan Trengove in the Daily Argus said "Hoad can give up any hope of turning professional in the near future."

Frank Bird in The Sun said Hoad, in losing to America's Vic Seixas gave the "worst demonstration of bad court manners since Art Larsen was here four years ago." Seixas beat Hoad in straight sets in the semi-finals Thursday.

Hoad explained the reason for his tantrums with: "I am sick of everyone getting on my back."

Asked why he hit the ball into the stands, he replied:

"Because I felt like it. I wanted to get rid of some pent-up emotion."

Australian Davis Cup captain Harry Hopman said he had no immediate comment to Hoad's action but added he believes the young man had lost out of it.

Previously, the 18-year-old player's mother attributed her son's poor playing to the fact he had been under discipline too long without a chance to relax.

Hamilton Whips Galt Hawks 7-1 In Rough Game

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs broke a two-game losing streak Thursday night, defeating Galt Black Hawks 7-1 to move into sole possession of sixth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Jerry Sullivan and Gary Sharpe led the Cub attack with two goals each. Others went to Brian Kilrea, Bill McNeil and Murray Oliver.

Hec Lalande was the Black Hawk marksman.

For nearly four minutes in the third period, Cubs played two men short and Goalie Earl Balfour, limiting the Hawks to three shots on goalie Dennis Riggin.

Fans Deluge 'Cheer' Campaign

MONTREAL (CP) — The Cheer Up Chuck campaign so caught the fancy of football fans Thursday that the outpouring of cards and letters lagged behind in the count and the staff was in a quandary.

"At the moment there must be at least 6,000 responses, at a conservative estimate," said assistant manager Jimmy Tapp of CJAD Montreal. "We didn't be at all surprised if the number hits 10,000 some time tonight. We have three employees trying to keep caught up with the deluge."

By mail and in persons, fans are supplying their names and 10 cents each towards cost of a wire gram that will go to Chuck Hunsinger, Montreal Alouettes' halfback. Hunsinger was the goat in the Gray Cup game last Saturday when Edmonton Eskimos beat out Alouettes 26-25.

TO HIS HOME

The cheer-up telegram will go to Hunsinger at his home in Harrisburg, Ill.

"Not only are people mailing and bringing in their letters and dimes," said Tapp, "but they're telephoning to say a new interest in football has been created."

Unit contributions and responses from staffs of factories, offices and other groups are still rolling in.

Tapp said arrangements have been made with Canadian National Telegraphs to run off the cheer-up telegram and signatures Monday in a St. James street window. A telegraph messenger and operator will be in the window and the message and names, as punched out, will appear in lights.

TORONTO (CP) — Detroit Tigers edged Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in overtime Thursday night before a crowd of 13,541 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Tigers outshot the Leafs 39-28 in regulation time and 41-28 for the game.

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk was the first star of the game and Leafs' Harry Lumley the second.

HOW HARD TO HANDLE IS THE SLAP SHOT?
Many a tight hockey game has been broken up by an unexpected bullet-fast "Slap Shot", one of the most deceptive shots a goalie has to handle!
Useful as the pay-off weapon in a ganging attack, the "Slap Shot" rockets in hard and low. And played from a scramble—or from any screened position—it can easily catch even the most alert net-minder off guard!
THE SLAP SHOT
In effect, unlike a "golf shot" — becomes the puck is hit with a hard, sharp swing of the stick!

'Lil Mo' Ready For Tennis Next Spring

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Little Maureen Connolly promises that she'll be fit and ready when she returns to the tennis courts for international competition next spring.

Little Mo, thrown from a horse in a tangle with a cement mixer truck, is enjoying her first rest from tennis in nine years, but she is substituting ballet for her practice on the courts.

"The ballet lessons have helped more than anything to strengthen my injured right leg," the 19-year-old former champion told a reporter, "what made the injury so serious was that the calf muscles were cut seven inches above the ankle. It wasn't just a broken leg, you know."

Maureen said she'll start "pushling" in her service next month "and I haven't any doubt I'll be back in action, fit as a fiddle," before postponing marriage for a year. She was scheduled to wed Norman Mayer, 23, last January.

"He gets out of service in two weeks and we both feel it is wiser for him to get started in business before we marry," Miss Connolly said. "We'll wait a year or so now."

She's also waiting out a $165,000 lawsuit against a cement company in connection with the accident.

Three Planning Florida Trip After Break-ins

DETROIT (CP) — Police said Thursday three boys, aged 9, 10 and 12, were being confined to their homes after it was discovered they were planning a trip to Florida on the proceeds of weekend break-ins.

Police said the trio also had four rifles and three shotguns, which they intended to use to rob stores on the way to Florida. If their funds ran out.

"We are convinced these boys have broken into many more homes than we know about now," police said. In addition to the rifles and shotguns, several watches and $220 in cash have been found, they reported.

AT THE MCARTHY
British Hero, Hollywood Heel

From hero in eight English films to heel in Hollywood is the extraordinary record Cody Rolfe has achieved. In his latest picture, 20th Century-Fox's Cinemascope production, "King of the Khyber Rifles," now playing at the Odeon and McCarthy Theatre, the British-born actor reaches a nadir of villainy as "Kurman Khan," a bloodthirsty Moslem whose lust for power jeopardizes the plans of Tyrone Power, Terry Moore and Michael Rennie. The picture which was photographed in color by Technicolor is written around the 1857 Sepoy Mutiny in India.

"In England they thought I had honest blue eyes and the directors let me take the fair damsels in my arms," explained Rolfe, but in Hollywood they put a beard on me and I became a villain."

Rolfe's first American picture was "Ivanhoe" and the beard he grew for his role of Sir Brian John remained on his chin for "Young Bess" and "Prince of Baghdad." In "King of the Khyber Rifles" Rolfe again retreated behind another bushy beard to become the meanest villain of all his previous roles.

Rolfe, six-foot-four, has been a romantic actor in England.

ELECTED CHURCH HEAD

BOSTON (AP)—Dreugene Carson Blake, an astute Philadelphia churchman, Thursday became president of the National Council of Churches.

Dr. Blake, top administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, was elected unanimously by the general assembly of the council, which includes 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 35,500,000 members.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is one big difference between cumbersome teachers and me. They talk a better game. That is, they express themselves with about six rules to my one more chatter for each matter, as it were.

Culbertson and Goren divide an opener into four zones or ranges. If partner's response is one in a suit, what say they should be done by opener with game zone or very good range hands?

My gosh! Not enough daily space is allowed me to tell you all of it at once; something different for each kind of a jump for each kind of a record, avoid, assist, intrump. Today take assists.

If the response was a major, Culbertson says jump the opener's jump raise assist to three is made with about four honor tricks and four trumps, or 6½ to 7 revalued winners. And it is not forcing.

The jump raise assist is made with 19 to 21 points and long support. Goren says that is made with 19 to 21 points and long support. According to Gordon an opener does not worry at all about zones or ranges or honor tricks or winners or points. He simply looks to see how many tricks his hand can really take.

His hids follow the T-A-N heart, takeout or assist order of choice; takeout or assist or no-trump. With the choice selected if he sees tricks enough for a game he makes it and it is forcing to game.

Open one club with the south hand shown here:

♠K Q 6
♥Q 8 7 3
♣A K 9 8 5

If partner's response is one heart, one spade, he bids three hearts and await more information. If partner's response is one diamond he bidds three spades if he should have his head examined. Or his system retended.

No Rush to Buy Galt Terriers

GALT (CP)—There has been no rush at Galt Terriers' football office by would-be buyers of the Intercounty senior franchise here.

Terrier officials said Thursday they are still hoping for some response to notices that the franchise had been put up for lease.

Mike Pontarelli and Jack Trowbridge, who operated the club last season, said the league deadline of Dec. 15 for team entries was too short a notice for them and they could not renew their lease. Terriers ended in first place in the league race last year.

84-Year Old Golfer Shoots Hole-in-One

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harry Rose 84, walked 65 yards from the retired Welwyn, Sask., farmer realized his dream here Thursday by canning a two-yard tee shot for a hole-in-one.

Rose, with companions Bob Browne, 67, Bob Douglas, 69, and Duncan MacDougall, 80, was playing suburban University golf course when his shot with a five wood went into the cup. The foursome plays every fine day.

Golfing circles here said they believed the shot made Rose one of the oldest persons in Canada to score a hole-in-one. The ace was the first of his golfing career, which began 65 years ago in England. Mr. Rose says he usually shoots between 85 and 100 over the tough University layout.

Just Coincidence John Wayne Married Three Latin Girls

By RUS THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Wayne says he has no special preference for Latin girls. It's just coincidence that he happens to marry them.

Last month the lumbering actor took his third bride, and kept his record intact. Here's how it shapes up: No. 1—Josephine Saenz, daughter of a Dominican diplomat; No. 2—Esperanza Baur, Mexican movie actress; No. 3—Pilar Palette, Peruvian beauty.

"I've never been conscious of going for any particular type," protests Wayne. "They just seem to follow a pattern, but I haven't been aware of it myself. Each of the women I married has been entirely different."

WIVES LACK ACCENTS

"I certainly don't have anything against Americans — women, as a matter of fact, my wives have been as much American as they have been Latin. None of them speaks with an accent.

"My first wife had a French and Spanish mother and father, but she was brought up in Texas. Josepha spent a lot of time in this country, in Florida and elsewhere. And Pilar has been here a great deal and speaks English perfectly."

I asked him if Pilar will pursue her acting career, and he replied with an emphatic no. . . .

"She never had much of a career," he explained. "Once Sol Lesser sent a crew to Peru to make a picture about hunting Inca gold, and they needed a girl to walk in front of the camera with bare feet and long hair. She did it. Then an independent producer went down there to make a picture, using amateur actors, and she was in it. But I don't think the picture was ever released here."

Wayne said that he and his bride will have a honeymoon—at home. They've been traveling all over the world, he explained, and will be happy to sit by the hearth for a while. He still has a week's work to go in "The Sea Chase," and it can't finish too soon for him.

INFECTED EAR

He has been suffering from an ear infection for more than a month. And I mean suffering.

"For four weeks I have been unable to clamp my jaw shut," he said. "I've been eating milk and eggs and other soft foods; I haven't had a steak in weeks."

The infection was dangerously close to his facial muscles and he lived in fear of losing his livelihood. The doctors told him only time could heal the ailment, and that's what is happening.

After "The Sea Chase," Wayne resumes his other identity as producer.

Nature's Dramatic Moments Captured in Walt Disney's "The Living Desert."

A pageant of loveliness combines with exciting drama as "The Living Desert," Walt Disney's first true adventure feature unfolds, starting tomorrow on the screen of the Belle Theatre.

Ranging from the fabulously lovely stretches of the Great American Desert, contrasting sharply with distant Mount Whitney towering fifteen thousand feet above sea level, to the antics of a stout-hearted rodent; from the innermost secrets of a cactus bloom to the raging fury of a herd of peccaries on the heels of a bobcat, the film offers a series of highly exciting incidents as dramatic as they are unusual, all played out against the brilliant palette of nature's most colorful section.

Such personalities as the Gekko lizard, the chuckawalla, Pygmy descendant of the ancient dinosaurium, the elf owl, the coati mundi, that rakish desert bandit, and the kangaroo rat share the screen with innumerable other desert creatures representative of the flora, reptile, animal and floral life of that locale.

Using the same key to highlight the drama, Paul Smith, composer and conductor of producer Disney's True Life Adventures, establishes a musical liaison between desert personalities and the better to heighten and point up the various emotional values of the film.

Closely allied with the music is the fabulously lovely scenery of color, as the Technicolor values of each sequence, from glances into the golden-yellow heart of a cactus bloom to the wide scenic values of miles of burning sands, offer an exciting and unique experience to those carried along on the magic of modern film making.

In Technicolor, "The Living Desert," like its subject matter, concentrates on the theme that lives in this fantastic wonderland there are no endings, only a vast and constantly hopeful beginning. After every moment of destruction, a brilliant new start is made, after every flash flood, the magnificent flowers burst into bloom, after every individual argument a new life is started, as the story of nature, itself, goes on in eternal optimism for eons to come.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday is entered and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for Saturday, December 4, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Outstanding aspects lend a promising outlook for your interests. Nevertheless go warily if making drastic changes in business, job or investments. Routine affairs favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You can achieve good results in new projects if well analyzed and handled. Explore new fields; you are equipped with the natural insight to differentiate between smart and ordinary prospects. Use this talent wisely.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — With soundness, equanimity and well-considered action you can make fine gains today. Energize your activities to get the maximum results from all efforts. News could alter plans.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You should tweak well into the paying side of the ledger now. Your day is emphatic for achievement in business and professional work; for home, personal and investment matters. Be keen, watchful.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A small incident or unnoticed episode could snowball into a big problem, hold gains during this uncertain period. Be on the lookout for the unusual. However, unusual openings may offer just what you want, so keep alert to opportunity.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Those in making, outdoor activities should make fine progress, if careful. The unusual or unexpected could bring top achievement to those ready to act.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You are surrounded by stimulating elements of surprise, some that are really excellent forerunners of prosperity, pleasant happenings. Today's influences are benefic for both personal and business affairs.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Just because a task or problem is easy, don't let down. Don't become lackadaisical when success is at your door. Keep your guard up.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — A few well-chosen don'ts could help now: Don't be obstinate; don't give way to silence or display lack of interest in things other than those which affect you. There is always room for improvement.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — The heights of important men and women reached and kept were not attained by sudden flight. Guard health, disposition; be cooperative, observing and you will have won half of the day's battle.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — This could be one of your best days; then again it may not be. It will take initiative and co-ordination, so get started promptly. The rewards will be gratifying.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — The very personal as well as the broader interests share benefic aspects. A good day for planning and beginning new activities. Stick to well-laid plans; don't stab at random.

YOU BORN TODAY were born when the Sun was in Sagittarius. You possess a jovial nature; are usually a happy, pleasing person, bright and full of fun; are charitable, generous, also outspoken. You would make an excellent manager, executive, teacher, statesman, banker and steady going life-mate if rightly reared and educated. The middle of December offers you good co-portunities for your personal and business life. Hold to principles; master impatience, resentment, hasty speech. Birthdate of: Thomas Carlyle, author, historian, essayist; Edith Cavell, renowned nurse, martyr.

Little Benny's Notebook

Sam Cross was sitting on his front steps looking sad when I run down alongside of him on account of not having anything else to do, and Sam said, You're probably never going to see me again, so this is your last chance to say goodbye.

Why, where you going? I said, and Sam said, Away, that's where. I'm going to run away from home as soon as my mother leaves the house. She told me I couldn't leave the front steps till she gets back again, because she expects some packidges, and I'll show her whether I'm her slave or not. She probably won't even miss me when I'm gone, so what's the diffrence? he said.

Aw, like fun, that's the biggest one yet, I said.

Meening he's the most famous liar around, and Sam said, You'll see. As soon as I get far enough away, I'm going to put an averytirement in the paper offering to be a cabin boy on a space ship. So if you get a message from the moon or some place, dont be surprized, he said.

Which just then his mother came out with her hat on, saying, Now dont forget, Samuel, stay right here.

And she kept on going, and Sam said, I think I'll go back in the kitchin and see what's in the ice box. I need a cupple of sandwitches so I wont get hungry for the ferst few days.

And he went in and came out again, saying, Darn the luck, there's nuthing in there but a hunk of liver saudidge, and I wouldn't eat that stuff if you paid me. It's a darn lucky thing for her, he said.

Meening his mother, and just then I heard the fellows yelling around the corner, and I went to see what was up, and Sam Cross kept on sitting there still looking mad.

Sunday School Lesson:

Who Invented Sin?

By ROY L. SMITH

It has long been the custom of the skeptical to speak of "sin" as though it were "an invention of the preachers and the priests." And having thus designated it as something born of theology, they have dismissed it as though it were of no consequence.

Now some the psychologists saying that the source of a vast amount of the mental ailments with which we suffer is to be found in the sense of guilt by which all of us are pursued. And the biggest problem with which the science of psychology wrestles in dealing with a long list of maladies, is exactly this—how to help the sufferer escape from this sense of guilt. It is so though the preachers and the psychiatrists were approaching the same problem, but only from different angles.

AN INSIDE JOB

In last week's Sunday school lesson we studied the case of the man who suffered defeat and disaster from without. This week we consider the case of the man who faces the disintegration of life that begins inside him.

"He has the strength of ten men whose heart is pure," is the way one poet described the strong man. "I have overcome the world" is the exultant cry of the religious man whose faith has provided for him an escape from the sense of guilt which has weighed him down.

It is one of our most common experiences, that we catch glimpses from time to time of "the man I could be," and the distance that separates us from the possible is dismaying.

An old African woman, saying her prayers to a little mud idol alongside the river, listened intently to the story the missionary told to the people of the village. Finally, when the recital was done, she arose very solemnly, tossed the idol into the stream, and said, "I always said to myself that there was a God like that somewhere in the world."

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for December 5: "A Cry Out of the Depths," Psalms 86; 130.

Even the veteran criminal will sometimes confess, when he is confident that his confidence will be kept, that in the midst of his criminal career he has been overtaken by a great longing to be the man he knows himself capable of being.

Those who work with college young people are accustomed to hearing from them, "There is something very strange about it, and I do not understand myself, but down deep inside me there is something that tells me that some day I am going to be some thing splendid and do something great."

MISTAKEN CONCEPT OF SIN

It is not quite possible to dismiss the judgment of the church and the synagogue when it denounces certain actions and attitudes as being "sinful." But we must realize that life is not divided into two categories—the "right" and the "wrong." It is not as simple as that. Neither are we decide that a thing is "moral" because it is "legal." The law usually follows the conscience.

Instead, that which produces within us a sense of guilt, a fear of detection, a horror of being found out, a feeling of unworthiness, and a degree of shame can be labeled "sin" no matter how well it may be sanctioned by society or ignored by religion.

To be "forgiven" for our sins is to have good relations restored between a man and his God.

Two Cardinals Find Gravely Ill Pope Somewhat Better

Pontiff's Strong Heart Gives Hope for His Survival

By FRANK BRUTTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Two cardinals emerged from a bedside audience with Pope Pius XII today and reported finding the gravely ill pontiff "much better and more cheerful."

The two prelates, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, and Nicola Cardinal Canali, said the Pope spent a comparatively restful night.

Physicians earlier reported the 78-year-old Pius was in dangerous but no hopeless condition. His strong heart gave hope for his survival.

The cardinals said the Pope was "most cordial" during the 15-minute meeting and several times the pontiff has arranged despite his illness. He is reported to have talked Friday with Msgr. Domenico Tardini, a close associate in the Vatican state secretariat, and Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, recently appointed archbishop of Milan, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to the papal throne.

SPECULATION AROUSED

There has been no indication of the purpose of the audiences but there is speculation that the Pope plans to hold a consistory soon to fill the six empty seats in the College of Cardinals.

The pontiff's apparent improvement backed up the announced opinion of a battery of doctors who held emergency consultations at his bedside early Friday morning. Hailing the "perceptible improvement" permits good hope that the frail leader of the world's 425,000,000 Roman Catholics will recover.

Two of the specialists told The Associated Press later that the Pope's strong heart likely will carry him through the present crisis. Both emphasized, however, that the pontiff remained in critical condition.

"I believe that he is no longer in imminent danger of death," said Dr. Leigi Villani, the first to see in a separate interview, the noted Italian surgeon, Prof. Raffaele Paolucci expressed a similar view.

TWO ILLNESSES

The pontiff's heart already has pulled him through dangerous illnesses in the last two winters. Now again it is a major factor in hopes for his recovery from the ailment that brought him close to death Thursday.

Dr. Stefano said the heart was holding up well, although an aggravated stomach condition has prevented relief from food since any food by mouth since Sunday. His frail body has been wracked by spasmodic attacks of hiccuping and nausea.

The condition includes an inflammation of the peritoneum, the membrane lining the abdominal cavity.

Shortly before the five specialists issued their bulletin, the official Vatican spokesman said the pontiff was suffering intermittent fevers and that his temperature was "continuously fluctuating."

Dr Stefano, a leading surgeon in Rome's Regina Coeli hospital, said the consultation at the Pope's bedside lasted two hours.

"We found the Pope in good spiritual condition," he added. "I emerge from the audience his general condition, at least for now. However, I am glad to announce that the Pope is recovering fairly rapidly. I believe that he is no more in imminent danger of death."

In his report, Paolucci said he found the Pope "not at all in desperate condition, certainly much better than when I visited him. I could have imagined. I do not believe that he suffered an internal injury. In fact, the pontiff could not have resisted the attack which hit him Thursday."

HAS HOPES

"I have hopes that through the appropriate treatment, which the Pope now is receiving, he will be able to recover in good time and gradually reacquire his forces until recovery is complete," Paolucci added.

—WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Occasional light snow is occurring over southern Ontario this morning but as a result of a weak disturbance moving southeastward over the lower Great Lakes. Cold Arctic air is pushing southward between Hudson Bay and Baffinland. Sunday will be cloudy and cold across the province with the snowfluries expected south of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

The doctor's reference to an internal injury was a result of reports that the Pope had suffered a perforated ulcer.

Dr Stefano said he had first been called into consultations on Thursday when, he said, the pontiff's condition appeared desperate. "His diagnosis then was of a perforated ulcer, but without benefit of a clinical examination proved this untrue, he said.

Man Killed After Attack

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A man was shot to death early today near Brandon after he opened fire at RCMP officers as they moved in to check a car.

Police said they were making a road-block check of cars following the theft of a transport truck and carrier at Portage la Prairie, Man.

As police approached the car, they said, the driver ruled down a window and began shooting at them with a sawed-off .32-calibre rifle.

One of the shots struck constable R. G. Allan's hand while another shattered the windshield. Allan and constable R. Dow took cover in a ditch and returned fire.

Half an hour later the car was rushed when reinforcements arrived and the man was found dead on the seat.

Fourteen slugs riddled the car. Identity of the dead man was not known—he carried no papers—and officers were checking finger prints records.

Seven Sentenced To Death By Military Court

CAIRO (AP) — A three-man Egyptian military court today sentenced to death Hassan El Hodhi, supreme guide of the Moslem Brotherhood, and six other members of the outlawed organization.

The condemned men were charged with plotting to assassinate Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and other officials and overthrow the government. They were arraigned before the court of brotherhood members after Nasser escaped an assassin's bullets at Alexandria last July.

The incident led to last month's ouster of Mohammed Naguib as Egypt's president. The government charged he secretly supported the secret plot but said he would not be tried because this might give him some better chance to divide the country.

The court also recommended complete dissolution of the brotherhood.

Bulky Arctic Clothing Makes Dressing a Frustrating Business

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The army told newspaper, radio and television representatives before they left their home bases to travel light on the trip to this Hudson Bay military base for Exercise Bull Dog II.

The press corps found out why Friday as it took preparations to move from the steam-heated officers' quarters of Churchill out on the frigid Wednesday, to the tent camp on the air-conditioned shores of Hudson Bay.

In addition to their own personal gear, including typewriters, cameras and tape recorders, the 14 members had to carry approximately 35 pounds of Arctic survival gear on their backs. And the bulky arctic clothing with its dozens of buttons, zippers, buckles and flaps made—dressing a frustrating business.

The corps will spend at least three days at the central camp on the bay shore. Windchill—the combination of temperature and wind velocity producing cooling effect—at that camp site is now forecast as high, the result of predicted 16 degrees above zero temperatures and winds of from 15-20 miles an hour.

News stories will be filed directly from the camp over an army teletype system which is being set up for them to commercial telegraph communications.

Major Frank McCarthy, chief public relations officer, warned the corps Friday it would be roughing it in the field. Temperatures are sometimes 40 degrees below zero at this season.

They left their home bases to spend the nights on the tent floor in sleeping bags.

Arctic dress army-style consists of a light woollen shirt, sweater, flannel pyjama pants, regular work pants, nylon wind pants, mukluks lined with two food-pack and an inner foot covering, nylon fur-lined parka jacket, scarf, ski cap, ski goggles and lip vaseline.

As a parting thought, Major McCarthy warned the press corps to examine each other periodically for frost bite.

TWO MEN KILLED, THIRD INJURED IN TWO CRASHES

Police Say Both Cars Left Accident Scene

TORONTO (CP)—Two men were killed and a third was seriously injured Friday night when struck down by cars in two separate accidents. Police said both cars left the scene of the accidents.

Dead are Leo Shimirak, 47, and Joseph Wierbiekowics.

Mrs. Wierbiekowics suffered a fractured skull, a possible broken pelvis, injuries to both legs and internal injuries.

Shimirak and Wierbiekowics were thrown into the air when a car hit them as they crossed a street while on picket duty at the Standard Sanitary and Dominion Radiator Co. plant.

Three hours later, Gordon Houndsom was arrested. He was charged with manslaughter. A few blocks away and the death car disappeared.

$12,000 Budget Item Questioned By Phillips

TORONTO (CP) — Mayoralty candidate Nathan Phillips today demanded to know whether a $12,000 increase in the city's 1954 budget appropriation for public relations, sundries, receptions and entertainment, was necessary.

He put the question today after Mayor Leslie Saunders refused a reporter's request that the mayor open the city's books on hotel expenditures.

Said Mr. Phillips:

"I would like to know just what this $12,000 was for. This is public money and I think the people have a right to know."

Police Expect Arrest In Hit-Run Case

NORTH BAY (CP) — Provincial police said they have seized a car and expect an arrest today in the hit-and-run collision that knocked down the city's leaders on hotel expenditures.

Said Mr. Phillips:

"I would like to know just what this $12,000 was for. This is public money and I think the people have a right to know."

This association is one of the fastest growing hockey associations in the province and gives children from squirts to juveniles a chance to play at their favorite pastime. There are over 300 boys enrolled in the various leagues in the city's organization.

CITY FIREMEN HAD QUIET NIGHT

City firemen had a comparatively quiet time on Friday and up to mid-morning on Saturday with only one minor alarm being answered. The one run by firemen was to a home where an oil burner was giving trouble.

POLICE CHIEF URGES CAUTIOUS DRIVING

An appeal for motorists to drive carefully on snow covered and slippery streets was made today by Police Chief Walter Probert.

"Snow covered streets, especially after the first snowfall of the season, can be very tricky," the chief noted, "and driving with extreme care is the order of the day, what may be a serious accident involving personal injury."

NO ADMITTANCES AT HOSPITAL DUE TO STORM

Despite the heavy snowfall to day city officials appear to be treading warily. Up to late this morning the Belleville General Hospital had not admitted a single accident case suffered by injuries through skids on slippery roads or paths.

However, hospital authorities, out of long experience, are readied for such events.

Quarters for nursing if there had been any mishaps reported thus far an official replied: "Not yet. But we expect them."

Heavy Fall of Snow Blankets City, Cars Have Difficult Time

Five inches of soft snow which began falling in earnest about midnight Friday night threw city and district vehicular traffic for a loop early today as cars and trucks slithered around on streets with many ending up piling each nearby ditch.

The snow started falling about 8.30 last night but only three-quarters of an inch had fallen by midnight. From then on, however, the snow fell in earnest and by 3.30 heavy trucks were having trouble on Bridge Street hill.

At that time a transport that tried to negotiate the hill ended up crosswise and a hurry-up call was put in for sand and snow-plowing equipment. Police were called to direct traffic until the road could be unearthed.

This morning most of the main snow routes had been plowed and buses were making their rounds although not on schedule. Side-walk plows were out and had cleared some of the city walks. At midmorning the landing crews were still hard at work in an effort to keep up with the demand for sand.

Catherine Street hill proved a paying contest for boys with their sleds until police were informed and ruled the sleighriders away in case a serious accident should happen.

Despite the slippery streets and high winds, however, police reported no serious accidents.

Provincial police also reported that half a dozen minor accidents where cars and trucks had slid into ditches but no personal injury was reported.

In the city one motorist lost control of his auto at the corner of Murney and Moira Streets, and the car struck a mailbox while at Station and Ashley Sts. another car skidded into the rear of a city bus.

On the whole, however, motorists were taking the snow in good part. In some cases where motorists ran into difficulties burly shoulders gave a heave and the drivers were on their way. In other cases where Good Samaritans did not come forward the motorist had to work himself out of difficulties.

But the kiddies had a grand time. For them it was the first real snow of the season, sleds came out early and snowballs flew.

As one young enthusiast was heard to say: "the snow made things just right for the visit of Santa Claus this afternoon.

Handicapped Kiddies To Be Given Party

All handicapped children in the city and district are invited to a special Christmas party to be held Monday evening at the Belleville YMCA. The annual Christmas party is being arranged for the handicapped kiddies by the Belleville Handicapped and Disabled Citizens' Club. The party gets underway at seven o'clock.

Prices Steady On Small Market

A few vendors kept a rather lonely vigil on the open-covered local market this morning. The heavy snow delayed some while a majority did not put in an appearance. Others took up vacant stalls on the inside which leaves but about a half-dozen on the outside to the prospects of a slow trade.

Offerings were small, the range in variety of vegetables being narrow. Prices were unchanged. All of the vendors reported the same satisfactory business existing in outlying districts.

Squash brought 15 cents for Hubbard and 10 cents for butternut. Parsnips and carrots were 10 cents a bunch and cabbage and turnips five cents apiece. Potatoes were 50 cents a basket and $2.75 a 75-lb. bag. Onions sold from 15 cents a basket for Spanish, 10 cents a pound for cooking onions. Cabbage sold from 10 cents to 15 cents each. Celery was 35 cents a quart. Cauliflowers, a small offering sold therefore the last of the season, brought 25 cents each. Pepper squash were 5 cents each.

Apples sold at 75 cents a basket for McIntosh and Taiman Sweets and pumpkins were 15 cents each.

On the inside market egg prices continued to decline. Large grades were 56 cents a dozen; mediums 35 cent and small grades 30 cents. Poultry prices were unchanged at 45 cents for fowl and 50 cents for chickens. Loaves sold up to 25 cents each with rolls at 30 cents a half-dozen. Cookies were 20-25 cents a dozen and pies were 45-50 cents each. Honey brought $1 a four-lb. jar while pickles were 25 cents a jar.

Lots of Rain In November

Whatever else could be said for the month of November there was a fair lack of rain.

Weather statistics given out by officials at the Belleville water purification plant on the Trenton Road show there was a total of 2.66 inches of rain during the last month as compared with an average of 2.48 inches for the past 40 years. Total precipitation including 4.7 inches of snow was 4.13 inches as compared with 3.88 inches for the 40 year average.

But altogether the weathermen wasn't too unkind as indicated by the mean temperature of 36.5 degrees as compared with a 40 year mean temperature for November of 38 degrees. The highest temperature recorded for last month was 59.9 with a low of 20.5 degrees.

W. A. Morton Of Thomasburg Dies Suddenly

William Alexander Morton, a lifelong resident of Huntingdon township, a former member of Huntingdon township council and a former reeve, died this Saturday morning at his home in Thomasburg after an illness of a month's duration. He was 76.

The deceased was born in Huntingdon township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Morton.

He is survived by his wife, the former Carrie Porter; a son, Lewis Thompson Morton at home; and a daughter, Verna, of Toronto. Also surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. E. (Estella) Waterhouse, Belleville, and Mrs. Lorne (Mildred) Carleton, Peterborough.

The deceased, a farmer all his life, was a member of Thomasburg Anglican church, a former warden of the church and a member of the choir. Even boy he was a member of I.O.O.F. No. 293 and the Orange Lodge.

Mr. Morton was esteemed for his community service and was a member of Thomasburg's most highly respected citizens. The family will receive the sympathy of a wide circle of friends throughout the district.

Seven Cases Whooping Cough Reported in City

Seven cases of whooping cough, one of chickenpox and one of tuberculosis were reported to the Belleville Health Department during November, according to a monthly report issued today by Dr. A. M. Breuls, Medical Officer of Health.

Nurses made 228 visits to infants and pre-school children, 63 for maternal welfare and 26 to persons with communicable diseases, during November. In schools the nursing of Miss Inspector was carried out on 506 children with 118 medical inspections. Minor first aid treatment was given 40 pupils; 382 received visual screening and 10 auditory screening.

The medical officer examined 26 children who started to school this fall and re-examined 13 conditions previously noted.

Five pre-natal classes were conducted during November with an average attendance of 20. Four child health clinics were conducted by 27 infants and three pre-school children. One hundred and sixty-five infants and pre-school children were inoculated against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus and 26 were vaccinated.

Robert Westlake, sanitary inspector, reports that 28 Street buildings to determine whether storm water was draining into the storm or sanitary sewer. Four establishments licensed by the Liquor Control Board were inspected and bacteriological testing of these was carried out.

Local restaurants continue to be inspected at regular intervals and advice and supervision is given by the plumbing inspector to local plumbers to assist them to meet the provisions of the provincial plumbing code.

DARES THE YARD

LONDON (Reuter) — A store next door to Scotland Yard was robbed Friday night. Just before closing time, a man walked in, beat up a salesgirl, bound and gagged her and walked out with cigars, cigarets and $150. He escaped in the evening crowds.

The By-Laws

Next Monday, ratepayers will vote on two by-laws —first, whether or not they wish to renovate the Belleville Memorial Arena at an estimated cost of $100,000. Second, whether or not they wish to authorize the council to purchase a parking lot or lots, which with improvements, would not cost over $60,000.

The question submitted to the electors in the Arena by-law is this—do the voters want to spend $100,000 to take out the pillars which obstruct some spectators' view and to modernize the heating system?

The Arena Commission has prepared a statement outlining the improvements which they are to be financed. Consulting engineers estimate the cost of taking out the pillars at $87,800 and to enlarge the heating system $12,200. This figure includes the fee for supervision of the work.

On the credit side, the Commission says the average annual profit of the Arena since 1947 has been $9,589. This has permitted spending $80,000 on improvements, payment on which will be completed in 1957 at the rate of $6,000 plus interest annually, including 1954. In other words there has to be paid $24,000 plus interest by the end of 1957. The Arena Commission also expects a surplus on hand of $10,311.

The Commission suggests taking $10,000 of this surplus to reduce the $100,000 cost to $90,000. A debenture would be issued for this amount at 4½ per cent for a 10-year term in which annual debt charges would total $1,168, a total cost of $171,000 or $8,550 annually to be paid.

The Arena Commission also suggests that the improvements will induce greater reserved seat sales and estimates the annual increase in this to an added $12,000. This added to the annual average revenue would come to $21,589.

The sum of $21,589 would appear to be more than adequate to take care of any indebtedness. However, it must be realized this is an estimate only and most people's experiences with estimates are not happy ones. Keeping this in mind suppose we assume that the costs of the improvements will be increased 25 per cent to $125,000 and the estimate of the revenue be reduced 25 per cent. This would produce an annual cost to pay off $10,000 debenture and a revenue of $16,192. As mentioned before there would be the $6,000 as well which must be paid annually until the end of 1957 when the present improvements is redeemed. Therefore, the $6,000 added to the estimated annual cost of $10,688 would bring the total amount to over $16,000 or several hundred dollars more than the revenue.

Assuming the vote is favorable to the by-law, the Arena management believes there will be greater interest in hockey and some other activities. To keep up interest, they believe, we have to have improved teams and that costs money. There would be heating costs, also, which do not figure in present upkeep.

It perhaps should be pointed out that profits of the Arena since 1947 have fluctuated widely from a low of between $6 - 7,000 to over $16,000. We understand the low figure was caused by there being no wrestling one summer due to work being done in the rink.

Beginning in 1958, the Arena Commission proposes to put in improved seats at a cost of $25,000 and these would be paid for by taking the $6,000 annually carrying charges now being paid on the present debenture and apply the sum to paying for the seats.

However the voter must judge for himself which of the figures he prefers to accept. We believe the 25 per cent increase in cost estimate and the same figure in reduced revenue to be a conservative one. By voting against the by-law he will be playing it "safe" as no extra cost to the taxpayer, and if the city will still have an arena that is usable but unsuitable in some respects. If, on the other hand, he chooses to gamble a little the city will vote for the improvements and get a rink which will adequately care for our needs for many years to come. It's a simple as that!

In reference to the $60,000 for the purchase of parking lots, we do not altogether favor setting up any definite sum for this purpose. The publicity given the proposed property owner would be a guide to know the city proposes to spend such money and so helps to undermine the city's bargaining position.

It is suggested that this by-law could very well await the time when options can be obtained on properties desired and a price later revealed for the public to judge its value. It might be well that a small committee be appointed from the council and the Chamber of Commerce to make an intensive survey of properties suitable for parking purposes. The merchants have much at stake in a solution of the parking problem and could be in a good position to assess the values of parking lot properties.

The matter is an urgent and important one which should receive thorough study and proper proposals made. Any plan should have the endorsement of our business men. With that in hand it should then be time enough to proceed with property purchases or leases.

Only property owners can vote on the by-laws.

Barbara Clark Winner Of Carter Scholarship

Barbara Ann Clark, Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Clark, has been declared winner of the first Carter scholarship for Hastings County for 1954.

The first scholarship, valued at $100, is awarded the student in the county who obtains the highest marks on nine grade 13 examination papers in the year of the award.

A second scholarship of $60 and a third scholarship of $40 are awarded students ranking second and third respectively in the county. The scholarships are provided under the will of the late J. J. Carter of Sarnia, in each of the Dominion counties.

Miss Clark, whose parents are missionaries in India, obtained first class honors in six papers and second class honors in three, while obtaining grade 13 work at B.C.I.V.S. last year. She is now enrolled in the science course, Victoria College, University of Toronto.

The second and third scholarships for Hastings were won by Noel Almey, Tweed, and Maurice Courneyea, Tweed.

Three Members Of Hospital Staff Attend Meeting

Three members of the staff of the Belleville General Hospital took part in a special training meeting for hospital disaster planning held at the Hamilton General Hospital Thursday and Friday of this week.

Those attending the meeting from Belleville were Dr. Alexander Rota, representing the medical staff; Miss Margaret M. Peart, director of nursing, and Kenneth Rose, hospital superintendent.

Representatives from 23 hospitals in Ontario and Quebec attended the meeting which was sponsored by the federal government.

Purpose of the meeting was to assist hospitals in smaller centres to set up detailed working plans to cope with sudden increases of patient load from local disasters such as fire, flood, train or plane wrecks, or hurricane. The plan was also designed to coordinate with local civil defence planning.

Hospital representatives invited to the meeting were asked to prepare an emergency disaster program for their respective hospitals.

For Parents Only

Avoiding Accidents

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Tommy will you please keep your toys off the back steps! I nearly tumbled on my head when I stepped on one of your little cars.

Tommy's mother sometimes gets a bit weary training her family in safety methods. But it's part of her job as a homemaker, and so she continues to insist that stairs be kept uncluttered. She herself avoids a too slippery wax polish on her floors.

Tommy's father has made a firm stand outside his son's bedroom window. He knows that a little boy might lean out too far just to see what was going on down below. He wants to keep his children from an accident too.

The daily papers give many cases of different situations which threaten a child's safety. Parents should ask themselves "How could this accident have been prevented?" when they read an account of death or injury.

LEADS TO ACCIDENTS

Children's curiosity and desire to pretend that they are grownups lead to many accidents. The small girl who wants to play "nurse" and the little boy who has an idea he will "doctor" a younger brother, may climb up to the family medicine cabinet and extract various interesting things such as a bottle of iodine or a box of laxative or cold pills.

If these are swallowed in quantity by a little child a doctor will have to be called immediately—and he may get to the house too late to avert disaster. Medicines, and also household cleaning materials, insect repellents, and mouse poison must be kept out of the children's reach.

Bad burns result from little children reaching up to touch the handle of a pot on the stove, tripping over an electric cord or pulling a pot of hot water over on wash day. Children should be kept away from a cooking stove and from washing operations and care must be taken about electric cords lying on the floor.

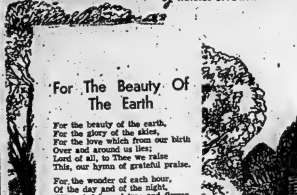
SCISSORS DANGEROUS

Children love to cut out pictures, but sharp, pointed scissors are dangers in the hands of a little child. Sharp knives have a magnetic attraction for small boys and many a little lad has given himself a nasty gash. One of the most painful accidents is where a child stumbles when he is walking or running with a lollipop or a sharp stick in his mouth.

Electricity is a great boon to the housewife, but every year children's lives are threatened from faulty wiring and from a child playing with an electric connection. Many grownups receive a bad shock by touching an electric connection with wet hands, but the former is especially great when children do not realize the danger in carelessness.

WAR SOUVENIRS

There are war souvenirs in many homes which include revolvers. A child should never be allowed to get a grownup's gun as a toy. When the hunting season comes father's or older brother's gun should never be put down where a little boy can pick it up to "practice" he is shooting. So often the revolver or gun is loaded and the imaginary game ends tragically.



Matches have a terrific attraction for children—partly because of their "magic" ability to make fire. The match box must be left in an inaccessible place in a home where there are youngsters. Under a parent's direction, a child should be taught how to light a bonfire or a fire in the stove and should be impressed that fire is a good friend but also a terrible enemy.

PLAN CAREFULLY

Accidents are most apt to happen late in the day when both children and parents are weary. Mothers have to plan carefully not to be too fatigued at supper and bedtime. Supervising a small boy or girl is a twenty-four hour job. A child can be badly hurt or even killed in a split second. Mothers do not want their children to grow up in a fearful nervous atmosphere, and thus it is of vital importance to protect a youngster from possible tragedy. It takes the co-operation of both parents to make a home as far as possible "accident proof!"

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

For The Beauty Of The Earth

For the beauty of the earth,
For the glory of the skies,
For the love which from our birth
Over and around us lies;
Lord of all, to Thee we raise
This, our hymn of grateful praise.

For the wonder of each hour,
Of the day and of the night,
Hill and dale and tree and flower,
Sun and moon, and stars of light;
Lord of all, to Thee we raise
This, our hymn of grateful praise.

For the joy of human love,
Brother, sister, parent, child,
Friends on earth, and friends above,
For all gentle thoughts and mild;
Lord of all, to Thee we raise
This our hymn of grateful praise.

The song books are full of hymns of thanksgiving, but not one in the list is more popular than this one. It was written to be sung in connection with the celebration of the Lord's Supper and made its bow to the public about 1864.

Its author, Folliott Sanford Pierpoint, was an English poet and man of letters. Born at Bath in 1835, he was graduated in 1873 from Queen's College at Cambridge. Seven years later he brought out an important booklet of poems and subsequently he contributed a number of hymns to religious magazines of the day.

"For The Beauty Of The Earth" is the best of all his song-poems. It is usually listed when hymns are being chosen for adult praise services, but it is equally popular with children.

A Lift For Living

How Old Are You?

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

How often when we face ourselves in the mirror we say inaudibly: "How old I look! That wrinkle wasn't there yesterday." The man in the mirror may age their faces a bit more vigorously and grieve for their departing plumage. We men seem to know more about what to do in such cases than men.

Not long ago a competent man became the victim of office shake-up. His record had been flawless, but he was terrified. He went to a friend and said, "I have made an application for a job and referred to you. This organization will not consider me if they know my real age. Sir, if they ask my age, could you conscientiously say I'm 45?"

His friend told him it might strain his integrity to make such a statement. He would endorse him if he were 42. The man acknowledged his age and was employed for more than his previous salary. His achievements are a matter of record.

Every employed person over 30 is mindful of the "dead line" by age. One of the dilemmas of our day is that while medical science is prolonging our years of possible activity, our industrial system seems to be shortening our years of employability. Certainly it is our social duty to do all in our power to make old age secure.

NO ANSWER

But mere economic security is no satisfying answer to man's craving for usefulness. We want to be of use to the end of our days. And we can be.

One of the heartening aspects of modern life is the new usefulness being discovered by middle-aged mothers after their child-bearing duties are done. Their activities are expanding into the realms of community leadership, public service, adult education, the fine arts.

The late Albert Payson Terhune was distinguished for his dog stories. Who has not read his incomparable volume, "Lad, A Dog?" Mr. Terhune was an editor on the New York World. One day he said to a young associate, "I'm getting old. I must make the best of my remaining years. Such a short time and so much to do. Next week I'll be 44 years old, soon I'll be an aged fellow."

He had already written scores of short stories and many books. He was yet to write his greatest tales. The real vigor of his pen and mind had not yet asserted themselves. He passed away in his late 70's with his pencil and pad in his hand writing until the day of his death.

James Fenimore Cooper, author of the famous Leatherstocking Tales, was a writer well up in years. One night he listened to Mrs. Cooper's reading of a novel. He casually observed that he could write better one himself. And he did. When he wrote "The Spy" his reputation was assured. He was amazingly prolific.

MORE CASES

And we might go on multiplying cases. John Wesley, when past eighty, was still preaching up and down England, saying with a smile, "It's time to live if I grow old." An American ex-president, over 80, has just flown to visit the Chancellor of West Germany, himself nearing the same age.

But you may say, the cases of genius do not help the commonplace. To be sure, not many of us can write books or run governments in later years.

But I think of an unmarried aunt no longer able to find commercial employment and not capable of creating artistic objects. Yet by her spirit of cheerful fortitude and contagious co-operation she is worth an immeasurable amount to a whole family circle. She is more than a baby-sitter. She is a family-quarter.

Recently a man took up painting. He said, "The doctor may some day tell me, 'You're too old for golf.' But he will never tell me, 'You're too old to paint.'" Cultivate the things age cannot stop. When does a person pass prime? Physically, maybe in the fifties; mentally, perhaps in the sixties. But spiritually a person never passes his prime until he begins to think the best is behind him. And that need never be if we watch the spirit of the Great Physician, as Browning expressed it: "Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be, The last of life, for which the first was made."

Women's Institute

MELROSE W.I.

The Melrose Women's Institute held its annual community supper in the Melrose township hall last Thursday with a large number of members and visitors attending.

Master Randy Gray of Plainfield, delighted everyone with "Shoofly Pie", and "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus."

Mr. Leslie McLaren, who acted as chairman, told the audience that the Institute's request to the council for permission to build a kitchen on the hall had been favorably received and a request for a government grant had gone forth.

Miss Marion Blatherwick gave a beautiful vocal rendition of "Jesus's Sista," followed by two graceful tap numbers by little Miss Shirley Chisholm, of Rosebank.

Mrs. Lorne Weese entertained with piano selections while the stage was being prepared for an amusing skit entitled "The Major's Operation," featuring George Blatherwick, Kari McKechan, Jack Weese, Helen McLaren and Lois McMechan.

The pie-eating contest was won by Arthur English with the consolation prize going to Jack MacFarlane.

Mrs. J. McLaren tendered a vote of thanks to everyone who participated in the program and to the success of the occasion, and reminded the members of the regular meeting which will be held early on the 9th of December.

HOWL FROM THE NORTH

It is always stimulating to read the Northern Ontario press.

Relieved of the effete influence of the aging culture in Southern Ontario, reporters and editors manage to handle the grist while comes to their mill in a manner which makes a tasty dish—whether served upon the front page, the editorial page or the sport page.

We do wish, though, that they would get together and decide just exactly what are the facts of life in the great northland.

For instance, we find the editorial writer for the Sudbury Star pooh-poohing a claim by a United States magazine that the Arkansas razorback "can lick many times his weight in wolves and run faster than a deer."

"Smile, stranger," we are told that razorback hawg right back to the Ozark limestone!" orders the Sudbury editor.

Or don't smile! And bring that razorback into Northern Ontario to test its strength against our wolves and his speed against a northern whitetail deer.

"Man, oh man! A Northern Ontario wolf would have work chops for supper, and a northern deer would make a return trip to Arkansas to fetch the razorbacks forgotten grunt while the Ozark hawg was covering the first ten yards of a tote road."

The Sudbury editor's estimate of the speed of a Northern Ontario whitetail makes it evident that no Northern Ontario deer was ever shot by a hunter who saw it when he pulled the trigger. The animal had had the misfortune to run into a bullet fired when it was leaving the next county.

As for the ferocity of Northern Ontario wolves, we cannot help reciting that tale Mr. Curran, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Daily Star, used to maintain staunchly that he had never met "a man who had been et by a wolf."

If the Northern Ontario wolf is such an efficient devourer of people, how come it never experimented with man meat? Of course, we realize that the Northern Ontario breed of homo sapiens might be too tough, but there have been a few barefoot trippers in the Southern Ontario who have roamed the northland and lived to confirm the Soo editor's estimate of the harmless character of the Northern Ontario wolf.

Both, to tell, the most dangerous wolves in Ontario are probably those in the soft south—but even the most daring of them would hesitate to whistle at an Arkansas razorback on the prowl.

A DIFFERENT VIEWPOINT

Canada's law against retail price maintenance has been the object of considerable criticism.

It is therefore interesting to read comment from a country where such a law is unknown.

The Utica, N.Y., Observer-Dispatch comments on the case of a British manufacturer fined $1,000 in Toronto for trying to fix the retail price of chinaware in stores across Canada.

Canada's policy, it says, "is directly opposite to the laws in the United States which give to the manufacturer the power to fix the retail prices of his produce in states having so-called fair trade laws."

There are some who would like to see Canada copy United States practice and many of the arguments advanced by them are impressive, however, we ought to investigate very carefully before we follow the example of our neighbors to the south.

"The rule of the manufacturer over the retailer is not working well in the United States," says the Utica paper, "since some retailers insist on managing their own business and selling for less. One of the largest manufacturers of chocolate candy put an end to price-cutting some of its larger products because any retailer could fix his own price by the amount of allowance on the trade-in article."

"The coming Congress will see a fight to strengthen the price fixing law on the one hand and to repeal the law on the other hand."

So that is the other side of the story.

Most of us know too little about the intricacies of this question to venture an opinion as to which side of the controversy is right—or perhaps it would be more correct to say which side is nearer to being correct, for it would appear that the conflicting policies of the United States and Canada both have their disadvantages as well as their advantages.

GOT AN EARLY START

We are charter members of the Club for the Glorification of Newspaper Carrier Boys.

Nevertheless, our eyebrows shot up an inch or two the other day, on reading an editorial in our contemporary, the Trenton Courier-Advocate.

Seems that a 13-year-old carrier boy in Saskatoon has built up a savings account of $1,500.

"If you continue to deliver papers for another three years he should have at least $2,000," says the Courier Advocate.

It therefore appears that his savings are growing at the rate of $500 every three years.

To amass $1,500 he must have been delivering papers for nine years.

That means he started work when he was four.

Seems a rather early age at which to become a wage-earner, even for a newspaper carrier boy.

END OF AUTUMN

The trees are bare of leaf today.
The patch of lawn long shadowed
The herald frost has called to say
King Winter's troops are on the march.

The piling and summer long have fled
And autumn very soon will go.
The wind turns cold and overhead
Gray clouds will shortly bring the snow.

Vacant is every song bird's nest.
Birds seek, it seems, blue skies to sing.
The lovely things once blossom dressed
Deep in their beds are slumbering.

When winter comes to hide with snow
The garden that is bleak and bare
'Twill never see and never know
The loveliness that once was there.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

50 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 4, 1954.

Mayor Geo. O. Tice, in one of the keenest election battles in the records of this city, was this morning returned triumph in the elections yesterday when he was carried into office for his fourth-term as the city's chief executive, with a majority of 77 votes over his opponent, Ald. Harold Armstrong and he duplicates the record of a four year term which has been held only once before in local municipal history, when he was returned by acclamation in 1912 when the late Alfred G. Vermilyea was elected over the late Geo. Thomas and the year 1914 when the late Judge J. P. Wills, K.C., was elected by a majority of 39 votes over his opponent the late Geo. Guss. Likewise this city pets such an intense and spirited race for mayoralty honors. The total vote given Mayor Tice was 2,097 and Ald. Harold Armstrong received 1,990 votes. This year a total of 4,057 votes were cast by the electors; last year the total vote was 3,861. In the election of 1953, Reginald D. Arnott, barrister, headed the poll. Following is a list of those elected and those defeated with the number of votes received: Reg. Arnott, Geo. C. Tice, 2,067; ex-Ald. Richard Armstrong, 1,990; ex-Mayor Richard D. Arnott 2,130; William Harvey Leitch, Frank Decarie 1,943; Glencoe E. Thompson 1,608; Jesse W. Barlow 1,587; Harry Allen, 1,295; Frank B. Foley, 1,212; Thomas H. Marshall 1,158; Percy Wallbridge 1,128; Thomas Y. Wills 1,120; Benjamin Safe 1,069; Dr. J. G. Gofflidge 1,064; Wilfrid R. McCreary 1,058. Aldermanic candidates not elected were: Ald. Wm. Lott 1,051; William A. Woodley 1,006; G. Clinton Dickenson 981; Isaac Hagerman 757; Norman Edgecombe 740; Addison Thompson 645; Ernest J. Baldrie 596.

Second Mayor to Serve Four Years. In the year 1904 the fourth consecutive term Mayor Tice equals the record of the late J. W. Johnson, who held the office of mayor during the years 1897, 1898, 1899 and 1900; this is the only time up to the present that a mayor has served four consecutive years. F. McAnnany, after whom Mc-Annany Park was named, served four years but his terms were not consecutive. The mayor during the years 1857, 1858 and 1859; he missed 1860 and was again elected in 1861. Dr. William Hope was mayor during 1862; he held the office of sheriff of the county in later years and was succeeded by his son, Geo. F. Hope. Following is a list of mayors who served for three consecutive years: F. McAnnany, 1857, 1858, 1859, (it is interesting to note that Mr. McAnnany, prior to Belleville being incorporated as a town in 1850, served as president of the local council from 1848 to 1849 inclusive); R. Conger, 1860, 1861, 1862; Wm. Ketcheson, 1863, 1864, 1865; Charles Hanely, 1921, 1922, 1923; Francis Ketcheson, 1916, 1917; Thomas H. Marshall, 1833, 1833; Lorne W. Marshall, 1931, 1932; C. C. Mikel, 1924, 1923; John O'Hara, 1855, 1856; W. H. Poots, 1852, 1853, 1854; Patterson, 1880, 1881; Dr. S. O. Platt, 1910, 1911, 1912; Geo. Reid, 1830, 1831; J. F. Wills, 1913, 1914.

The large house which is well known as the Donnelly property, situated at the corner of West Moira Street and Sidney street, was discovered to be on fire at an early hour and the top floor and contents were destroyed. The house was occupied by Frederick Plummer who came here from Ireland and had lived in the house for two months. The members of the Plummer family were given shelter by a neighbor, Mr. Sanguet Sinfield.

Do you remember the enclosed open air skating rink on the hospital lot at the north east corner of Church Street and Victoria Avenue? Many good times were had there and the hockey boys put on some exciting matches with outside teams; then, too, there were the delightful winters when very jolly affairs, with the band in attendance. There was a large well-built shed with separate heated rooms for women and girls and men and boys. Alex. LaPalm and John (Johnnie) Weese were caretakers and supervisors for several years. Family or single season tickets could be obtained at a reasonable charge. We were reminded of the old rink, which some old boys and girls will remember, by the following item quoted in copy at this time in 1894: "The open air rink on the hospital lot is completed and a sheet of ice will be made as soon as the weather becomes cold. The rink was removed every spring to the hospital lot where used for baseball and football games during the summer and fall.

Fountain Pen's History

(New York Times)

Seventy years ago this month patents were issued for the first fountain pen, but it is extremely doubtful if scholars to lose pens as well as pencils in the long walk between classes and home have improved greatly since L. E. Waterman perfected one with the ink-feeding device, but no manufacturer has solved the problem of how to keep students from losing them.

Supposedly the fountain pen was devised for the great American salesman. The story goes that the inventor, once an insurance agent, lost a sale because an ink bottle's contents spilled over a prospective contract. Nowadays one new model carrier its own sealed-in cartridge of ink. In the old days of a bottle of ink was carried on one's person. Some high critical moment when the client was ready to affix his signature.

This corner much prefers a modern story of the pen, which reports, so the pens can be saved, perhaps some day framed, with the following postscript, saying: "This is the pen that was used to sign the initial pledge up one of these plain pens and signed his name with a flourish and the proceeds of which founded the other pen to the tribesman.

Oh, no, this is under said. I have my own pen. And, reaching into the folds of my burnoose, I take a brand-new, much-in-demand streamlined American fountain pen, dabbed some's replacement.

Louis XIV commissioned a fountain pen for his personal use early during his reign and, though the royal engineers tried and tried, he received a quill dinkard to his end. Metallic pens, however, were not unknown in classical times. Children pens for Cesar and Pompeii is in the Naples Museum. The earliest writing instrument was probably the stylus, a pointed affair of metal, bone and ivory, used to make impressions by indenting letters on tablets. In more modern times geese were the favored bone to writing with ink. The quills still used in the world by those who like the feeling of one's favorite tootle whisky, the fountain pen was a perfect fit.

The demoralization of the fountain pen, in contrast to the cigarette lighting device, had its advantages. During Prohibition pen manufacturers found that large models sales suddenly were zooming. The boys who like big fists pens an unusually large ink capacity, and they were filled with an air of importance by a small dent

MORE ABOUT MINERALS

Question: "My whole family is inordinately fond of oysters. We eat them by the barrelfull in season. I don't know anything about them from a point of view of nutrition. I don't imagine they do any harm, but do they do any good?"

Answer: Oysters are particularly valuable as a source of copper, iodine and zinc, all of which are necessary in good health, surprising as it may sound. Copper is needed to assist iron in attaching itself to the hemoglobin in the blood. Lack of copper in the diet can produce anaemia just as surely as lack of iron. The iron will not go into the hemoglobin without the presence of copper. Other sources of copper besides oysters are liver, shrimp, lobster, cereal grains, leafy vegetables, mushrooms and bran.

Iodine, which concentrates in the thyroid gland, is necessary to prevent an unpleasant and unsightly disease called goitre. It is found in all salt water sea foods, as well as in artificially iodized salt.

Zinc is essential for physical growth. Carbohydrates and proteins are absorbed through the walls of the intestinal tract much more quickly when plant is present than when it is absent. It is also believed that zinc may be concerned with the storage and utilization of insulin. Zinc is always present in crystalline insulin. Zinc content of a diabetic pancreas is about half that of a non-diabetic pancreas.

In addition to oysters, zinc is found in liver, green leaves, watercress, spinach, peas and fish.

MINERALS IN FOOD

Minerals in foods do not receive the publicity that vitamins do, yet they are fully as essential. It may be shocking to some people to learn that they eat (let us hope) such minerals as calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper, iodine and zinc every day. It is considerably more shocking to a nutritionist to find people who don't.

Question: "I have in my medicine cabinet a bottle of iodine which has on its label a skull and crossbones and the legend "Deadly Poison." I do not question the legend. I use the iodine for disinfecting cuts, not for a condiment to season my food. Now the salt that is available at our grocery store has on its label the legend "Contains Iodine", but I can find no skull or crossbones thereon.

If iodine is deadly poison in my medicine cabinet, why should it not be deadly poison in my salt shaker? I miss salt, but under the circumstances I feel I am better off without. Perhaps there is not much iodine in the salt as there is in the bottle in my medicine cabinet, but is not slow poisoning just as bad in the end as quick poisoning?

Answer: Iodine in small amounts is not only not poisonous but essential to proper nutrition. People who eat ocean fish, shrimp, oysters, lobsters, crabs, clams, etc., acquire iodine naturally. However fresh water areas, far inland, provide very little iodine. Lack of iodine in the diet causes an unsightly enlargement of the front of the neck which is known as goitre.

Wellington

WELLINGTON, — Friends are sorry to learn that Mrs. Jack Sword was taken to Belleville General Hospital on Sunday.

Among those attending the Canners' convention at the Royal York, in Toronto, this week were Messrs. Clare Platt, Don Morden, Hugh Earl, William Wilson, Ralph Ellis; Mr. and Mrs. Colin Lace, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Channell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bailley.

Miss Mary Lou Platt left on Tuesday for Toronto, where she has accepted a position.

Friends with Mrs. Valleau a speedy recovery from her serious illness. Her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) D. M. Smith of Campbellford, is with her. Mr. Arthur Valleau, of Aurora, spent the week-end here.

Mrs. Tom Boyle is home after a few days spent in Flint, Mich., with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Boyle and family.

Two rousing charivaries last Friday evening really woke up this village as they drove the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Max Greer also Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wiltse through the streets. After which they were well treated.

Sgt. and Mrs. Chuck Adams and small family, have moved into a home at Middleton Park, Trenton.

Miss Marion Dales of Toronto spent the week-end with Miss Colleen Yandt, and attended commencement.

The W.C.S. commencement was a huge success on Thursday and Friday evenings with a packed auditorium.

These goitre-swellings used to be fairly common sights in inland areas before the introduction of iodized salt, which compensated for lack of iodine in those areas. Cod liver oil is also a good source of iodine.

Britons Worried by Increased Flow of West Indian Immigrants

Editor's Note: Britons are worried about the increased flow of West Indian immigration. In this story, the second of two, a Canadian Press reporter tells of a visit to Brixton, a south London community which has attracted many immigrants, to find out how civic officials tackle the problem.

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Three letters splashed in white paint on a beauty shop wall spell a warning and a threat for Brixton, a crowded south London district.

The angry cipher KBW—"Keep Britain white"—although the work of a few agitators, reflects the tension generated by Brixton's growing West Indian colony.

That colony has tripled in recent months, a direct result of increased immigration. Officials estimate some 3,000 West Indians, mostly Jamaicans, are packed into the area known as "Little Harlem."

DRAB DISTRICT

It's a district of drab, three-storey boarding houses. Most of the grey-brick buildings are 80 years old and need a new paint job.

The mood of some of the white community is typified by a news stand operator: "They've got to do something. These blacks are moving in, buying the houses and forcing the whites out."

Hard hit by German bombers, Brixton has 10,000 families on its housing waiting list. While householders, cramped in one or two rooms, bristle at the prospect of newcomers, of any color. There is anxiety over living standards. Health officials report 20 to 30 residents jammed in one house.

"We're becoming a transient camp," says Herbert White, building mayor of Lambeth, the London borough which encompasses Brixton. "They tell me in Jamaica the first word mentioned after Britain is Brixton."

Brixton, a traditional living quarter for floating persons, has plenty of large boarding houses.

CHARGE HIGH RENTS

"There are lots of landlords here ready to put the immigrants up for a while—at an exorbitant rent," said White. "Some rent the boats when they dock."

He cited the case of one West Indian who earned £7 a week on the railways, paid the high figure of £23 10s. rent monthly and got elsewhere and renting the rooms to four other men at £12 apiece.

Sometimes newly-arrived immigrants pay £1 a week to share one room with four or five others. Occasionally a sanitary inspector orders these tenants to leave on the grounds of overcrowding. They are then left homeless and go to the top of the housing list ahead of white families who have waited years for a home.

White, an energetic ex-post office worker, hopes to ease these problems by asking the government for some form of immigration control and a system of reception centres. At these centres, immigrants would be taught the rights and responsibilities of British citizens, and directed to settlement areas offering adequate housing and employment.

MUST BE CAUTIOUS

"You have to walk slowly," the mayor said. "These people are suspicious. They have no organizations to represent them at home and when they are approached by a white man they say in their selves, 'Ah, here is someone trying to get something out of me.'"

Apart from the grim KBW slogans, there is little evidence of open animosity between white and West Indian citizens.

"We have had no trouble at all from the West Indians," a police official said. "They don't go to the pubs and they make exceptionally good citizens."

Some feel, however, that landlords may occur during local elections due next March or April. They fear that Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union party, which advanced six candidates in the last election, may make color an issue.

Authorities know that Communist organizers have been at work in the "Little Harlem" area but they believe they have met with little, if any, success.

Women of The Moose

On Thursday evening, the Women of the Moose, held their first meeting of the month in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent, Michaelline Calbury, presiding.

The opening ceremony was held with Jr. Past Regent, Ruth Mintz, Junior Regent, Mary VanDusen, chaplain, Mary Mallette and Senior, Michaelline Calbury, taking part.

Balloting on candidates was held with the ballies being favorable. Initiation of candidates took place with guide, Connie Pringle, and assistant guide, Florence Caruthers, admitted them into the "heart" of the Women of the Moose.

Reports were given by Mary VanDusen for the bazaar held in October by the Women of the Moose.

A report was also given on "Remembrance Day" by Nellie Scrymgeour.

FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

A receipt was received from the Salvation Army for $50 donated to be used for needy children at Christmas.

A letter was received from Superintendent Hamilton from the Ontario Hospital for a parcel received for a patient.

The chairman's meeting is to be held at Hazel Whitman's for social service chairman, Nellie Shandrew.

The Christmas supper which is to be held on December 9th is to be conveyed by Junior Grad Regent Ruth Mintz.

A draw was held and won by Alice Livingston and Ethel Knott.

The closing ceremony was held with Chaplain Mary Mallette offering the closing prayer.

A euchre was held following the meeting with prizes won by Luella Downes, Marian Madden, Grace Bartlett; the lone hand by Mary VanDusen.

Pie and tea were served by Library chairman, Ethel Knott, and her committee.

St. Andrew's WG Enjoys Slides Of Kitimat, B.C.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild's regular meeting was held on Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Ryan, conducting the meeting. The devotional part of the program was read by Mrs. Carmichael.

Mrs. Ryan thanked all members for their efforts in connection with the bazaar held last Wednesday.

Correspondence was read and a business period followed.

Opening and closing hymns were accompanied at the piano by Miss Manning.

The men of St. Andrew's congregation joined the meeting to enjoy the entertainment portion.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. W. R. McCreary introduced the guest of the evening, Mr. Harold Meyers, from Truck and Farm Supply, who showed a colored film on Kitimat, B.C. The Aluminum Company of Canada puts Canada's abundant water power to work to generate the enormous amounts of electricity needed to produce aluminum. Kitimat was an ideal site for this and is situated 400 miles north of Vancouver.

The Nechako River was dammed and a chain of lakes formed into a reservoir 150 miles long. From the reservoir a tunnel was driven ten miles down through a mountain. Power lines will carry the current 50 miles across the mountains. The town has been planned to hold as many as 50,000 people. Heavy tools and construction materials came to sites by boat. Electric carried men and equipment over rough country.

The picture was most colorful and showed all types of machinery on construction.

Mrs. Ryan expressed thanks to Mr. Meyers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. White and the members of the group.

Grand International Auxiliary Holds Christmas Bazaar, Tea

Yesterday afternoon the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen held its annual bazaar and tea in the assembly room of the Y.M.C.A. where a bevy of Christmas shoppers wended their way from booth to booth in quest of that elusive gift for some particular friend. Every booth was decorated in the seasonal colors of red, white and green, and embellished with a cutout railway engine in silver or gold foil, emblem of the auxiliary, which was also carried out in the centrepiece of each little guest table, a substantial, jet-black metal engine with bands of shining gold.

RECEIVING GUESTS

Receiving the guests were the president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. E. Drury, and the Grand Organizer Inspector Mrs. F. Kerr, assisted by Mrs. D. Chaplin, Mrs. M. Elliott, Mrs. Gymer, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. I. Naylor and Mrs. W. Weese. Mrs. Crozier acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

The tea room, which occupied that portion of the assembly room divided by a row of potted plants from the booths which ranged around the west, and southern sides, was in the form of an ell, on two of which the tea table was placed at an oblique angle. This was attractively done noteworthy with its lovely white damask cloth centred by a magnificent bowl of snow-white Shasta daisy 'mums, little sprays of frosted cedar, and here and there, tiny gleaming, green metallic balls. Shining, silver branched candelabra with green and white candles, and silver services formed a symphony in white, making a most lovely picture.

POURING TEA

Those who poured were: Mrs. June Muirhead and Mrs. Doc Brown; Mrs. Albert Clarke and Mrs. E. F. Cross; Mrs. W. Morgan, Sr. and Mrs. Robert Orser; Mrs. H. W. Smith and Mrs. William Hammett Sr., while those replenishing included: Mrs. Percy Welch, Mrs. Frank Parsons, Mrs. Archie Jordon, Mrs. George McGee, Mrs. Richard Sargent and Mrs. George Wilson.

Serving the delicious cups of tea, sandwiches and little cakes were: Mrs. J. McCormick, Mrs. Neil Robb; Mrs. Wilfred Callaghan, Mrs. George Coleman, Mrs. H. Stairs, Mrs. M. Petty, and Mrs. E. Kerr. Replenishing the tea pots: Mrs. Art Buck, Mrs. Joe Cunningham, Mrs. Carol Fisher, Mrs. Bert Batchelor, and making tea: Mrs. Wilbur Graham, Mrs. William Spring and Mrs. Archie Hall.

LINEN BOOTH

The linen booth was in charge of Mrs. M. Quirt as convener and Mrs. J. Avery as co-convener, assisted by Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. F. Bolton and Mrs. Modeland. This displayed fancy floral towels, embroidered and lace-edged pillow slips, crochet doilies in blue and ecru and white; cretonne pot holders; wash cloths with crocheted edges in blue and rose; embroidered dish towels; fancy towels; handkerchiefs; and a particular fancy apron fashioned in double fold of crinoline with scattered pale mauve lilac flowers between the folds with pink satin ribbon band, and ties. This apron 'gets around' as they say, as either ii or its twin sister was seen quite recently at another Christmas bazaar. So thus it avoids "shedding its sweetness on the desert air."

Convening a very lovely satin-bound, wool blanket of a well-known make were Mrs. N. Calbery and Mrs. R. Taylor. This would become the cherished possession of the lucky ticket holder, which proved to be Mrs. Joe McCormick.

ATTRACTIVE HOME COOKING

The homecooking booth was most attractively arranged with a fine assortment of apple, and lemon pies, mincemeat tarts, date loaves, a large square, Christmas cake, angel cakes, big chocolate bar cakes with deep, boiled white icing, date squares, chocolate layer cakes with whole walnuts meats, gingerbread cookies, white-topped cup cakes, tiny chocolate cakes with white icing, and a delicious looking maple-iced chocolate cake. Convening these goodies were Mrs. D. Fisher and Mrs. W. Mole, assisted by Mrs. M. Boyd, Mrs. H. Leavitt, and Mrs. F. Fisher. A fine chicken and all the trimmings would also be drawn for.

The country store with its fine supply of canned beets, pickles, relishes, potato salads, vanilla extract, jellies of all kinds and jams, salad dressing, soups, jello powders, dish cloths, sugar scoops in yellow plastic, and tart tins, flour and shortening all found ready and waiting. The smiling merchants were Mrs. C. Henley, Mrs. E. Pigden and Mrs. M. Taylor.

MANY STYLES

The aprons, of which there were many were convened by Mrs. W. Hammett and Mrs. K. Hannett, assisted by Mrs. R. Brown and Mrs. M. Kelly, and were of many styles, colors, and designs. There was little white dotted Swiss half aprons for the wee girlie, mauve aprons with yellow trim in full skirt all over style, prints too many to mention, cobblers aprons with handy pockets for the elusive dusters, fancy aprons in satin with contrasting borders, mauve and yellow aprons, and aprons in tiny dark designs in black and mauve. Almost any type one would wish for.

Candles were there in many varieties, and in cellophane bags, red bags, bows and frills, candles are all nicely decorated and quite tempting. The varieties included after dinner mints in white and green, chocolate fudge, maple creams, and centering the display was a large square box of fruit, pineapple, pears, grapes, oranges, apples, tangerines, all under cellophane. A most tempting arrangement which would go to the holder of the winning ticket, which was Mrs. Wilkinson.

The conveners of this booth were Mrs. R. Maxwell and Mrs. W. Hamnett, junior, assisted by Mrs. B. Robinson and Mrs. J. Rock.

CHILDREN'S—DOLLS' WEAR

The children's wear and dolls' wear booth was under the convenership of Mrs. J. Kilfedder and Mrs. J. Van Allen with Mrs. E. Gulliver, Mrs. A. Bignelas, Mrs. J. Hart, Mrs. A. Newman and Mrs. L. Wood, assisting. Everything a little tot might need as well as her doll was to be found here. Little aprons, crocheted jackets, mitts of all colors and sizes, doll dresses, bibs, rompers, doll's towel and face cloth, embroidered, toques and smocking jackets, plaid tams with red buttons centres, and nice, comfy pyjamas.

A fish pond for the entertainment of the little tots, and even more rather big 'tots' were seen enjoying themselves for there were 'fish' for wee girls, little lads; big girls and big lads. One of the big 'tots' was seen flourishing a blue face cloth which she had 'fished' from the tank, showing that at heart even the grown-ups are children, which is fine.

The over all conveners were Mrs. Jerome and Mrs. A. Van Stone, while those convening the tea room were, Mrs. L. B. Grey, with Mrs. Joe Cunningham as co-convener.

A fine bazaar, attractive in its simplicity, and a dainty tea, bringing much commendation to the conveners, and their assistants for a hard task well done.

OFFER REWARDS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A price was put on the heads of Vancouver's bank robbers Thursday. Rewards of $5,000 have been offered by the Bank of Montreal for the arrest and conviction of the gunmen who sagged double-barreled holdups here Wednesday, escaping with $11,000. The Canadian Bankers' Association also offered rewards, without mentioning a specific sum.

Going Places

New Type Travelling Salesman

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Perhaps you've made a trip or two lately and found yourself wondering why Pullman and airline reservations are so inflexible, tough to get, and why the window seats on buses and rail coaches always seem to be occupied—if, indeed, there are any seats at all.

It's true that both vacation and casual travel have increased enormously, but the real boom is due to the great postwar expansion of our economy and the many commercial travelers it has sent on the road. Weekdays, more than 90 per cent of all common-carrier passengers are seekers, or buyers for America's mushrooming business enterprises.

If you're one of the young men starting out on or contemplating a career as a traveling man, harken to a few words from our retired friend, the Old Drummer, who knows more about it than any body else:

"In my day," the Old Drummer reminisced, "traveling salesmen were mostly known as the subjects of jokes about farmers' daughters. But travelling was no joke.

"It meant riding for hours on end in sooty coaches which were overheated in winter and suffocating in summer. The same went for hotel rooms and—Lord help us—upper berths. Air conditioning was unknown.

BONES BOUNCED

"It meant getting your bones bounced loose in buses or automobile on dirt roads, or risking your life in a primitive airplane (if you were really in a hurry.)

"Transportation was so slow that the only way you could make a trip pay was to stay away from your home and family for weeks and sometimes months at a time.

"I know we were pioneers of a sort in building the economy of our country, and they were good days in a way, but I hardly look back on them with relish. I'd much rather be a young man today, going out on the road for the first time.

SMART FELLOWS TRAVEL

"It's a smart young fellow who chooses a career traveling today. For one thing, no major executive of any firm in the country ever got where he is without being on the road during his career. Knowing how to sell or buy is the very best requisite for a successful business career without qualified men who have had experience in the markets, these firms might as well go out of business.

"Also, selling—which is usually predicated on some sort of sharp-again principle—pays a young man far better than comparable inside jobs, where his periodic $2 and $10 raises depend pretty much on how much increased income the guy on the outside can bring in.

"The American business traveler has finally got to the point where he is respected just as professional men are. He's hardly the subject for jokes any more. He is treated with courtesy by a fair income in contact with him and he lives well, both at home and away. When he's home between trips he has more leisure time than the average six-day-a-week wage slave has, more than making up for the inevitable lonely hours on the road.

UNCHAINED LIFE

"He can do a lot of his business on the golf course and over swanky meals. He gets a new car every year or so, gets to see a really larger portion of the country than we old-timers did, has the occasional opportunity to take his family on a business jaunt or perhaps to a convention, and in general leads a healthy, unchained-to-a-desk outdoor life which keeps him youthful and healthy for longer than any pallid pencil-pusher.

"He gets to know his business in broader concepts, and thus with deeper understanding, than people on the inside; he talks to customers directly and gets to know what they want before they do. He can smell out trends in the business, if he's alert, and so best his competitors. He knows what's going on in the business world.

"He has the satisfaction of doing specifically constructive job which brings in business to his firm directly, and of being directly compensated for it.

"No wonder the traveling man is well paid and invariably reaches the top of the heap in his company, or becomes adequately equipped to start his own business and succeed at it.

"Yes sir, I'd sure like to be 30 years younger!"

We'll have some specific tips from the Old Drummer next week.

(Q) "Is it possible to look at a hotel room before taking it? Is it bad manners to ask?"

H.J., Charlotte, N.C.

(A) Unless the hotel is extremely busy and all bellhops are rushed, any room clerk will be glad to have a boy show you the room you are being offered. It's your money, and you have a right to know what you're spending it for. If the clerk denies your request, it's not a respectable hotel.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"MONEY AND DRINKING" ARE HER FAMILY PROBLEMS

One of the most significant symptoms exhibited by the alcoholic is his insistance that he can stop drinking any time he wants to. It is only when he does not do so, and is willing to admit, that the fact is actually quite optimistic. That hope for him can begin. Just so long as he goes on fooling himself into believing that he is able to "take it or leave it," he will keep right on drinking.

Unfortunately, many wives of alcoholics take this attitude, too. Because they are convinced that their husbands could stop drinking if they only would, they fail to see the thing for the disease it is, and so are unable to do what they might otherwise do to help them face the facts and open the way to possible overcoming of the habit.

This I believe, is one of the basic troubles with the thinking of one wife who writes me that the two problems she has with her husband are "money and drinking." She says, wisely of course, that believes he cannot stop drinking, is actually the cause of the first one (money), but adds, also wisely:

"Actually, my husband is not an alcoholic. Don't think that. He could stop if he wanted to. If he could all of a sudden, every day find himself out of debt and start anew, I believe sincerely that he'd be different. But he just hasn't the courage or strength to go about getting out of debt, especially as it gets too discouraged before any results show, and then he says 'to heck with it.'

The reason they can't get out of debt, she explains, is because "All the money that comes in, my husband keeps in his own hands and he is thoroughly irresponsible about it. On pay days, he stops at a tavern, spending recklessly. Frequently he doesn't show up at home till the early hours of the morning, and the next day is often too sick to get up and go to work. Also, because he has left so much money at the bar, he borrows from friends.

"There have been many, many times when we haven't seen him from 6 o'clock in the morning when he goes to work, until 2 or 3 the next morning. In fact, a month ago he was gone until 3 o'clock the next afternoon. Look at the money thrown away!

"He can see, himself, what he's doing to us, and admits that the only thing we fight over is his drinking. He sees what a wreck it makes of me, and says he is sure he'll be good for a month. But that doesn't give me time to regain my faith in him. Just when he has me thinking he's going to be different, it all starts over again. I never fails."

Whether she knows it or not, and she evidently doesn't—the wife has given the story away in those last two sentences, which clearly set down the alcoholic pattern. She has, in fact, already given it away by thinking in circles. That is, she says they're barely in debt because her husband spends so much on liquor, and that the reason he spends so much on liquor is because he worries over their debts.

If she is ever to get her family out of its troubles, the first thing this woman will have to do is to get off her mental merry-go-round, face the fact that her husband is an alcoholic and attack the problem from that end. For to keep deceiving herself about this is simply to waste time while the problem grows worse, as it inevitably will.

What I would advise her to do is to write a letter to the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous. She should describe exactly what her problem is, and ask where in her city she can go for advice and help. Within the Alcoholics Anonymous organization there is a group of wives, mothers and other relatives of alcoholics who meet together to discuss their problems, to exchange ideas and to learn how they can best deal with the problem. If there is such a group in her area, she might get help through meeting with it.

She might also like to have some material I can send her on this subject which may give her new hope and courage. If she will write me again, giving me her name and address so that I can get in touch with her personally, I will be glad to forward this material to her.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

NOTE:

Let there be no mistake—I love letters from readers and I enjoy answering — especially when I make the answer. But, my friends, I have to buy Christmas gifts too, so please remember to enclose stamped self-addressed envelope when you want return mail, and always give your name and address, for I may not have room for my reply to you in this column.

QUESTION:

About two years ago now you had a recipe for Onions au Gratin. I made it. It was very good. I have mislaid it.—Mrs. H. G.

ANSWER:

ONIONS AU GRATIN

(Amounts are for three medium sized onions.)

Slice one medium-sized mild onion (Bermuda or Spanish) for each person to be served in 1-4 inch slices. Cover with boiling water and let stand covered 5 minutes. Drain. Arrange drained slices neatly in greased baking dish, sprinkling 1 tablespoon flour and ½ teaspoon salt and dashes of pepper and paprika between. Add 3 tablespoons boiling water. Mix together ½ cup each buttered crumbs and grated cheese and sprinkle over top. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until onions are tender.

LETTER:

You . . . are a find to me. . . today I'm making scalloped potatoes to take out and as I'm a cream sauce for them what a find the dry mix for white sauce is, for busy mothers. . . I'm so many of your splendid recipes and my friends always comment about them and go away with an Emem recipe. . . just felt how wonderful you are and they and I must say "thank you." My daughter was married Sept. 18 and all the wedding were read all along. She is an Emem fan . . . was practically . . . I'll love myself to do the work you are.—M.E.C.

ANSWER:

Modesty should have prevented me printing that letter, but I certainly needed the lift it gave me. I had two minor accidents: (1) I caught my thumb in the car door and could not type for three days; (2) I did my reducing exercises carelessly and wrenched my back and was flat on it in bed for three days. All the time the mail kept piling up —there are dozens and dozens of letters to answer, and yours was the first one I opened when I finally got back to my desk. Now you know why my thanks are so fervent. Let me know when I can give you some specific help.

QUESTION:

. . . I was glad to see your article on oven meals. . . . I wonder if you have this style of Christmas pudding. . .dark and heavy and put in pudding bowls. . . cover with cloth and boil. . . the longer the better. . . some are ten, eight and I have too much fruit. —Mrs. E. C.

ANSWER:

I think the following is what you mean. If you care to make it darker you could add 1-4 teaspoon cloves and 1-4 cup each citron and orange peel.

SIMPLE PLUM PUDDING

One cup unsifted flour, 1-2 cup each suet chopped fine, sour milk, molasses, 1-2 cup chopped raisins and currants mixed, 1-4 teaspoon each nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Sift together all dry ingredients. Mix into them the suet, and fruits by hand, then stir in liquids. Pour into greased moulds filling not more than 2-3 full. Molds should be small—about 1 or 1 1-2 lb. size preferred. Steam 2 or 3 hours. Steam an extra half to 1 hour before serving. Molds should be tightly covered.

A good investment that pays long and excellent dividends is the coat of first quality cashmere cut on softly casual lines. It is perfect for all but dressy wear in town, at home in the country and a fine traveller especially when lined with invisible fabric to cope with temperature changes. This beauty is done in rich Chinese blue, a new shade that is most flattering. The collar is wide, the sleeves are cuffed and push-up. . .There is detailed seaming at the slit pockets. Controlled fold creeps toward the waist for a slim look. Buttonless, it is a clutch coat to be held when wrapped or allowed to fall loosely in graceful lines.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CULTIVATING CURVES

Normal weight, good proportions and perfect posture all combine to make the ideal feminine figure. Excess weight puts a woman out of the picture as far as beauty is concerned. And the emaciated girl cannot qualify either. Sharp elbows, skinny shanks and prominent collar bones are anything but attractive.

The thin girl has an advantage over the fat one however, for it is easier to put on weight than it is to lose it. If health conditions are normal, it is merely a matter of cultivating correct eating habits, getting plenty of sleep, having outdoor exercise and learning to relax. Thin girls, as a rule, are so keyed up it's not easy to catch up with them.

When malnutrition is the cause of underweight there is no accompanying lack of muscular development and this condition, in turn, may cause faulty carriage. Then the chest becomes flat, lungs do not receive enough oxygen, circulation becomes sluggish and the complexion pale.

In the campaign for a more rounded figure a girl's diet may have to do a turnabout—especially if she fancies she can live on pies and lettuce. She has a finicky appetite.

A balanced diet is essential to provide the various food elements, including vitamins and mineral salts, that are necessary to well being. She should increase the intake of fats, starches and sweets—a little more butter on the bread, a quart of rich milk each day.

Breakfast should start with fruit. A hot cereal, with milk and cream, should be included. An egg will supply protein.

Nine hours of sleep every night is a part of the program. Outdoor exercise, not too strenuous, will create appetite, help her to stoke up and put fat on her ribs.

Women's Institute

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The December meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Eddie Hall, of Huffsh Island, with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. S. Barber, presided. A number of business details were discussed during which $2.00 was voted for the coal liver oil fund for the health unit of Prince Edward County. Special Christmas music was enjoyed with Mrs. Ben Anderson at the piano. Mrs. Clifford Barber gave "Current Events" for the past month. Mrs. Donald Jones read an inspiring Christmas reading.

The meeting was closed, after which Mrs. Ben Anderson conducted a contest with Mrs. C. Wallbridge and Mrs. R. Barber receiving the favors.

Mrs. W. Nightingale thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

The hostess, assisted by several ladies, served refreshments, and a social time was enjoyed.

A draw was taken on the quilt which had been quilted by the Institute ladies and the top had been donated by Miss Elizabeth Jordan, a former resident now residing in Picton. The quilt was won by Mrs. L. Wallbridge.

Queen Mother Interested In Fashion Show

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth delighted London fashion models Wednesday by showing a lively interest in the items she was wearing at a show by the capital's "Big 12" designers.

The Queen Mother, walking around the long drawing room of a stately home here, was accompanied by Princess Margaret, who also asked many questions of the mannequins.

At one point, the Queen Mother paused to finger a cocktail dress and a long coat in pink, white and scarlet patterned cotton and exclaimed to the models, "The colors are wonderful."

IN HOME

The show was held in the home of Viscountess Camrose, Carlton House Terrace, under the auspices of the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers. All the items shown were made especially for the royal show, a departure from custom. All the items also were made of British materials.

The Queen Mother herself wore a blue and green printed silk dress with matching blue velvet beret swatched with a fold of green velvet, and deep-toe pumps. Her jewels were three large loops of pearls and a jewelled clasp with a large emerald in the centre.

A PREVIEW

The show was tantamount to a preview of spring fashions.

The Queen Mother carefully questioned each couturier as he took his place beside her while his own models were exhibited. Princess Margaret also chatted frequently with the designers.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A GIFT TO THE ADOPTED BABY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear and long-time friend of mine and her husband applied recently for the adoption of a baby, and now they have the final papers. The "adoptive mother" is planning to give a little party for the baby, and when she does would it be proper for me to give the baby a gift? —Henrietta S.

Yes . . . indeed yes! This would be a gracious and generous way to show your warm friendliness and your happiness at the good news.

SECOND MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) If this is a second marriage of the bride-to-be, is it proper to have a wedding reception?

(2) Is it permissible to have the traditional wedding cake?

(3) What kind of invitations are sent — W.E.

(1) Yes. We're proper to have a wedding reception . . . but it should be on the small, informal side.

(2) Yes, if the bride wishes.

(3) Generally the few relatives and close friends to be invited are invited verbally or by telephone, or, if more convenient, by notes.

ABOUT REGRETTING WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My employer's daughter is to be married soon, and I expect that we, my wife and I, will be invited. However, even at the risk of offending, I still do not want to attend the wedding or the reception. How do we decline the invitation?

2. Would a wedding gift be expected? Or do you think a congratulatory card would suffice?

— M.B.

1. If the invitation is formal (and if imagine it will be) and includes an invitation to the reception (as you think it will), it must be answered formally; that is, in the third person. And today it is not considered necessary to give a reason for the regretting of an invitation.

This form for the regret is proper:

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ross regret that they are unable to accept the very kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Hill for Friday, the tenth of December. This should be written, with the lines as is, on the first page of your personal letter-paper, or on white, double-sheet paper.)

2. There is no rule about whether or not one sends a wedding present. It does depend on one's inclination, preference. However, certain circumstances often point up a suggestion . . . and in your case, my suggestion is that you and your wife should send a wedding present, not necessarily an important one . . . something not expensive, but chosen with special thought. Don't send a congratulatory card; instead send, if you wish, a telegram to the couple to arrive during the reception.

Medical Forum Told No Cure For Arthritis

TORONTO (CP)—A doctor said Thursday night there is nothing, particularly in gold seed pills, that will cure arthritis.

Wallace Graham, assistant professor of medicine at the University of Toronto, told a medical forum an cure has been found for the disease, although a "great forward movement in the progress with major research being undertaken."

He spoke before a gathering of about 700 persons, many of whom were arthritic. He mentioned the alkalin seed pills when he referred to the number of persons taken in by alleged remedies.

"When you hear of a cure for arthritis, without mentioning the kind, you may be sure it is a fake," he said. "It is just as ridiculous as a claim for curing polio and heart disease combined."

Mayor Is Major Issue in Toronto As Voters Go to Polls Monday

TORONTO (CP) — A slap-dash civic election campaign, complete with flying mud, ended Saturday when Toronto voters decide whether they want to keep their supported mayor.

Leslie H. Saunders, 58, a Salvation Army personnel-director and veteran of two campaigns, as a controller, was appointed mayor in August when Allan A. Lamport's ill to become a member of Toronto Transit Commission.

The mayor is the major issue in the election. His opponents describe him as "intolerant and bigoted." He claims there is "a vile and frequently dishonest campaign to discredit me. . . .

MAJOR BALYOS

Two victims of Mr. Saunders during his term as mayor drew major ashes from his three opponents — a lawyer, an insurance agent and a Communist.

Some controllers walked out several weeks ago when he banned the press from board of control meetings. Others took offence when he issued a statement July 13 on city hall stationery supporting the Orange Order.

Nathan Phillips, 61, the lawyer, is a veteran of 16 years on city council and a vociferous critic of the mayor. He recently escaped Mr. Saunders' wrath by installing a plush suite at the Royal York Yonge at civic expense and of gathering power through his membership in the Progressive Conservative party. The mayor denied both charges.

WAS STUDENT

Arthur A. Brown, 53, an insurance underwriter, was a student preacher 30 years ago in southern Alberta. He blasted city housing policy and demanded speed up of redevelopment in downtown areas.

A. A. MacLeod, the Communist, is a former Labor - Progressive member of the Ontario legislature.

Toughest fight for the four board of control seats is among the present controllers—Ford Brand, David Balfour, Roy Relyea and Ross Macdonald of the latter, who ran a close fifth last year.

There are nine candidates for the board, executive body of city council.

TRYING AGAIN

Harry Bradley, with a discouraging record of losses in 27 attempts for a board seat, is trying again.

George Rolland, a watchmaker, and Ben Nobleman, a public relations counsellor, are trying for seats. Rolland wants to introduce racial segregation and claims he is "the only man in the world who understands the true facts of economic science."

A Communist candidate for board of control is Harry Hunter, former Hamilton alderman and organizer for the Labor-Progressive party.

The 43 candidates for 18 aldermanic seats and 24 for 14 board of education seats include five other Communists. Stewart Smith, Robert Lazer and Hector MacArthur are Communists running for aldermen.

Mrs. Edna Ryerson and William Repka are Communist candidates for board of education. Ruth Bercliver and Mrs. Jean Krehm are campaigning on platforms the same as Mrs. Ryerson's.

Standard Set Of Questions Will Be Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—A standard set of questions to provide uniform statistics on automobile accidents across Canada was recommended Friday night by a Dominion-provincial conference on motor vehicle legislation. They are designed for use in highway safety programs.

The standard question procedure will be recommended to the federal and provincial governments and if approved could become effective in all provinces. At present the type of questions asked drivers involved in accidents vary from province to province.

The standard set of question would elicit not only factual information on how the accident occurred but would provide information about the driver's experience, who taught him to drive and how many hours he had driven without rest prior to the accident.

"STOP THIS MASSACRE"

Hon. Gordon K. Taylor, Alberta minister of highways and vice-chairman of the conference, told the delegates that 3,000 persons are killed and almost 40,000 injured in Canadian traffic accidents every year. Uniform, detailed statistics were necessary to "stop this massacre."

The standard questions would establish the age, sex, occupation and condition of the driver. The age and condition of the car and the type, surface condition and state of repair of the road. They would elicit information on the nature and cause of the accident, the time of day and location, road visibility and road obstructions, traffic control devices, accident victims and damages.

The conference decided that the questions be put by only those involved in accidents resulting death, injury or property damage of $100 or more.

GIRLS DIE

MONTREAL (CP)—Two young girls were killed Friday night in separate accidents in the Montreal area. Police said Lise Desrochers, 8, of nearby St. Vincent de Paul, was killed when struck by a bus near her home. The other child, three-year-old Julienne Renaud, died after being hit by a car near her home in nearby Ste. Dorothee.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS
TO MUNICIPAL ELECTORS
POLLS ARE OPEN FROM 9.00 A.M. TO 7.00 P.M.

For Mayor and Aldermen, all persons whose names appear on the Voters' List may vote.

Electors can vote for any number of Aldermen up to SEVEN. Any ballot marked for more than seven Aldermen is to be treated as a spoiled ballot and not counted.

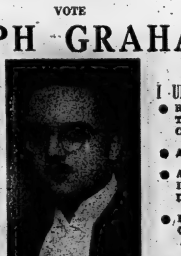
PUBLIC SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Electors for Public School Trustees in Samson, Ketcheson, Bleecker and Coleman Wards may vote for one Trustee only in the ward in which they reside and property owners therein may vote for one Trustee only in each ward in which they own property. Voters in the above wards are not eligible to vote for Public School Trustees accepting Separate School Supporters.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Separate School Supporters in Samson, Ketcheson and Murney Wards may vote for two Separate School Trustees only in the ward in which they reside and property owners therein may vote for two Trustees only in each ward in which they own property. Separate School voters are noted where possible on the List with the letter "S".

MONEY QUESTIONS



1. An opinion on the question of renovating the Belleville Memorial Arena.
2. An opinion on acquiring, establishing, laying out and improving certain lands on which vehicles may be parked in the city of Belleville.

Only those who appear on the Voters' List as property owners designated with the letter "O" may vote on these questions. Property owners may vote once in each ward in which they own property, but not in each sub-division of the ward.

If a man and his wife are marked on the List as joint owners, they each have a vote on these questions. If the husband or wife only is marked with an "O" the other party cannot vote on these questions.

A REFUTATION
OF THE MAYOR'S CHARGES

Referring to the Mayor's charge that Alderman Thomas was largely responsible for the unsatisfactory manner in which sidewalks of the city were constructed. I wish to state that these charges are not in accordance with the facts.

To recapitulate:

In 1949 sidewalk construction amounting to just over $40,000 was carried out by Defoose and paid for. I was not chairman of Public Works at that time.

During 1950, further sidewalk construction was carried out by Defoose. This work was approved and paid for in 1950. I was chairman of Public Works at that time.

In 1951 when I was still acting as chairman of Public Works, new contracts for sidewalk construction were offered into with Defoose, as his tender was the lowest submitted. Defects appeared in the sidewalk constructed in 1949. As the result of these defects appearing, the Public Works staff was increased to provide inspectors. The sidewalks constructed in 1951 with the increased supervision have proved entirely satisfactory.

During 1952 and 1953 I continued to act as chairman of Public Works and with the increased staff appointed in 1951 the sidewalk construction was under constant inspection and no defects have appeared.

Regarding the street curbs and sidewalks constructed in 1954, I would like to draw to your attention that I was not Chairman of Public Works at this time. In an effort to reduce the Public Works budget, the staff was reduced so that proper inspection was not possible.

I feel that the Mayor has been most unjust and almost defamatory in his implication — that I, as one member of Council, was responsible for the inefficiency which resulted in certain cases, when I was not chairman of the department and which I corrected during my term of office.

(Signed) DON THOMAS
Your Candidate for Mayor

THESE ARE THE FACTS!

In order to clarify the situation regarding road re-surfacing work done on Front Street this summer and on sidewalk construction on Church Street, Hastings Drive, MacDonald Avenue, Victoria Avenue and East Bridge Street — the following excerpts from the reports of the consulting engineers Lee and Brooks are reprinted:

Report Dated October 5th, 1954.

Re: Sidewalk Construction

CONCLUSIONS:

My conclusions are as follows based upon an examination of the walks, the contract documents, concrete test results, and the section of concrete removed:

(a) The workmanship of the walks is excellent.
(b) Concrete test results are satisfactory.
(c) The section cut out shows definite inadequacies in thickness indicating for this section a failure to meet specifications.
(d) The specifications are not entirely clear as to what the contractor is supposed to build. I thought from the drawing that the edge of the walk was to be 8 inches thick measured from the top surface. In the field I found that a slight ramp had been built presumably to the satisfaction of all concerned with a net thickness of curb of 5 inches as required by section 6 of the specifications (see paragraph 5, (a) (above).
(e) Without going to the trouble and expense of determining centre slab thicknesses the measurements mentioned in paragraph 4 lead me to believe the walks conform with the specifications in general.

Signed
Lee & Brooks
"J. D. Lee"

Re: Road Surfacing

CONCLUSIONS

The aggregate may have been dutsy. This could result from abrasion in transit, or after the material was placed on the street.

That the only really satisfactory surface for a business district is a sheet asphalt pavement. Although it costs five or six times as much it lasts more than five times as long. At the same time it is smooth, dust free, quieter, and better looking than a surface treatment.

Two Former Prime Ministers Commemorated

OTTAWA (CP) — Two former prime ministers, both Conservatives, will be commemorated in two of the seven new stamp designs to be issued next year. A whooping crane, musk-ox and Eskimo hunter also will be displayed on Canada's new postage.

The post office announced today that portraits of Sir Charles Tupper, prime minister from May - July, 1896, and R. B. Bennett, government leader from 1930-35, will be issued on new stamps.

No date for the two was announced, but J. R. Carpenter of the post office philatelic branch said the issues will leave only two prime ministers, Mr. St. Laurent and Arthur Meighen, still to appear on Canadian stamps. Post office policy is to commemorate former prime ministers only after they are dead.

The present 10-cent stamp, showing an Indian woman hanging up beaver pelts, will be replaced by an Arctic scene of an Eskimo hunter in a kayak.

In April, a five-cent whooping crane issue and a four-cent musk-ox stamp will appear. They are in support of wildlife conservation.

Two special events also will be commemorated — the 50th anniversary of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the International Boy Scout Jamboree to be held in July at Niagara-on-the-Lake, first such jamboree to be held in Canada.

Double Population Of Victoria B.C. In 25 Years

VICTORIA (CP)—The southern tip of Vancouver Island is preparing for a bad case of growing pains.

Population of the capital city of Victoria is expected to double within the next 25 years.

The neighboring municipality of Saanich by 1976 will have a larger population than Victoria.

These forecasts are contained in a recently-issued 60-page report.

The report represents seven months' work by James W. Wilson, executive director of the lower mainland regional planning board, who made a special survey for a greater Victoria town planning board.

Mr. Wilson says the purposes of the survey are threefold:

1. To acquaint the people and governments of the area with their region and its resources;

2. To assemble information about the region as a basis for work to be undertaken by the board's permanent staff;

3. To study and analyze development and problems of the region and make recommendations regarding them.

Mr. Wilson foresees major changes in transportation links to the area.

He believes that helicopters will become the chief passenger links with Vancouver, 40 miles to the north. Direct steamship service is rapidly becoming outmoded, he says.

The report warns that the anticipated drop in population will have to be supported chiefly by what industries already exist. Government work will continue to provide the bulk of the jobs, it suggests.

Sidney Twp. Council

WALLBRIDGE —The Council of the Township of Sidney met on December 2, with all members present. The minutes of October and special meetings as read were adopted.

November road voucher No. 12 for $4,402.50, relief accounts for $50 and December pay sheet were ordered paid.

Mrs. W. N. Ponton received rebate of $20 per lot for five lots and Dr. McLean $20 from Sidney Township Water Area being over payment per lot re extension of water main on Palmer Avenue.

No action was taken on the petition of John Boyle and others re formation of a restricted area in Part Lot 34, Con. 1 and R.F.

The following by-laws were given three readings and numbered 1232 and 1233 respectively:

1. A by-law to appoint deputy returning officers and poll clerks and to provide polling places and also to appoint a place for holding nominations.

2. A by-law to appoint a building inspector for Sidney Township.

Council adjourned to meet at Wallbridge, December 15th, at 11 a.m.

Dairy Council Head Urges Cut In Butter Prices

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government was urged Thursday to help reduce butter prices to consumers by modifying its price support program.

Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary, president of the National Dairy Council, estimated that Canada will have a huge surplus of unsold butter next spring and described the long-term use of a federal floor price as "just plain economic suicide."

It would lead to a declining use of butter and encourage greater use of margarine, the dairy leader told the Ontario Creamery Association.

The statements were included in the text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

The federal government supports the butter market by offering to buy surplus production at 38 cents a pound, during the heavy summer production season and selling it to the trade at a fixed price of about 61 cents a pound during the winter.)

ESTIMATES SURPLUS

Mr. Carlyle estimated that by next spring — providing the government does not export surplus —Canada will have a surplus of 55,000,000 pounds of butter, 15,000,000 pounds of cheese and 7,000,000 pounds of skim powder.

"We have reached a stage where we must either abandon the floor price altogether — which would bring chaos if we tried it — or commence to modify it by introducing lower prices for domestic consumers.

"I believe the industry should be united in favor of such a policy, producers and operators both, and that we should be prepared to support it immediately. We simply cannot afford to carry on blind devotion to a policy which is slowly washing away the very ground beneath our feet."

A FINAL APPEAL TO THE VOTERS
BY MAYOR JACK BOTH

December 3, 1954, 11.45 a.m.

In my last appeal to you for your vote and influence, I would like to put the records straight on some of the charges made by my opponents.

In the case of my unwillingness to negotiate with the police committee, this charge is false. You need only to ask the police for your own satisfaction as to what really happened and who took part during the negotiations and you will find for yourself that the final answer was from the council as a whole, of which my opponents were members as stated in my statement in the Ontario Intelligencer of December 2nd, and other issues. I have served you well and do believe I saved you money: It is easy to spend someone else's money but to spend it wisely, that takes sound judgment and good management.

During this year we called for tenders on two small jobs: Coleman Street and Parkwood Heights Streets.

The lowest contractors price was approximately $43,000.00. By the co-operation of the chairman of public works, Bruce Smith, and the comptroller, we were successful in making a saving of approximately $28,000.00 in comparison to the lowest price submitted by tender, under the direct supervision of an appointed foreman, by the city comptroller and the chairman of public works.

This I point out to you is what can be done through full co-operation and the intelligence to foresee that the tax payers' money is to be spent wisely.

My opponents spoke of long range planning and storm sewers started in a three phase system but what they failed to tell you after the first phase was completed, the plans for the second phase were not to be found nor have they been to this day. With an approximately $40,000.00 engineering staff I ask: you if this is long range planning or sound administration and business procedure? My opponents took part in that planning. There are times when a conscientious elected representative of the people cannot possibly co-operate with certain of his colleagues if he is interested in the welfare of the people he represents. A fully co-operative council could well become a family compact, a condition which has in the past existed in this city.

It is possible that CO-OPERATION COULD UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS, DETERIORATE INTO COLLUSION.

Again I repeat I will co-operate at all times if it is in the best interest for the betterment of Belleville.

I am concerned about the enormous tax debenture there is at this time in the city of Belleville which is over four million dollars, in fact it is exactly $4,107,300.00 . . . and still we have debentures for schools of $108,000.00 yet to come.

This debenture debt amounts to $222.00 for every man, woman and child in the city of Belleville, not householders mind you, but for every man, woman and child. Remember the debenture debt is a mortgage on your home and on your children. I will make every effort to give the leadership necessary, to keep the city of Belleville in a sound financial condition, endeavoring to progressively reduce the tax rate.

BEFORE MARKING YOUR BALLOT STOP TO CONSIDER WHO WILL SERVE YOU BEST AND I'M SURE YOU WILL AGREE THAT JACK BOTH STANDS FOR SOUND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AND ECONOMICAL LEGISLATION, CAN YOU SAY THE SAME FOR THE OTHER TWO CANDIDATES?

BUILD BELLEVILLE WITH BOTH ON A SOUND BASIS.

VOTE TO RE-ELECT MAYOR JACK BOTH ON DECEMBER 6TH. GET OUT AND VOTE—PROTECT YOUR DEMOCRATIC RIGHTS.

CAST YOUR VOTE FOR DON THOMAS
AS MAYOR OF BELLEVILLE - 1955

I wish to speak to you concerning the duties of your Mayor and Councillors.

In doing so, may I refer to a small booklet entitled "The Municipal Council and Councillor in Ontario," which is published by the "Institute of Local Government," Queen's University, Kingston.

The Institute of Local Government is a study and research organization established in 1944 to promote the study of local government and to assist in the solution of the problems with which municipal bodies have to deal.

First, let us consider council powers. The powers which council may exercise vary according to the population. The greater the population, the wider the range of powers. Many of these powers are set out by the Municipal Act and are divided into two main classes, those which Council must exercise, and those which Council may exercise, and those which Council may

In the first class fall such matters as maintenance of roads, appointment of certain officers, raising the money for the school board, library board and other such bodies. These and many others a council must do, and if the council fails to perform these, or inadequately carries them out, it may incur legal liability on the municipality.

In the second class are those powers which a council may exercise if it sees fit, such as the operation of a Fire Department, Garbage collection, Public Health nursing service, regulation of traffic, etc.

There are certain basic rules which councillors must keep in mind when they are exercising their powers of legislation. One is that any action by a council must be within its proper sphere, or in other words, there must be some statutory authority for the power which it proposes to exercise. It is also necessary that when councils exercise their powers they do so in good faith and without discrimination as between citizens.

FINANCES.
First — Revenues.

The main source of municipal revenue in Ontario is taxation. Approximately 90% of all municipal taxes is derived from taxes on real property.

EXPENDITURES.

It is not possible to go into detail in the matter of municipal expenditures but one or two points should be mentioned.

First — a considerable portion of expenditures is to provide funds for other bodies such as the school board, over which council has no control. Council must provide the money demanded, but frequently through co-operation it has been found in the past that when the complete financial picture is properly explained, these bodies may reduce their budgets.

Other expenditures such as road maintenance, sewer maintenance, fire and police protection, garbage disposal, recreation centres, etc., are considered controllable but because of the fact that the citizens do not look kindly upon proposals to reduce and eliminate existing services, these are in fact practically uncontrollable.

So we can see that the best a council can do is slow down or resist the tendency to increase, rather than effect much reduction.

Now regarding the specific duties of the Mayor, may I quote from Section 230 of the Municipal Act, "It shall be the duty of the head of the council to—

(a) be vigilant and active in causing the laws for the government of the municipality to be duly executed and obeyed.

(b) Oversee the conduct of all subordinate officers in the government of it and, as far as practicable, cause all negligence, carelessness and violation of duty to be prosecuted and punished;

(c) Communicate from time to time to the council such information, and recommend such measures as may tend to the improvement of the finances, health, security, cleanliness, comfort and ornament of the municipality.

The mayor is the head of the council. The head of the council is the presiding officer at the council meetings and as such it is his responsibility to see that the meetings are properly conducted, to maintain order, and in practice to guide the progress of the meeting. The head of the council, together with the clerk, is also responsible for signing all by-laws passed by council.

The head of the council in Ontario municipalities does not have the executive powers which many of the "strong mayors" possess in some municipalities in the United States. His position might be described as lying between that of the United States' strong mayor and the English mayor. The general public credits the head of a council with greater powers and, consequently, holds him individually responsible for the results of the municipal government to a much greater extent than his legal position justifies. To them he personifies the whole civic administration.

Because he sits as a member of most of the civic bodies by virtue of his office and in Belleville is an ex-officio member of all committees of council, the head of the council acts as a connecting link between the various bodies in the civic government organization. He is able to keep each of such bodies and the council in touch with the plans and policies of the others. By his knowledge of what is going on in the different boards he can exercise a valuable influence to bring the policies of all closer to a common aim.

Provision is made that in the absence of the head of the council from Ontario, or if the office is vacant, or if he the head is absent through illness, or if he refuses to act, the council may appoint one of its members to act in his place. Such appointee has all the powers of the head of the council.

May I ask:—

Do you think that your council has been receiving the proper direction and leadership?

Do you think your council has been mindful of the basic rules which council must bear in mind?

Do you think your council has been directed toward an efficient and organized program?

Having served as a member of council for the past six years, I am asking your support as a candidate for Mayor of your city. As "intelligent citizens, you are aware of my record and it is for you to decide whether my performance and experience justify your support.

As a candidate for Mayor, I can see many ways in which the affairs of the city's business can be improved. In my capacity as Alderman, I have served on various committees, such as Traffic, Finance, Fire and Public Works.

Public Works as you know, deals with the maintenance of roads, sidewalks, sewers and their extension into new areas as well as various other activities. The budget for the Public Works Department is by far the largest of any of the various departments over which council has direct control.

Belleville being situated on the Bay of Quinte which is a part of the waterway of Lake Ontario, has been faced for many years with the necessity of providing sewage disposal, and as a preliminary move, storm sewering of the city must be undertaken. This is an undertaking which cannot be indefinitely postponed. A few years ago, contrary to Mayor Roth's statement, a long term plan WAS instituted to map out the existing storm sewers and provide necessary new construction. This plan was divided into three stages:—

(1) New system in Bayview Heights.

(2) Enlarging existing storm sewers running from the corner of Victoria Ave. and McDonald Ave. through the East Hill playground and on to the Bay of Quinte.

(3) Building of storm sewers in Churchill and Parkwood Heights.

Definite progress was being made until 1954, when this work was suspended and key personnel left the city employment.

A few years ago, the policy for resurfacing many of the streets of Belleville was paramount and considerable progress was being made. Here again a penny pinching policy of Patching was substituted for resurfacing.

You will, I believe agree, that any money saved in 1954 will be completely offset by the increased expenditures required subsequent years and that not spending money does not in itself represent saving.

I believe that the taxpayers' money should be spent with the same care as one would exercise in his own personal spending and that it is the duty of the people's elected representatives to be ever aware of the trust placed in them.

My record of six years as your representative is before you. I feel I can offer you the leadership which is required.

On previous occasions, your support has been most gratifying. May I again solicit your continued support on Monday.

Thank you.

Marmora

MARMORA—The newly formed Marmora Curling Club is holding its opening eight end Wednesday at 7.30 p.m.

Marmora Presbyterian Methodist Church recently installed a public address system and chimes. The chimes are played at various times and their sweet tones are being widely appreciated. On Sunday evenings they start to play at 7 p.m. and the hour for service and any special features are being announced over the public address system.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kolak, of Levack, Mich., visited relatives at Deloro, last week.

Squadron Leader Donald Prentice and Mrs. Prentice spent the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeland Fitzgerald of Carrying Place, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Broad, on Sunday.

LETTER OF THANKS

Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Marmora village, recently received a letter of thanks from Group Captain G. G. Diamond, commanding officer of RCAF, Trenton, in which he expressed his appreciation of the financial assistance provided by many of the villagers as four young airmen were injured at the intersection here of No. 7 and 14 Highways on November 8.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Mission Band Presents 'Coming Of Christmas'

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Sunbeam Mission Band entertained the mothers and friends at Queen's View School on Monday afternoon at its Christmas meeting.

A play, "The Coming of Christmas in Korea," was used for the worship service. It opened as a tableau of the Nativity scene portrayed by Sylvia Bilham as Mary; Nancy Hockaday and Suzanne Hockaday as angels; Wayne Copeland, as Joseph; Larry Bilham, Gail Goldie and Duncan Goldie, as shepherds; Lorne Mallory, Billy Arthur and Gregory Copping, as wise men; Karl Arthur as missionary and Michael Copping and Donald Copping as two Korean orphans.

The play opened with the singing of "Joy to the World," while candles were lighted by Audrey Bowers. "The Christmas Story, Luke 2: 1-17 and Matthew 2: 1-12, was read by the missionary. The singing of "Infant Holy," by the cast closed the play.

WHITE GIFTS

The children brought white gifts to be sent to Erikadale Hospital, Manitoba, and $8.73 was handed in the mite boxes. All joined in singing "Silent Night," accompanied by Mrs. Harold Campbell. Joanne Galnforth recited "In Bethlehem."

The offering of $4.50 was taken by the treasurer, Audrey Bowers, and dedicated by the leader, Mrs. Leonard Young.

The president, Donald Copping, presided.

Missionary stories of different countries were read by Gail Goldie, Iva Drouilliard, Michael Copping, Ronald Ferguson, Audrey Bowers and Sylvia Bilham. Mrs. Clifton Rush offered a prayer for missionaries.

PROGRAM

The junior children san "Away in a Manger." Audrey Bowers recited "King of Kings," and Sylvia Bilham gave a comic recitation, "Santa Claus."

Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton delighted all with her rendition of Christmas carols of Spain, Italy and France and she and Mr. Middleton sang "Deck the Halls," a Welsh carol, while all hummed the chorus. The English carol, "The Holly and the Ivy," came next, then "Silent Night," in German by Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton, while all hummed the tune.

A duet, "O Master of the Loving Heart," was sung by Audrey Bowers and Sylvia Bilham, accompanied by Mrs. Donald Bowers, was well received.

"The Christmas Bell" from the the study book, "Many Hands In Many Lands" was read by Mrs. Young after a review of two previous chapters.

Santa Claus arrived and treated the children to candy, then all were dismissed with prayer.

Mountain Grove

MOUNTAIN GROVE — Congratulations to Mr. Seymour Hamilton and Miss Evelyn Potter who were married at the home of the bride, Bridgetown, Nova Scotia, on Saturday.

Ontario, P.E.I. and Nfld. Governments Expected To Seek New Mandates in '55

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—None of Canada's governments must go before the electorate until 1956, but voters in three provinces probably will be called on to vote during 1955.

Contests are in prospect in Ontario—where the Progressive Conservatives have been in power 11 years—and in Liberal-held Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

Four more are likely in 1956. Another four mandates—including that of the federal Liberal administration—run into 1958, but all these governments are expected to call elections by 1957.

NEW PARTY HEADS

A Canadian Press survey shows, too, that voters in eight provinces will have the chance to make a choice among some new politicians who have emerged as leaders since their last general elections.

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island will present contests when went into office after the last voting. Six other provinces will offer seven new opposition group leaders—two in Manitoba.

In the federal field, there are no present signs of new leaders before the next election. Prime Minister St. Laurent, who will be 73 on Feb. 1, said recently he has given no thought to retirement. Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has been ill with meningitis but is expected to make a full recovery. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Social Credit leader Solon Low are in office for as long as they want.

ONTARIO PROSPECT

Possibility is that Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario will be the first to go to the country. His term runs until November, 1956, but it is expected he will call an election next year, perhaps in June.

The contest will bring into the campaign a new CCF leader—Donald C. MacDonald—who has never been in the legislature. He took over a year ago as Ontario leader of the party holding two of the 90 seats in the House.

Farquhar Oliver, who led the Liberals in the 1948 election and later resigned as leader, will again head the party after returning to the job last year. The Liberal-Labor Opposition, hold six seats against 79 for the Progressive Conservatives.

At the moment, the chief election issue in sight is the highways situation involving charges of maladministration in the highways department. A select committee of the legislature has investigated the department. Its report is expected at the 1955 session.

In Prince Edward Island, an expected 1955 election will bring Hon. Alex W. Matheson, 33, before the people for the first time as premier. He took over the Liberal government last year when Hon. J. Walter Jones—since dead—went to the Senate.

The Liberals' term runs until April, 1958, but general opinion is that Premier Matheson will go to the polls next year. His group holds 24 of the 30 seats in the house with the others occupied by the Progressive Conservatives under R. R. Bell, 55-year-old Charlottetown lawyer.

THIRD FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

In Newfoundland, Liberal Premier J. R. (Joey) Smallwood may bring on next year the newest province's third general election since it entered Confederation in 1949.

The colorful little premier with the bow-tie trademark is comfortably in office until late 1956 with 22 of the 28 legislature seats, but he has an inclination to go to the electors often.

Another reason for calling a 1955 election—perhaps in the fall—would be to get electoral endorsation of a multi-million-dollar fishery development program now under way. An issue that likely will be heard in the campaign is the recent scandal involving Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, the Smallwood-selected former economic czar of the island.

The administration will be opposed by Progressive Conservatives under Malcolm Hollett, who holds five seats, and by the CCF, which had one member. The CCF in November chose as leader Sam Drover of White Bay, who was elected as a Liberal but switched this year to the Socialist party.

CHANGES IN 1956

For 1956, elections appear probable for Quebec, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Quebec's Union Nationale premier, Maurice Duplessis, last appealed to the voters in 1952 and could stay in office until the summer of 1957 but is expected to follow the general Quebec precedent of a contest every four years.

The province's big political issue of the moment is that of federal-provincial relations, but this is not seen as a factor to bring on an election ahead of schedule. However, that outlook could conceivably be changed by the outcome of current Liberal discussions between Quebec and Ottawa.

The 64-year-old premier, whose 21 years at the head of his party make him the dean of Canadian political chiefs, has been in office for the last 10 years and also headed the provincial government between 1936-39. He holds 68 of the legislature's 92 seats against 22 for the Liberals under Georges Lapalme, who has not yet led his party in an election.

CHANGE IN N.B.

In New Brunswick, Premier Hugh John Flemming, 58, whose Progressive Conservatives ended 17 years of Liberal rule in 1952, will be opposed by a new Liberal leader.

Austin Taylor, 51, former agriculture minister, was chosen Liberal leader in October to succeed former premier J. B. McNair. The Liberals have 18 House seats, against 34 for the government.

Saskatchewan's CCF Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas could wait until 1957 for an election but is expected to call one the year before, following the four-year tradition.

Premier since 1944, the 48-year-old Baptist minister holds 42 legislature seats against 19 Liberals and one Progressive Conservative.

Liberals recently elected A. H. McDonald, a farmer and air force veteran, to succeed Walter Tucker, who went to Parliament in 1953. The Progressive Conservatives are led by Alvin Hamilton, 42, who does not sit in the legislature.

LONGEST IN OFFICE

In Alberta, Premier E. C. Manning—longer in consecutive office than any now in power—is expected to lead Social Credit in 1956 in his fourth campaign as head of the party. He became premier in 1943, Holding 51 seats, he is opposed by 14 Liberals with four, Progressive Conservatives with three and the CCF with two.

J. Harper Prowse, 41, is expected again to lead the Alberta Liberals, despite rumors last summer of a party faction opposing him. Conservative leader Dr. Alfred Page, 67, retired school principal and organizer of the famed Edmonton Grads women's basketball team. CCF leader is Elmer Roper, 61-year-old head of a printing firm.

Removed from Post

MONTREAL (CP)—Ida Henderson, nursing matron at the Queen Mary Veterans Hospital here, has been removed from her post for instructing nurses to use English exclusively in dealing with the technical aspects of nursing, it was announced Friday.

The announcement was made by Dr. Jules Mercier, medical superintendent of the hospital, following investigation of a report that nurses in the tuberculosis unit had ordered to use the English language only. The order was published Wednesday by Montreal Le Devoir.

THANKS RED CHINA

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama thanked Red China Thursday night at a state banquet in Peiping for what he termed its "kindness" and "goodness" in rewards our country." He said they show that "coexistence" is possible between Communist and non-Communist countries.

UNCOVER $500,000 ONTARIO FRAUD

Arthur Ryan and Engenuiz Mechalic are two of many persons arrested or about to be arrested in connection with a fraud which police say has cost the Ontario government $500,000. Ryan and Mechalic were arrested in Toronto and two others have been arrested in Winnipeg. Police investigation, they know, has been going on for two years, cocalts of unauthorized persons forging provincial employment paycheks and issuing cheques against them at a bank. Agriculture Can Exert Influence Says Fleming

TORONTO (CP) — Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton, said Friday Canadian agriculture can exert a strong influence in preventing the spread of communism in less prosperous countries in the world.

In an address to the annual convention of the Ontario Creamerymen's Association, Mr. Fleming said it was discouraging to note that farm income appears to be declining to the lowest point in seven years due mainly to a consistent decline in export and inability to dispose of wheat surpluses.

The association decided to change its name to the Ontario Creamerymen's Association.

H. H. Leslie of Seaforth was re-elected president. Past president is L. A. Reddick of Kemptville.

The association also pledged $3,000 towards ensuring that 10,000 Boy Scouts at next summer's international jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake will be fed butter instead of margarine.

Other officers elected were: J.J. Finnegan of Perth, Harold West of Stirling, J. D. Hogarth of Forest and J. S. Tranter of Richards Landing, vice-presidents; J. N. Allan of Dunnville, R. E. Drope of Harwood; R. A. L. Player of Tara.

FAR EAST PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration will ask Congress for money to back a big new economic development program in Free Asia as the next step in its cold war policy, diplomatic officials reported Tuesday. They said President Eisenhower would speak out about the need for such a program in his message to Congress in January.

Monday Is Municipal Election Day in 20 of Ontario's 29 Cities; Many Money By-laws

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Monday is municipal election day in 20 of Ontario's 29 cities, and in scores of towns, villages and townships.

In 14 cities, interest centres on the vote for mayor. In the other six, their mayors re-elected by acclamation, council and other municipal offices are to be settled.

Lively mayoralty battles hold the stage in three of the province's five largest cities—Toronto has four candidates, one a Communist; in Ottawa, Mayor Charlotte Whitton is fighting vigorously for re-election against two men; at Windsor Arthur Reaume is after his eighth consecutive two-year term. Of the other big cities, Hamilton voted Wednesday and London has an off-year vote with no mayor.

Toronto's mayor, Leslie Saunders, 55, is making his first run for the office to which he was appointed in mid-year when Allan Lamport resigned. His opponents include two men who have run unsuccessfully before, Allen Brown, 52, and Nathan Phillips, 61, a lawyer who served on Toronto city council in the 1930s. Communist is A. M. MacLeod, a former member of the Ontario legislature.

ROARING BATTLE

Miss Whitton, staging a rip-roaring fight for a third term, is opposed by E. A. Bourque, mayor of Vanier, a town that voted 83-1,000 towards ensuring that 10,000 Boy Scouts at next summer's international jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake will be fed butter instead of margarine.

Other officers elected were: J.J. Finnegan of Perth, Harold West of Stirling, J. D. Hogarth of Forest and J. S. Tranter of Richards Landing, vice-presidents; J. N. Allan of Dunnville, R. E. Drope of Harwood; R. A. L. Player of Tara.

FAR EAST PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration will ask Congress for money to back a big new economic development program in Free Asia as the next step in its cold war policy, diplomatic officials reported Tuesday. They said President Eisenhower would speak out about the need for such a program in his message to Congress in January.

Two men who work in the same railway shop and have served as mayor are running at St. Thomas. Thomas H. Currah is after his fifth term and alderman Peter Laing, mayor in 1939 and 1940, is back for another try.

At Stratford it will be a two-way mayoralty fight between alderman F. W. Gadsby and E. J. Gregory. Mayor Lawrence Feick, completing his second term as magistrate, is not seeking re-election of the six council seats this time. Residents will be asked to vote on a bylaw to authorize the Union Gas Company of Chatham to provide Stratford with natural gas service, to be installed at the company's expense.

At Sarnia, Mayor W. C. Nelson is seeking once again the post he has held almost continuously since 1941—the one break was in 1945. His opponent is alderman William H. Wright, an oil company employee.

ACCLAMATIONS

The acclamations were six Cornwall, where Aaron Horovitz is starting his 17th year in office, Galt, Guelph, Kitchener, Waterloo and Welland.

Brockville, one of the province's largest towns, elected its mayor by acclamation—Jack Langmuir, internationally - known power boat racer who at 33 is the town's youngest mayor. Orillia, another large town, has a two-way mayoralty battle between incumbent John R. MacIsaac and Wilbur M. Cramp.

Owen Sound and St. Catharines vote Dec. 11, North Bay and the city-size township at Teck (Kirkland Lake) Dec. 13 and Brantford Dec. 20.

Naval Research Ship Now On Way to Port

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaking and buffeted, the naval research ship Cedarwood appeared early today to have won its battle with 20-miles-an-hour gales off the storm-swept British Columbia coast.

"Situation no longer dangerous," messaged her captain, Lt.-Cmdr. Jack Wolfenden shortly before midnight as he headed shoreward.

Escorting her was the U.S. coast guard vessel Sorrell. The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan from the Esquimalt base near Victoria and a tug—set for the Lloyd R. Core from Vancouver, were scheduled to rendezvous early morning rendezvous with the little wooden vessel.

The frigate stettler and the tug Sea Giant also dispatched by the RCN at Esquimalt, were due to join the rescue flotilla later.

FIVE SCIENTISTS ABOARD

A naval officer at Victoria said the Cedarwood was heading for Millbank sound, on the east coast of Vancouver strait, about 320 miles north of Vancouver. It was hoped the 136-foot vessel could be escorted or towed back to Esquimalt late Saturday or early Sunday.

The Cedarwood was on a routine survey for the Pacific oceanographic group of Nanaimo, 30 miles north of Victoria on the east coast of Vancouver island, and carried five scientists and 16 crew members.

The Cedarwood radioed early Friday she had sprung a leak and was sinking. The coast guard vessel was only 70 miles away when the distress call went out. The Sorrell arrived early Friday night.

EXTEND RENT CONTROL

Lipson's STORES LIMITED

FOR MAYOR

HONESTY — ABILITY — INTEGRITY

Ladies and Gentlemen and Electors of The City of Belleville . . .

Our city is composed of many and different groups and classes. We all are citizens of Belleville and we all have one common aim — to better the lot of the city and of each other. A mayor should represent and must represent all the citizens of Belleville and not any special group of people. I pledge myself to represent all the citizens in the future as I have represented all the people in the past 3 years, during which time I have had the privilege of being a member of council in this my native city.

I was born, raised and educated in Belleville. I have worked at the Stephens-Adamson and the Belleville Sargent Lock Factory. I served some eighteen months in the Armed Forces in 1944 and 45. I graduated from the University of Toronto in 1947 and from Osgoode Hall Law School in 1950 and commenced the practise of law in Belleville in that year. I mention these facts not to show that I have done well or badly but because I believe they have given me a broad experience and have brought me in contact with all groups and classes.

With the developments of the areas around us we must arrive at a broad overhaul plan for the future of our city. I propose, if elected, to give all possible support of the planning committee headed by that hard-working and capable Alderman, Art Keegan and to institute talks with the surrounding municipalities in order to insure a planned approach to our common problems. I feel it is only in this way that we can fully realize our potentialities.

In the past three years as a member of your council I have served on the Fire Committee, the Planning Committee and the Traffic Committee.

I may add here, as a member of the Fire Committte, that committee, in its negotiations with the Fire Fighters' Association was always able to reach an amicable settlement with the Belleville firemen. There was no need for costly arbitration such as we had in the past year when the incumbent mayor refused to negotiate with the Belleville Police Association. Because of his refusal the Police Association took its disputes to arbitration. As a result of this arbitration the city will be required not only to pay the awards granted by the arbitration board but also a large share of the costs of arbitration.

This was an unnecessary expense. It could have been avoided had the incumbent mayor heeded the advice of those of us in council who favored negotiating with the Police Association. I firmly belive in negotiation rather than arbitration.

For the past 2 years I have served as chairman of the traffic committee. During this time a traffic commission was set up on which commission are representatives from outside council with a broad knowledge for traffic problems. We realize that there must be representatives from these civic groups in order that a more comprehensive view of our traffic problems can be obtained.

A prime aim of the traffic commission has been to expand our system of school guards, with the result that there have been no fatal accidents involving children coming to, or leaving school, for the past two years that I have headed this commission.

I firmly believe that it would be misguided economy to cut down on the number of school guards in this city. I further believe that our recreation commission has done an excellent job in promoting an dsponsoring recreational measures among the children of our city.

THIS COMMISSION MUST BE SUPPORTED

If we are to have a strong and vigorous city in the future, it will depend on the vigor of the youth of today.

If you wish to have municipal government next year that believes in the economy of co-operation and the value of a commonsence approach to civic administration I ask you to vote for Robert Temple, Independent Candidate for Mayor.

Eight-Six Per Cent of Pyjamas Sold Today Bought by Women

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Guess what's the latest thing in men's pyjamas.

Well, sir! It's the ladies.

"Eight-six per cent of the pyjamas sold today are bought by women," said M. J. Lovell, director of the Men's Pyjama Institute.

The $136,000,000-a-year industry, now booming again, will market 30,000,000 pairs of men's pyjamas by the end of 1954, double the number of only five years ago.

URK HURRIED' FAIR

"Can't figure out how many women buy pyjamas for themselves," remarked Lovell. "Many wives have got into the habit of rolling up the cuffs and sleeves of their husbands' pyjamas and wearing them.

"A lot of single girls now buy small - sized men's pyjamas for their own use, too."

No one can be sure just who invented pyjamas, as the Russians have failed as yet to stake out their claim in this field.

But they first achieved fame as a military uniform. About 160 A.D. Emperor Wen-ti of China built up a cavalry brigade to stop the raids of mountain nomads. His cavalrymen found the draped garments of that day a nuisance in the saddle and developed the pyjama trouser so they could ride more easily.

Pyjamas spread quickly from China to India, where they were widely adopted and worn for centuries for every purpose—except sleeping. They made their debut in England as sleeping garments and were called "pyjama."

VIEWED WITH SUSPICION

About 1870 they were introduced into America as pyjamas, and were viewed at first with the same deep suspicion shown for the first bathtubs.

Theatre matinee idols wore pyjamas in bedroom farces. And when Rudolph Valentino wore them in a film, they became the rage. But the war—plus the bragging of later Hollywood stars (actresses as well as actors) that they preferred sleeping in their birthday suits—cut pyjama sales steeply.

"The idea got around that real he-men always slept raw," said Lovell sternly. "That's silly."

He also deny those stories that many Hollywood actresses sleep raw. I'd like to see some concrete proof."

The pyjama industry now is stressing the all - around livability of pyjamas for lounging, beachwear and TV viewing. It markets them in 250 styles, patterns and colors.

FIFTEEN YEARS IN THE COUNCIL

THESE ARE SOME OF THE FACTS IN 1954!

December 4, 1954

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

In this last message I am reminding you that polling day is Monday, December 6th and I urge you to use your franchise to vote.

In soliciting your vote for myself as Mayor I realize fully the honor such an office carries and I also understand the responsibilities that go with that honor.

I am informed that a great many people in this city have a good idea of what I attempted and executed out last year, when able to do so, to keep down the tax rate and install more efficient practices in the various departments of the city government.

The job is not completed but it is well started and, like any other job, it requires continuous supervision. It is hardly to be expected that the reorganizing of the housekeeping of the city could be accomplished in one year, particularly when there was an established groove which did not like the idea of a drastic overhaul of methods of doing business.

However there are a number of spund people in the civic government and there is a solid foundation on which to erect an efficient structure.

It may be timely to remind the citizens of this city that they are all partners in the project of operating Belleville and that they are bound to take an interest in how the job is done. Voting day is, in effect, the annual meeting of shareholders, offering the opportunity of expressing their views and selecting the group of directors who will function for the following year, with the mayor as president.

Where the record indicates that directors or president have been careless, incompetent or more devoted to their own interests than to those of the citizens, the remedy is in your hands. In the past year I uncovered a number of things which cost the citizens considerable amounts of money unnecessarily. There was the matter of the sale of city-owned lots which, by default in not pricing them at their true value, cost the city an estimated $78,000.00. There was the matter of the tenders called for several city street jobs which, if contracts had been let, would have cost the city an additional $28,000.00. There was the matter of the resurfacing of streets, a job which proved to be defective.

There was the matter of the sidewalks in the Parkwood area, a contract which was not carried out in accordance with the specifications and which has involved the city in a lawsuit for $40,000.00 to $50,000. This was a legacy from the previous administration and it serves to point up my contention that there was not efficient supervision in city affairs.

It is an unfortunate fact that in municipal governments there is a tendency to form cliques who often seem more interested in getting their own way than in working for the interests of the citizens. Belleville is not alone in this. But Belleville has suffered from it. It seems childish to raise a cry of non-co-operation when opposition to such cliques arises. Council is elected for the purpose of doing the city's business and not for the purpose of participating in a family compact. It is the duty of council not to co-operate when projects are advanced or practices are continued which are not in the city's interest. An harmonious council is not necessarily an efficient one.

In previous statements I have discussed the heavy burden of our taxation and the weight of our debentures debt. We simply have to face these things and work to reduce both. One way to do it is to cut down expenses and to stop wasting money. Another way is to attract new industries, new population and higher payrolls, adding to the general prosperity of the city. In these directions positive actions will be taken in the coming year, if I am elected Mayor.

If elected I pledge to continue the fight to reduce city expenses, hold down the tax rate and develop an efficient city administration. I pledge an all-out effort to attract new industries.

THIS IS MY PLATFORM AND IF YOU APPROVE OF IT I WILL BE HONORED BY YOUR CONFIDENCE.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TRIBUTE TO ROCKET

American sports fans, especially those who follow the National Hockey League trails, will get a fine insight into the traits, ability, mannerisms and whalnot of "Rocket" Richard, if they read a fine piece in the current Sports Illustrated, written by an American named Herbert Warren Wind.

The exploits of the famous Canadien star has been flung to the four winds as far as Canadians are concerned. Now Americans will read about "the burning intensity, a champion's spirit, the pride of a man who knows the glory and loneliness of supremacy—the qualities which make Richard, the idolized Rocket of Canada, one of the great athletes of our time and perhaps the greatest ice hockey has ever known."

Mr. Wind writes: "As befits the Babe Ruth of hockey, Richard is the highest paid player in the history of the game. While Les Canadiens front office prefers not to divulge his exact salary, it amounts to a very healthy chunk of his estimated annual income of $50,000, which is filled out by his commissions for endorsing such products as hair tonic and the Maurice Richard-model windbreaker, his cut from the sale of Le Rocket du Hockey and other publications about him, and his occasional off-season appearances as a wrestling referee. "Maurice could earn much more than he does, but he has been careful not to connect himself with anything cheap. Les Canadiens' publicity director is quoted as saying."

Mr. Wind writes much about the Rocket's fire and spirit and dwells in detail on his now-famous "hassle" with a referee in a hotel lobby that cost him $500 and the ugliest hockey sports column incident in which the Rocket criticized President Clarence Campbell for alleged treatment of Boom-Boom Geoffrion after his fight with the Rangers' Ron Murphy.

Mr. Wind writes about the Rocket's home and family life and of his "relaxed" moments in the off season. These moments," he says, "take place from April to September. Then another hockey season is on. While Richard today may be a shade less volcanic than formerly as he moves steadily towards his 6000th goal, he still burns with a sense of purpose."

"Sometimes the Rocket explodes all over the place, in fights, in arguments with referees, in overly aggressive if fruitless hockey. Sooner or later, though, he will explode with a spurge of dramatic goals. On these evenings, it is not an experience to be in Montreal, for it is then that the Forum rears like one huge happy Ben, the most jubilant hullabaloo you can hear in the sports world. It is not an extravagant tribute, after all, of all the great athletes of our time, none has played his game with more skill, more color, more competitive fire and more heart than Maurice Richard.

"If Mr. Campbell wants to throw me out of the league for daring to criticize him,' Richard stated in his column, 'let him do it. Geoffrion is no longer the same since his affair with Murphy . . . he is demoralized and humiliated for having dared to defend himself against a sneaky and deliberate attack by a third-class player. We know that on numerous occasions, he (President Campbell) has rendered decisions against Canadien players . . . Let Mr. Campbell not try to gain publicity for himself by taking to task a good boy like Boom Boom Geoffrion simply because he is a French-Canadian . . . If this brings me reprisals, I will step out of hockey, and I know that any other players on the Canadiens team will do the same!."

"The affair could have been disastrous, not only for Richard but for organized hockey, had it not been handled with consummate intelligence by Frank Selke, the managing director of Les Canadiens who has been a part of hockey since 1906. At the heart of the crisis Les Canadiens returned to Montreal on a road trip, Selke was at his office to meet them. He collected Richard, Geoffrion, Ken Mosdell and their wives and took them to dinner at the Windsor hotel.' He never once mentioned what was on his mind and everyone's. The dinner over, Richard and Selke found themselves seated alone together in the hotel lobby for a moment.

"'I'm surprised, Mr. Selke,' Richard said, 'I thought you were going to be very angry with me.'

"'Maurice,' Selke said quietly, 'I've never known you to do a rotten thing in your life before. You've accusing President Campbell of things that aren't true. That isn't like Maurice Richard. I don't believe you wrote that column.'

"'No, I didn't, but I authorized it,' Richard replied. 'I take full responsibility.'

"'I want you to act like a big leaguer,' Selke went on. 'President Campbell's office is just across the street. I know he works nights. I want you to come over with me and see him.'

"Richard sat silently for a moment. Then the two got up and called on Mr. Campbell. Richard spoke up immediately, 'Mr. Campbell, I want to apologize to you,' he said, his deep voice almost an octave lower than usual. 'I apologize not because anyone has told me to do so. I want to apologize because it is the decent thing to do. I have been wrong to say the things I said. It will not happen again.'

"During the weeks that followed Richard's apology, which ended the affair, many of the French papers accused him of selling out. He never batted an eye. "Maurice Richard never disappoints me,' Mr. Selke said recently. 'We have had a lot of dealings. When a mistake is pointed out to him and he sees it is a mistake, he has the character to recognize it and to make genuine rectification. He has great class as a person'."

Red Wings and Leafs Clash At Toronto in Fight For Second Place in League

By The Canadian Press

Goaltender Gump Worsley tries out his chipped ankle in the National Hockey League tonight. It could send Johnny Bower back to the minors.

Worsley returns to the New York nets when Rangers meet the Bruins in Boston in one of two league games tonight after the injured right ankle forced him to the bench a couple of weeks ago. Bower, Gump's replacement, will be in the stands.

Ranger coach Muzz Patrick says he will send Worsley against the fifth-place Bruins to see whether the injury has healed properly and how he stands up against opposing snipers. Patrick didn't say, but it is believed Bower will serve as insurance against further injury to Worsley besides being available as trade bait in the future.

SINCE LAST SEASON

The battle for the netminding job has been going on since last season, Worsley and Bower sharing the New York nets in the 1953-53 campaign and won the rookie-of-the-year award with Chicago Hawks.

Bower ended up in the cage last year, while Worsley was with the Jarmhand Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. Worsley got the call at the start of this season and Bower went to Kenora. There he chipped his ankle and Bower was rushed back.

It will be a big test for Worsley as he tries to help his fourth-place Rangers gain their ninth victory in 24 games in the only game scheduled tonight. Detroit Red Wings and the Maple Leafs clash at Toronto in a fight for second place.

SUNDAY NIGHT

In three games Sunday night the Leafs are at Boston, Montreal Canadiens at New York and the intriguing Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit.

The Toronto-Detroit game promises to be a hot one. The Leafs now hold second spot with 13 wins and six deadlocks for 32 points for 28 points, one up on the Detroiters and seven behind the leading Canadiens.

There isn't much difference between the two clubs. Leafs won twice and tied once in their five encounters against the Wings. In the five games, Detroit scored five goals; Toronto four.

Ken Rosewall Still Holds Jinx Over Vic Seixas

By Will Grimsley

MELBOURNE (AP) — The Ken Rosewall jinx that has pursued Vic Seixas longer than the U.S. tennis champion cares to remember is still at work.

For the eighth time the veteran Philadelphia Davis Cup star bowed to the youthful Australian today when Rosewall won the Victorian championships in four sets, 6-1, 4-6, 9-1, 7-5.

Seixas showed only flashes of the fine form that carried him into the finals part other Aussie stars, including Lew Hoad. He dropped his service four times in the first set, rallied to take the second, fell before Rosewall's great net play in the third and then was unable to cope with the Australian's all-around court play after he had taken a lead in the fourth.

AFTER RAINS

The court was slow but not soggy from Friday's heavy rains as the city players to start the country's Davis Cup hopes matched strokes before a crowd of 6,000.

Rosewall, who'll carry the burden of the Australian defence of the trophy if Hoad doesn't regain his form, quickly pounded Seixas into submission in the first set, and, even though he dropped the second, the doctor played with supreme confidence. By contrast Seixas seemed to be struggling for every point.

In the first set Seixas won his only game by breaking Rosewall's service but the Australian broke through the American four times and won the fifth game at love with two backhand passing shots down the sideline.

The play picked up in the second set when both donned spiked shoes. Seixas' net attack was responsible for breaking Rosewall's service in the third game.

But then Rosewall shifted his attack to the net and in the long run outmanoeuvred his American rival. His net play behind deeply-placed drives and sharply angled volleys never gave Vic a chance.

Plans for Two Ten-Club Circuits Mapped by Majors

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK (AP) — Concrete plans for two 10-club circuits are expected to be mapped out at the major league baseball conference starting here Monday.

The American League will consider a proposal by Clark Griffith, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, to expand the circuit to 10 clubs by 1956.

The National League also will discuss the advisability of increasing its cities to 10 within two years although no official action has been given to its members.

The National League apparently has beaten the American to the punch. Following the draft meeting of Nov. 22, a National League committee was appointed to investigate and explore the Pacific coast for the purpose of adding two cities to the league.

Greenberg's proposal is much the same as that of the National League. It calls for a three-man committee to investigate fertile territory for future expansion but doesn't specify any particular territory.

If and when the two leagues become 10-team circuits, it was believed that Los Angeles and San Francisco would become National League members while Montreal and Toronto, with the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, would become American League members.

Other proposals include changes in the rules pertaining to playoff of postponed games at the end of the season, and making all unfinished games, regardless of the reason, suspended games. The owners also will consider the list of players requests including the raising of the minimum salary from $6,000 to $7,500. The night game problem also will be discussed.

The majors also will act on the 11 minor league applicants to the major-minor agreement adopted by the minors at Houston.

Biltmores Stay With Leaders In Junior Loop

By The Canadian Press

Guelph Biltmores are staying right up with the leaders in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league these days.

Biltmores edged Barrie Flyers 8-6 Friday night to pull within one point of the second-place St. Catharines TeePees as they chalked up their ninth victory in 18 games of the 1954-55 campaign. The win left Biltz nine points off the pace set by the leading Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

In the only other game, Hamilton Tigers rallied for two goals in the last five minutes of the game to defeat Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks 4-2 before 716 fans at Kitchener. It was the 14th defeat for Canucks in 17 games. Cubs remained in sixth spot.

STRONG ATTACK

At Guelph, the Biltmores were led by Bill Sweary's three goals as they withstood a strong Barrie attack in the third period. Bob Bailey rallied twice while Lionel Bolley, Ike Scott and John Gillis scored singles for Guelph.

Hubert Hall scored twice for Barrie, Gord Crowder, Howie Bain, Bob Barlow and Ed McQueen accounted for the others as the teams played 14 each. Guelph is down to their 13th loss in 18 games.

Only five penalties were called, three against Guelph.

HEART BREAKER

It was a heartbreaking loss for Barrie Flyers as Guelph Cubs two goals in the first period and then drove home the win in the last. Cubs were all over when Gerry Sullivan and Larry Hillman scored late in the third period to tie it 4-4. Cpl. Sharp and Bill McNeil got the other Hamilton goals.

Stan Balluk and Glen Cressman beat goaltender Dennis Riggin for the Kitchener markers.

A few seconds before the game ended, Kitchener defenceman Kent Douglas and Hamilton's Cummy Burton clashed and were sent to the dressing room with majors.

SEEK NEW COACH

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders, seeking a new coach to improve their football fortunes, today will interview the first candidate for the job, a man with more than 30 years' gridiron experience. He is Joe Ryan, one of the five original "Seven Mules" of Notre Dame in the 1920s and who also coached Pittsburgh Steelers for the last three years.

Wolverhampton Wanderers' System Enabled Them to Whip Russian Team

By Arch MacKenzie
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers had a system when they beat Moscow Spartak soccer club 4-0 and revenged England's defeated soccer pride.

Thanks to Wing Commander Charles Reeps of the Royal Air Force, they've had it for several years.

"It's the basis of any success we are having," said manager Stan Cullis. The system coldly tots up the efficiency ratio in a complicated, 11-point post mortem.

PLOTS EVERY MOVE

In more than 200 matches, Reeps has conscientiously plotted every move—average number per game is 450. Cullis gets the charted results after each game. Reeps, a tall, middle-aged air force accountant, devotes two hours of spare time a day, even days a week to his hobby.

Result: Wolves won their first league championship last year and are hot favorites to repeat. Their style since they turned pro is immense.

"The ultimate in goal scoring now is known," says Reeps. "Hungary's (Olympic champion) national side is 10 per cent along the road to perfection. Wolves, when they play well, are 60 per cent advanced."

COMPLICATED JOB

Reeps started out about five years ago using 20 or so symbols. Now he has learned to jot down his notes.

Cullis says the Russians have reduced "soccer and all other sports to a science." — observers said the Soviet players performed like chessmen—and Wolverhampton is doing something to match it.

Reeps went to Switzerland last year for the World Cup games and plotted England's losing game against Uruguay. He submitted the chart to England's national team officials, and got it back with a polite note of acknowledgment, he says.

Now, Reeps is dickering with several interested countries which want to get a look at his system.

Camille Henry Optioned Out To Quebec Aces

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers Friday optioned Camille Henry, last year's grim rookie in the National Hockey League, to Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League.

Henry, a 155-pound forward who fired 24 goals for the Rangers in his first season of professional hockey, has not played back to his first-year form this season. All other NHL clubs granted waivers on him Thursday. Manager Frank Boucher said the Rangers sent Henry, a native of Quebec, to the Aces for seasoning.

Memos Earn Third-Place Tie In Senior 'B' Group With Win Over Clinton

Locals Score All Their Goals In First Period to Win 4-1; Shamlock Gets Gate for Game

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville Seniors scored all their goals in the first period last night as they handed the Clinton Comets a decisive 4-1 defeat in an OHA Senior "B" game played before 1100 fans in the Memorial Arena. The victory gave them a third place tie with the New York team, two points behind Cornwall and one back of the Kingston Goodyears.

The Memos gave an excellent demonstration of positional hockey as they displayed the visitors by a wide margin, leading at times by the 15.15 mark of the first period. Toni Parisi was deprived of a shutout at 7.07 of the final session but the issue was never in doubt from the early minutes of the game.

Referee Ken Farris and Manager, of Kingston, kept matters well in hand, dishing out penalties at the slightest indication of trouble. Seventeen penalties were handed out in all, with Clinton drawing 11 of them, including a misconduct and match-penalty conduct to playing coach Eddie Shamlock and a misconduct to Alf Menchini.

GOOD OPPORTUNISTS

Coach Boucher's boys proved to be opportunists in the best sense of the word in the opening minutes of the game when at 2.35 Houston was given the official thumb. The Memos swarmed around the Clinton net for a solid minute before Red Doran took Keith MacDonald's goal-mouth pass and drove it by Cox-on. Less than a minute later Dave Jones teamed up with Arnie Dugan and Jake Wade to make it 2-0. Jones finishing up the play by flipping the puck in to the right hand corner.

The Duncan-Duncan-Day line took over for Belleville during the 14-minute mark, with Day hitting the post on a screen shot while Shamlock was serving a holding penalty. Duncan-Day-Duncan netted the winner's third marker unassisted just ten seconds after Shamlock's return, circling around behind the nets and pushing the disc into the corner.

Fourteen seconds later Ed picked up the puck at centre ice, swept in on goal and laid the Jones error to hand-rest as he made no mistake in driving the puck into the upper corner to complete the Belleville scoring for the night.

Mcendrick drew a minor penalty for interference at 17.20 and when he left the penalty box was awarded with a misconduct. Belleville ran into two late-in-the-period penalties after MacDonald was given the gate at 18.34 and Muckler at 19.00, leaving the Memos two men short to start the second period, but five penalty killing by Doran, Jones and Macey kept the Comets disorganized.

Both Parisi and the Clinton netminder came up with some terrific saves in the middle session to keep their nets clear. Parisi looking, perhaps, a little more work. Angie Defelice picked up two penalties sandwiching Muckler one and Dave Jones and Gennings going off together at 4.30 for high sticking. In this period, but Shamlock took the badman honors, Cox thumbed him for chopping at 14.53; he remained on the ice arguing with the officials and was given a bench conduct. Still refusing to leave the ice, he pushed Farris and was promptly ordered out of the game. Reluctant to go though he was both officials escorted him off the playing surface before play resumed.

THIRD PERIOD CLEAN

The third period was clean with Edwin Duncan drawing a minor at 4.02 and Timmons getting the same year in the same minute mark but no damage was done on either occasion.

Parisi lost his shutout at 7.07 when Billy Lynn took a pass from Defelice near the Belleville cage and wedged a backhander between Doug's legs and the goal-post on the short side. A minute earlier Coxon had been given a bench-minor, the only one of the night, kicking out a hard drive from right feet out.

The game was played on a beautiful glass-like sheet of ice with the new lines painted on clearly.

Edwin Duncan was the only player with more than one point to his credit, earning one goal and one assist. Doran, Dave Jones and Erwin Duncan notched the other goals with assists for Dugan, MacDonald and Wade. Pete Jones and Doug Hull sat out this game since only 15 players can dress for any one game.

The teams:

Clinton—Goal, Coxon; defence, Weibe, Jamieson, Cannigan; forwards, Lynn, Timmons, Defelice, Houston, Gennings, Menchisi, Steele, Brean, Lynn, Shamlock.

Referee—Flannigan and Parker, both of Kingston.

Eskimos Face Player Shakeup Says Official

EDMONTON (CP) — Because a Seattle tavern keeper got so excited watching the televised Grey Cup game that he danced on the bar, a member of the victorious Edmonton Eskimos probably will get a holiday in California.

The Seattle tavern keeper, Bob McKinney, Monday night let go his closed up shop and plans to go to California while watching.

Bob is a brother of Glenn McWhinney, Eskimos' flying wing.

"We'll probably have a holiday in California while he's recovering," said Glenn Dan-ton, graduate from Winnipeg intermediate ranks.

A caravan of Edmonton players on what they intend doing next season disclosed that tackle Bob Dean who kicked 51 consecutive converts this season for Eskimos is entering basketball for a let-up from the rugged game.

Stan Mickelson, Eskimos' press relations officer, said in his column in the Calgary Albertan Friday that despite their Grey Cup success the Eskimos face a player shakeup and many surprise in were coming here."

Packers of the Eskimos say they probably will be back next season.

Chatham Maroons Beat Cataracts By 7-2 Score

CHATHAM (CP) — Maroons moved into a third-place deadlock with the Stratford Indians in the Ontario Hockey Association senior 'A' series Friday night when they downed lowly Niagara Falls Cataracts 7-2 here Friday night before 2,100 fans.

Spotting the Cats a first-period tally by defenceman Red Dixon, who scored unassisted at 19:46, the Maroons potted two in the second and added five more in the third. Jim Wilson's first 'A' goal of the season paced the Maroon win while both veteran Ken Schultz and Rod McElroy scored twice, Jim Robertson tallied the Falls' second goal unassisted at 5:42 of the third.

The game was highlighted by 18 penalties, 10 going to the Maroons.

Both goalies Don Lockhart of the Cataracts and Dick Pidlowski were in top performance with Lockhart blocking 35 shots to the Chatham netminder's 32.

MANAGER FINED

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Daly, manager of welterweight contender Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., was fined $50 by the New York state athletic commission Friday for failing to keep adequate records of expenses. Daly paid the fine under protest and said he planned an appeal in the courts. With the payment, the commission reinstated Daly's licence, which had been suspended two weeks ago.

Cheer Up Chuck Campaign Draws Many Responses

MONTREAL (CP)—The Cheer Up Chuck campaign had brought responses Friday night from 12 CFL football fans and the monstrous tribute to a player who goofed had developed campaign within one day.

"Fans whole thing is becoming almost unbelievable," said manager Jimmy Tapp of CJAD Montreal, the radio station that calmly started the campaign off early this week and then found itself overwhelmed with responses.

The station suggested fans send in their names and a dime to enable each name to pay the cost of a cheer-up telegram—with all the names—to Chuck Hunsinger at his home in Harrisburg, Ill. Hunsinger's fumble in the Grey Cup game last Saturday allowed Winnipeg Blue Bombers to win a 26-25 win over Montreal Alouettes.

A Montreal doctor telephoned the station to his secretary, a dime in hunter, might like a nifty gun. A barber telephoned to suggest a watch.

"I told each I have my hands full and perhaps they had better get together on another campaign," said Tapp. "They did, and that's the today they had collected $90."

A more ambitious campaign cropped up Friday in neighboring Verdun. Householders telephoned the station to say that they had claimed he was from CJAD, was collecting the pennies collecting "Poor Chuck." Manager Tapp telephoned the police.

Queen's Own Owned by Taylor Horse of Year

TORONTO (CP)—Queen's Own, three-year-old chestnut colt owned by Commander Kenneth P. Taylor, has been chosen Canada's horse-of-the-year for 1954, it was announced today.

The Canadian-bred son of War Admiral—Risen Reign, which won nine races in 13 starts this season, was unanimously selected by the Sandpile Turf Writers Club without a dissenting vote. The poll was conducted by The Canadian Turf Form.

It was the third time in four years that Taylor horses have won the award. Bull Page won in 1951 and Canadiana, owned by Mrs. Gordon King Maple, owned by Mrs. Gordon McKechnie of Toronto, was the choice last year.

Queen's Own, which placed second to Colleen in the $25,000-added Queen's Plate, went on to compile total earnings of $33,980 for the season.

Frankie Ryff Wins Decision Over Zulueta

NEW YORK (AP)—Undefeated Frankie Ryff had his 14th victory today, rookie-of-the-year honors all but clinched, and a two-month holiday of about three months ahead of him.

It all happened as a result of his sparkling but split 10-round decision over Cuba's Orlando Zulueta in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The 5-foot-6 Bronx phenom, a 13-5 favorite over his experienced rival, required 36 stitches to sew up two gashes over his right eye and one over his left orb. His doctor estimated the wounds would sideline the gritty lightweight prospect for at least three months.

Rangy Frankie was cut over both eyes early in the fight but that didn't stop him from piling up a big lead in an aggressive charge that, by his 15th in as many pro fights.

SEVERAL CUTS

After the fast punching, swift-footed Golden Gloves' grad was gashed over the left eye in the first round, over the right in the fourth round and in another place over the right eye in the eighth frame. Zulueta was nicked over the left eye in the 10th.

"Accidental butts did it," said Frankie's manager, Lou Viscusi.

"The roughest and dirtiest fighter I ever met," charged Zulueta.

Weighing 136 to Zully's 133½, Ryff appeared much stronger, beating Orlando to the punch most of the time.

Referee Harry Kessler (8-2) and judge Harold Barnes (8-3-1) voted for Ryff, giving him a clear decision (6-4) scored for Zulueta. The AP scorecard had Ryff in front, 7-3-1.

SIGN CONTRACT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Middleweight champion Carmen (Basilio) Olsson and Pierre Langlois of France signed the official contract Friday for their 15-round title fight here Dec. 15.

Rocket Richard on Verge Of Scoring 400th Goal in Loop

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the high-geared piece of scoring machinery whose exploits and temperament have lighted up his National Hockey League career like a Christmas tree, is on the verge of scoring his 400th goal.

The Rocket hit 398 in Detroit Thursday night. The big explosion, with all the flair that is Richard's alone, may come any time.

The schedule sends Rocket and his Montreal Canadiens teammates into New York Sunday night and into Toronto next Wednesday. Canadiens' next home game is Thursday against the Toronto Leafs.

The black-thatched rightwinger now is in his 13th NHL season. He is 33 years old but has established his amazingly gifted artistry and color.

Every time Richard has scored since Nov. 8, 1952, he has set a record. On that date he broke the mark of 324, held by the famous Nels (Old Poison) Stewart, who played mostly with Montreal Maroons in a 15-season career.

The present record player is near Richard. Closest are Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings, with 285, and Stanley Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks, each with 251. Detroit's great Gordie Howe, seven years younger than Richard, has scored 250 in eight campaigns and to date is the current season.

Richard's flaming temperament has sometimes been costly to him. Available NHL records of fines and penalties are complete with the 1946-47 season. Since then the NHL coffers have taken from Rocket $2,200, including a $1,000 good-behavior bond he had to post last season.

His biggest fine was $500 in the 1950-51 season, for throttling referee Hugh McLaughlin in the New York hotel lobby, in the 1947 Stanley Cup series semi-finals. Clouted him and reached over the officials with his stick and whacked Bill Ezinicki over the noggin. The fine was $250.

Run-of-the-mill automatic fines accompanying misconduct penalties have cost Richard $450.

The $1,000 bond was demanded last season after Richard flouted NHL President Clarence Campbell. In a weekly column, ghost-written for him, Richard virtually challenged Campbell to throw him out of hockey. The Rocket finally was persuaded by the sweating Canadiens' executive to apologize but he never tried to hide behind his gloss.

Throughout that episode and all others, Campbell has always held a high if somewhat grudging regard.

"It's a family man and citizen. Richard's conduct is exemplary in every way," Campbell told The Canadian Press Friday. "He is honest and direct, regardless of the consequences. He never tries to evade himself. As a hockey player, he is terrific; colorful and competitive.

Richard once gave up golf because he couldn't help blowing up on a high score shots. He took up tennis. He has since returned to golf and plays a good game. At times he has refereed wrestling matches—and was, as expected, a fine one. He is a hockey achievements brought him recognition with Gabby Hart of Montreal's poll as the athlete of the year.

Richard holds the record of 14 goals made in a single game made it in the 1945-46 campaign, when the NHL schedule was 50 games. It now is 70.

In the high spots of his scoring he has tossed all goalies alike. He reached his 100th goal Jan. 12, 1945, during the career of Norm Yorke the victim. The 200th came Jan. 15, 1949, against Jim Henry, then with Chicago; the 300th Nov. 3, 1951, against Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, and three games were in Montreal.

Richard tied Stewart's 324 record when Toronto Oct. 29, - 1952, and scored his 325th Nov. 8 in Montreal against Al Rollins of Chicago.

Bailey of Leafs Sent to Hornets At Pittsburgh

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Friday they have sent centre Bob Bailey to Pittsburgh Hornets, their American Hockey League farm team.

Bailey was purchased from the Cleveland Barons prior to the 1953-54 season for cash and a player. He played all last year with the Leafs and did well in last spring's playoffs against Detroit Red Wings.

This season, however, he was replaced by Jimmy Thomson who was promoted from the Hornets.

The shift—by—the minors resulted from Bob Bailey's return to action with the Leafs after being sidelined by injuries.

Queen's Cagers Lose in States

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—The Oswego state teachers basketball team built up a 15-point lead early in the second half Friday night, then fought off a closing rally by Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., for a 73-69 victory.

It was the second game and the first victory for Oswego. Queen's opened its season.

Paul Fredericks of Queen's topped the scorers with 21 points. Oswego's Ted Murray scored 2.0

Darrel Royal May Be Coach Of Stampeders

EDMONTON (CP)—Don Fleming in his sports column in the Edmonton Journal that Calgary Stampeders is seeking a coach for the Big Four team and Darrel Royal football Union team next season "are pushing" in the direction of none other than Darrel Royal."

Royal, who when he coached Edmonton Eskimos in the 1953 season introduced the split-T to Canada, returned to Mississippi State as head coach this season.

Edmonton released Royal from a three-year contract so he could accept the Mississippi State appointment.

Fleming wrote:

"The former Eskimo pilot isn't so happy with the Mississippi State deal and has confessed to a hankering to come back to Canada."

Petes Defeated

HAMILTON (CP)—Delta secondary school defeated Peterborough Kenner Collegiate 73-32 in an exhibition basketball game here Friday night.

Bob Doust, 6-foot-5-inch center accounted for 22 points for the Delta team as they ran circles around the Petes. Ken Kemp, forward, scored 17 points. Bob Mabry, forward, was the best for the losers, scoring 10 points.

In the junior game, the Petes outscored the Delta 39-29. Ralph Howe led the Petes in the victory, scoring 20 points, with Bob Johnston accounting for another 10.

Solmar Notes

A Little of Everything

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)

Word has come to this department of the concern on the part of several scientists and conservation authorities over the importation and release of European rabbits within the United States. One of the main sources of supply is the San Juan Islands, off the coast of the State of Washington.

The scientists tell us, and I quote, that "the American farmer would be confronted with the worst vermin pest he has yet faced" should these animals become established in our countryside.

They point with alarm to the devastation caused by European rabbits in Australia and New Zealand where the damage they do runs annually into the millions.

Frankly, I can't honestly see our excited about the potential threat to our crops on the part of European rabbits. Some of them already are established in northern Pennsylvania, and so far as I know, not any loud outcries from that quarter.

EATS MORE

They tell us that the European rabbit eats more than the one of our cottontails. Sure he does. He's a bigger animal, weighing 10 pounds on the hoof. That is a lot of nibbling compared with one of these bunnies is mighty good eating.

Think back a little—not so long ago the Dakotas were over-run by jackrabbits. It took only a great American sportsman only a few years to reduce that Dakota pheasant food to the status of only fair shooting. I know because I went there twice—once when there were pheasants galore and two years later—after the boys had had time to work them over.

Believe me, once the European rabbit becomes established he won't present the problem that he did in Australia and New Zealand. There he is on his own. Ammunition and hunters were few when spread over all that territory and when it comes to $4,542,860. That is my friends, is a lot of dollars.

It is only natural, I suppose, for the political gentlemen in Washington to cast a covetous eye upon this appealing set of figures. Also, it is fairly easy for these gentlemen to forget about the purpose to which this annual revenue is dedicated by the law which made it possible. None of it, however, for a lot of things quite as quickly as a pollitax.

LOOK AT BALANCE

This fund was created as an express purpose of acquiring lands for the establishment of wildlife refuges. Now let's take a quick look at the record.

As of June 30, total duck stamp funds collected during the years prior to that date came to $35, 820, 551. Of this amount, mind you, exactly $2,682,000 has actually been spent in the acquisition of lands for waterfowl refuges.

18,454 Players Registered In Minor Hockey

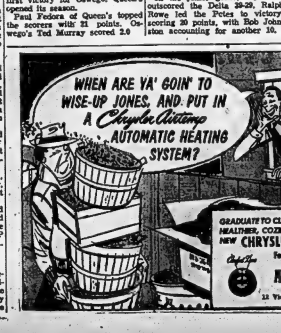
TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association, largest minor hockey group in the world, had a record 18,454 players registered in the 1953-54 season, secretary Jack Christie reported Friday.

He told the 21st annual meeting that the number included 12,833 participating in affiliated league play and 5,629 in OMHA competition.

Christie's report was prepared in advance and released to the press prior to delivery.

Christie urged coaches and others connected with the minor leagues to continue their campaign to reduce rough play, promote leagues among players, needling and taunting and petty protests.

OPERATING LOSS



The treasurer's report showed the league had an operating loss last year of $87. Receipts totalled $8,987 and expenditures were $9, 074.

Fred Norman of Simcoe was elected president to succeed Mike Michaud of Sudbury.

Others elected by acclamation: vice-presidents, Mayor Bert Hicks, Kingsway, Lake Shore, Etobicoke; Frank Doherty, Tecumseh; secretary Charles Christie; treasurer, Doc Hilwell; registrar, Jim Whiston.

Seven sitting executive members seeking re-election are: Ted Kimm Galt; Jerry Simmons, Gravenhurst, Jim Cathcart, Wallaceburg; Albert Watkins, Peterborough; Ray Patterson, Stirling; Jack Small, Bracebridge; Jim Trott, Collingwood.

They will be opposed by Ben Schegen, Fort Dover, and Gordon Bishop, Norwich.

AT THE McCARTHY

It's been a while five years since Tyrone Power, in England to begin location shooting on "The Black Rose," hailed the work of a promising British film actor, Michael Rennie, in London-produced films and suggested the Briton for a key supporting role in "Black Rose." Today Power and Rennie are reunited, but as co-stars along with Miss Terry Moore, in "King of the Khyber Rifles," in CinemaScope spectacle in Technicolor from 20th Century-Fox closing tonight at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. And Rennie has even stolen a march on Ty Power in that "King of the Khyber Rifles" is his second film in the new process — he was in the first ever made in CinemaScope, "The Robe" — wherever Power's second in Cinemascope is just now in the planing stage, "The Long Gray Line," a story of West Point, to be made at Columbia.

Rennie's work in "The Black Rose" met with such instant success that he was imported to America, where he now regularly resides, boasting of a "half-English, half-American accent." "The 13th Letter," "Man Call From a Stranger" and "Sellor of the King" have been among his successes for 20th Century-Fox prior to his triumph as Simon, called "The Saint" by and known as "The Big Fisherman" in "The Robe."

The Lincolnesque star will be seen next season in a sequel to "The Robe," "Demetrius and the Gladiators," co-starring Victor Mature and Susan Hayward.

AT THE BELLE

"THE LIVING DESERT"

Walt Disney's First Tent-Life Adventure Feature

The film, presented in sumptuous Technicolor, brings a fascinating collection of wild-life personalities to the screen, showing how each lives out his own individual, frequently lovely, and always interesting fate against the splendid pageantry of a burning sand, flamboyant blooms, towering cacti and gigantic floods. From the odd walking rocks to the mud pols of the Salton Sea, Natures strangest features are captured by the cameras of the scientists and naturalists who turned cameraman on this project. The vastness of a sand storm in the Great American Desert is no more awe-inspiring than a chuckawalla who likes to dine on daisy blossoms. This tiny creature is similar to a miniature dinosaur, and like others of his neighborhood, he has learned how to store green food in the form of moisture.

The adventures of bobcats and peccaries, are shown with retailed hawks, the mating dance of two scorpions, the life and death of a turkey Turentula. The exciting games of the kangaroo rats, the sequence showing the curious roadrunner, the "pattern-ed Gila Monster, the shy ringtail cat, the tiny elf owl, share dramatic moments with such beauty as the lime-lapse shots of the lovely night blooming cereus the Easter Lily cactus, the literal carpet of flowers that cover the desert floor after brush taking scenes showing how the desert's flash floods come, sweep everything before them, and die down to a trickle of mud.

The entire film is a unique story of nature's little known creatures as they fulfill their destinies among the secret places which was formerly thought to be an arid wasteland.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE COUNTRY PARSON"

Brings to the Screen one of the most Poignant Stories of Self Sacrifice seen in a Decade.

Astor's Story of Pastor Ritter a Resounding Hit

By James J. Hylton, Author, Lecturer and World Traveller

Astor's long awaited film or a man of God "The Country Parson", comes to this community after playing to tremendous success in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Kansas City and other important cities in every part of the land. Everyone has read or heard something of this story of Pastor Ritter. Men and women have commented on it on the air, on TV and in print. Dr. Frank Kingdon some months ago said: "It is one of the truly magnificent stories of self sacrifice written in many years."

Robert McDavinil, president of Astor, distributors of the thrilling story of a man who put the love of his fellow men and women, before all else, told this reporter that in the forty years he has been in the motion picture industry, he has never enjoyed a film as much as "The Country Parson".

At a press conference in New York, Mr. Savini said that he had seen over two thousand films, both feature length and short subjects, but never one with the emotional impact of "The Country Parson". We agree with him even though we have not seen as many films as Mr. Savini. We have spoken men, "The Country Parson" with its cast of splendid artists is one of those rare moments of the theatre.

It is a lesson of self sacrifice so godly and badly needed in these H-Bomb days when we all need such a message of brotherly love and family sweetness and tenderness that this unusual film gives out to all who have the eyes to see it, and the heart to accept it.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for Sunday, December 9, 1956.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Although wholesome activities are sponsored, self-restraint and emotional control are strongly advocated. You will gain the right outlook and start by going to church.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Pleasant but not too stimulating prospects prognosticated. This is fine for the Sabbath which should afford one and all some time for spiritual reflection and useful, happy social affairs.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Avoid carelessness and brusqueness. Both can hurt, and cause needless misunderstandings. The Sun's benefic aspect favors good deeds and wholesome activities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — "A gift with a kind countenance is a double present." You are innately kind and thoughtful, and those precious assets can be so helpful today — and always.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Your planet, the Sun, favorably enlightened, favors your most worth-while interests, encourages the charity and spiritual devotions. Give attention to necessary and urgent things.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Those periods which are restful rather than exciting can be more productive than hectic, feverish ones. Today's aspects suggest calmness, understanding, kindliness.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Please heed Taurus. And remember what Horace said: "A well prepared mind hopes in adversity, and fears in prosperity." Spare some time for the family, church, good friends.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The proper use of time and money brings blessings and advantages. If you do not spend some for true charity and for love of humanity, you will never know the great good you are missing.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — A good day. True inner contentment and satisfaction result from doing one's duty cheerfully and well. Do it now!

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Your innately fine traits are better than worldly riches and, if you develop and cherish them as you should, they will become riches indeed. Today gives you an opportunity to exploit God-given assets.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Novelty may appear enticing but be sure that its novelty does not lead to wrong-doing. Observation and consistent application are wonderful assets.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Many treasures are found in the "little things" and care of them leads to greater gifts. Observance of God's laws makes the way easier, the returns brighter.

YOU BORN TODAY have unusual talent for leadership, can handle an important position as well as one of lesser status. You are usually generous, humanitarian, genial, engaging in conversation; especially adapted for a position or career bringing you before the public. You have many fine attributes, not many faults, and you can, when you will, correct the faults quickly. These are usually a tendency to quick temper and irritability. Your natural good humor usually controls the fore, however. Versatility, dependability and good business sense are your best assets. Birthdate: Martin Van Buren, 8th U.S. pres.; Geo. A. Custer, famed Apper. general; Walter Disney, cartoonist, producer.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and I was hitting trees with a little stick, and pop said, Did those trees ever do anything to you?

No sir, and anyways, pop, I'm only hitting every 2nd tree, I said. Then he said, if you go through life bearing a grudge against even half the trees in the world, it is bound to have an effect on your caracter.

Well G, pop, that's not the reason I'm hitting them, I said, and pop said, Do you mean you're superstitious and think you'll have bad luck if you miss every 2nd tree with that silly stick for Peet sake?

No sir, pop, not really, I said, I just hit them for good luck as general principals because I happen to have the stick, I said, and pop said, Then suppose you throw the stick away as a sign that you are living in the enlightened age of science and not the diabolic age of black magic.

Sure, pop, I said, and I threw the stick as far as I could throw it, just for a practice throw, and pity sake pop said, Am I walking too fast for you?

No sir, I said, and pop said, Then stop lagging.

I'm just being careful not to step on any cracks, I said. I do that sometimes, but not generally the same time I'm hitting every 2nd tree. Another thing I do is take 2 steps with my eyes shut after and every 10 regular steps. May be I'll try that a while, I said, and pop said, Would you mind doing me a favor?

Sure, pop, what? I said, and he said, Find another stick and hit trees.

Which I did.

STEP UP BUILDING PACE

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's building industry Wednesday was given orders sharply to speed up production, cut costs and improve quality in a national meeting of builders and architects at the Kremlin. To lend emphasis, Premier Malenkov and other leaders of government and Communist party attended the opening session.

CAMPBELLFORD

Mayor, Reeve, P.S. Trustees Are Acclaimed

CAMPBELLFORD — As expectation of the time for qualifying for the various offices at the town nomination meeting, it was revealed that there will be election for councillors, deputy-reeve and the Public Utilities Commission. Mayor Ed. J. Reid, Reeve D. R. Maybee and the public school trustees were elected by acclamation. Public school trustees will be H. E. Cryderman, F. E. Dennis, H. L. Macmillan and William C. Tatham.

Government of this town may be partly a family affair in 1956 with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tatham, both of whom are veterans of the public school board and the town council respectively in the running again this year. Mr. Tatham was re-elected to the Public School Board by acclamation on Tuesday night and Mrs. Tatham is one of the seven prospective councillors of which six will be elected.

F. H. Macmillan, a veteran with nearly a score of years service in town council, but did not seek election last year, is again in the contest. He will seek one of the six seats. His son, H. L. Macmillan, was elected to the Public School Board. Mrs. Tatham, too, this will be his first taste of civic politics as he has not previously sought office of any kind.

Minor Hockey

Two shutouts featured the pee wee games on Saturday at the Arena this morning with the Canadiens edging the Black Hawks 1-0, the Red Wings blanking the Rangers 3-0 and the Bruins shading the Maple Leafs by a 2-1 count.

Doug Dafoe gave the Canadiens their victory with an unassisted marker, while Gary Bowman came up with a good display of netminding in gaining his shutout.

Kerry Sexton was in the nets for the Red Wings 3-0 victory and like his brother, came up with a fine game. Joey Clapp, Larry Brown and Clifford Green starred for the marksmen.

Joe Erwin and John Lewis each scored once for the Bruins with Leo Burley getting one assist. Don Dafoe was the star for the Leafs, as he was scoring play for the Leafs.

Weekly Review of Sports Activities of the City's Secondary Schools

The Bel Kappa Boys' Hi-Y bring to you on this fourth day of December, 1954, hindered and fifty-four its first weekly presentation of port activities in the Belleville collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

The Boys' Hi-Y would like to sincerely bank Mr. Carver for allowing been the privilege to give to the sport-loving fans an idea of the athletic program carried on in BCI.

Now let us drift back several weeks and replay our colorful sports scenes. BCI was represented in the COSSA semi-finals by both senior and junior teams. The senios lost a tough decision to Peterborough 23-3, while the juniors were defeated in a heartbreaker by Oshawa 30-18. But still we're proud of the fine performances of our two-teams. The seniors were formed after a penalty and suspension period. They were injury-riddled and few in number they stuck with it. This form of spirit promises a winning team next year.

Much soon hour during the fall six man sagby games are played on the annual inter-school basis divided into two divisions. Upper school consists of Grades 11, 12 and 13. They play a double elimination schedule and this year 13 clubs debated for the title championship. Lowry school consists of Grades 9 and 10. They play a single elimination schedule and A10 tromped over TWC 27-3 to win their division title.

At present the school is in the midst of the rapidly-paced floor hockey season. This sport is very targeted as a result, it is very difficult to make predictions because anything can happen. There are five teams in the league. Each team plays a game in chosen from each team. At the end of the season the players are rated and an all-star game is played. It is in this game that the student body is given a chance to see the world's Floor-Hockey of BCI.

Here is the league standing after completion of half their schedule and the top six scoring leaders.

Team	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Dynamos	3	1	0	40	32	6
Kigmites	3	1	0	32	25	6
Desperadoes	2	1	1	37	30	5
Bulls	2	1	1	34	27	5
Polecats	1	0	3	15	33	1
Flyers	0	4	0	18	44	0

Name	Team	Goals
Fraser	Dynamos	11
Bell	Desperadoes	10
Foster	Kigmites	11
Bonisteel	Kigmites	10
Batchelor	Desperadoes	10
Bishop	Dynamos	8
Gault	Dynamos	8

Three games are played in the junior church room each commencing at 12.30. Next week's schedule see the Flyers vs Polecats on Monday, Desperadoes vs. Kigmites on Tuesday, Dynamos vs. Polecats on Wednesday, Desperadoes vs. Bulls on Friday.

Display your school spirit by coming out to support your favorite team.

P.S. Mr. Townsend thank you for your timely statistical information and co-operation.

Slippery Roads Blamed For Minor Crashes

TRENTON (Special) — Eleven traffic accidents on No. 2 highway between Trenton and Colborne were investigated by provincial police from 7.50 p.m. Friday to 4.35 a.m. Saturday, Const. Lorne Gaylord has blamed for most of the mishaps.

Three persons are in the Trenton Memorial Hospital as a result of the accidents were: Marinus Mast, 16, of the 7th Line, Sidney; Dick Splinter, 26 Cameron St., Kingston; and Andre Ostanbeld, Picton. The condition of all three men was described as satisfactory Saturday.

COLDER WEATHER

The RCAF weatherforecaster at Trenton's main station has predicted colder weather, freezing temperatures for the Bay of Quinte district for the week-end.

He expects the temperature to drop to 10 degrees tonight and to hover around 30 for most of Sunday.

Approximately five inches of snow fell in Trenton during the early morning hours Saturday and the snowfall expected to stop about noon. About an inch of snow fell in Stirling.

Crop Improvement Assoc. Names F. Campbell Pres.

Fred Campbell of Foxboro, was named president of the Hastings County Crop Improvement Association at their annual meeting held Friday night in the Memorial Hall.

Vice-presidents named were Allan Ketcheson of Madoc and Basil Kuglin of Foxboro. A. O. Delample, county agricultural representative, was returned as secretary-treasurer. Three directors from each township were named and with one or two exceptions the same men will be there.

Mr. J. B. Nelson, associate director for the economics branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture was guest speaker. He spoke on farm business analysis, emphasizing the points for farmers to consider in the operation of a farm from a sound business standpoint. He stated that each person took a sample farm from another township for analysis. In this way each farm could be analyzed to determine whether it was weak in cropping, feeding or in labor.

Mr. Nelson noted that this service was available to farmers and would be handled through the county agricultural office. It is hoped that from the points given at the meeting farmers interested will be able to improve their own farms for business management. Assistance is required agricultural officials will help in doing the analysis.

NO CARS FOR 60 DAYS

NEW YORK (AP)—James Williams, 22, was sentenced Friday to 60 days in prison for failing to pay $30 in back alimony. Judge John E. Prendergast imposed the sentence after Williams pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

Penicillin Discoverer Wants To Resume Immunity Research

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, is turning time back at 73 years.

The short, silver-haired Scot who stumbled on one of the world's most amazing drugs has decided to pick up working threads dropped a quarter of a century ago.

"I want to resume my research on immunity," he explained. "After penicillin we got side-tracked."

BACK TO LABORATORY

That was in 1929, soon after he became professor at St. Mary's Hospital medical school in London. Now the 74-year-old, Ayrshire born scientist has quit his post as head of the Wright-Fleming Institute of Microbiology at St. Mary's.

This, he says, will free him of administrative duties and the "countless interruptions" they bring.

Sir Alexander wants to work on bacteria.

UNBORN PROBLEM

"There's the problem of boils. Everyone carries the microbe that produces boils, but why do only some persons get them? It's a simple thing but a problem never solved."

Sir Alexander thinks most of the known microbes will be licked with vaccines before 2 000 A.D. Does that mean the world can look forward to total immunity from disease?

"No," he replied thoughtfully, "focs always."

think we'll probably find new microbes and the old ones will find some way to dodge the vaccines. They're pretty clever, you know."

But he doesn't think penicillin will lose its effectiveness — "it's been in active use for more than 10 years now and hasn't lost much."

Penicillin was discovered by accident. It happened in his laboratory — small, green-tiled lab at St. Mary's — now converted into a student science laboratory — when a stray mould spore blew one a plate on which a bacterial culture was growing. He found that the new substance was dissolving the bacteria.

WIDELY HONORED

In 1944 Fleming, who came to London as a shipping clerk, was knighted. Honor upon honor followed, including the Nobel prize, the Spanish Grand Cross of Alphonse, the French Legion of Honor and the Albert Medal of Merit.

These lofty tributes have left Sir Alexander virtually unchanged. A lover of bright bow ties, he lives with his second wife, a 41-year-old Greek-born bacteriologist, in a small country house at Mildenhall, Suffolk. Every morning at 8 he drives his own car to work by 10.

The discoverer of penicillin has taken the drug himself only once, after a bacterial culture severe pneumonia in December, 1952.

He has visited Canada on several occasions.

Allan Ladd Takes Jump in TV But Will Not Be a Regular

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sunday night Alan Ladd takes the big leap into television. But don't look for him to become a TV regular.

Ladd will perform a TV drama called "Conspiracy" on the U. S. Theatre. It's a filmed show, made by his own production company, Jaguar.

Thus the daring lad from Hot Springs, Ark., is venturing both sides of the entertainment street. But you can bet he will continue to string along with the studios. Most of his deals involve a share of the profits.

MAY MAKE SERIES

Even the TV deal is like that. G.E. has the right to two uses of "Committed." Then it becomes Ladd's property.

"We can use it as a pilot film for a series if we want," Ladd said. "Does that mean he might do a series?

"I don't know," he replied. "We might make it as a series with someone else as a star. You see, the script is one of 52 Hugo Butler wrote for a radio series I did called 'Box 13.' He was hired a writer who seeks new adventures to write about. So I thought it could easily be adapted to television."

Meanwhile he is more concerned with the big picture. He is starring his next film, "The McConnell Story," in which he will play the late Jet ace Joe McConnell and June Allyson will be his wife.

New Cinemascope Screen Installed In McCarthy Theatre

The Odeon McCarthy Theatre has CinemaScope.

Wider than wide screen, curved, and ready for VistaVision, the Odeon McCarthy's new plastic molded RCA screen brings new depth of focus and clarity to all types of pictures. Installation of the new screen was completed this week and the first Cinema-Scope feature is currently playing.

Dramatic as is the new screen and the size of the picture which is 31 feet, nine inches wide, the heart of the CinemaScope system is the anamorphic lens. Installed in place of glass is worth more than the original lens which cost $1,000. Odeon McCarthy has two, each mounted in a shell-like steel casing—one is kept in the projection booth and other disbursements, make CinemaScope a sound investment of more than $10,000.

The anamorphic lens, a piece of glass grown recently at Corning, N.Y. looking glass, turns a picture in the wide film figures all seven-nine feet tall, into an elongated projected picture in which every thing comes out better and looks right.

With all the changes the Odeon McCarthy is now without a small screen system. All future pictures will be filmed in wide screen CinemaScope or VistaVision.

Side masks bordering the wide screen process are drawn in case of CinemaScope and a third mask at the top of the screen will be elevated for VistaVision.

$50,000 a Week For Liberace At Las Vegas

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Liberace, who once played honky tonks in Las Vegas cocktail lounges, Friday signed a contract to open at the new Riviera Hotel there in April.

It will be the highest salary yet paid in the Nevada gambling oasis, Morris Dietrich, who appeared in a semi-nude dress, got only $30,000.

The deal was signed here at a conference of the pianist's manager, Seymour Jack Goldman, general manager of the new hotel, which will open April 5.

Santa Coming To Little Girl For Last Time

VICTORIA (CP)—Santa Claus is coming to fair-haired Carol Ann Lavigne, perhaps for the last time.

Eight-year-old Carol has Hukemia, dread cancer of the blood for which there is no cure. She is not expected to live until Christmas.

But she'll have a Christmas party. It was her own idea.

"We are going to have a Christmas party a little early to-day so she gets that much," said her father Gerry Lavigne, a street car motorman. "She's the one to do it."

There will be presents, especially a bicycle from her uncle Jack, the girl she wants most for Christmas. Mom and dad and uncle brothers and sisters will be at the party as well as relatives and friends.

Carol is a nappy little girl. She does not know she's doomed to an early death.

"She'll think it a great joke to tell Santa Claus," her dad said in telling of early party plans.

Petes Defeat Brockville 4-2

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Peterborough Petes banged in three goals in the first period without a reply and went on to defeat Brockville Canadians 4-2 in an Eastern Ont. Senior B. League game here last night.

Leonard opened the scoring for Petes at 1.27 of the first period and added two more over, Twist, from Peloquin and Floyd, Floyd, from Crowley, had also tallied.

Crowley, on a pass from Leonard sank Petes fourth goal for the locals at the 18.29 mark of the second period with Mc Donald mas breaking the shutout at 16.20 with Davison sinking the disc on a solo effort.

M. Legris, from Gibson, scored Brockville's second and last goal at 5.20 of the third period.

2 BELLEVILLE WOMEN KILLED IN CRASH

MAN'S BEST FRIEND IS 'DEAR' TO YOUNGSTER

For the last six months it has been like living at Santa's home for four-year-old Garry Groome of Kearney, Ont., next door with his pet deer. Last June, Mrs. Groome noticed "Timmy" in a field close to the house. As there wasn't any sign of any parent deer in sight, she decided to catch the little fawn, which she did without much trouble. Since then, "Timmy" has been like a "dear" relatives the Groome home, having the run of the house and sleeping in a bed in the boy's room. Although he is only about six months old, "Timmy" weighs around 100 pounds and seems to be thriving on his diet of grass, hay and, oh, yes, she electrical cords which he likes to chew in half. President of Dairy Council Against Subsidy Continuance TORONTO (CP)—Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary, president of the National Dairy Council, said today subsidies to the dairy industry are like a narcotic and should not be continued indefinitely.

The dairy industry cannot meet competition for survival against other industries if we don't give ourselves to be tied more and more securely to bascratic controls," he told the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association.

He said that for several years the dairy producers have been supported by government subsidy.

EXPEDIENT ONLY

"It is not a situation which we should expect to continue forever. It must be regarded as an expedient justifiable for a short term of years while the industry is adjusting itself to new and difficult circumstances.

The statement was included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Carlyle said the federal government's floor price on butter is affecting the industry's ability to compete with butter substitutes.

The dairy industry was entitled to "expect some measure of protection against cheap foreign imports." The public was entitled to share in any price cuts made in the sale of government-held surplus stocks of butter abroad or in Canada, and to "complete protection against deception in offering substitutes for sale in the guise of dairy foods."

Mr. Carlyle said he is convinced that we are engaged in a battle for survival with substitutes for dairy foods, and that we are attempting to deal with the battle with our right hand tied behind our back."

CAN'T SURVIVE

"By that I mean we are allowing these substitutes the advantages of free competition in the market place while we refuse to meet them on the one principal issue of price.

"How in the world we can expect to survive when the price of our product is artificially at least twice the level of the substitute product, I do not know. Continuance of this policy will certainly result in the loss of most of our domestic market, while production is maintained at the taxpayers' expense for the benefit of foreign buyers the seas and perhaps behind the Iron Curtain."

WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A high pressure area moving southeastward over the Great Lakes brought cold weather to Ontario during the night. While River, north of Lake Superior, registered 28 below. Continued sunny, cold weather is forecast for the province with a warming trend beginning Tuesday except for snowfalls to the lee of the lakes.

HOWE URGES DISMANTLING TRADE BARRIERS

Essential Precondition Of World Prosperity

GENEVA (Reuters) — Canadian Trade Minister C. D. Howe said here today the primary object of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade should be to dismantle trade restrictions.

"This is the precondition of establishing world trade and the world economy on a secure and prosperous basis," he said.

Howe was addressing a special plenary meeting of the current GATT review session. He was unable to attend last month when ministers from most of the other 34 member-states made their general policy statements on revision of the GATT.

POSITION UNCHANGED

Howe, who was the only speaker, declared: "My government has no intention of wholesale abandonment of existing practices in our view, preferential margins, like tariffs, should continue to be subject to reduction through the normal processes of negotiation. Any i s e s of preference would, of course, be contrary to the principles of the general agreement.

"On the matter, the position of the Canadian government has not changed and we would not wish to see any change in the agreement," he said.

Howe said: "The time is ripe for a new attack on the problem of quantitative restrictions," which, he said, "have become the exception instead of the rule."

"As long as these restrictions remain, measures persist everyone is being hurt by them," Howe said. "The people who hurt most are in the countries which impose them, because of the higher prices they have to import."

FRAISES GARTI

Howe said export subsidies disrupt trade as well as quantitative restrictions. He called for "the readjustment of individual tariff items, from time to time, as special circumstances arise" by the government must avoid "widespread and substantial withdrawals of tariff concessions from one another."

He praised the GATT and said if it were to disappear or be seriously weakened, "our world-wide commercial structure would tend to dissolve into regional blocs and currency groupings."

More Turkeys Available This Christmas

OTTAWA (CP) — Thinking of buying a turkey for Christmas? You'll probably find they're more plentiful this year.

The agriculture department, in a report submitted to the federal-provincial agricultural conference, estimated that Canada's 1954 turkey crop will increase by 25 per cent to a record 3,500,000 birds.

"This means turkey will be more plentiful from now until the middle of 1955 than a year ago," the department said.

However, if farmers follow the traditional cycle, production next year may decline slightly.

Church Bandit Perhaps Wounded

TORONTO (CP) — Police say they may be wounded one of two men who fled from Howard Park United church at 2:30 a. m. today when a caretaker grappled with them trying to crack the safe.

Police identified Harold Roberts said one of two bullets fired at a man as he fled over a fence caused him to cry out and fall to the ground. He got up again.

Both men escaped.

This Dior Look Looks Good on Dior Is Comment from Mae West's Boudoir

BY JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mae West, the gal with the body in neutral and the hips in overdrive, invited me into her boudoir.

She wore only a negligee. I wore a sport coat, flannel slacks and a red face. It was an interview.

"Don't worry about me," I'm not married."

"How does she keep so youthful looking?

"I walk two or three miles a day, don't drink or smoke and don't think about anything that might bother me."

What about a movie comeback?

"I was offered the matron's role in Tall Jory" opposite Marlon Brando but I turned it down. Joey Bishop's sucker out of this game and that's against my whole concept of handling men. The girls over 21 always came to my shows because I boosted their ego the way I loved 'em and left 'em."

And what about Marilyn Monroe?

"I've never seen any of her movies but she's probably a sweet kid."

Farm Cash Income Drops About $300,000,000 During Past Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today estimated farm cash income dropped by about $300,000,000 in 1954 to a four-year low of roughly $2,400,000,000. It said there is "good possibility" it may rise in 1955.

It estimated also that net income, remaining after farmers provide for operating expenses, depreciation and increases or decreases in farm stocks, also dropped, but there no analysis of the decline. It indicated, however, there is no likelihood of a rise in net income next year.

There have been unofficial estimates that net income dropped in 1954 by more than $400,000,000 to a seven-year low of about $1,200,000,000.

The estimates and forecasts were contained in a group of inter-departmental reports prepared for the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference which opens its two-day session today.

Federal and provincial agricultural ministers, their deputies, as well as spokesmen for various farm organizations gathered to study the outlook for Canada's $4,000,000,000 farm industry.

The reports, prepared by federal, provincial and economic experts, made these points:

1. The international economic outlook, and that for Canadian food exports, now is more reassuring than it was a year ago. Business activity in North America, though slightly below the high level, now is stable or rising slightly.

2. Britain and the British Commonwealth and West European customers are experiencing an expansion in employment and production, providing grounds for assuming world demand for food will be supported by stable or rising income and employment in these countries.

3. The manner in which the United States undertakes to dispose of its huge food surpluses will have a bearing on Canadian agricultural sales. The U.S. has embarked on a program of disposing $1,000,000,000 worth of food in three years through the acceptance of local currencies. Canada demands payment in dollars.

4. The outlook for disposal of Canada's wheat surplus is bright. Though Canada produced only about 300,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, she had record carryover stocks of some 384,200,000 bushels from the last crop. The reports estimated that the carryover next year will be reduced "materially."

5. Hog production likely will increase by about 19 per cent next year, with smaller increases likely in marketings of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs. Though meat consumption may increase in Canada, farmers will have to depend more heavily on export markets, particularly the U.S., for disposal of surpluses. Hog prices are expected to show the biggest change next year.

6. Milk production is estimated to increase next year by about 100,000,000 pounds over the current 17,000,000,000. The increase is expected mainly in Quebec and British Columbia, where fluid consumption is rising.

7. Egg prices are likely to drop in the first four or five months of 1955, with increased marketings. A seasonal increase in egg prices may develop in May or June, but the extent of a rise will depend on the 1955 hatch.

The reports estimated that wheat accounted for most of the decline in 1954 farm income. Returns from other principal farm products had increased, but Prairie deliveries of wheat to the Canadian wheat board dropped sharply. Wheat and barley prices were down.

Egg Prices Fall Below Federal Support Level at Some Points

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today egg prices have fallen below the federal support level at several points across the country.

The government is taking steps to buy up the surplus at an economic cost to the federal treasury of about $700,000,000 in 1954, he said.

Mr. Gardiner told a federal-provincial agricultural conference the price drop is due to a record and a number of demands that the government announce immediately its plans to dissolve into regional blocs and currency groupings."

PRICE SUPPORT

The present government flo, price for eggs is 38 cents a doz for grade A large at the producer plus storage and cost of handling."

However, the minister said that in the past the government announced its policy between December 15 and April so that the announcement will be out as early this year.

Replying to butter Mr. Gardiner said the supply this year will total 190,000,000 pounds, slightly less than the 400,000,000 pounds available in 1941 and 342,000,00 in 1951.

Mr. Gardiner said the present floor price support on butter will cost the government $25,000,000 for the period from 1949 to 1954.

The government supports butter at 58 cents a pound wholesale, buying the surplus in the summer heavy-production season and releasing it in the winter months.

Mr. Gardiner estimated that since price support machinery was established in 1944 the government has used $300,000,000 to buy products in order to maintain prices but the total net cost for all these operations, including storage, and the eventual write-off of food-and-muscle disease in late 1951, totalled $83,563,000.

Another German War Criminal Given Release

BONN (AP)—The British today released another German war criminal from their prison at Werl, reducing the number held there to 36.

Johannes Neitz, 45, sentenced in 14 years by a Canadian court in Aurich in 1946, was freed on the recommendation of the joint British-German commission which is reviewing war crimes sentences.

FREED CANADIAN FLIER SAW SOME U.S. PRISONERS

Says Fliers Have Been Allowed to Write Home

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP) — Squadron Leader Andrew E. (Andy) MacKenzie, a Canadian flier shot down in the Korean War and just freed from imprisonment in Red China, says the Chinese are still holding some American war prisoners in big prison camps.

The 34-year-old Montreal air ace reached Hong Kong from mainland China Sunday that the Americans he knows about—all air force fliers—have been allowed to write home and it was known in the United States that they were prisoners.

He added that they do not include any of the 13 Americans recently sentenced by Peiping on spy charges.

KEEP SECRET

Canadian and U.S. officials did not permit disclosure here of the number or names of the captured men. The location of the camp also was withheld.

MacKenzie reached freedom two years ago to the day after he was shot down near the Yalu river in North Korea while flying as a flight commander with the U.S. Air Force.

Canadian diplomats had asked about him when they met the Chinese Communist delegation at the Geneva conference last June on Korea and Indochina. The Reds promised at that time to release him. They finally notified the external affairs department Informally Nov. 22 that he would be at the border of this British colony Sunday.

Appearing thin but otherwise healthy, he arrived in the custody of three Red Chinese guards. He wore a blue, padded Chinese uniform.

MET AT FRONTIER

MacKenzie's brother-in-law, Wing Commander Donald Sloan, and Lt.-Col. O. D. Simpson, U.S. Air Force attache in Hong Kong, met the flier at the border. He was taken to a military hospital for a checkup.

Posing briefly for photographers in Hong Kong, MacKenzie said only:

"I am glad to be here and am looking forward to spending this Christmas with my family." Mrs. MacKenzie and her two children live in Montreal. The RCAF announced in Ottawa that it would fly Mrs. MacKenzie to her husband.

The RCAF ordered MacKenzie not to talk with reporters until he had reported to Canadian authorities.

SPURNED, WOUNDS SELF

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—An 18-year-old ex-marine, spurned by the 15-year-old high school girl he married in a no-elopement last summer, critically wounded himself with a shotgun blast in Bloomfield suburb here Thursday night. Police lid David McCall dashed into the home of his wife's parents and shot at his young wife, but missed.

Trawlermen Claim Proof of Existence Of Legendary Loch Ness Monster

GLASGOW (AP)—The crew of the trawler Rival claimed today they have proved the existence of the legendary Loch Ness monster —or something about as weird—with their echo-sounding equipment.

Their "monster," they reported, is 50 feet long and has reportedly eight legs and the all-round appearance of a dinosaur.

The echo-sounder charts underwater depths and schools of fish by recording the time it takes a sound pulse to echo back to the device. Under direction of the Rival's crew reported, the mystery object was located at a depth of 540 feet, 150 feet above the bed of the Scottish loch where the monster is reported seen from time to time.

Anderson said he was at the ship's wheel, bound for the west coast fishing grounds, when "suddenly out of the corner of my eye, I saw the echo on the echo sounder start to draw an astounding shape. . . .

"I shouted to the captain and other seven crew members—they were down below having tea—and they came crowding up to the bridge. Between us we turned the boat about and tried to track the strange object, but we must have frightened it away.

The graph showed a small-headed thing with an unglaggly body and a tail about 15 feet long. L. A. Anderson, owner of the trawler, said:

"I'm convinced it's a real monster. I'm willing to stake my life on it."

Misses Iva Empey, Gisele Harrison Collision Victims

Car Hits Stalled Truck; Blinding Lights Blamed

Two Belleville young women were instantly killed and a third injured Saturday night when their car slammed into the rear of a parked transport trailer near Westbrook, four miles west of Kingston.

Killed were Miss Iva Agnes Empey, 28, of 46 Harriett Street, and Miss Gisele Harrison, 32, of 11 Albion Street. Miss Pearl Empey, 35, sister of one of the dead girls, is in Kingston General Hospital, suffering from shock, a broken ankle and cuts.

The accident took place shortly after nine o'clock Saturday night as the three young women were on their way to Kingston to attend a dance.

FOLDED LIKE ACCORDION

The vehicle was folded like an accordion as it crashed into the rear of the disabled transport which was parked partly off the road. Driver of the transport, Donald Lazier, 23, of Toronto, had pulled off the road with a broken drive shaft. His warning flares were in place but the car must have mied into the trailer from behind.

The blinding glare of approaching headlights is believed to have been partially responsible for the accident. Miss Pearl Empey, driver of the car, is reported to have told police that she saw the lights on the highway but failed to see the parked transport because of the approaching bright lights.

It was an hour after Pearl Empey had been taken to hospital that police were able to extricate the bodies of the other two women from the wrecked car.

HAPPY AS LARKS

"The girls left home about eight o'clock Saturday night to attend a dance at Kingston. They were as happy as larks when they left," stated Mrs. Harry Gawley, sister of the Empey girls.

"Pearl was a very careful driver and would have been the last person to take a chance," she said.

Both of the dead girls were assemblers at the Northern Electric plant at Belleville. Miss Harrison was a native of Belleville and been living in this city for the past eight years and was a close friend of the Empey sisters. Pearl Empey is an employee of the Stewart-Warner plant.

A brother of the Empey girls, Harold Empey of this city, was critically injured in a duck hunting accident earlier this fall.

The body of Miss Harrison was shipped directly from Kingston to her former home in Sudbury.

BORN IN CITY

Iva Empey was born in Belleville and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Empey of 46 Harriett street. Early morning the city all her life. She had attended public school and also had was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by her parents, four sisters, Mrs. Harry (Eva) Gawley of this city, Mrs. Orland (Lila) Nelson, Mrs. Harold (June) Hutchinson and Miss Pearl Empey, all of Belleville, and three brothers, Lindsay of Madoc, Arthur of Belleville and Ross of Corbyville.

Pet Cat Jumps On Woman's Face Saving Her Life

BRANTFORD (CP)—Mrs. Lillian Place and her four young sons escaped from their burning home early today, after a pet cat raised the alarm.

The three boys were sleeping upstairs, and Mrs. Place was in a downstairs bedroom when the cat wakened her by jumping on her face.

The rear of the home was a mass of flames. Mrs. Place aroused the boys in time but the cat was suffocated before firemen could check the flames.

Tornadoes Injure 38 in South

C. OF C. SPONSORING PROGRAM OF SAFETY IN CITY SCHOOLS

The Civic Betterment committee of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a program on safety for elementary school children in the city in cooperation with the public and separate school boards.

During this week, Don McKay of the Ontario Safety League, will show a special safety film to children in seven public and three separate schools.

Horace Wright, representing the Chamber, will accompany Mr. McKay on his visits to the schools. Chairman of the Civic Betterment committee is Norm Garbutt.

TWO MINOR ALARMS ARE TURNED IN

City firemen had comparatively easy time over the week-end with only two minor alarms being received. One of the calls was on Saturday morning to a Lewis street address for an overheated stove, while Sunday evening firemen were called to Wilbur Hardware on Front street to investigate fumes arising from the furnace.

Police Blotter

A rash of minor accidents involving little more than fender damage kept police busy Saturday as cars skidded on snow slippery pavement. At least a dozen minor mishaps were reported to police, on Saturday and over the week-end.

Someone must have played a joke on Goldie Fitzgibbon, local service station operator. He parked his auto on Church street near the Orange Hall and when he returned a few minutes later the vehicle was missing. Police recovered the car on Great St. James Street.

George McFarland, R.R. 1, Belleville, suffered a fracture of a local cafe and went to hospital for treatment.

And a practical jokester made a half hearted attempt to force doors at the Harry Smith Coal office and also at the city weigh scales building. Police said it did not appear that entry had been gained at either premises.

Principal Accepts Key to School

Principal C. I. Frederick of Sir Winston Churchill Public School, received the keys of the new building from Fred J. Symons, chairman of the school accommodation committee at the official opening of the new school held Thursday evening.

William VanTassel, chairman of the public school board, is at the left while on the right are J. R. McCarthy, assistant supervisor of elementary schools, who officially opened the school and L. A. Kells, superintendent of city public schools.

Splendid Santa Claus Parade Attracts Record Crowd to City; Better One Promised Next Year

A huge pink elephant received a spirited reception from nearly 15,000 spectators in downtown Belleville Saturday afternoon.

In fact so did the entire Santa Claus parade, of which the elephant (mounted on a float) was part. Some 26 colorful units, nine bands, numerous clowns and bewhiskered majorettes were combined into the most spectacular parade, in or out of season, this city has yet seen. And everything ended in the distribution of packages of candy to the children at the parade's conclusion from No. 1 fire hall.

An ambitious undertaking, and the first sizeable one of its kind staged here, the parade attracted families from as far north as Bancroft, east to Kingston and west to Cobourg. Its exciting success was a topic of conversation over the weekend, and also has encouraged its organizers to make it a yearly event.

PROMISE PARADE FOR YEARS

An emphatic promise that the parade will be a yearly affair "as long as I live" was given yesterday by Fire chief Cecil Wilson who headed up the Santa Claus Parade Committee.

In doing so, he also expressed his thanks to all who had co-operated with the committee; the members of the military and other bands, the citizens who walked in costume the entire route.

Carson Elliott, chairman of floats and bands also thanked especially the co-operation of the Picton band and its committee, who supplied several of the floats, including the main one for Santa Claus, designed in Eaton's Canadian Department Stores, there. Mr Elliott also laid chief credit for success of the event to the Belleville Fire Department for organization and raising funds.

PARADE DELAYED

Scheduled to start at 1.30 p.m., the parade was delayed for running repairs to some of the floats, shaken up in negotiating the city roads. Once under way however it took nearly 90 minutes to pass wending its way from No. 1 Fire Hall, across the Upper Bridge, down Front street and returning via Pinnacle Street.

City restaurants along the route did a roaring trade before and after the parade, one establishment being forced to squeeze extra tables onto an already jammed floor. As early as 12.45 p.m. spectators began to entrench themselves on vantage points along the path of the parade, despite chilly weather and occasional light falls of sleet.

The main street was cleared of parked cars from early in the morning police erected "No Parking" signs. Shortly after one p.m. a chair snow plough started a one up job on the rough street surface.

CHILD REWARDED

By two with the curb filled and office windows blocked by excited parents, the anticipation was becoming a little too much for the youngsters when the parade hove ering out into the middle of the street assembled for the parade. Finally, around 2.55 p.m. their uneasy vigil was rewarded when the advance-guard of the parade clattered into sight in the shape of an ancient automobile, driven on its rear wheels by four clowns. A slight lull followed, then with a flourish of drums from the trumpets and drums of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the main body entered the street. A color-party and the RCAF Trenton band headed the first float, carrying a gigantic snowman, entered by Big Fair. The Christ Church choir followed, entered by the Christ Church Men's Club, filling the crisp air with song.

All parents of children in the classes involved, in case a contagious disease is reported, are of the symptoms to look for; thus helping to keep control or break, such as measles or mumps from reaching the epidemic stage.

The evening's entertainment was provided by the children's choral groups, composed of Brendner School students from Grades 5 and 7. The latter group sang five selections in English, the second group gave two in French.

PRINCIPAL HEARD

The principal, Mr. G. D. Dwyer, spoke briefly on "Both Sides of the fence," presenting the teachers' as well as the parents' views concerned on the educating of the children. Mr. Dwyer also explained the new methods of presenting the students' progress on the report cards, saying that it is actually the new evaluation given to the letters, a, b, c, d and e, which are used to show the student's Little Pigs were pursued by the Big Bad Wolf.

SMART DRILL EXHIBITION

The band of the Royal Canadian Artillery, Picton, highlighted their music with the smart execution of military drill while on the march. One of the most imaginative exhibitions of "Outer Space," entered by the Men's Wear Association.

The Belleville Fire Department, whose members were responsible for the building of most of the floats, gave an original touch with its Little Boy Blue, including a full-scale model of a cow and, for good measure, two live sheep.

Two more nursery-rhyme figures were portrayed with Paris in the Well, entered by Earl Darrah and Red Riding Hood, by Delapey Furs. High-stepping in despite the brisk air, came the bare-legged majorettes of the Kinsmen's Boys' Band, preceding a huge Christmas tree, sponsored by Northern Electric. An exhibit from Lorne McDougall, then another from Fairgrieve entry from Farrar's Tiny Tot Town.

Three early automobiles, well-preserved throughout their years, were among the entries of Harvey J. McCaffery Photos, followed a space ship, then the raucous uproar of the "Tootenville Band" with members of the municipal band hiding behind flowery clown costumes. Another

Usual to Heavy Voting in All Subdivisions

Indications of a record vote in today's municipal elections were evident throughout the morning as reports from all wards showed steady and heavier than usual balloting.

A spot check of representative polling stations in all wards was made by the Ontario Intelligencer at noon Monday. Poll clerks reported "usual" to "heavy" voting in almost every instance. There was continuous appointment from each ward that this year's balloting ahead of that of previous years at noontime.

All indications pointed to spirited and close contest for all offices.

Shriners' entry, on behalf of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, came next.

VOZAR'S ANNIVERSARY MARKED

Another H. J. McFarland society, had two purported ipsey scampering round a huge cake. Next a carousel, then more music from the Hasty Feet jug band. The Belleville Rotary Club also marked the golden anniversary of Rotary in an unusual way.

Huge coke bottles were entered by Coca Cole while a colorful float was that of the local Canadian Girl Guides. Then escorted by a couple of outriders drawn a huge music box. Under the auspices of the Kinsmen's Club, the Hastings PB Association entered a float bearing the Eagle word "Give."

Came the band of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals band from Kingston and then the climax of the parade.

Just a Shade Under Zero Mark Sunday Night

It was the coldest night of the season Sunday night as Old Jack Frost forced the mercury down to just a shade under the zero mark. It was 41 above at ten o'clock this morning.

And it wasn't much warmer Sunday morning with the official thermometer at the city pumphouse on Trent Road registering a chilly 4.7 degrees as the coldest.

But regardless of how much trouble Dad had in getting the family jalopy going, the chilly temperatures were enjoyed by the city's young fry. Bundled to the ears in winter wraps the kiddies spent Sunday afternoon out of doors cavorting in the six inches of snow which fell early Saturday.

Masonic Temple Scene of Service By Preceptories

A large number of Masons and their families were present at the Christian Stewardship service held in the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon conducted by King Baldwin Preceptory No. 6 and St. George Preceptory, No. 53.

The communion service opened by the presiding Preceptor, Em. Kt. Bram Humphreys. The chaplain, Em. Kt. Clarence Vaudrin read the Christmas story from St. Luke's Gospel. Mrs. Norman Shaw sang two appropriate Christmas selections, accompanied by Rt. Em. Kt. W. Woodall and Rt. Em. the Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, L.Th., delivered an inspirational Christmas address.

At the conclusion of the service, a reception was held in the auditorium, Rt Em. Knight and Mrs. Amos Hicks of St. George Preceptory, Rt. Em. Knight and Mrs. Bram Humphreys of King Baldwin Preceptory, Belleville, received the guests. Mrs. Clarence Dice and Mrs. Paul Foster poured tea. Rt. Em. Kt. Garn Dobbs, Very Em. Kt. Secretary Hancock, Em. Kt. Sid Sandham and Em. Kt. Bram Humphreys, performed the ancient ceremony of the four Gallons.

Sir Knights and visitors from Port Hope, Kingston and neighboring towns were present.

Injuries Fatal

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Norwood, 70, Brantford, died in hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered in an accident Friday.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Charles Harrington of Brantford which was in collision with another vehicle driven by Jack Ing of York township.

before, and the parade closed behind him. Clouds of mopped spread eagerly out beneath the platform of his float, yelping excitedly, straining from the hands of guardians.

Above their voices and the din of the column ahead came the hearty rear of the grand old man of Christmas himself:

"Merry Christmas."

IN MEMORIAM

HILL. — In loving memory of Margaret Hill, who fell asleep one year December 6th, 1952.

No more to see her smiling face,
Or hear her say, "Hello."
It broke our hearts when she didn't expect.
A hard and bitter blow,
Happy and smiling, always content
Loved and respected wherever she went.

Always thoughtful, willing and kind.
There are the memories she left behind.

—Too dearly beloved to be forgotten. Joyce, Fred, Grace and Ron. D6

AYLESWORTH. — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Marion Aylesworth, who passed away December 6th, 1952.

Time heals the pain, years have passed
Since from its gloom, its shadows cast.
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light.
But that light did not shine in vain,
Her vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For we shall meet again.
—Sadly missed by mother and brothers Harold, Edwin and Garfield. D6

CROSSLEY. — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Crossley, who passed away December 6th, 1951.

The months of December pass to here,
To us the saddest of the year;
The days, the years come and never cease
To part with one we loved so dear.
Whatever we do, wherever we be,
Forever dear Ann, we'll think of you.
Sadly missed and remembered and sadly missed by wife Louise and daughter Linda. D6

CROSSLEY. — In loving memory of our dear son Lawrence Crossley who passed away December 6th, 1951.

Rest dear son, in heaven above,
Where cannot change them it's true.
But in our hearts you cannot move
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Never forgotten by Mom, Dad, and Patsy Fletcher. D6

IN. — In loving memory of our dear son, Francis Reid, who passed away December 6th, 1951.

Looking back with memories,
Looking forward with hope,
We bless the years we had with you,
We miss you more and more.
—Ever remembered by Mom and Dad. D6

UENS. — In loving memory of our dear husband, Frederick Arthur Uens who passed away December 6th, 1945.

There is a home not made by hand
Eternal and free from sin,
Awaits the pure who here await
Their summons soon before.
And in that home we will meet by hand
A Master will prepare
Our place for him and when He calls
Til meet my loved one there.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife. D6

IVENS. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Frederick Arthur Uens who passed away December 6th, 1945.

Someone remembers, someone cares,
Your name is whispered in our prayers.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad and Patsy Fletcher.
Awaits the pure who here await
Their summons soon before.
And in that home we will meet by hand
A Master will prepare
Our place for him and when He calls
Til meet my loved one there.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife. D6

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market churned ahead in all departments with heavy forenoon trade today.

Industrials had a two-to-one gain majority and steels, refining oils and manufacturers were strong. Liquors eased.

Changes were almost all less than $1.

Canadian Atlantic, Canada Southern Power and Trans River Gas eased to counter the higher western oils trend.

Among low-priced mines Algom, Consolidated Denison and Faraday eased. Hockay showed a 3854 high of 30 cents and the general trend among the cheaper mines was higher.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was very slow at the Ontario stock yards today. Sales generally were too few to establish a trend.

Receipts: cattle 3,055 (including 827 westerns, mostly stockers); calves 454 (including 228 heavy western stockers); hogs 300; sheep and lambs (including 313 western lambs).

Choice weighty steers 22.50-23; good steers, all weights 20-22; mediums 17-19.50; common 13-16; good heifers 17-21; mediums 14-16; commons 13-14; boner steers and heifers 6-12; choice fed yearlings 23.50-24; good 21-23; mediums 19-22; mediums 18-21; good cows, 10; canners and cutters 8 down to 5. A light run of bulls met a broad demand with good heavy bologna bulls at 11-13; common and medium bulls to 8.

Replacement cattle: Picked lots of good stock calves up to 19.50; general top of 18-18.50; good stockers 17-18; medium 14-16.

Good and choice veal calves actively firm at 23-24; mediums 18-21; common 12-14; grass calves sold for slaughter at 8-13.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs active at firm prices with good ewes and wethers 20-21; bucks discounted 1 and heavies from 2-4 a hundredweight; medium lambs 17-18, good light ewes 8-10; heavy sheep 5-7; common 3-5.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings light and demand steady.

Quotations prepared by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in fibre cases; A large 34; A medium 28; A small 25-26; B 29; C 24-25. Wholesale to retail: A large 39-41; A medium 33; A small 30-31; B 33; C 29-30.

Socialists Get One-Vote Victory In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The anti-rearmament Socialists won a one-vote majority in West Berlin's Parliament today but promised to govern the Soviet-encircled city in partnership with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic union.

Municipal spokesmen of the two leading parties warmly agreed they must establish a strong pro-democratic coalition here under the shadow of the Russian Army, regardless of their partisan quarrels in West Germany over foreign policy.

The mammoth turnout of 1,554,786 voters for Sunday's election—91.8 per cent of those eligible—gave the Socialists 64 seats, the Christian Democrats 48 and the Free Democrats 19. The lineup for the last four years has been 61 Socialists, 34 Christian Democrats and 32 Free Democrats.

HEADED COALITION

Since the death last year of Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter, Christian Democrat Walter Schreiber had headed a coalition administration from his party and the Free Democrats.

The Berliners repudiated the Communists and their maintained German party. Both extremist parties failed to win a seat in the new Parliament with the Reds receiving only 2.7 per cent of the total vote and the German party 4.8 per cent. To get any seats a party must poll five per cent.

S. A. Premier Intends to Press For Republic

NYLSTROOM, South Africa (AP) Johannes G. Strijdom, new prime minister of South Africa, says he intends to press for creation of a South African republic and separation of the country's whites and non-whites into zones.

He also declared in a major policy speech Saturday night that there will be no repression of English-speaking South Africans under the republic.

Strijdom did not say when his newly-formed government will act to divorce South Africa from the British crown.

27 Employees Hinde and Dauch Company Honored

TRENTON (Special) — The inaugural meeting of the Hinde and Dauch Paper Company's Quarter Century Club was held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto last week when 27 employees from the Trenton division of the company were honored as members of the new organization. Each member of the club received an engraved gold watch from W. H. Paine, president of the company.

The Toronto organization honored 74 employees, the longest single service being 44 years. The Trenton division has a larger membership in the club than Montreal with 13 members.

Chief Executive Pellet's address was relieved by words from vice-president T. E. Lloyd.

The meeting will be an annual affair when new eligible members are admitted to the club.

Trenton employees and their wives travelled to Toronto by charter bus for the official banquet and inauguration. Trenton employees honored were: George Barr, Joseph Butler; George Casemore, Clinton W. Dorn, Charles E. Flood, Clarence Gillan, Albert C. Holmes, William Howard, Sr., Charles Johnston, Howard A. Langdon, George Lidster, Percy Lidster, Ralph V. Miles, Charles Mountenay, Ambrose O'Neill, Joseph J. Reynolds, Frank N. Sarles, Clifford H. Shaw, Ambrose L. Smith, Owen Sutherland, Wilfred Wannamaker, David Webb, Egerton O. Wood, Sidney A. Weeks, Thomas Wilson, Thomas M. Woodward.

RATHER LIGHT VOTE

Brilliant sunshine encouraged workers to get out and vote in the municipal voting for council, Public Utilities and Board of Education representatives here today. Impression gathered by an old campaigner was that successful candidates would be the ones who put the greatest effort into the fight. While the voting was comparatively light this morning, poll clerks look for a busy time from 4.00 p.m. until closing at 7.00 p.m.

Labor Assails Failure to Call H-Bomb Meeting

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor opposition in Parliament will try to topple Prime Minister Churchill's government with a vote of censure tonight for its failure to promote a meeting of American, British and French heads of state on the danger of the hydrogen bomb.

Opposition leader Clement Attlee is leading the opposition attack. He may reopen the issue of Churchill's "Woodford speech" in which he said that in 1945 he ordered German arms to be "stacked" in case they had to be reissued to the Germans if the Russian advance continued.

The censure motion says the government "has not displayed the necessary sense of urgency in the peoples of the world of the H-bomb danger.

Gala Christmas Tea, Bazaar By Chapel Guild a Success

The Christmas tea and bazaar, under the auspices of the Smithfield Presbyterian Chapel Guild, was held in the gaily decorated auditorium of the A.C.M. Breadner Public school.

The doors of the auditorium opened at 2 p.m., of December 1st, to an overwhelming crowd of prospective purchasers. In no time at all, most of the tables were sold out completely.

There were three spot prizes awarded during the evening. The first, to Miss Mildred of 33. Howson Blvd., a crystal set; Mrs. Chalmers of 23 McKeven Drive, a $5 merchandise order; and Mrs. Pearce, 23 King Street.

Christmas music was played throughout the evening. Two Breadner School students, Marilyn Durant and Sharon Sweet, provided the carol records from their very recent collection.

Following is a list of the conveners and their wares:

The decorating committee was headed by Mrs. R. Halkett and Mrs. V. L. Berg's Girl Guides were on hand to help with parcelling and supplying pots of tea for the concession.

It will be decided at a later meeting to which good cause the profits from the bazaar will be used.

H. S. ASSOC. MEETS

The regular monthly meeting of the A/C/M Breadner Public School Home and Parents Association took place on Tuesday, November 30th.

It was reported that the new membership drive is in full swing and hopes are high that that eventually all the parents will be in attendance at the Home and School meetings.

Mrs. Smith, the school nurse, gave a report of her activities since the start of the school year. Some of her inspections include eye-tests, examining throats and the weighing of students. Mrs. Smith advised the parents that, if any of the children had temperature, he or she should be kept home and the nurse called in to examine the child, in case the temperature is caused by a communicable disease. It is a policy of Mrs. Smith to notify all parents of children in the classes involved, in case a contagious disease is reported, and of the symptoms to look for, thus helping to keep out outbreak, which is easier to control from reaching the epidemic stage.

The evening's entertainment was provided by two children's choral groups from the Breadner School students from Grades 2, 3 and 4. Each group sang five selections in English; the second group gave two in French.

PRINCIPAL HEARD

The principal, Mr. G. D. Dwyer, spoke on "Pain Sides of the fence," presenting the teachers' as well as the parents' views concerned on the educating of the children. Mr. Dwyer also explained the new methods of presenting the students' progress on the report cards, saying that it is actually the new evaluation given to the letters, a, b, c, d and e, which are used to show the student's rating, that makes it look as though a child has been slipping in his work.

After the close of the meeting, everyone enjoyed refreshments served from the newly finished kitchen in the school.

Bitter Weather Fouls Up Army's Arctic Exercise

LA PEROUSE BAY, Man. (CP) Only the white foxes rummaging around the garbage dump at the camp on the Hudson bay shore seemed to know what to do about the weather. They ignored it.

But 500 men of the army and air force, plus assorted observers and press representatives, swore at it.

For wild sub-Arctic winds and sinking temperatures tied up exercise Bull Dog II in a big frozen foot.

Since Saturday, a planned paratroop drop by units of the Royal Canadian Regiment of London, Ont., and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery of Camp Shilo, Man., on the tundra, 30 miles southeast of Churchill, have been postponed four times. Forecast winds of 30 miles an hour for today made a fifth delay inevitable.

Brig. George Kitching, chief of staff, western army command, Edmonton, and exercise director, said Sunday exercise officials were prepared to wait until Dec. 10 or 11 for a parachute assault on the weather and radar station located 2,000 yards from here. The station was captured early Friday by the enemy, represented by 80 members of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Quebec City. Since then the Van Doos have spent four frigid nights in snow holes and gravel promontory waiting for action.

Four Are Killed, Six Others Hurt Near Brantford

BRANTFORD (CP) — Four persons, including a father and two of his young children, died Sunday night when two cars rammed headon on a straight stretch of highway near here.

Jacob De Jong, 38, of nearby Scotland, his daughter, Alice, 3, and son Dirk, 10, were killed when their car collided near Maple Grove, 10 miles south of Brantford. Mrs. Stella Kruithuisen of Brantford also died in the crash.

Six others were severely injured including De Jong's other son Wadzia, 9, who was in critical condition with a fractured skull.

One of the vehicles spilled into a ditch throwing bodies through windows and on the tarred road. The other car remained on the road.

TRIED TO FASS

Police said the vehicles crashed when one of them apparently tried to pass the other car. The victims were pried from the wreckage.

The dead and injured were identified several hours after the accident by authorities at Brantford General Hospital where they were taken in three ambulances and a police cruiser.

Police said De Jong was driving one of the cars. He was identified the other driver as Andreg Muzika, 29.

In the De Jong car were Mrs. Sieberjen De Jong, Jacob's wife, and their four children.

In the Muzika vehicle were Mr. and Mrs. Muzika, Germany, who is due in Quebec City on the ship Arosa Kulm today.

Muzika, a laborer, had been corresponding with Pauline, whom he had never met, and finally proposed to her by mail.

He received a letter last Friday telling him of her arrival date. They were to have been married this week.

2 Women Killed, One Man Injured In 2-Car Crash

MOORESVILLE, Ont. (CP)— Two women were killed and one man was severely injured Sunday night in a two-car collision on Highway 2 near this village 30 miles northwest of London.

Mrs. Edna Demersting, 57, and her daughter Barbara, 25, died in the wreckage. Both were from London.

Robert Robertson, also of London, was driving the car carrying the two passengers. He was taken to hospital at London with undetermined injuries. His condition was believed critical.

Police said James Cook, 18, of nearby Lucan was driving the other auto. Cook escaped with minor cuts. His companion, Ray Hunter, 18, of Clandeboye, was not hurt.

The Roberston car was heading south, the Cook car north. Police said the two women were temporarily trapped when the right side of the Roberston auto was rammed by the front of the other car.

Part of Station Wrecked as 11 Cars Derailed

BEETON, Ont. (CP) — A car crashed into a freight train Saturday night, derailed 11 box cars that wrecked part of the station and held up traffic for seven hours.

Austin Robins, 36, of Toronto, driver of the car which became wedged under one of the box cars, escaped with a sprained ankle and bruises.

Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Police said Robins' car went out of control on the snow-covered approach to a level crossing at Beeton, 30 miles north of Toront, and crashed into the third car behind the locomotive.

The car was dragged along until it caught between a railway blinker light standard and the train and then jammed under a wheel of the Canadian Pacific Railway train.

Several of the cars which left the track struck the station, tearing one corner off and causing part of the roof to cave in. No one was in the station.

One thousand feet of track was torn up.

Young P.C's Favor Special Tax Exemption

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A resolution favoring a special tax exemption for married couples during the first five years of marriage was approved at the Young Progressive Conservative Association executive meeting here during the week-end.

The executive passed the resolution unanimously.

It stated: "Whereas the crushing burden of federal income and sales taxes represents a severe handicap to all young married couples, this association strongly urges that the federal government give immediate consideration to an improved tax exemption schedule for married couples during the first five years of marriage."

Masked Bandit Robs Motel

TORONTO (CP) — Police Sunday night arrested a Toronto man and charged him with three holdups of Toronto and area of the new Seaway Motel on Toronto's lakefront.

Blake McGrath, 22, was charged after police found him in the rear seat of a taxicab they stopped on another check.

Police said a masked bandit entered the hotel, forced the clerk Lola on the floor and escaped with $200 from the cash register. A guest, Victor Hodges of Orillia, gave chase as far as an underpass.

IN THE EYE OF THE BEHOLDER

Artist Graham Sutherland's 50th birthday portrait of Sir Winston Churchill is like its subject in one respect at least—it has stirred a storm of controversy.

Conservative Lord Hailsham declared, "if I had my way I'd throw Mr. Sutherland in the Thames. The portrait is a complete disgrace."

Aneurin Bevan, one of Churchill's bitterest parliamentary foes was delighted with it, and R. L. Mallalieu, a Labor member commented, "it's a perfect portrait of a man we see from the opposition benches." Jennie Lee, Aneurin Bevan's wife, said, "I like it very much." Churchill noted, "It makes me look half-witted, which I ain't."

The kindest description of the picture itself states that it showed Churchill as hard and unsmiling and grasping the chair he is sitting in with large, powerful hands.

Churchill's comment, Bevan's delight, and the Conservative MP's displeasure, all lead to the conclusion that the picture is not flattering.

Mr. Sutherland, in rebuttal, said he painted Churchill as he saw him.

Applying Mr. Sutherland's formula to the critics of the picture, we are forced to conclude that they too, viewed the picture as he does Churchill.

A Conservative MP, loyal to his chief, proud of his record, and constantly amazed by his mental vigor, would hardly be expected to reconcile his mental image of Churchill with the artist's conception that shows but a flash of stubborn vitality in a cloak of aging flesh.

Aneurin Bevan and his wife, thwarted often by the masterful political genius of Churchill, could hardly be expected to do else than applaud an artist's confirmation of their year-long chant about Churchill's physical decline.

Churchill, as usual, expressed neither horror nor alarm. His blunt appraisal will undoubtedly serve, not to diminish Mr. Sutherland's profession prestige, but to add another hue to the Churchillian image the world has of this remarkable octogenarian.

Mr. Sutherland, by simply stating that he painted Churchill as he saw him, has done us all a favor by emphasizing that the difference between fact and fancy, very often, is in the eye of the beholder.

NOT THAT BAD

"I think it makes more sense to believe that people eventually get the kind of government they deserve," remarked L. G. Gillett, vice-president of the Bank of Toronto, when he opened the Western Fair at London, Ont.

Here's first reaction is a vigorous protest.

"Oh, come now! People really are not that bad."

It is difficult to believe that the Jews deserved Hitler, and the Ethiopians Mussolini and that the Poles, Latvians, Estonians, Lithuanians, Czechs, Rumanians, Bulgarians and East Germans, not to mention the Russians, deserved Stalin.

Is that quick appraisal of Mr. Gillett's statement, however, we are probably overlooking the key word "eventually".

Eventually the Jews and the rest of the Germans got rid of Hitler, the Ethiopians, the Italians and Albanians were relieved of Mussolini. The change from Stalin to Malenkov can hardly be classified as real relief, but the world will have to wait, eventually, the peoples under the Red yoke will get the type of government which men deserve.

The trouble is, how long is "eventually?"

NEED BUZZING BEES

New farming methods in Ontario are said to be wiping out the wild insects on which farmers largely depend to have their crops pollinated. It means that greater attention must be paid to the encouragement of bee-keeping.

The Ontario Beekeepers Association has noted that a new industry is opening up in the province. It is the renting of bee colonies to farmers and fruit growers.

The facts of life call for an insect to visit the flowers of moist crops for act as fertilization agent. Some of this essential work is carried out by wandering breezes, but mostly it rests on the wings of insects to carry the pollen that will return a fruit or some item of food from the vegetable kingdom.

One of the problems that will face bee-keepers as the bee-renting concession grows into an important industry is the disposal of the honey gathered by the bees.

Perhaps great quantities of honey will revive the art of making mead—the nectar of the gods. Perhaps ways will be found to use honey as a substitute for sugar in most everything.

There is much lying beyond the horizon that has not yet been discovered. Ontario beekeepers may be cast in the role of explorers to discover what lies in the land of honey. (Sudbury Star).

RARITIES

Saw a movie advertisement the other day informing all and sundry that the film in question dealt with the doings of a group of "Canadian Rarities".

Strange, is it not, how difficult it is to discover a kind killer? They are rarer than immodest maidens or ugly sunsets, unimpressive dedication ceremonies and uninspiring sermons.

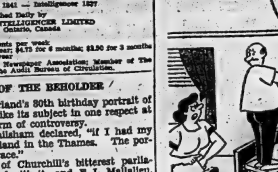
ANNUAL INVESTIGATION



Investigations seem to be
At present all the rage.
Now in investigating me
The powers poke prongs.
Into my private life they go
With questions they prepare.
They even say they have to know
What size of gloves I wear.

My den is the committee room,
Where we they meet to probe.
Do I use abusive pertinence?
Have I a decent robe?
They lean me on the witness chair,
Demanding to be told
The color of the shorts I wear
And are my slippers old?

My privacy no member spares.
I'm checked and double checked.
Although I think my own affairs
Committees should respect.
"They want the facts," I hear them say.
To get them they know how.
We're getting close to Christmas Day
And I'm their problem now.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 6, 1924

Mr. E. Scott is spending a few days with his son, Mr. R. W. Scott, Lindsay.

Mr. William McWilliams has returned to Detroit, Mich. after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McWilliams, Corbyville.

Mrs. J. Dundas has returned to her home in Albion, N.Y. after visiting Mrs. Johns and Mrs. Southworth in this city.

Mr. Harold Barrett has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Harry J. Clarke, B.A., has appointed high school inspector for South Hastings twenty-seven years yesterday and the morning session of the County Council at Napanee. Announcement made to the appointment of Mr. Clarke and a motion moved by Reeve Judson Gunter and seconded by James Spracklett expressing appreciation of the good wishes to Mr. Clarke was passed.

Mr. Clarke thanked the council for the kind words spoken of him. He expressed that he would continue to serve for many years yet in the position which he has filled so satisfactorily. Mr. Gunter is the only council member who was in the council at the time Mr. Clarke was appointed. He said Mr. Clarke made a good choice the day we appointed Mr. Clarke inspector.

30 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 6, 1924

His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor General of Canada, visited this city yesterday afternoon. An automobile train arrived at the lower station at 4.30 o'clock and he was welcomed to the city by Mayor W. C. Mikel, city alderman, county councillors, who are now in session here, and a guard of honor cadets with their bugle band formed the guard of honor. The guard of honor then exchanged the marchers of the party were driven to the Y.M.C.A. where they were received by the superintendent, Dr.-Coughlin. Returning to the city armouries Mayor Mikel read a short address of welcome. His Excellency then presented the medals to the students in the city and county who headed the list of honors at the entrance examinations last summer. Following this a reception was held in the officers' mess and numerous citizens were presented to His Excellency.

At a meeting of the Belleville Curling Club the following officers were elected: Hon. president, Walter N. Benson; president, Dr. Ketcheson; 1st V.P., secretary - treasurer, Malcolm Wright; assistant secretary-treasurer, J. C. Galloway; entertainment committee, Percy Pitney, F. Gilbert, and J. G. Galloway; management committee, J. H. Bryant, Alfred R. Symons and J. W. Davison; ice committee, H. E. Carley and C. A. White; representatives to the Central Ontario Curlers' Association, John A. Kerr and R. J. Wray; representatives to the Central Ontario Curlers' Association, J. W. Davison, and Morley F. Duff; patrons, Judge J. R. Wills, Charles E. Hanna, MP., Mayor W. C. Mikel; patronesses, Mrs. Wills, Mrs. Mikel and Mrs. Hanna.

40 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 6, 1914

Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Frank Dowling and young son, left today for Chicago, Ill.

At the annual meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association in the township of Sidney, Capt. Sargent was elected president and Dr. Malone was elected secretary.

Mr. E. Deshane of this city, is spending a few days in Guelph.

Capt. Allen and Capt. Hudson of the 15th Regiment went to Kingston today.

The Hon. H. Corby left today to spend a few days in New York City.

Ald. A. C. McFee is being urged to offer himself as a candidate for the office of mayor and he is giving the matter his consideration. Should the genial alderman decide to enter the contest for mayor he would certainly receive a large vote and if elected he would fill the office with ability.

50 YEARS AGO,

DECEMBER 6, 1904

Miss Yates and Miss Furnival, Bridge St. East, will leave shortly to spend the winter in California.

Mr. Joseph A. Powell, an old Belleville boy, now a member of the staff of the Sherbrooke Daily Record, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the Eastern Township's Press Association.

Mr. David A. Gibson, of Winnipeg, formerly a member of the staff of Haines and Nesbitt Stone Cutters here, is spending a few days in town, and is stopping at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. F. P. Clarke of St. Ola, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. W. R. Beatie, of Guelph, formerly of this city, has been granted a patent for spring beds for buggies.

The members of the Belleville amateur minstrels went to Campbellford this afternoon and will put on a performance there this evening.

Meaning Of Tolerance

(Ottawa Journal)

Good to have Prime Minister St. Laurent giving an admirable definition of "tolerance", for it is a word used by too many too loosely. Said the Prime Minister:

"In my thinking tolerance is more than mere acceptance of a situation or of circumstances as being beyond our control.

"Surely it is the genuine recognition of and respect for the rights of others different from ourselves, recognition of their dignity, sensitivity and appreciation of the intrinsic value of their own principles and ideals."

And to speak of tolerance as if it summed up all the virtues. Yet surely we must ask ourselves what we have a right to tolerate and whether we can tolerate crime, or cruelty, or tyranny, or slums in our midst, or anything that denies to human beings rights that belong to them?

Truth is always intolerant: intolerant of demonstrable heresy, of falsehood, of contempt for truth. To know what is true so far as it is possible to know it and yet accept or compromise with what is false so far as it is possible to know it, is not tolerance. It is weakness. A betrayal of truth.

Tolerance, in fact, is not something that concerns ideas, but only persons. We may hate an idea; we have no right, if we are critics, to hate a person holding an idea. We may try to persuade, to convince. We have no right to coerce; to persecute.

Tolerance, in short, is respect for person; a Christian effort to sympathize with them even when what we believe to be their error, concede to them their right to be wrong.

But that is a long way from tolerance of evil itself, from tolerance of such things as cruelty and violence and injustice. And a way as sloppy and sentimentality is from true and noble sentiment.

Shakespeare's Discoverer

"If you had lived in the reign of the first Elizabeth instead of the second, and especially if you lived in a small country town like Stratford-on-Avon, one of the exciting things you would have looked forward to each summer would be the coming of the strolling players," said E. Preston Cardin, Head of the Department of English at the College of Technology in Cardiff, in a lively talk. Such a company came to Stratford in 1587, and young Will Shakespeare met them. He was just twenty-three and with three children and a wife older than himself was making a poor living as a country schoolmaster. He had come to Stratford from the small country town into the great world and welcomed Leicester's players eagerly.

"There were five full acting members, with boy apprentices to play the women's parts," said Candlin. The second-in-command was a fellow called Augustine Phillipe, who had all the fire and enthusiasm of the true Celt. The annual repertory company like this "one man in his time plays many parts"—Shakespeare's "seven ages."

"It was Phillipe's special job to see that the actor got the constant change of new plays they needed. He commissioned the playwrights, saw to the licensing of the plays and chose the piece to be performed each day at Court. In fact, he was the one man in the company to whom a new recruit who fancied himself as a bit of a playwright naturally turn for advice and encouragement. It is a reasonable certainty that it was Phillips who persuaded Shakespeare to join the company and to take to writing for the theatre, for little definite is known about Shakespeare's early life but the facts point that way. It was May 1587 who Leicester's players visited Stratford and in the autumn of the following year Shakespeare left Stratford and was in the meantime, was in London attached to the company and watching and learning his trade.

"Exactly seven years later—the normal time for apprenticeship—Shakespeare was admitted as a master player to full membership of the company and by then excellent plays of his own were being written for the company by Shakespeare himself, who was also the company's prompter's assistant—and the prompter's chief was Augustine Phillips. It is, I think, reasonably conclusive, doesn't it?" said Candlin. "So we have here just the man who gave Shakespeare his first start in the theatre; the man that is who first encouraged him to write."

Phillips was on the lookout for a promising young man who could write to order. Time after days competition was keen and a troupe had to "sing for its supper" if it was to survive. Shakespeare was just the man for the job. He was a young man with a flair for writing, a ready wit and a knack of turning out stuff for their leading actor, Edward Alleyn, that "took" with the audiences. He was a hard-working young schoolmaster from Stratford might do the same.

"How triumphantly right the players were," Candlin went on, along with Christopher Marlowe, newly down from Cambridge, who was writing plays of blood-curdling stuff for their leading actor, Edward Alleyn, and Ben Jonson, who had left the bright young schoolmaster from Stratford might do the same.

"How triumphantly right the players were," Candlin went on, along with Christopher Marlowe, newly down from Cambridge, who was writing plays of blood-curdling stuff for their leading actor, Edward Alleyn, and Ben Jonson, who had left the bricklaying trade to become a rising young playwright and actor.

As a full member of the company Shakespeare became a shareholder in the theatre. He was an excellent business man who made considerable profits out of the theatre shares and other investments. Within ten years of leaving Stratford he was the owner of the largest house in the place and set up as a gentleman with a family and coat of arms and when he retired from the stage in 1612 he was a comparatively wealthy man. These players had all gone now but the world had forgotten them, but the plays that Shakespeare wrote, and they first acted, were not forgotten and they are loved by the world and become part of the

By GREGORY CLARK

The stupor of Christmas has already engulfed our cities and many of the big towns. It's a weird business. The whole population of big cities, for the next couple of weeks, appears to be cast under a magic spell. They seem to be acting against the gathering hypnosis. They are pushing, in the most desperate force, to go down town. Regardless of how they have sworn to stay home, regardless of how if they have done their shopping early, it makes no difference; the strange compulsion gets them; and before they know it they are down-town, on the streets, in the big stores, sleep-walking.

You can recognize their drift, tightly packed with all their fellows, through the aisles of the stores, by the dull expression in their eyes. They do not walk. They drift. They move as if they had no purpose. Now and again they seem to halt and stare at an instant, and glance about them, even pausing to look at good on counters. Often they will struggle, as though attempting to recover consciousness, and then go right on, slowly following their way out of the crowd stream, only to be caught up once in the jostling going of new way. Instantly, they relapse into coma again, and with the dazed, far-away look on their faces drift once more with the throng.

There is something terribly unreal about the whole ritual of Christmas shopping. Maybe it is the fact that everyone is doing it, that immense gathering of the lemmings of the arctic tundra, rushing to the sea by the millions. It could be we have some biological instinct which tells us that mass-action is necessary which causes us to behave at this season like sheep. It makes no difference to us that we are crazy. We know what we are doing. We have a job on us for having commercialized Christmas.

However, my storekeeper friends assure me that despite the stupor, a certain number of the sleep-walkers do buy goods. Dazed though they are, they must buy sooner or later carried by the slow stream of humanity into the presence of something they vaguely remember they are seeking. And the cash register rings.

Even Fancier

(Guelph Mercury)

Nothing makes a man forget a passing fancy like something the fancier.

Russia Plans Gigantic Lake

(Edmonton Journal)

One feature which all Russians claim, old and new, seem to have in common is a taste for grandiose public works. The later czars built such luxuries as the Riviera road, the longest rail line in the world. Stalin, besides the great industrial developments he pushed through, had a canal constructing canals. Now the Malenkov government is reported toying with a project that will put all its predecessors in the shade. It carried through, indeed, it would be the greatest alteration of the earth's surface ever attempted by man.

The geographical background is provided by the fact that a great part of Soviet Central Asia is an arid waste, incapable of being made to produce more food for the Soviets through dry farming and local irrigation have had little success, outside a few favored cases. Not far to the north, however, begins the totally different landscape of Central Siberia, with its vast, mosquito-infested swamp—through which two huge rivers, the Ob-Irtish and the Yenisei, add their way to the Arctic Ocean.

The plan calls for the diversion of the Ob and the Yenisei, so that instead of reaching the Arctic they will flow into the Aral Sea, the world's largest inland water in the Central Asian steppe. This will cause the Aral Sea to expand its banks, and eventually, according to the calculations of Russian engineers, will produce an inland 260,000 square miles will be known as the Caspian-Aral-Siberian Lake Superior covers 31,820 square miles, and the Caspian Sea, the largest inland body of water, 169,300.

Once the giant lake is formed, and once it has been cleansed of salt water, the planners purpose to use it to irrigate the surrounding territories. With this unlimited water supply, they hope to make Central Asia one of the most productive regions of the globe, thus relieving Soviet Russia of its food problem.

Whether the Soviet government can complete this gigantic project is, from this distance impossible to say. The undertaking would be even more tremendous than it might appear at first glance, because the area to be flooded lies higher than the rivers to be diverted. Soviet engineers in Russia have some first-rate engineers, a highly developed technology and indeed an almost unlimited supply of slave labor, but even these resources may not be enough to cope difficult. It is certainly questionable whether it will be undertaken without a drastic diversion of labor and materials from the Soviet Union's armament program.

If the foundation of Central Asia should actually be completed, its effects would be felt far beyond the boundaries of the U.S.S.R. The World Meteorological Organization in Geneva is already studying the possible climatic changes it might bring. Probably, the whole coasts of Europe and even the Arctic

By DR. WM. BRADY

CONDUCTED BY BIOLOGY

Last May the Raymond High School Biology Class cornered me and I have been seeking some way of escape with my dignity. If any, intact.

The difficulty is that the biology class, at the letter, is genuine (it is signed) Sincerely, The Raymond High School Biology Class", but, of course any joker might have written it), cites three authorities that contradict my teaching that growing plants are not, objectionable and may be healthful in bedroom, sickroom or livingroom, day or night.

Dr. Brady

The reason why growing plants are not objectionable in the room, if the patient or occupant likes them is that they absorb from the air carbon dioxide, which they use or metabolize, and give off oxygen; animals and persons absorb from the air oxygen, which they use or metabolize, and give off carbon dioxide.

The reason why growing plants are healthful indoors in the winter time is that their leaves and the porous pots in which they are planted, evaporate considerable moisture, and the artificially heated indoor atmosphere is almost always excessively dried out. The amount of oxygen an carbon dioxide in the atmosphere of the room is insignificant as far as health is concerned, whether there are growing plants or not, but the biology class letter continues:

"Our references contradict your statement. We believe it would be detrimental to have flowers in the bedroom or sickroom at night. These authorities state that flowers use carbon dioxide and give off oxygen during the day but during the night they use oxygen and give off carbon dioxide. We would like to know what is right. The references are as follows:

"The General Biology, Smallwood-Reveley-Bayley, pages 490 and 491.

Biology in Daily Life, Curtis and Urban, pages 156 and 157."

The first two textbooks sound dreary as solid triglyphers, but the last one, Biology in Daily Life, appeals to me quickly — and I'm going to leave it at that, because I'm afraid if I should procure a copy it will prove another disappointment, and I have been stuck for so much trash that I now shun book stores and book dealers.

The high school class (are the members persons or just hypochondriacal chrysalises?) continues, speaks of flowers. If that means cut flowers, all I can say is, even of impeccable bedside manner I should say that flowers in the room are as lifeless as school textbooks and so when Salreyzamp pops up in the form of flowers I'll have to impress the yokels.

Any argument?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RIDE THAT BITTERNESS

Few of us ever escape harboring bitterness at times. But the sooner we get rid of it the better. I have known many people who will not dispense with their bitterness to what end? Nothing good can be gained by holding to it and exhibiting it.

That bitterness of yours may not be against a person. It may be toward any number of circumstances. But, no matter what its origin, hide it—and forget where you hid it! Nothing breeds more inefficiency at work, or one's happy growth of soul, as does bitterness. It's like poison in the blood stream. Perhaps it is exactly that, for bitterness eats into the healthy structure of both the mind and body.

If you think you have been injured in mind or heart, and therefore think you must retaliate or write a letter or sending a telegram venting your feelings, put it on paper—but don't send it. The thing by emptying your mind of bitterness you will have accomplished much. Let it all rest there. No matter how many times you have to do it, we can't afford to part with even one.

Mental words are like termites. They keep eating away at the mind. But by this potent a little encouragement can be! We are being constantly tested and tried. We have to be big to distribute mind words or to harbor bitterness. You see, there is nothing constructive about negative things.

Hide that bitterness, if you have it, and let no one know about it. You will be surprised how soon you will forget where you put it.

People don't need, nor do they want, any more sorrow or trouble than they now have. Certainly they do not want the bitterness of someone else. So, thank God for life and do what you can to radiate cheer and good will and keep bitterness out of your mind and heart.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THINK OF THE CHILDREN

Psychologists are constantly telling us that juvenile delinquency is stemming from broken homes. Children with a sense of insecurity are very liable to go berserk. With mounting interest and emphasis on liquor, a situation of this sort becomes highly dangerous.

What is this security the psychologist and the social worker talk about? It is a firm union of purpose of which a child becomes increasingly conscious as he grows into his teens, and sticking to each other through thick and thin, continuing to love each other, not allowing anything to separate them to the slightest degree. A child looks up, as it were, to this union existing between his parents; and down deep in his nature something whispers to him that he need not be afraid. He knows that no matter how much the world is, he can always come back to home where two people not only love him but what is equally important, love each other.

There is no more mysterious potency to that union which takes place when a man and a woman decide to each other and refuse to allow anything to separate them. This is the basis of all else in a happy home is built, and parents should be alert never to allow anything to undermine this firm foundation.

This is the security upon which happy childhood also is built.

MADOC

Federation Of Agriculture Elects Officers

MADOC — The Madoc township Federation of Agriculture held its first banquet in Eldorado United Church on Thursday evening which was filled to capacity.

Mr. Phil Harris, president, welcomed all those present. Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.A.: Warden Fred Mitchell; Reeve Earle Seger, Mr. Earle Whiteman, county president; Mr. Harold Varty, past president; Mr. A. G. Dalrymple, and Allan Ketcheson spoke briefly.

Mr. George White, MP, gave a short account of his trip to Europe and compared the eating habits of Canadians to the Europeans and Asians.

NEW CENTRES FOR BLIND

It was the Federation of Agriculture which conducted the canvass for the Canadian Institute for the Blind two years ago and Mr. Kelvin Kincaid gave an interesting account for the two centre established in Kingston.

The high school quartet, composed of Clifford Derry, James Howse, Bill Wagar and Bill Walker, with Miss Shirley Howse, pianist, rendered some enjoyable selections. They were also worth favored the audience with two solos, "The Vagabond" and "On the Road to Mandalay."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Ralph Banbury, B.S.A. who has just received an award for 25 years of service to the Department of Agriculture. He thought Eldorado was associated with gold fields and uranium deposits. He compared living conditions of Canadian ancestors and their problems to present day conditions; how markets have changed; how world conditions affected Canada and how efficiently it has met the challenge. Canada has always been a food surplus country and the wealth of the nation has moved from a few extremely wealthy to the average common people.

COMPLIMENTS MADOC T.F.A.

Mr. Dalrymple complimented Madoc Township Federation of Agriculture on its success in the past, as it was the first township in the county to make the Brucellosis Control Act compulsory in the township. They were also responsible for sponsoring the night school being held in Madoc at present, which is being attended by over 200 people.

Mr. Dalrymple presented a door prize of six pounds of butter, which was won by Mrs. Christie Bailey. An aluminum shovel, donated by Madoc Cooperative, was won by Mrs. M. Reynolds.

Mr. Arnold Empey moved a vote of thanks to the speakers and to the ladies of Eldorado and Rednecksburn Women's Institutes for the bounteous turkey banquet. Mrs. Ken Bateman, president, responded.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting and election of officers for next year was held. Officers elected for 1955: president, Philo Harris; vice-president, Allen Ketcheson; secretary-treasurer, Wilfred Fennell; directors, Clayton Blackburn, Arthur Parks, Max Burnside, Bruce Robson, Edward Robinson, Harley Moorecroft, Jas. Keene, Jack Bailey, Fred Cassidy, Allen Thompson, Earle Seger, Allen Jones, Roy Moorcroft and Francis Tobin.

Veteran Trapper Given Bounty On Seven Wolves

Veteran county wolf trapper, Albert Saulsy, formerly from North Hastings has shown other wolf hunters that he still has the wolf trapping technique.

Saturday morning Saulsy brought seven wolves in to the office of county clerk treasurer to collect his 25 bounty on each animal. Saulsy trapped the wolves in Marmora and Clarke township. Five of the animals were brush wolves and two timber wolves.

Snappy Weather Prevails as Voters Turn Out to Elect Municipal Officials

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters turned out in snappy weather today to elect municipal officials in cities, towns and hamlets throughout Ontario.

Temperatures ranged from below zero in northern areas to the low 20s in Windsor, the province's most southerly city.

Snow fell in several areas. Elections were held in 21 of Ontario's 29 cities and in dozens of towns, villages and townships. In 15 cities, mayors will be elected and in the six others, where the chief magistracies were returned by acclamation, council and other offices will be filled.

Four candidates are entered in the mayoralty race in Toronto for the first time since the beginning of the Second World War.

Other major mayoralty elections are in Ottawa and Windsor. Hamilton voted Wednesday and London, which elects officials for two-year terms, will go to the polls this year.

Mayor Leslie Saunders, 55, a real estate broker, is seeking election in Toronto. He was appointed to the post six months ago when Allan Lamport resigned.

He is opposed by insurance underwriter Nathan Phillips, 51, both unsuccessful in previous mayoralty contests, and by Controller Hartley MacLeod, a Communist.

The last flurry of the campaign in Toronto centred around the rental of a 9000-a-month suite at the Royal York Hotel which opponents of Mr. Saunders charge was maintained as a headquarters for city brass.

Mr. Saunders, standing on his record during his brief term in office, denied knowledge of the suite. Mr. Brown said it was established fact the suite was used by officials as a regular rendezvous and criticized the mayor for refusing to open city books for examination of entertainment accounts. Mr. Brown said Mr. Phillips have said they would investigate rental of the suite if elected.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton, seeking her third term as the Dominion capital's chief magistrate, is opposed by E. A. Bourque, a former mayor, and David Burgess.

Mayor Arthur Reaume, who at 48 is seeking his eighth consecutive two-year term in Windsor, is opposed by alderman Michael Patrick and former high school principal Robert Fuller.

In Toronto, 79 candidates are seeking the 25 seats on city council and the board of education.

Another woman mayor seeking re-election is Mrs. Bernadette Smith, who, if successful, would be the first mayor to serve four consecutive terms in Woodstock. She is opposed by dairy salesman Robert M. Barney.

Ottawa's only city besides Toronto where four candidates seek the mayor's post. Mayor J.W. Perley is retiring leaving the field open to F. M. Dolce, a contractor, Garnet Morris, a dairy firm merchant with Mrs. Ellis Jones at the piano; contain "A Turkey Tale," by Mrs. Stanley Bell; Christmas gift exchange; a talk on "Flowers Arrangements" by Mrs. Archie Morial, George Palliser, Campbellford.

Mrs. Fred Barnum extended thanks to Mr. Palliser on behalf of the Institute, for Mrs. Stewart's and instructive talk.

A motion was carried to have the Fires Act Act at the three schools in the district replenished. These schools are: Petherick's, 9th line of Rawdon, and Union School at Rylstone.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Seven Perish In Two Ontario Highway Crashes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 22 persons died violently in eastern Canada during the weekend, including seven who perished in two crashes on Ontario highways.

Ten died in car accidents, five at railway crossings and seven others in fire, drowning, asphyxiation, suffocation, explosion, hunting and railway mishaps.

A Canadian Press survey shows 15 deaths in Ontario, six in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. No deaths were reported in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland or Prince Edward Island.

Jacob De Jong, 38, of Scotland, Ont., two of his children, Alice, 3, and Dirk, 10, and Mrs. Stella Krutyhalova of Brantford, were killed in a two-car head-on collision Sunday evening on a straight stretch of highway 10 miles south of Brantford.

DIE IN STORM

Two women and a man were killed Saturday in a snowstorm when their car skidded into the path of a freight train at a level crossing near Harriston, about 70 miles south of Owen Sound.

The victims, all of them deaf, were Mr. and Mrs. Wasyl Chabay of the Toronto suburb of Alderwood, and Dorothy McArthur, 20, of Toronto.

Four women were killed in two separate car accidents.

Near Kingston Ive Empey, 36, of Belleville, and Giselle Harrison, 31, of Bellrock, were killed when their car crashed into the rear of a parked truck Saturday night.

Mrs. Edna Demerling, 57, and her daughter, Barbara, 23, of London, died in the wreckage of their car collision near Mooresville. about 20 miles northwest of London.

HUNTING ACCIDENT

In West Norwich, 27 miles south west of St. Thomas, nine-year-old Terrance Russell was killed by a shotgun blast through the heart in a hunting accident.

Mrs. Joseph Skertt, 79, died when a fire trapped her in the basement of her home in Lindsay.

In Windsor, a two-month-old baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Maisonneuve, died from suffocation in his carriage. Anthony Tambureno, about 27, was killed in Toronto when a steel casting which he was working with an acetylene torch exploded.

Near Thurso, Que., Donat Turpin, 42, and Emmanuel Cadieux, 32, were killed when their car crashed into freight train during a snowstorm.

RYLSTONE

W.I. Hears Talk on Floral Arrangement

RYLSTONE — The Christmas meeting of Rylstone Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Charlie Stewart on Wednesday afternoon with a large attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, in the usual manner.

A committee for arrangements for the Farmers' Market and bazaar to be held in Campbellford Masonic Temple in aid of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital on December 11th was chosen cluding Mrs. Ernest Irwin, Mrs. Charlie Stewart, Mrs. Ella Jones, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, Mrs. Arthur Brick, Mrs. Jack Watson and Mrs. Carl Reid. Tickets are being prepared for a draw on a 10-lb. cheese. Articles for sale at the market and bazaar are to be taken to the Masonic Temple in Campbellford or given to one of the committee in plenty of time for them to deliver the articles to their destination. Any member who has not already handed in jams, jellies, canned goods for the hospital may do so at this time.

Mrs. Will Morton was convener for the meeting and the program which was as follows:

Reading, "Hold Those Tears, or Don't Shed Them Here" by Mrs. Carl Reid; vocal solo, "White Christmas" by Mrs. Ella Jones-Stewart with Mrs. Ella Jones at the piano; contain "A Turkey Tale," by Mrs. Stanley Bell; Christmas gift exchange; a talk on "Flower-Arrangements" by Mrs. Archie Morial, George Palliser, Campbellford.

Mrs. Fred Barnum extended thanks to Mr. Palliser on behalf of the Institute, for Mrs. Stewart's and instructive talk.

A motion was carried to have the Fires Act Act at the three schools in the district replenished. These schools are: Petherick's, 9th line of Rawdon, and Union School at Rylstone.

RAF Pilot Falls 20,000 Feet In Collapsed Chute

SOUTHEND, Eng. (Reuters)—A Royal Air Force pilot was lifted, battered but alive, from the Thames river estuary Sunday after falling 20,000 feet with a collapsed parachute into four feet of water.

The airman, P/O. Brian Cross, was picked up by a United States Air Force amphibian plane and taken to hospital. He was suffering from shock, exposure, a suspected fracture of the right leg and lacerations. But he was living after a terrifying plunge of almost four miles with his ripped parachute and shroud lines tangled and collapsing over him.

Wing Cdr. Air Force spokesman said Cross would have been killed if he had landed on ground instead of water.

Cross baled out of his spinning Meteor jet fighter after it had plunged 10,000 feet out of control from a height of 30,000 feet.

As he struggled free from the machine, his parachute was ripped. It collapsed around him three times as he fell.

Pope Pius Passes Third Restful Night in Row

By WEBB McKINLEY

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican source reported today that the Pope has passed his third restful night in a row since he began rallying from the illness that has threatened his life.

The source said the 78-year-old pontiff still appeared to be gaining strength in his battle to surmount the recurrence of gastritis and hiccups from which he suffered a severe collapse last Thursday.

An evidence of his improvement the leader of the world's Roman Catholics swallowed a little broth Sunday—the first food he had taken by mouth in a week—and later broadcast a few words to the people of Rome through a microphone held to his lips as he lay in bed.

A Vatican press spokesman said Monday (4 a.m. EST) that the Pope's gradual improvement continued.

BY LOUDSPEAKER

The Pope's voice was carried directly by loudspeaker to a throng of 30,000 in St. Peter's Basilica nearby—and was broadcast by the Vatican radio. West European networks picked up the broadcast and a recording was made for American use.

At one point, the voice of the stricken head of the Roman Catholic ication faded slightly. But mostly he spoke firmly and in cadence, pausing for the Latin benediction with this brief message:

"I thank the Lord for all my beloved Rome, whom we feel so close to us in prayer as we are close to the Divine Master in our suffering and in our fulfillment of His every least and benign will, we impart, with our heart turned to the Lord and the interceding Virgin, this paternal apostolic benediction."

CROWD CHEERS

When he finished, a great cheer rang through the basilica. The crowd had gathered there for a veneration ceremony held for the Italian Benedictine monk, Placido Riccardi, who died in 1915 and who was beatified earlier Sunday. It was the first such ceremony that the Pope had been unable to attend in the nearly 16 years of his pontificate.

Prayers for the Pope's recovery were said in churches around the world Sunday—those of other faiths as well as the Roman Catholic. Members of the embassies and legations of more than 40 countries accredited to the Vatican attended a special mass to pray for the

Golden Wedding Anniversary Featured by Many Fine Gifts

WHITES' DISTRICT. —It was just fifty years ago on November 30, 1904, when Esther Lisella Mc-Rae, and Alfred Bedell Smith were united in marriage at Consecon, Ont. The late Rev J. S. McMullen, of Wellington, officiated at the ceremony and the late Miss Bessie Demorest was bridesmaid. Mr. H. Stickle, of Cherrydale, was his cousin's groomsman.

At the Stickle home on the Front of Sidney, where the couple have resided since their marriage a spirit of happiness prevailed on Monday afternoon and evening when relatives and friends from far and near assembled to congratulate the groom and to extend best wishes to the bride of fifty years.

FLORAL TRIBUTE

Yellow and white were bright and cheery with large bronze "mums, white "mums and a large basket of golden "mums presented with the compliments of the congregation of the late Rev. Dr. Alva Puttenham and Mrs. Puttenham of Grace United Church, where the couple have been faithful attendants.

Other gifts included a large tri-lite floor lamp with pretty scenic shade, presented by relatives and friends of Johnstown, where Mr. Stickle spent his boyhood days, a beautiful silver mustard teapot and cream and sugar set; cake plates; glass and china and saucers; flower bracket; glass trays and relish dishes; bronze ivy; a plant and boxes of chocolates, fruit dish and towel set. Many anniversary cards were also received.

LOVELY TABLE

The dining table looking lovely with a snowy cloth, centred with the wedding cake on which was inscribed "Golden Wedding, 1904-1954," topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and surrounded with rosebuds and gold leaves. White tulle decorated the table, which was centred by white and gold leaves formed a border for the cake. It was flanked on two ends by gold candelabra with golden tapers and it each end was a silver basket of fruit.

Those who poured tea in the afternoon were, Mrs. Puttenham, Mrs. Leonard Young, Mrs. Gordon Frost, and Mrs. J. Carr. Mrs. Gordon Grace United church catered for the dainty refreshments of fancy sandwiches, cakes, tarts, jellies, olives, celery, wedding cake, mints and tea.

Those who served were Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. English, Mrs. Walter Bowen, Jr., assisted by Mrs. Ralph Stickle, Mrs. Jack McLeod, Mrs. John Ackerman, and Mrs. Garfield Stickle.

Within the hostess for this occasion invited the guests to the dinner.

DINNER SERVED

At 5.30 dinner was served to about 40 guests, those included immediate relatives and intimate friends.

Those who poured tea in the evening from 7-10 o'clock were, Mrs. Fred Stickle, Mrs. Ralph Young, Mrs. C. A. Puttenham, Mrs. Verna M. Waldron, Mrs. R. H. Hill and Mrs. Florence Bowler. Serving were Miss Margaret Bowers, Mrs. Gordon Puttenham and Mrs. Ted Boes, assisted by Mrs. Frank Park, Mrs. Garfield Stickle, Mrs. Norman Bird, Jr., R. Clarke.

Telegrams were received from the secretary to the Governor General of Canada; Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Farmer, of Lake Wales, Florida, and their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Moody of Kingston.

Miss Kay Stickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stickle, received the guests, assisted by Mrs. F. E. Meyers, Mrs. W. K. Stickle and Mrs. Clayton Stickle. Mrs. F. E. Meyers tended the guest book and a nephew, Mr. Edward Meyers was at the door.

The evening came to a close after pictures were taken of the bride and bridegroom of fifty years.

FIVE HUKS KILLED

MANILA (AP)—Five Communistled Huk dissidents were killed Sunday in a fight with a Philippine army patrol near Lucban, a town about 50 miles southeast of Manila, the army reported.

WOMAN TROUBLE

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Police opened fire and a village mob attacking them and killed seven men and a woman, reports reaching here said Sunday night. The reports said the incident occurred at the village of Hathol, 400 miles from here. The trouble was reported to have started over a woman but details were not available.

Women's Activities

VICTORIA AVE. BAPTIST W.M.S.

The Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist church met for its November meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. Neal, Cedar street. There were about 30 members present.

The president, Miss E. Nurse, presided. After the call to worship and a hymn, the meditation was given by Mrs. W. Shephard, who based her thoughts on "God's love and care for all His people," in spite or the wonder and vastness of His great work. He still cares for a tiny sparrow or one lost sheep. One should be conscious of his or her own individual importance, not with arrogance or pride, for his or her own merit, but because he or she is a child of God and Jesus lives with Christ.

Mrs. C. Campbell read the "Watch Tower," containing items from various aspects of the ministry of missions.

The topic "Missionary Rambles" was presented by Mrs. L. J. Bird and Mrs. Nurse, very interesting and recent developments from stations on each continent being given. Mission fields, Bolivia, Angola and India.

OPEN DOOR SOCIETIES

In Bolivia the native women are organized into societies which are proving a prayer fellowship to encourage Bible reading in the homes, and to help teach the women how they may be to give the more practical help needed in their homes, making simple toys, providing costumes for S.S. concerts, buying communion cups and linen.

In Angola, where Canadian Baptists took over the responsibility of two stations on January 1, 1954, they are receiving a most encouraging welcome. At one outlying village visited by missionaries from the stations concerned for, prayer at 8 a.m., and there were 650 at the evening service.

In India the key to the future of the Christian church is no longer in the hands of foreign missionaries but rests mainly with the Indian Christians themselves. The old western denominational divisions are disappearing.

Over 50 years the Indian church has been growing at the rate of 30 per cent per decade, and now nins out of ten of these new converts are said to have come to Christ by the Indian Christians.

After a brief business period the meeting was closed and refreshments served by the hostess and the social committee.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United church was held at the home of Mrs. Damon Hinchey on Thursday afternoon. The meeting was opened by singing a verse of Christmas hymn and a Christmas reading by the president, Mrs. R. W. Scott, who also welcomed the visitors and members.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Fred Melborne for the card sent from the society on the bereavement in the loss of their son-in-law, the late C. F. Hoover of Kingston. A card of thanks was read from Mr. and Mrs. Saul McFarlane for words of sympathy sent to them at the time of the death of their sister, the late Mrs. John Kent. Mrs. Robert McFarlane expressed their thanks for flowers.

Mrs. Sam Elliott read a letter from the Presbyterial secretary of Associated Members and Mrs. Everett Stratton, a letter from Mrs. Will Rollins, Cooper, regarding the World's Day of Prayer, which is to be observed this year on February 25. Mrs. Stratton also read a letter from the Christian Stewardship, Presbyterial secretary, Mrs. R. D. Coulter.

The treasurer, Mrs. R. Scott, reported $192.83 raised so far this year.

Mrs. Sam Elliott, group leader, took charge of a lovely candle-lighting service assisted by Mrs. Claude Clarke, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, and Mrs. Robert McFarlane. Mrs. Clarke represented India, Mrs. Vivian, Canada. Silk scarves were draped becomingly over their shoulders with the words "India and 'Canada' respectively, in large letters.

Mrs. Elliott read a poem "Candles." Mrs. Clarke read a poem, lighting her candle, which she lighted and placed on the table in front of a poster, having the following with a picture of the baby Jesus, Mary and Joseph, the Shepherds, and the three wise men riding on their camels.

Mrs. Vivian lighted her candle as she read her poem, Mrs. Robertson McFarlane lighted the candles of the group read a prayer.

The candles which continued to glow through the remainder of the meeting created a devotional atmosphere. The Christmas hymns were sung and the program in the W.M.S. concluded, was followed.

Mrs. Elliott read Christmas poem and thanked her group for their help.

The president thanked Mrs. Elliott and her group for the fine program they presented, also the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. Hinchey assisted by the group in charge, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

An executive meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Everett Stratton at afternoon of December 29.

The next regular meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Doxtator on January 6th, 1955.

MELROSE W.M.S.

The December meeting of the Melrose Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Elliott Demorest with an attendance of 13 members and two visitors.

The president, Mrs. George Morgan, extended a welcome to all and read a Christmas poem.

Business period was conducted. The treasurer, Miss McLaren, reported that the annual bazaar, public social, held recently, amounted to almost $90 and that the affair was a success. It was decided to donate $240 and had been reached.

Community friendship calls for the month were five.

The literature secretary, Mrs. J. Milligan, asked for the report of the "Reading Course for the Year." Various items had been chosen for reading they had done and it was most gratifying.

Mrs. Morgan read a letter from the Stewardship secretary and said that the missionary for 1954-1955 would be Miss Helen Houston, of Indore, India.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Miss Beatrice MacFarlane.

Mrs. John Milligan, group leader, conducted the "Candle Lighting Ceremony and Worship" service as outlined in the Missionary Monthly. Miss Houston, Mrs. Morgan represented India and Mrs. Roy Badgley represented Canada in the candle service.

Mrs. Russell MacFarlane read the Scripture passages and Miss Ida Bailey gave the prayers throughout the worship service.

Mrs. Charles Bates, Jr., presided at the piano for the singing of several carols.

Mrs. E. Capsell collected the offering while Mrs. Bates played softly and presented it to the 64 was sung.

Mrs. Demille gave a reading "The Gold and Ivory Tablecloth"; Mrs. C. Osborn, a reading, Joel Unworthy Shepherd Looks Upon God's Face." Mrs. Bates favored with a piano solo; Mrs. Milligan gave a reading message "Christmas a Time of Precious Memories."

After Mrs. Morgan closed the meeting, a social time was spent while the hostess served refreshments.

Rev. F. A. Marrocco Talks to Regis Club

The Rev. F. A. Marrocco, Ottawa, was guest speaker at a meeting of St. Michael's Regis club, recently. He outlined the purposes of Regis clubs and advised members many helpful suggestions for building and strengthening local units.

Final discussions followed Fr. Marrocco's address with panel activities reporting to the meeting at large.

Dick Fitzpatrick, president, thanked the speaker on behalf of the club.

A social evening followed.

VETERAN ON RADIO

Kate Aitken, one of Canada's best known and most widely travelled radio personalities, celebrated her 20th anniversary on the air on December 4, in a typical year Mrs. Aitken of Toronto, delivers 800 broadcasts, makes 100 personal appearances and travels 73,000 miles. (CP Photo).

Kate Aitken Has Been On Air 20 Years

TORONTO (CP)—Kate Aitken, one of Canada's best-known radio personalities, celebrated her 20th anniversary on the air Dec. 4.

Starting as a country school teacher at 16, she is known to thousands of listeners as "Kate Mrs. A" and in a typical year delivers 800 broadcasts, makes 100 personal appearances and travels 75,000 miles.

Station CFRB, Toronto, where Mrs. Aitken started her radio career in 1934, honored her with a special drama broadcast, "Kate of the Kate Aitken Story."

Her other jobs include weekly radio broadcasts on "Public Opinion" and on the television show "On Guard." Weekends she operates the "Kate Aitken Spa" treasty rest farm for women outside Toronto.

WORLD TRAVELLER

She has an instinct for being in world trouble spots when it starts. Early in 1948 she narrowly escaped Communist capture in the Communists and in April 1952 she was in Korea interviewing Brig. John Rockingham at the front. In 1953 she flew to Nairobi, Africa, during Princess Margaret's visit and later she took a quick tour of Pakistan and India.

A vigorous, attractive woman, Mrs. Aitken started her career by running a dude ranch and operating commercial home-canning project.

Born at Beeton, Ont., one of seven children of Robert Scott, her first job was teaching school in Saskatchewan. At 25 she returned to marry Henry M. Aitken. They settled in Beeton where he ran the family mill and she raised two daughters and started her chicken ranch. She first hit the headlines when she winged one of a pack of chicken thieves with her rifle. Chickens, pure and simple, were the family mainstay. For a while they also canned vegetables and fruit, but the big money came from poultry.

The family company took her to Georgia the next year to begin another home canning for dining car use.

INTEREST IN AGRICULTURE

In 1923 she became national secretary of the Women's Institutes of Canada. The appointment sent her out lecturing on the place of women in agriculture.

She and a long career as women's director of the Canadian National Exhibition, widely lauded to agricultural conferences abroad, and scat her activities in connection with the British ministry of food. During the Second World War she was in charge of rationing and the prices board in Ottawa and for some years women's editor of Monthly Standard.

In 1927 she took a Canadian handicraft display overseas. While in London she attended an international dress conference and so charmed the Italian representative that she was flown to Italy for a week's discussion with Mussolini.

Mrs. Aitken has written five books on cooking from cooking to etiquette and contributed articles to leading magazines.

Bridge St. WMS Hears Message On Christmas

Bridge Street W.M.S. Auxiliary met recently in goodly numbers in the Mr. Ackerman office for the December meeting. The president, Mrs. C. Hyde, extended a hearty welcome to all and read a beautiful, old Indian carol from the Anglican hymn book, known as "Father Brebeuf's Carol," followed by a song song "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Mrs. Adsett read thank-you letter in Alex Lewyt, manufacturer of vacuum cleaners and other items. Says sister Madge, who bears the title of research consultant:

"In recent surveys I have found that women who work at a full-time job away from home all day tackle their housework the same say they do their office work. They organize it efficiently and don't get bogged down in it.

OLD-FASHIONED METHODS

"Women who stay at home all day are likely to dawdle along at housework, using old - fashioned methods they learned from their mothers. There's probably something psychological about it. There seems a feeling that what you're doing as important job in just keeping house, and so they're not in it as hard as possible.

"These are the women who do most of the complaining when their husbands come home at night, and these are the ones who act hurt if their husbands don't help with the dishes or other chores."

Working women, on the other hand, says Miss Lewyt, seem to take pride in being able to do two jobs and do both well. She says:

"Most women who work outside the home get the house cleaned up in the evening after dinner, and give the house a thorough cleaning once a week, usually on Saturdays.

WASTE LITTLE TIME

"They learn to empty ashtrays and straighten up the living room before they go to bed at night, spending only a few minutes at it, and leaving it neat. They put away their clothes when they take them off, and keep up with all the little things that keep a house neat, instead of letting them pile up."

Miss Lewyt has found that some women take all day to clean house simply because they have all day to spend. Actually it should be possible to give a thorough cleaning to a four-room apartment in not more than two hours, she says.

A woman who spend all day in an office seem to find a relaxation in doing the conventional chores of cooking and housecleaning after work. But the less desirable results of all the modern shortcuts they can find, and can clean a house in half the time used to take their mothers. Says Miss Lewyt.

"After the years I've spent inquiring into such things, I've become convinced that it's better for both wives and husbands if the wife has a job outside the home, provided there are no small children."

Working Wives Keep House Better Than Stay-at-Homes

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Working wives are better housekeepers than stay-at-home sisters, and have less help from their husbands, says Madge Lewyt, who should most of her time inquiring into women's housekeeping habits.

A few years ago Miss Lewyt volunteered to help her brother compile some facts about how modern women clean house, and she has been at it ever since. Brother is Alex Lewyt, manufacturer of vacuum cleaners and other items. Says sister Madge, who bears the title of research consultant:

"In recent surveys I have found that women who work at a full-time job away from home all day tackle their housework the same say they do their office work. They organize it efficiently and don't get bogged down in it.

Christmas Cakes, Plum Puddings Other Goodies, Ready-Prepared

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Housewives this Christmas won't fuss over a hot stove any more than they can help.

A trend away from hard work is appearing across the country as more housewives buy ready-prepared plum puddings, Christmas cakes and other goodies.

A Canadian Press country-wide survey indicates that prices for such things as nuts, candies and oranges, peel and currants for puddings and cakes are either lower than or holding at last year's level.

PRICES VARY

Plum pudding prices vary widely from coast to coast. Here are some puddings at 90 cents to $1.25 a pound and Ontario prices range from 59 cents to $1.50 a pound, depending on richness of ingredients. Christmas plum puddings are selling for 69 cents a pound in the can—five cents higher than last year.

There is good news about turkeys, too. Early for the season, but New Brunswick expects a 10-to 15-cent reduction a pound, a drop from last year's turkeys; now 62 to 65 cents a pound, may settle as low as 55 cents.

In Alberta geese are popular at Christmas. At present they are priced at 45 cents a pound.

What's new in Christmas fare? Importers report a rush on Dutch candy, a popular item in Canada, added a festive touch to the enjoyable recital hour.

LATEST FROM ITALY

Italian candy is another new specialty to hit the market this year.

Specialty food shops report a brisk trade in "epicure baskets." Contents of four-room apartment expensive British biscuits and jams, canned fruit, anchovy paste, East Coast delicacies—oysters, Russian caviar and the like. Basket is favorite gift at $5 to $10 cents a pound in the Maritimes and are a little cheaper in Ontario and Quebec.

FERGUSON DONATION

TORONTO (CP)—The widow of C. Howard Ferguson, one-time Conservative premier of Ontario, has donated $300,000 for construction of a Ferguson dining room in the new Sir Daniel Wilson men's residence at the University College of the University of Toronto. The donation was announced Saturday at the formal opening of the $2,000,000 building.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD THEY INVITE THE WIDOW?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Every year, on New Year's Day, my husband and I give a large Eggnog Party, with the idea that it is a reunion of our families and friends. Our dearest friends, and always our most welcome guests at these yearly parties were a married couple we have known practically all our lives. Last August the husband died very suddenly. Now we are perplexed with the problem as to what to do about inviting her this year. My husband thinks I might hurt her feelings if I don't invite her; but I think that if I do invite her she might think me entirely lacking in sympathy for her and in understanding of her sorrow in these days that are so difficult for her. I really don't know which point of view is right. Would you perhaps advise us by telephone her, explain about the party and leave up to her the decision about coming?

— A perplexed friend

I don't advise that you telephone to your friend about it, for it might be extremely difficult for her to make the decision so quickly, or even to talk about the party that would be so full of dear memories for her. Even if you see her frequently, and telephone her frequently, it would, I think, be more thoughtful if you write her a note, telling her about your plans for giving the party as usual on New Year's Day, that you and your husband would be delighted to have her come if she feels that she would like to come (and for as long as she'd like time as she would wish). Then lovingly assure her that if she feels that she wouldn't be able to come, you both will completely understand, and that she will be deeply missed by everyone. Also you might leave the invitation door open, telling her that if later she feels she could come, please, please, to do so, even if she decides at the last minute.

WHAT SHALL GROOM AND BEST MAN WEAR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon, and we are perplexed about the problem of what the men in the wedding party should wear. The marriage is to take place at 10 A.M., Pontiac Mass. After the ceremony there will be a dinner for the members of the families. My maid of honor and I are to wear ballerina-length gowns. Should the groom and best man wear tuxedos, or perhaps dark-blue suits? — D.M.

The men in the wedding party should definitely not wear tuxedos at the morning wedding. A tuxedo jacket is a dinner jacket, appropriate for evening wear, not correctly worn before 6 o'clock in the evening at the very earliest. It looks weirdly inappropriate worn at a wedding in the daytime.

For a strictly formal daytime wedding, the men in the wedding party should wear formal daytime attire . . . cutaway coats and striped trousers. For a semi-formal daytime wedding, the men may correctly wear an Oxford jacket instead of the cutaway. (today this attire with all the correct accessories, is generally rented by the men.) But for the more or less informal wedding I believe you have planned . . . you to wear a ballerina-length dress, and you don't mention bridesmaids or ushers, and you don't mention a reception . . . I advise that the men wear dark-blue business suits: with these, white shirts with stiff collars; four-in-hand ties, blue background with conservative design; a white carnation as boutonniere.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR HER TO CHANGE HER ATTITUDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is to be married soon, and I am to be one of her bridesmaids. A close friend of the bride-to-be is giving a shower for my friend, and has invited all the bridal attendants, as well as quite a few other friends of the guest of honor. I loathe this hostess, haven't spoken to her for over two years, and wonder if I should accept this invitation under the circumstances, just because I am to be one of the attendants. Should I? — Reader

Should you go to the shower? I should say not . . . that is not if you permit in your present dislike-attitude, for you would certainly cast a shadow over the shower that would ruin the party. However, since apparently the hostess is being wonderfully gracious by inviting you, why not be a good girl, change your attitude, ask her to "forget and forgive," accept her invitation, go to the party, and make every effort to be a gracious and appreciative guest. It's important that you, as a human being, and certainly as a member of the bridal party, should cooperate with grace with such kind plans for the happiness of the bride-to-be. How about it?

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER GIRL FRIEND'S THROUGH WITH HIM—CAN SHE STEP IN?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently, my girl friend's ex-boy friend was home on a 10 day leave, and we were together constantly. I am 17 and he is 19.

The problem is that my girl friend told me that, if I ever went out with this boy, she and I would no longer be friends, and she doesn't know that he and I spent his entire leave together. She doesn't know, either, that I also went out with him during the summer.

This boy and I want very much to spend his Christmas leave together, but we don't want to have to make excuses, or duck away from people, lest this girl find it out. He is not afraid to have her know, but he said that for my sake we should do things that none of our friends would find out about, so it couldn't get to my girl friend. She claims she doesn't like him any more anyhow, so I can't see any reason why she should get mad.

I would like to know what to do, and how to go about letting this girl know that I have been going out with this boy, because he and I think a lot of each other and would like to let everyone know that we are going out together. — J.M.

Dear J.M.:

The best way to let people know something is to tell them, or to make it clear by your actions. If you want to go out with this boy, and believe, as you say, that since your girl friend doesn't go with him any more she has no right to get mad if you do, then you ought to have the courage of your convictions and not be afraid to do as you please about this.

There is an old saying that you "can't carry water on both shoulders," and that is exactly what you are trying to do when you want to go out with this boy but want to make sure you stay friends with your girl friend at the same time. If you really have to make a choice, then I should think you would do whichever of the two things you most want to do—and go out with him or keep your girl friend. If your girl friend is so childish as to break up her friendship with you because you go out with her "ex" boy friend, then she's not enough of a friend to matter.

Marketing and Cooking for Two

By Mary Moore

Are there just two people in your house? Or are you two girls who both have jobs? Or a husband with career-girl wife? Or brother-sister team doing your utmost to keep home together? This is beamed at you.

The marketing for food is not only time-consuming, it is a headache caused by constantly soaring prices. To be efficient we should shop once per week. Working gals haven't time to shop every day. However this makes a capacious refrigerator a "must" and a freezer compartment in it a godsend. Your refrigerator is your workhouse, your Gibraltar on which to lean in all emergencies.

A sample meat order for two people for one week having an adequate income to have the meat they need and like follows: One and one-third lbs. ground beef to be made into 4 large meat patties and used for 2 meals; 1-2 lb. chicken livers or calves' liver (see below); 1 package frozen shrimp or scallops (see below); 1 4 or 5-lb. roasting chicken (weight depends on whether Sunday guests are invited); 2-3 or 1 lb. thinly sliced veal; 1 lb. bacon.

SEVEN-DAY PLAN FOR MEATS

Freeze everything but the chicken. Roast it for Sunday. Have Hot Chicken Roll for Monday (see below). One patty each, broiled, for Tuesday; Shrimp Creole (see below) or Crumbed and Fried Scallops would be a treat for Wednesday's dinner; Chicken Liver Omelette or Calves' Liver and Bacon for Thursday; Meat Cake again for Friday (or adjust so that the shrimps or scallops come on Friday if it is a meatless day for you); Wiener Schnitzel for Saturday.

Does it suit your tastes? Remember the frozen meats should be taken from the freezing compartment at noon if you are home. If not the meat will defrost in storage part of refrigerator if left there all day.

VEGETABLES

Good keepers are squash, marrow, turnip, beets. Use during the first part of the week the more perishable ones such as broccoli, Brussels sprouts, beans, spinach, cabbage, corn, peas. Almost all should be carefully stored in cellophane or plastic bags in the vegetable crisper.

PRESSURE COOKING FOR SPEED AND EFFICIENCY

I want to insert here that if you are seriously hampered for time at the dinner hour, the new smaller size pressure cooker would be a lifelong friend, and save you hours of waiting over the years that you own and use it. Cooking time of vegetables is cut down by two-thirds by cooking vegetables at 15 lbs. pressure to say nothing of the conservation of vitamins and minerals.

HOT CHICKEN ROLL

Split and butter 2 or 4 large hamburg rolls. Heat 1 can condensed mushroom soup with 1-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 cup well-packed, diced cooked chicken. (Canned chicken or tuna may be substituted.) Toast the buttered buns under the broiler. Pour chicken mixture over half or each roll, top with other half, pour more chicken over.

SHRIMP CREOLE

Simmer together gently for 20 minutes 2 tablespoons butter, 1 chopped onion, 1 package thawed frozen shrimp, 1 1-2 cups peeled fresh or canned tomatoes; 1 chopped green pepper, 1-2 finely chopped garlic clove, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika. Thicken with paste made of 1 tablespoon each cornstarch and flour, and cook until bottom is set. Finish off top in oven. Slip onto hot platter, cover half with sauteed livers, and fold other half over. Please see recipe for Wiener Schnitzel in tomorrow's column.

PICTON. — The Orange Hall was the scene of an enjoyable get-together Tuesday night, the occasion being the annual banquet attended by members of Moulter L.O.L., L.O.B.A., Crystal Chapter, Royal Black Preceptory. The long tables, laden with a bountious repast served by the L.O.B.A. under the direction of Mrs. Bert Young, were centred with flowers donated by Alfred Keep, Leonid MacDonald, W.M. of L.O.L. 488, ably presided as chairman. Guest speaker was Rev. F. J. Whiteley, who gave an inspiring talk on the meaning of Protestantism.

Remarks were heard from County Master Charles Howard, Past County Masters Edward Rollston, Alfred Keep and Barton Reid Sr. L.O.B.A. Worthy Mistress Mrs. Lewis; Worthy Preceptress of Crystal Chapter, Mrs. Bert Young; Worshipful Preceptor of R.B.P. Rose Jeffrey. A sing song was enjoyed.

Draw for a TV set was made by B. Reid, Sr., the winner being Frank Vanhedgen, Picton.

Messages of regret at inability to attend were read from T. W. Kenney, James Bowers and W. Thompson.

IVANHOE

Beulah United Church Holds 'Bible Sunday'

IVANHOE — A "Bible Sunday" service was held in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, on Sunday evening conducted by Rev. T. Hogerward, who choose for his text, "But Jesus answered: It is written: man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God."

"More than 150 years ago in extremely difficult circumstances a group of Christian men came together in London to establish the British and Foreign Bible Society, so that God's word would be made available to every Christian.

Every living Christian should be a member of the Bible Society and gladly contribute to that most important part of Christian enterprise.

"In the coming weeks you will receive visits in connection with the work of the Bible societies and we would like to recommend this work strongly to every one of you; let the people read the Word of God; let them come in contact with Jesus Christ, who is the Word of God Incarnate, let your money partake in this glorious missionary work.

"Moreover, possessing Bibles, and handing out Bibles to others, how splendid it may be, is in itself not enough.

SOUL MUST BE FED

"When you are hungry and you have bought bread it is not sufficient to have the bread upon your table; you have also to eat it. So it is with the Word of God.

"It is with our spiritual life as it is with our bodily existences; we have to feed ourselves if we want to live; if we do not there is one thing left, starvation and finally death.

Another fire will break out...
That's what is happening right now and 'round the clock somewhere in Canada.
In the average year, the insurance business handles more than $75 million in fire losses—quite aside from other claims.
It is the size of the loss figure which regulates the rates for every different type of fire, automobile and casualty insurance in various parts of Canada. If losses increase out of proportion to earnings, then insurance rates go up. On the other hand, if losses fall off, rates decrease.
In effect, Canadians collectively determine their insurance costs through their care or carelessness.

PICTON

Sextelle Chosen Top Teen-Agers In Talent Search

PICTON — A Picton vocal sextet, composed of Dianne Stonebridge, Peggy Pickersgill, Carol Welsh, Sandra Reynolds, Elinore Storms and Merle Barkder, was chosen as tops in teen-age talent in Prince Edward County at the final Talent Search program held in Prince Edward Collegiate auditorium Sunday afternoon. Second was Miss Joan Wood of Ameliasburg.

They were selected by a panel of judges, including Miss Doris Dunlop, of Cobourg; John Deacon, of Belleville, and Dr. A. E. Fyffe, Napanee.

Winner of two awards given most popular contestants is still to be decided.

Votes were determined by those paying admissions and donations as reported over the telephone as the program was broadcast over CJBQ, Belleville.

The sextet will be given a trip to Rochester for a TV audition.

County Warden Donald Walker, and Mayor H. J. McFarland extended greetings and commended Rotary on their work. Dr. L. Mackie, club president, said the program was two-fold, to raise funds to aid crippled children and to uncover teen-age talent. Jack Devine, of CJBQ, was master of ceremonies.

Contestants gave their first numbers in competition for the awards by the judges, and a second number in the popularity section.

Guest artists, Miss Dunlop, and Mr. Deacon were heard in much appreciated vocal solos, and Joe Cowan of Picton, in piano accordion selections.

Chairman of the Talent Search committee, Al Stonebridge, expressed thanks to the contestants.

Those heard on the program, selected at preliminaries throughout Prince Edward County, were Mary Marvin and Margaret Head, Wellington; piano duet; Frank Chapman, Milford, vocal solo; Carol and Lorraine Hackett, Demorestville, song; Beverley Monroe, Hillier, humorous monologue; Joan Badgley and Patsy Kennedy, Hillier, duet; Carl Gilbert, Demorestville, accordion; Carolyn McMullen, Bloomfield, piano solo; Nancy Gorsline, Demorestville, vocal solo; Patricia Ward and Barbara Dick, Wellington, tap dance; Robert Jeffrey, Milford, piano solo; Gene and Laverne McConnell, song and guitar; Georgina Adams, Consecon, piano solo; Collegiate quartet, Catherine Ferguson, Keitha Trumpour, Carole Marvin, Orlene Mollard; Margaret Rainbird, Picton Heights, vocal solo; Gene McConnell, Cherry Valley, song; Nancy Dulmage, Cherry Valley, piano solo; Dorothy Alexander, Hillier, song, with guitar and mouth organ; Carley Cleave, Bloomfield, piano solo; Joan Wood, teacher at Adams' School, Ameliasburg, song; Joe McMullen, Bloomfield, cornet solo; Elizabeth Williams, Picton, ballet number, with commentary by Gayle Vigoda.

The hoist is almost human

Imagine a hole down into the solid rock like a well a third of a mile deep. Over it stands the headframe, a building 150 feet high. From the hoist with its 6,000 h.p. drive, cables reach up from the drums over pulleys in the top of the headframe. Attached to the cables, two huge steel bonom-dump buckets whizz up and down the shaft, one up, the other down.

Down in the mine, 15 tons of ore are tumbled into the empty bucket. At the top of the headframe, the full bucket is automatically tripped and its 15-ton load falls into a giant bin. In 8 seconds everything is ready to go. A finger touches a button and in about one minute the automatic hoist raises the load the third of a mile to the surface, and the empty bucket comes into position to receive the next load.

This is Canada's highest powered mine hoist. It is an example of the kind of equipment that has to be provided in order to raise over 13 million tons of ore to the surface each year.

Benny Woit Scores In Own Nets To Hand Leafs 1-0 Win Over Detroit

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

CHANGING PICTURE!

The Kingston Goodyears were cocks of the senior "B" walk for a few brief hours over the week-end, then fell back to second place as Cornwall Colts, smarting from defeat, roared back to shellac the Whitby "Wrens" 10-3 to again top the loop by one point.

The Memos came through with a neat win on Friday when the Clinton Comets Friday night with their power plays paying off. The Memos and Comets are still tied for third spot with 16 points as Whitby defeated the New Yorkers by a 4-3 score in Clinton. The Petes dug up some dormant power to whip Brockville for their second victory of the season, to narrow the gap to four points.

The Memos do not see action until Friday night when they entertain Whitby, but other clubs see plenty of do-or-die puck-chasing. The picture will undergo a big change before the paste is dry on the pay-envelopes come the week-end.

GOOD SHOW!

You could call it "Operation Appreciation" and not be too far off the mark. And we think Chick (Stratford Beacon Herald) Appel, a few elbow-rubber (not bender, operator) at the press table at the 51st annual convention of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will agree.

For over 275 hockey stalwarts from all parts of the province, who have the technical interest of the moppets at heart, came up with a beautiful job at the annual confab held in the King Edward Hotel over the week-end

They stood and rocked the spacious ball-room with thunderous applause when it was announced the OMHA would nominate 84-year-old Fred Waghorne, Sr., Toronto's Grand Old Man of Hockey, to the Hockey Hall of Fame. Mr. Waghorne, with Mrs. Waghorne celebrating his 49th wedding anniversary, was visibly moved as he rose to voice his appreciation. He recalled playing years ago "when there were no lines" and his 85 years' experience as a referee.

The delegates honored their immediate past-president "Mike" Weichel, who handed over the reins of office to Fred Norman, of Simcoe, with a gift of a beautiful wristwatch. "Mike" is has been and always will be, one of the greatest boosters the Ontario Minor Hockey Association was born 21 years ago. He is one of the most popular presidents the OMHA has known, and by far one of his most aggressive and hard-working members. This, in spite of the fact Mike lost a leg in World War One."

The delegates honored "Nip" Whetstone with the now famous OMHA "Award of the Year," a beautiful trophy depicting a hockey cushion, and which is awarded annually to the man who has done the most for minor hockey in his district. The award was a popular one and Mr. Whetstone received a fine ovation.

Nor did the delegates forget other yeoman service. They presented the association's perennial hard-working secretary, Jack Christie, with a handsome photograph of trophies and pictures of executive members.

And from this department's point of view, and those of delegates from this district, the delegates recognized and rewarded another outstanding achievement in minor hockey circles by re-electing Doug Patterson of Stirling, to the executive, a position he has held for the past two years. Doug was unable to be present due to business and other reasons but placed his name before the convention. He was given a handsome welcome. In fact the entire 1953-54 executive was returned to office, with newcomers Bev. Schramm, Port Dover, and Gordon Bishop, Norwich, being defeated.

But the convention was not confined to the dispensation of accolades and tangible tributes. These hockey men had minds of their own and did not pull the argumentative punches on suggested amendments to rules, etc.

They endorsed two amendments to rules without a murmur. These were changing the time of placing suggested changes in the hands of the secretary three weeks in advance of the annual convention instead of two, and visiting team captains must declare choice of ends prior to the first face-off.

However, they turned down a suggested change from "no team shall have more than 18 players signed, including a spare goalie." The arguments flew thick and fast when the change from overtime being played only in the second game of a goals-to-count two-game series. Amendment followed amendment and many a heated argument went only to have everything defeated and the association adhering to the original rule.

They defeated a move to enable midgets to play juvenile, and bantams to play midget, in their own town, in the event of injuries, after lengthy discussion.

Following the business and election periods, delegates sat down to a banquet where the presentations were made. Jim Vipond, Glebe and Mall sports editor, was the guest speaker. Tony Gregg, OHA president and officials of the Toronto Hockey League were among the guests as were past presidents of the OMHA. There was some fine entertainment, and during the afternoon the delegates went into a "mill around" in another part of the hotel. It was one of the best and most enthusiastic conventions held in the history of the association, and was indicative of the interest taken in and work done for minor hockey by these outstanding hockey men from all parts of Ontario.

Weird Goal Breaks Stalemate In Sturdy Battle of Goalies; Habs' Lead Cut to 4 Points

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Benny Woit scored the goal he least wanted and Maurice Richard failed to score either one of the goals he wanted most.

Woit pulled one of the biggest boners since he bit the National Hockey League four years ago when he scored in his own nets Saturday night to hand Toronto Maple Leafs a weird 1-0 victory over Detroit Red Wings.

Richard, the rambunctious Rocket with Montreal Canadiens who has crashed the league headlines for 12 seasons and promises to do it again the 1954-55 campaign, missed Sunday night in his bid to become the first NHL player to score 400 goals. He didn't get a point—but managed two penalties —as Canadiens tied Rangers 3-3 in New York.

HECTIC WEEKEND

Those were the highlights of a hectic five-game weekend. The details:

The third - place Red Wings bounced back Sunday night to whip the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks 4-1 in Detroit and Leafs beat Bruins 4-2 in Boston. The only other Saturday engagement, Bruins defeated the Rangers 4-3, in Boston.

When it was all over, Canadiens were still in first place with a four-point lead on the Wings and Leafs held a three-point margin over Detroit. The Bruins and Rangers were tied for fourth place. The Hawks have won only three games in 18 starts and take up the rear with 11 points.

Woit, 22-year-old defenceman from Port William, broke up the game before 13,115 fans Toronto with his shot at 3:28 of the third period as he casually attempted to wave a pass in front of the Detroit nets.

SAWCHUK ASSISTED

Goaltender Terry Sawchuk, who had waged a brilliant duel with Toronto netminder Al Rollins, came out of his cage to clear a long wide shot by rightwinger Ron Stewart. Sawchuk shoved the puck to big Benny.

Woit half turned and shot it into the cage. There was speculation that he intended to backhand it behind the nets and didn't realize he was in front of them. Stewart, who would have been credited for the puck, was given credit for the assist.

That was it. The Red Wings came back strong but couldn't get the equalizer. Lumley was great. He stopped 24 Detroit shots. Sawchuk handled 26 drives.

ROOKIE LEADS

Rookie Doug Mohns scored two goals to lead Bruins at Boston. Doug, who hadn't scored in his eight previous games, got the clincher at 14:17 in the final period by lifting a backhander past New York goalie Lorne Worsley, making his first appearance in the nets since he was knocked out for five games with a chipped ankle bone.

Fleming Mackell, Ed Sandford, Ron McMenemy and Lorne Ferguson scored the other Bruin goals. Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Paul Ronty scored for the New York markers.

Bathgate's powerdrive a two-goal count to tie the Montrealers. Pete Conacher got the equalizer at 15:30 of the second period. Bathgate and Larry Popein scored the other New York goals. Maurice Geoffrion, Bert Olmstead and Kenny Mosdell tallied for Canadiens before 12,687 fans at Madison Square Garden.

UNBEATEN STRING

Stewart and rightwinger Eric Nesterenko scored in the third period to give Leafs their win over Bruins while 9,277 fans looked on at Boston. It cut Leafs' undefeated string to five games.

The third - period comeback spoiled a great rally by Bruins who had tied the game 2-2 after trailing by two goals. Rookie leftwinger Parker MacDonald and George Armstrong accounted for the other Toronto goals. Sandford and former Leaf Cal Gardner scored for Boston.

Tony Leswick and Alex Delvecchio fired last-minute goals for the Red Wings Sunday night. Glen Skov and Fleury leftwinger Ted Lindsay scored the other Red Wings goals. Rookie

Major Leagues Open Confab, Redlegs, 'Bums' Provide Talk

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The major leagues opened their annual baseball meetings today and the big talk among the baseball men was the proposed trade between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

Some said the teams already have completed a five-year deal, but this was denied. The two clubs definitely have a trade in the making, and the key players seem to be Brooklyn's Junior Gilliam, Negro second baseman who may have lost favor with the front office. Both the Reds and Philadelphia are interested in him.

The Phillies have offered catcher Smokey Burgess and a young outfielder, as yet unidentified. The Reds have suggested a package deal involving outfielder Wally Post, catcher Bobbie Landrith and Fred Baczewski, a lefthanded pitcher, for Gilliam and either reform Russ Meyer or youngster Bobo Milliken, both righthanded pitchers.

ALTERNATE DEAL

The Reds have an alternate deal brewing with the St. Louis Cardinals if they can't land Gilliam. They are seeking a second baseman with the idea of shifting Johnny Temple to third. Relief pitcher Frank Smith is the Cincinnati bait.

Brooklyn also is expected to do some business with the American League. The Dodgers finally have obtained waivers on Billy Cox and are dickering with Cleveland and Baltimore for the sale of the veteran third baseman. Cox will go to the highest bidder. The asking price is $40,000, plus one or two players of minor league calibre.

The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox are were expected to have had conversation regarding the Yankees' Gill McDougald. The Red Sox admittedly covet the right-handed-hitting third baseman, who would be a natural at Fenway Park with the friendly left field fence.

WILL REJECT

In the "official business" department, the leagues were almost certain to reject an amendment, adopted by the Texas legislature, to ban commercial telecasts and broadcasts of baseball games outside a club's home territory.

There was a 50-50 chance, however, that they would go along with the minors in reducing their player limit from 25 to 23, thereby allowing two more players to be sent on option to the minors.

Tight Race For Lead In American League

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only one point separates the first three teams in the tight battle for first place in the American Hockey League today.

Pittsburgh and Springfield are tied for the top spot with 26 points while Hershey has 25.

Springfield moved into a tie with the idle hornets Sunday night by trouncing the lowly Buffalo Bisons 5-2. In the only other game, Hershey turned back the Providence Reds 6-4.

Ross Lowe, a former Bison, was the big gun for the Indians as he scored one goal and assisted on two others.

Hershey rallied for three goals in the third period, two of them unassisted by Norm Corcoran and Gordie Wilson, for a hard-earned victory. Pete Kapusta scored two Providence goals.

Notre Dame Whips SM 26-14

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame completed Terry Brennan's first season as coach by whipping Southern Methodist 26-14 Saturday as the regular college football season closed with a handful of games.

Ralph Guglielmi and Joe Heap, closing brilliant careers at Notre Dame, paced the fighting Irish to a decision victory before a crowd of 75,504 in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., and uncorked numbers of television viewers. Guglielmi hit Heap with a touchdown throw a three-yard sneak and his alert quarterback intercepted a Mustang pass. Dame line kept the Irish attack rolling.

Heap scored the first touchdown on a four-yard run, then thrilled the crowd with an 8-yard, backhanding run down the sidelines in the third period.

The Notre Dame victory gave Brennan a 8-1 mark in his first season, with only a loss to Purdue.

In other games, South Carolina overcame an early deficit to defeat the Citadel 19-6, and Houston clinched second place in the Missouri Valley Conference by beating Detroit 19-7.

Sport in Brief

LEAPS BELL HURLER

TORONTO (CP)—Vic Lombardi, a little lefthander who had three better-than average seasons with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, was sold to Seattle in the Pacific Coast League Sunday night for $10,000.

Toronto club owner Jack Kent Cooke announced the deal. Lombardi asked for the shift so he could be near his job in Visalia, Calif. Lombardi, a former Brooklyn Dodger star, won 30 games and lost 23 with Leafs during the last three seasons.

IN CHARMED CIRCLE

MIAMI (AP)—Jockey Willie Hartack, second only to Willie Shoemaker in the 1954 national standings, moved into the exclusive 200-winners-a-year circle when he booked the long shot, So Fabulous, to victory in the second race at Tropical Park Saturday. So Fabulous paid $20.80.

KEYS HAS PHLEBITIS

EDMONTON (CP)—Eagle Keys Edmonton Flyers' three quarters of the Nov. 27 Grey Cup football game in Toronto with a leg, laid up with a relapsed phlebitis in the injured limb, Keys re-entered hospital Saturday for further treatment.

A LONG WAIT

WINDSOR (CP) — Assumption College Purple Raiders celebrated their home debut by scoring a dazzling 84-61 victory over Lewis since 1946 over Detroit from Detroit in an exhibition game Saturday night.

The triumph gave Assumption their first victory for the 1954-55 season. The 1954-55 season. The Purple Raiders had lost 17 straight games in the highly-rated Black Devils previously.

BLUES WIN

TORONTO (CP)—Splitsiding on last-minute fouls, University of Toronto Blues defeated Detroit Institute of Technology 46-45 in a closely fought intercollegiate basketball exhibition game Saturday night. It was the first game of the season for the Varsity squad.

Wings' Virdon American League Batting Champ

MONTREAL (CP)—Bill Virdon, 23-year-old Rochester outfielder, was the 1954 International Baseball League batting champion with a mark of .333, the official averages released today, showed.

Virdon, who threw Shelby Plaias, Mo., collected 165 hits in 504 plate appearances to win the title after a close battle with Elston, Howard, Toronto catcher. Howard finished with .331.

Virdon said he owes his success to an optometrist friend who persuaded him to wear glasses after Virdon hit .233 for Kansas City in 1953. The new champ, who bats lefthanded, is on the St. Louis Cardinals' roster.

Howard, voted the loop's most valuable player, led in three-base hits with 16. He is the first Toronto player to win unshared triples honors since Jon Rabbit hit 18 in 1929. Now on the New York Yankees' roster, Howard is expected to be the first Negro to make that club. He bats righthanded.

Bill Stevens, lone hitting Toronto first-baseman, won runs-batted-in honors with 113, the same figure he won with in 1953.

Rocky Nelson, Montreal first-baseman, was the home-run crown with 31 circuit belts. Sam Jethroe, Toronto outfielder, returned to the loop after a five-year absence and picked up again three bonors he had won in Montreal in 1949. The fleet-footed Negro scored most runs, 113; most base-hits, 181, and most total bases, 286.

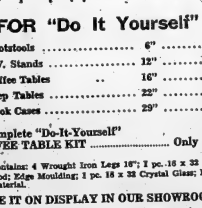
Quebec Aces Bow To Shawinigan

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

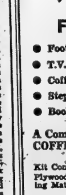
Shawinigan Falls Cataracts featured their first place lead to three points after all six teams saw action in the Quebec Hockey League Sunday.

The Cataracts defeated Quebec Aces 4-0, Quebec's defeat, combined with Montreal Royals' 3-2 overtime win over Valleyfield Braves, pushed the Royals into second place, in another overtime game, Three Rivers Reds moved into a fourth-place tie with Chicoutimi Sagueneens, Valleyfield then 2-1.

The Cataracts, who have four games in hand over Montreal and two in hand over the Aces, have games on Christmas and New Year's Day.



The Royals have 25, Quebec 22, Chicoutimi and the Seconds 18, Valleyfield Braves have 16 points.



Has Brother Act

CLEVELAND (AP)—The American Hockey League has a new brother act today—Cleveland Barons sending rightwinger Carlos Dunn to Buffalo Bisons where his younger brother, centre George (Dusty) Blair, plays.

Joe Lund, 27, defencemen and left winger who played for Cleveland in 1950-51, came to the Barons from Buffalo in the straight swap deal.

LOWER RATES on Niagara Loans

You might think that rates on loans are exactly the same from company to company. This is an idea that could cost you money, for Niagara Finance has a rate structure that is lower in many cases, and here's the reason why. It's a matter of policy with Niagara to believe that it is no more trouble to make a loan of say, $750 than it is $100.00 . . . and, if the rate of charge were exactly the same on both loans we'd obviously make more money on a $750.00 loan. So we work on the idea that on loans for larger amounts the rate should be less "downhill", while at the same time rates on smaller amounts are steady and. Besides that, we think you'll like our plan of "Level" loans on $100 life-insured at no extra cost to you. That's the way we've operated and a family man can appreciate. Come in and see us if you need money; we'd like to meet you.

Nominate Waghorne for Hall of Fame OMHA Re-Elects Doug Patterson

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association Saturday nominated Fred Waghorne, Sr., a life member of the association, for a place in Hockey's Hall of Fame in Kingston.

In announcing the nomination at the association's 21st annual meeting, president Mike Weichel of Chamira said:

"There is no other hockey official in Canada who has done more for hockey than Mr. Waghorne, who is now 81 years young."

The association also named Nip Whitcombe of Cederich as winner of its annual honor award for this year.

Mr. Whetrome, ill and unable to attend the convention, was chosen for his leadership in running the successful Fevecke hockey tournament last Easter week at Goderich.

Delegates approved setting a deadline—three weeks before the end of each annual meeting — for submitting amendments to the constitution and nominations for executive office. To the rule that visiting teams shall have choice of end to start any game, the delegates assembled this addition: "The captain or alternate captain must declare choice of ends prior to lining up for the face-off or forfeit choice of ends."

Defeated was a proposal to allow the signing of 25 players for league games and the efforts of Thorold to make overtime essential in the first game of a home-and-home total-goal series.

The association, largest minor hockey group in the world, last season had a record 18,454 players registered, secretary Jack Christie said in his report. This included 12,825 in affiliated league play and 5,629 in OMHA competition.

Doug Patterson, Stirling, was among executive members re-elected to office.

Teepees Break St. Mikes' Win Streak With Three-Goal Third-Period Rally

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somebody finally stopped Toronto St. Michael's Majors, who were breezing around the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

Majors were dumped 4-3 Saturday night by Hamilton Tiger Cubs, arines TeePees for their first lost in 10 games and only the third setback in 15 engagements this season.

A three-goal spurge in the third period sank the Majors and gave the second-place Teeps their 18th victory in 27 starts of the 1954-55 campaign.

OTHER CONTESTS

In two other games Saturday, Guelph Biltmores defeated Barrie Flyers 4-2 and Toronto Marlboros and Galt Black Hawks fought to a 4-4 draw. In Sunday double-header at Toronto, Marlboros whipped Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen 5-1 and the Majors beat Galt 3-1.

At St. Catharines Hank Ciesla started for the winners, scoring two goals. Ciesla's teammate Barry Cullen tallied one each. Ken Gribbons scored twice and Dick Duff once for St. Michael's.

The third - place Biltmores jumped into a 3-0 lead in the first period and coasted the rest of the way for their win. Nicholas Lapointe tallied twice for the winners. Bill McCreary and Bill Geezer added the others. Arnold Smith and Doug Vaughan accounted the Barrie goals.

BEAT GOALIE

Gerry James broke through to beat Galt netminder Bob Senior twice to lead the fourth-spot Marlboros to the tie before 1,100 Black Hawk fans. Dick Hardis and Gord Onotsky snipped one goal each. Jim Marshall, Gus Rosaen, George Ferguson and Don Cherry handled the Galt scoring.

The St. Michael's victory Sunday would have been a runaway but for Senior's great goaltending. He stopped 31. Toronto shots.

Gribbons scored the only goal of the first period to give Majors a 1-0 lead but Don Halstead tied it up with the only goal of the second. Gribbons won it at 2:10 of the third and Ken Linseman scored the insurance marker minutes later.

Centre Bill Harris and Jerry Fulford each scored twice for Marlboros. Cary Aldcorn got the other. Cary Collins fired the only goal for the last-place Canucks.

The victory left Marlboros in fourth place, two points behind Biltmores.

Buffalo Seeks Cards' Franchise

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago American reports that Buffalo, N.Y., interests have made a "concentrated effort to acquire the Chicago Cardinals National Football League franchise.

In a story by sportswriter Harry MacNamara, the American said "The group has already made a solid proposal to Bert Bell, NFL commissioner, for the purchase of the Cardinal franchise."

Walter Wolfner, general manager of the club, said: "It's ridiculous. We're not interested in moving or selling the franchise."

Detroit Lions Wrap Up Third Title

NEW YORK (AP)—One-half of the National Football League's championship bracket was filled today by the familiar Detroit Lions. And the other half figures to be occupied by the even more familiar Cleveland Browns for the title game, Dec. 26.

The Lions wrapped up their third straight western division title and a chance at their third successive league crown by rallying for a touchdown in the final four minutes Sunday to tie the Philadelphia Eagles 13-13.

At the same time the Browns clinched at least a tie for the eastern division title — an honor they've carried off the last five years. The Browns ground out a methodical' 34-14 victory over the Washington Redskins.

The surprising New York Giants, however, maintained a mathematical chance of tying the Browns by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-3. The Browns, with an 8-3 record, meet Pittsburgh next Sunday and close out the regular campaign on the 19th against Detroit. New York (7-4) winds up against Philadelphia Sunday.

In other games Sunday the Chicago Bears strengthened their hold on second place in the western division with a 29-7 decision over the Chicago Cardinals and San Francisco 49ers blanked Green Bay 35-0. Baltimore Colts moved into second place back of the Lions, shut out Green Bay 35-0. Baltimore surprised by defeating Los Angeles 22-21 Saturday.

The Lions won only by San Francisco this season, faced a 13-6 deficit with four minutes to play. Then they sent Lew Carpenter over from a yard out and Doak Walker kicked the tying extra point for his 38th without a miss.

Miami May Replace Ottawa In International

MIAMI (AP)—Triple-A International Baseball League president Frank Shaughnessy, said Sunday Miami has a good chance of replacing Ottawa as a member of the league unless unexpected complications arose.

Shaughnessy arrived Saturday for a series of talks to explore the possibility of Miami joining the league.

"I'm for Miami if we can get a decent meal on the stadium" he said. "We've got other cities as prospects but Miami is preferable."

A talk between Shaughnessy and George Salley, a lawyer for Jose stadium, is scheduled today.

Book of The Month Club Best Seller Will Be Seen in Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—India's objections to a picture film concerning its fight for independence are not as strong as they have been painted, reports director George Cukor.

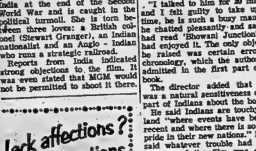
He will direct "Showani Junction," the Book of the Month Club best seller, which MGM is filming. The story concerns an Anglo-Indian girl (Ava Gardner) who returns to India at the end of the Second World War and is caught in the political turmoil. She is torn between three lovers: a British colonel (Stewart Granger), an Indian nationalist and an Anglo - Indian who runs a strategic railroad.

Reports from India indicated strong objections to the film. It was even stated that MGM would not be permitted to shoot it there.

"That's not true," countered Cukor, who will direct the film. He has returned from five weeks in India and reported on co - operation from all the government officials he dealt with.

SPOKE WITH NEHRU

Cukor said he had helpful conversations with many top Indian officials, including Prime Minister Nehru himself.



"I talked to him for 20 minutes and I felt guilty to take up his time, he is such a busy man. But he chatted pleasantly and said he had read 'Showani Junction' and had enjoyed it. The only objection he raised was certain errors in chronology, which the author had admitted in the first part of the book.

The director added that there was a natural sensitiveness on the part of Indians about the book.

He said Indians are touchy in a land "where events have been so recent and where there is so much pride in their new nations." But he said whatever trouble had arisen because of the film was due to minor journalists and troublemakers.

CHRISTMAS THEME

STIRLING — The village streets have a nice Christmas arrangement these days and the members of the Stirling Chamber of Commerce have planned overhead evergreen trees along the various business streets, with a larger one for a central theme. The street light standards now welcome everyone to the village. Many of the stores have spent considerable time and energy to decorate their windows with a specially attractive display of Christmas goods.

INJURED LOW

Mr. Morley Ayrhart, who just recently returned home from a lengthy stay in the Veterans' wing of the Kingston General Hospital, suffered a painful accident in the Belleville hospital when he met with a fall and dislocated his elbow. He was taken at once to Belleville hospital and on Friday he was taken to Kingston hospital for further treatment.

Mrs. Grace Vanderwoort, representative to the Past Grands Club and the group in attendance enjoyed a potluck supper.

The newly elected officers of Stirling Bible Society are: President, Mrs. Gordon Wannop; vice-presidents, all of the local ministers in the village; secretary, Mrs. Mabel Williams; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Vance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clarke, associate director, Farm Economics Branch, attended the annual meeting of the Hastings County Soil and Crop Improvement Association on Friday evening in the town hall. He gave a special address on "Farm Business Analysis."

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moore, Trent River, entertained Mr. and Mrs. G. Rolls and Miss Hilda Moore, Toronto, over the week-end.

NEWLYWEDS KILLED

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A young couple on their honeymoon died in the flaming wreckage of their car after a crash 10 hours after they were married. Marvin R. Foerster, 20, of St. Clair Shores, and his bride, Carol Ann, 18, of Detroit, were trapped in their burning automobile after the car missed a curve and smashed into a tree.

Transit Workers Accept Offer, Call Off Strike

WINNIPEG (CP)—A strike of Winnipeg Transit Commission employees was averted Sunday, 12 hours before the deadline, when 85 per cent of the commission employees voted in a secret ballot to accept a compromise wage offer from the commission.

Reg Slocombe, business agent of the Transit Workers Union, which is affiliated with One Big Union, announced Sunday the men had accepted the commission offer of a wage increase of three cents an hour, retroactive to last April 1 and an additional two cents an hour retroactive to last Nov. 1. In addition, the 1,100 employees will receive the following fringe benefits: three weeks vacation pay after 12 years' service; six additional statutory holidays for nonoperating employees and increase in weekly sick benefit pay to $30 per week.

The new offer was accepted after a secret ballot was taken Saturday night and Sunday morning.

An additional five cents an hour was the union's last demand in further negotiation, with April 1, 1955, the deadline for a final settlement.

Last Thursday the union instigated a temporary four-hour work stoppage which ended with the men at a mass closed meeting. They planned to strike at the conclusion of the Sunday meeting, but at the meeting they repeated their demand for a five-cent hourly raise for all employees plus fringe benefits.

Top wages for bus drivers under the present contract is $1.50 an hour, mechanics $1.55 and conductors $1.17.

A majority report of a conciliation board set up under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Act recommended made in September rejected all the unions' pay demands and also by Miss Nancy Evans.

Mrs. Dovey gave a talk in which she explained the work of the "Explorers".

To close the service the girls held a candlelight service and Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, a member of the W.M.S., for about 28 years, presented the girls with their awards. Pianists for the evening were: Miss Shirley Chisholm and Mrs. H. Whitfield. Rev. L. S. Dovey closed the service.

Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray and Anna were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

Mrs. W. Tufts spent a few days recently with Mr., and Mr. C. Cleland and family at Deep River.

The Wallbridge's Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. F. E. Phillips on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Jeffrey, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. D. Hollinger spent Sunday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hall have returned to their home with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tufts and family, of Halloway, Ont.

CROSS PARTY LINES

LONDON (AP)—The engagement of Martin Attlee, only son of Labor party leader Clement Attlee, and Anne Henderson, daughter of a Conservative party politician, was announced today. Attlee, 27, works for an oil company in London. Miss Henderson, 24, is a stenographer at the Siamese embassy.

TORTURED TO DEATH

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuters)—The director of a Roman Catholic haven for prisoners compelled from the East said today Albanian Communists imprisoned Archbishop Vizanes Prennushi, 69, of Durazzo, in a wooden cage studded with iron points and roiled it at regular intervals until he was dead of his injuries.

ENDORSE PROGRAM

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)— In a rare unanimous vote, the General Assembly Saturday endorsed President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace program and added the hope that it will be put into operation without delay. The assembly's action came almost a week after Eisenhower brought before the assembly his proposal for sharing on an international basis the peaceful development of atomic energy.

DECEMBER

The year is drawing to a close,
The last swift chapter soon is read.
The trees uplift their branches bare,
The summer flowers are dead;
But still the air is filled with song
That feathered friends have flown,
That summer ne'er has known.

And why this spirit of good-will?
The stirring sense of peace?
Oh! down the ages swells the song
That makes our warring hearts cease;
And from the heavenly hosts above
The message ringeth clear,
That in a manger rude and old
Is born a Saviour dear.

The story ne'er has fled its power
Through all the ages down.
The thrill is felt in every heart
In spite of fret and frown:
And joyful are the Christmas bells
Ring out
Through the midnight, when the shepherds on Judean hills
Found Christ in Bethlehem.
—Helen Hall.

WELLINGTON — What with the Santa Claus parade, the alluring Christmas gifts in the shops, and the singing of Christmas carols in preparation for school entertainments, the Christmas spirit is already in the air, and again in our hearts we hear the song of the angelic host, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

The bazaar and tea sponsored by the ladies of St. Andrew's Anglican church was a success socially and financially. The attractive sales tables were in charge of Mrs. W. Thompson, Mrs. C. Carter, Miss Ruby Nash and Mrs. N. Russell and the dainty tea tables were inviting. A large number of ladies availed themselves of the privilege of attending.

Miss Helen Arthur, Belleville, who is leaving soon to spend the winter in Florida, spent Saturday in Wellington and with Mrs. Leona Whyte, Trenton, and Mrs. H. H. Anderson and Miss S. E. Blakely, Wellington, enjoyed dinner at Grahamanor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFaul are expecting to spend the winter in Belleville.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. A. Orr and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, all of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Sanders, Toronto, spent the week-end with friends here.

Friends here have received the sad news of the death of Mr. Well Huckye at his home in Alberta. The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Huycke, Consecon, he went west many years ago.

On Sunday, Mrs. Norman MacDonald, Lakeland, and her mother, Mrs. Ostrander, Picton, with Miss Hattie Blakely, and Mrs. H. B. Anderson enjoyed a chicken dinner at Grahamanor.

Mrs. Hazel Hall, bright day, and was much enjoyed by Mrs. Cartwright, who is now better after a severe illness.

THE FOX'S CORNER

The welcome given the Queen Mother by Miss Charlotte Whitton, mayor of Ottawa, so vividly portrayed in the press, evidenced an interest in this energetic lady, which was enhanced when I read the following poem in a book, "Verse and Reverse," published by the Women's Press Club, Toronto, in 1922. A few stanzas of the poem follow:

A TAVERN SONG
(Upper Canada, 1838)

The rebels are gathered and up in arms!
And threatening York with wild alarms;
They've seized a place in Montgomery's Inn
And stacked it with metals and carbines and tin;
With fiery MacKenzie to lead them ahead
They'll murder Sir Francis as well as his bed;
He runs a paper in muddy York
With a pen as sharp as the devil's fork;
The Family Compact have shivers and shakes
They're finding dough in their pies and cakes.
The bloods are about at close of day
And dumping his presses into the

STIRLING

Hon. Robt. Cooke IODE Sponsors Card Party

STIRLING — On Wednesday evening the Hon. Robert Cooke I.O.D.E. sponsored a card party in Stirling community hall, with 17 tables in play—ten euchre and seven bridge.

The prizes were awarded as follows: Euchre—high lady, Norma Kerby; low, Edith Bradshaw. High man, Sid Mason; low, John Kerby. Bridge—ladies' high, Mrs. Ralph Vandervoort; low, Mrs. Edwin Warren. Men's high, Don Rikley, Belleville; low, George Noble.

The members served refreshments at the close and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The straw but needed the scratch on the match.
The state is aflame from cellar to thatch.
Some are sent packing; one lost his head;
MacKenzie came into the House instead;
If you don't think that such things be,
Trundle to York for yourself and see.
(Signed) Charlotte Whitton.

MAYOR JOHN BOTH GIVEN SECOND TERM

Save Three Men, Sight Two More, After Tug Sinks

Night-Long Vigil Is Kept By Planes Off Florida Coast

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A rescue ship reported today it had picked up three survivors from a sunken tug in the Gulf of Mexico off the Florida coast.

A short time later, the Coast Guard said one of its planes reported sighting a life raft with two survivors and was picking them up. The Coast Guard said the plane was equipped to land on water.

The ship picked, also, one of five ships searching for crew-members of the sunken tug Bertha B, radioed the Coast Guard here it had lowered a boat to pick up the three men. The Bertha B had an ill-man crew.

The ship, en route from New Orleans to Tampa, Fla., sent out distress signals Monday and said after taping contact with the Coast Guard.

Coast Guard planes circled the area during a night-long vigil and illuminated the area with flares.

Nathan Phillips Toronto's First Jewish Mayor

TORONTO (CP)—Nathan Phillips, a long-time public servant whose wife lay unconscious in hospital while he went to the polls, has been elected Toronto's first Jewish mayor.

The 62-year-old lawyer, a city alderman for 26 years, was elected Monday to head the city's 121st administration, winning comfortably in a four-way race.

While Mr. Phillips watched the election count put him into the lead from the start, his wife, an active worker in her husband's election campaign, was in hospital recovering from a concussion suffered in an election-eve tumble down basement stairs at their home.

Mr. Phillips said he had been informed by doctors that his wife, unconscious since the accident Saturday night, had recovered sufficiently Monday night to appreciate the fact of her husband's election.

THIRD TRY

Mr. Phillips, in his third attempt — he was unsuccessful in 1951 and 1953—polled 69,295 votes Monday for a 4,000-vote margin over Mayor Leslie Saunders.

Mr. Saunders, making his first bid for the office to which he was appointed in mid-year when Allan A. Lamport resigned, polled 36,770 votes.

The third candidate, Arthur J. Brown, drew 36,571 votes.

A. A. MacLeod, a Communist Labor Party leader, Progressive member of the Ontario legislature, was far behind with 4,333 votes.

Pre-election forecasts of a 45-per-cent turnout of voters—based largely on a last-campaign winding up with charges that a plush hotel suite was maintained as an exclusive club for city officials—were over-optimistic.

The 118,979 who trekked to the polls in crisp, clear weather represented 34.6 per cent of the 344,600 eligible voters.

Toronto electors returned three sitting members of the four-man board of control. Ford Brand, David Balfour and Reuben Wells were re-elected.

Ross Lipsett, appointed to the board at the same time Mr. Saunders was appointed mayor, was beaten by Joseph Carrick, a former alderman.

Only one of the 12 Communist candidates in the field won election. She is Mrs. Edna Ryerson, re-elected to the 11th term on board of education.

French Seek Russian Reaction To May Parley

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government has asked its ambassador in Moscow to approach the Soviet government over Premier Pierre Mendes-France's proposal for a four-power talks next May, reliable sources here said today.

They said the French charge d'affaires in Moscow, Jean Laroy, has been instructed to find the Soviet government to make known French views on the French premier's proposal.

The approach to Russia dealt in particular with the Austrian question, the sources said, but was also in contradiction to the Western powers' replies to recent Soviet notes.

WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A slow-moving high pressure area still covers Ontario.

Clear, cold weather is expected for northern Ontario today and Wednesday. Overcast southern parts will remain mainly sunny with a warming trend beginning Wednesday.

McCarthy Says EISENHOWER SOFT WITH REDS

President's Praise Of Senators Assailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) today accused President Eisenhower of congratulating senators who hold up the supremacy of Communism in the cause of urging tolerance for Chinese Communists who torture American soldiers.

McCarthy, who last week was condemned by the Senate for his conduct, interrupted a hearing of his Senate investigations sub-committee to read a statement he described as "something of a defense of himself" as chairman of the investigations sub-committee.

He said that during that 12 campaign he had spoken from coast-to-coast assuring people that if Eisenhower were to be elected president they could be sure of a vigorous fight to expose communism.

But, McCarthy added, he since has found "I was mistaken."

WATKINS PRAISED

The senator said Eisenhower had congratulated two senators Arthur Watkins (Rep., Utah) and Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.). McCarthy said both have been responsible in part for holding up his efforts to expose Communism.

Watkins was chairman of the Senate committee which unanimously recommended that McCarthy be censured for his conduct. Flanders was author of the original censure resolution.

Last Saturday Watkins was guest at the White House with Eisenhower and the president congratulated him on the "very splendid job" as chairman of the censure committee.

McCarthy said that on one hand Eisenhower had congratulated these senators while on the other hand Eisenhower "urges that we be patient with those, as of this very moment, are torturing and brainwashing American uniformed men in Communist dungeons."

"Anyone who knows the ABCs of the Communist is against free civilization knows weakness will only encourage the Communist uniformed man."

This was an apparent reference to a press conference statement by Eisenhower that followed a call for a united front in Asia issued by Senate Republican leader William Knowland of California and China lobby spokesman Walter Judd last week.

Eisenhower said the United States must not be goaded into war by the Communists but must patience the hard way, saying it would be much easier for him to "turn loose" his emotions and be truculent.

McCarthy replied:

"If any senator in the future can justify a vote to draft the sons of Republican mothers, that vote must repudiate this shrinking show of weakness and must tell those mothers that each young man who wears the American uniform can be certain that he will be backed with him when he goes to a foreign field."

The White-House declined comment on McCarthy's remarks.

BIG COLLECTION

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill University's annual drive of 500,000 alcohol from all over the world, ranging in size from pinheads to giant containers weighing a quarter-ton, is considered one of the largest in the world.

Trenton Rescue Unit Hunts Missing Man

TRENTON (CP) — A search and rescue helicopter was dispatched at noon today in an effort to find Edward Dakin, 45, of the Canadiered dam Indian reserve, missing in the area of the town southeast of Sudbury for four days.

Dakin went missing last Friday when a boat trip from Wolsey bay to his home, a distance of 18 miles. He was making the trip in an open outboard motor boat.

When he left the water was open, RCAF officials said. Now there has been a freeze-up, not hard enough to walk on but solid enough to prohibit boat travel.

The search is in experienced woodsman, having lived in the area all his life. The boat was stocked with provisions.

The RCAF said Dakin may be attempting to use one of the islands in the channel.

Ford Strike Talks Resume

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Union representatives from Windsor, Oshawa and Etobicoke will go into a bargaining room today as negotiations on new contracts are under way between the United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO) and the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

Also on hand were Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and Louis Fine, the province's chief conciliation officer, who last week had invited the two sides to meet today in an effort to settle the long strike.

BIKE LICENCE

TORONTO (CP) — Despite efforts to have them discontinued, bicycle licenses are required again in Toronto for at least another year. Some officials say the fee should be done more to collect than they are worth.

Report Churchill Has Vetoed Plan For TV Show by Three Defence Chiefs

LONDON (AP)—The BBC today cancelled the television appearance of three high-ranking British military men on a TV program that Prime Minister Churchill had personally approved.

The BBC said only that "the service chiefs are unavailable" and the program has been cancelled."

But Press Association says "the program will not now take place, on the instructions of the prime minister, owing to the security aspects involved." Other British newspapers report similarly.

The officers who had been lined up for a televised round-table discussion of defence problems were Admiral Earl Mountbatten, recently appointed first sea lord, Admiral Sir John Denny, commander-in-chief of the allied forces in eastern Atlantic, and Air Chief Marshal Sir John Boothman, commander-in-chief of Britain's air command, eastern Atlantic.

Reports that the prime minister's advisers were reported nervous about what a service chief might say to a television audience during a television appearance of Maj.-Gen. Mike West last January.

His unexpected statement that there had been courts-martials for treason "I was not aware of up to now in Parliament, and the government was asked questioning questions.

Govt. Stocks of Butter Rose Last Fall to 78,000,000 lbs.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's stocks of creamery butter rose last fall to an all-time high of 78,000,000 pounds.

This figure, hitherto kept confidential, was reported by the agriculture department today in a review of price support activities he-fore the federal-provincial agricultural conference.

Most butter purchased through federal price support, compare with about 50,000,000 pounds held by the government a year ago. They are the highest stocks the government has been exporting butter six years ago.

Since the government supports the market by offering to buy surplus butter at 58 cents a pound wholesale, the stocks would represent an investment of $45,240,000 of the taxpayers' money.

The department said the stocks were made up of 9,000,000 pounds carried over from 1953 purchases and 69,00,0000 pounds purchased during the spring production season last summer.

The prices support board has been offering the surplus to the trade at 61 cents a pound wholesale, the department said. Up until Nov. 30, it sold 1,500,000 pounds—with 77,000,000 pounds left.

The question of Canada's dairy surpluses and how to cope with them overshadowed before the conference Monday.

Gilbert McMillan, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, proposed that the government export 22,000,000 pounds of butter similar to the quantity imported in 1953.

He proposed also that the government subsidize milk and butter sales to widows, the blind and elderly folks and provide free milk for school children.

He spoke after a federal report estimated that milk production next year may rise by 200,000,000 pounds to a new high of 17,000,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Gardiner suggested that Canada had only a surplus of 20,000,000 pounds of butter, but might increase to "troublesome proportions" if milk output continues to rise.

He said if Canada exported the 22,000,000 pounds imported in 1951-52 when the country had a butter shortage, it would have 7,000,000 pounds less in storage next Jan. 1 than we had Jan. 1, 1955, and little more than we had 10 years ago.

Experience has shown, he added that the floor price of 58 cents per pound wholesale is the price which has helped Canada produce her requirements of about 300,000,000 pounds.

If it becomes necessary at any time to change the 58-cent floor, "all other price levels would change," he said.

Ailing Pontiff Able to Take Nourishment

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius' private physician said the ailing pontiff was able to take nourishment today and that "all goes well."

Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi reported that the 78-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church passed a tranquil night. It was the fourth night in a row in which the Pope's sleep was described in such terms. But Vatican sources emphasize that the pontiff remains in a serious, though not desperate, condition following his serious collapse last Thursday.

Ore Shipments On Lakes Low

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 1953 ore-shipping season on the Great Lakes has ended with one of the smallest total movements in recent years.

When the final boatload of the red did was unloaded last week, the season's tonnage stopped at 90,703,000 tons. That amount is 25,000,000 tons under the record 85,844,649 hauled in 1953, reports from Cleveland Iron Ore Association reported today.

The ak up was intentional and due to a slackening of American steel needs in the last year.

JAP PREMIER RESIGNS POST BEFORE VOTE

Rival Conservative Gets Socialist Backing

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, the sly old fox who guided Japan's destinies through seven troubled post-war years, stepped down today—the anniversary of Pearl harbor—in the face of overwhelming opposition from both the right and left.

His likely successor is Ichiro Hatoyama, a Conservative professional rival of Yoshida. Unlike Yoshida, however, Hatoyama favors diplomatic relations and increased trade with Russia and Red China within a framework of friendship with the West.

The Diet (parliament) will vote Wednesday or Thursday on a new leader.

Yoshida and his cabinet resigned just hours before the Diet almost certainly would have toppled his government with a no-confidence vote. Hatoyama and his Conservative-Socialist coalition that introduced the no-confidence motion Monday. The coalition controls about 253 votes in the powerful Lower House. Majority could muster but 185.

SOCIALIST SUPPORT

Until the revolt against him, Yoshida ruled the Diet with an iron hand, backed by a working majority in the Lower House. Hatoyama may find the road more difficult. He must depend to some extent on the Socialists, who said again today they would support him at least temporarily.

If the Socialists withdraw their support, the Hatoyama political kettle will probably boil over again.

The resignation may mean the end of the political trail for the 76-year-old Yoshida, who signed the San Francisco peace treaty in September and established close links with the West. He will remain a member of the Diet, but beyond that his future is cloudy.

Hatoyama has said there will be no change in Japan's relations with the United States if he is tapped for the prime minister's post.

He says he has a "fundamental conviction that Russia is never to be trusted," but he feels diplomatic relations between Japan and Russia "would be a overt war between the United States and Russia."

Three Are Dead After Drinking Anti-Freeze

SIOUX LOOKOUT (CP)—Ontario provincial police Monday night identified the three Indians whose bodies were found in the bush here during the weekend after they drank a bottle of anti-freeze.

Another man is in Sioux Lookout Hospital in critical condition.

Dead are Fred Denherd, Ray Winn, both about 40, and Mrs. Jim Bellamy.

Hospital is Al Walski, about 25.

Police said Denherd staggered into their office Saturday night and fell unconscious on the floor. He was taken to the hospital where he died without regaining consciousness.

The other deaths were discovered when they were notified Sunday night by a Sioux Lookout resident that Walski was in a cabin in Winn's shack on the outskirts of Sioux Lookout.

In the cabin they found Mrs. Bellamy dead and Winn and Walski unconscious.

Police took the pair to hospital where Winn died shortly after admittance.

Police said they believes the four were drinking wine Friday night and after running out of wine, drank a bottle of anti-freeze.

Sioux Lookout is 170 miles northwest of Fort William.

Thomas, Temple Beaten In Record Vote For City

Two Women in Council For First Time in History

The city electorate went on a record-breaking spree to the polls yesterday, casting an all-time record vote, sweeping the present mayor back into office, defeating two proposed by-laws and electing the first two lady aldermen in the history of municipal government.

Mayor John Both, present chief magistrate, swept aside the mayoralty threat of Aldermen Don Thomas and Robert Temple in a three-way race in which he was never headed.

The mayor polled 3,067 votes, 36 more than those that elected him last year, which gave him a plurality of 1178 over second-place Alderman Thomas, who was given 1885 votes. Alderman Temple received 1368.

The total vote of 6,310 set a new record for the city. The former mark was 6299 established in the municipal elections of 1952. That year's vote represented an estimated 55 per cent of the electorate of the city.

It was the first three-way mayoralty fight since 1924, according to veteran political observers. The aldermanic field, which saw two aspirants vie for the seats of the municipal mighty, was the largest field in years.

City voters looked with favor on the first entry of the distaff side into municipal government. Mrs. Jane Forrester and Mrs. Edith McCabe were elected by substantial majorities, with Mrs. Forrester leading the polls by a wide margin over second-place Alderman Gerald Hyde.

Mrs. Forrester in her debut into municipal government established three records. She is one of the first ladies to be elected to city council; the first lady to top the polls, and by polling 3,353 votes set the highest mark ever gained by an alderman in the history of the city. She succeeds Alderman in the city's history to record over 3,000 votes.

The former mark was established by Dr. E. T. Jones, who was given 3,313 votes in the 1949 election. The highest mayoralty vote was that polled by former Mayor A. McLean Haig (3336) in the 1951 election.

While the mayoralty election and municipal aldermanic vote night returns from one of the 35 polls were not available until late hour this morning. There is a possibility that the positions of Messrs. David Grandame and Jack McCabe may be changed and Alderman Bryson Reid, who trailed Mr. Graham in eighth place by 75 votes overtaking his seventh-place opponent.

Defeated aspirants to aldermanic seats were Aldermen Bryson Reid (or Ralph Graham), Robertson Collins, William Lynch, Al Meagher, Edward DeLavoir, William J. McCormick, Les Digby, H. Jack Allin, James C. Allen, Elmer C. Allen, Frank Huson, Malcolm Burgess, Bert Robinson, Fred Mantel, Mervyn De Wyrst and Robert Gardiner.

BOTH BY-LAWS DEFEATED

The proposed city by-laws never had a chance. They were doomed to defeat and the first return it was plainly evident the electorate was not with disfavor. The lady included a by-law to obtain an expression of opinion on the advisability of erecting the Belleville Memorial Arena and the other was for acquiring property one for acquiring and improving certain lands on which vehicles may be parked in the city.

Peter the Plotter Leaves His Yacht To Start Serving 7 Years as Yegg

LONDON (AP)—Debonair Harold Lough White, long a dashing figure in London's Mayfair district, was sentenced today to seven years in prison as a safeblower.

The 45-year-old playboy was exposed by police witnesses as a big-time thief known to associates as "Peter the Plotter."

Convicted with Lough White was his "intelligence officer," Gordon Simpson, 35, whose home was in Canada. An insurance broker, Simpson tipped the "mastermind" off to the whereabouts of heavily insured valuables.

Two other accomplices — "cat burglar" George Chatham, 43, and Robert Melrose, 46—got 10 years apiece because they had long criminal records.

All four were charged specifically with burgling a Mayfair jeweller's safe last July and making off with $27,000 worth of gold loot.

Lough White, the son of a doctor, once owned a fashionable night club in Mayfair. He lived on a grand scale, with two private aircraft and a 70-foot yacht moored in a town house and a country cottage.

After his arrest on the safecracking charge, he told police in the middle of the night of the gang's exploits torches, explosives and other equipment.

The judgment was designed by Lough White. His refinements included a special drill and portable transformers to step up the local current for his electric ore cutting tools.

Voters Approve Memorial Centre

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—With 68 per cent of the ratepayers voting, a $500,000 referendum issue to finance a community memorial centre was approved in the civic election here Monday.

The vote was 8,583 in favor and 3,908 opposed.

First considered in 1938, the project was abandoned during the Second World War, and then proposed again as a memorial. Although $200,000 was contributed privately towards its costs, the project was delayed until this year by lack of a site.

Chas. J. Brennan Elected Reeve Of Deseronto

Reeve Charlie J. Brennan will serve another term as a reeve of Deseronto and will be just municipality's representative on county council. In a straight two-way fight for the reeveship, Mr. Brennan defeated R.K. Jamieson. Mr. Brennan received 226 votes and Mr. Jackson 144. Thos. Scott received acclamation as mayor.

Sig Wessman was elected public utilities commissioner receiving 272 votes as against 160 for his opponent Frank Topping.

But Deseronto is still not through with elections. At the nomination meeting there were not enough candidates for council and a new nomination meeting has been called for Friday evening.

Rheumatic Ills Take Heavy Toll In Canada

Rheumatic diseases cost the nation's economy $600 million annually, John D. Pearson, executive secretary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, told the weekly luncheon of the Belleville Rotary club at the Hotel Quinte, yesterday.

Mr. Pearson's address concerned the background of the society and the work it is doing to combat rheumatic diseases throughout Canada.

His text had special appeal to the Rotary club here, which is interested in aiding the society to establish a mobile physiotherapy unit in this area.

Presently in Canada, between 15,000 and 20,000 are permanently confined to bed or wheelchairs by rheumatic illness. Mr. Pearson told, the club 80 per cent of those people need not be in that condition if they had had proper care in the early stages of their illness.

FOUNDED IN 1949

His society was set up in 1940 following conferences between federal and medical authorities. At the outset there were four basic points in the society's program: (1) finding the causes of the disease; (2) training of physicians in practices of tending the disease; (3) treating sufferers and (4) educating the public.

Basic treatment of the patient consists of rest, heat, proper exercises, a properly-balanced diet and providing freedom from worry.

One of the outstanding achievements of the society to date is the establishment of mobile physiotherapy units in communities. One such unit, a nurse these units carry equipment which is available in local doctors' offices within a 25-mile radius they can serve 150 patients annually at an expense of $1.00 that of hospitalization.

AIDS OTHER GROUPS

Mr. Pearson also noted that the society now had reached the stage where it is passing these facilities on to other groups, particularly those combating polio.

Aside from all statistics, it was the human element in the battle against rheumatic diseases that was the most rewarding, Mr. Pearson said. One has to see people for years dependent on others because of their crippled state, climb back into a normal position in life, to appreciate the full value of the society's work.

"That is the part that really counts, and I do not think you can measure that in dollars and cents," he concluded.

Mr. Pearson was thanked by Enos Davis.

Obituary

MISS GISELE ELISE HARRISON

The funeral of Miss Gisele Elise Harrison, 11 Albion St., Belleville, who was killed in a car crash near Trenton Saturday night, was held Tuesday, December 7th, in Sudbury.

The deceased was born in Sudbury, the daughter of Mrs. Irene Harrison and the late Mr. Harrison, and lived in Sudbury prior to moving to Belleville two years ago. She was employed by the Northern Electric Co.

In addition to her mother she is survived by three brothers, Henry, Fernand and Jean, three sisters, Mrs. Ida Deschesne, Mrs. Yvette Dusick and Jeanne, all of Sudbury.

The deceased was not married. She was a member of St. Michael's church.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Cooperative Funeral Directors of Sudbury. Interment took place in Sudbury's Roman Catholic cemetery.

FRANK LARBASH

The funeral of Frank Lalbash of Bridge St., Belleville, A. from the chapel of the Belleville Burial Company Limited on Friday, Rev. Price conducted the service.

Bearers were Joseph Sero, Wesley Little, Clarence Little, Robert Little, George Little, and Earl Gardiner.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

MISS GRACE A. CONNOR

Miss Grace A. Connor, 249 Pinnacle St., died Tuesday morning, Dec. 7, at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Ray Tubman, after a illness of a few months' duration.

The deceased was born in Sidney Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Connor, Sidney. She was a member of Bridge St. for the past 28 years.

The deceased is survived by one sister and the last of her family. She was a member of Bridge Street United church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Limited Home, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. DELBERT SNIDER

The funeral of Mrs. Blanche B. Snider, widow of Delbert Snider, was held Saturday, Dec. 4th, from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton. Rev. F. Pringle conducted the service.

Bearers were Tom Chase, Smith Brown, Carl Rathbun, Howard Alyea, Clifford Calnan and Reece Sexton.

Interment took place in Albury cemetery.

The deceased was born in Codrington, Ont., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Adams and lived for the past 50 years in Carrying Place and district. She died Wednesday, December 1st, at her late residence after being in poor health for the past 1-2 years.

She is survived by four sons, Roy and Wilford, R.R. 1 Carrying Place; Walter, of Bloomfield, and Ross, of Wellington.

Also surviving her are a brother, Edwin Adams, Colborne and nine grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the United Church.

WILLIAM A. MORTON (Thomasburg)

The funeral of William Alexander Morton, a pioneer resident of Huntingdon township, was held Monday afternoon from his late residence to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Thomasburg.

Rev. R. Arthur Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. William Robinson, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

Relatives and friends of the deceased filled the church. There were many floral offerings.

In his tribute to the deceased, Mr. Page stated that Mr. Morton's integrity was a by-word in the community and that his friendliness earned him a host of friends. His record as a member of Huntingdon township council and as reeve of Huntingdon proved that he was ready to assume his full share of community responsibility.

Mr. Page said that Mr. Morton accepted criticism in good part and in turn offered constructive criticism when he felt it was needed. He said that the passing of such a fine man is a loss, not only to his family, but to the Thomasburg district and to the county.

Bearers were: Cecil Geen, Matt English, Charles Vreland, Harold K. Morton, Melburn Adams and Harry Kendrey.

Interment took place in Thomasburg cemetery.

HARRY LEWIS' KETCHESON (Mr. Gen. Sidney)

A prominent local figure, Harry Lewis Ketcheson, 1st concession of Sidney township, died at his home yesterday. He was in his 78th year. His death culminated a two-year illness.

Mr. Ketcheson lived on the first concession of Sidney all his life, being born there, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Ketcheson. His wife, Ida Deslie, predeceased him about 11 years ago.

Mr. Ketcheson was an active member of the Hastings County Fair Board for many years, and also was a life member of Eureka business ability. "We would not have people of this calibre running our municipal affairs," he pointed out.

THOUGHT DISCRIMINATORY

Reeve C. J. Brennan, of Deseronto, felt that the recommendation was discriminating against persons, who through no fault of their own, may have difficulty in paying their rent etc. He moved that no action be taken.

Reeve Graham agreed, seconded the motion, pointing out that never in his years of municipal experience had persons receiving relief offered themselves for election.

Reeve McCoy of Marmora township, noted the electors would be their own safeguard and it was doubtful if relief recipients could be elected.

A further resolution from Bruce county asking November 1954 be declared as Bruce county month was observed as a public holiday was concurred in.

Clerk - treasurer Eric S. Denyes noted that Nov. 11 election day declared a national holiday, while Reeve Russell Hill observed as a national day of remembrance," he said.

A request from the Women's Institutes in the county for a section of Forsythe Street in that village to be re-named as a county road was referred to by-laws.

Warden Welcomes Members To Last Session County Council

Hastings county councillors were welcomed to their fourth and final meeting of the year this morning as Warden Fred G. Mitchell officially opened the December council session at Shire Hall.

Warden Mitchell expressed his appreciation to council members for the "amicable and efficient manner in which they had conducted the county's business during the year and thanked the various committees and committee chairmen for the amount of work they had carried out. He also expressed his appreciation to county officials for the valuable advice offered.

The Warden noted that agricultural conditions in the county were in good shape with practically all the harvest gathered. For this we are thankful to be thankful considering what has happened in other parts of the province."

The agricultural committee attended the December meeting recommended the underpinning of 10,000 white pine in the county forest in the northern section of the county and this recommendation will be passed on to by-laws.

The committee report also noted that the county would be assuming the costs of needed hospitalization for old age pensioners. Hastings county councillors passed a recommendation at their last session and request a further concurrence be forwarded to 60 different municipalities. Forty replies were received to date, a majority of them being favorable.

Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township noted that the favorable replied showed that the municipalities were definitely in favor of the request and urged that further action be taken by the county by bringing the recommendation's reception before local members of parliament. He said it was the duty of local members to bring the matter before their respective governments.

"Governments which provide $40 per month pension for person over 70 years of age should give every consideration to paying the hospital costs of needy pensioners," he said.

No action was taken on a resolution from Bruce county which asked that the election day be changed so that relief recipients and persons whose immediate families had had hospitalization costs paid without reimbursing the municipality, be barred from running for municipal office.

Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Marmora village, polled second that if a person could not provide for his family it usually meant a lack of Masonic Lodge. He took a very active interest in harness horse racing and could be seen at every race meet in the district. He always owned a good horse and was an active member of the Conservative party.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. J. (Edith) Rogers, at home, and one sister, Mrs. Levi Liverson, Danforth, N.Y.

He was a member of the Church of England.

Resting at Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett St., until this evening, then at home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. PATRICK O'CONNOR

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Agnes O'Connor was held from the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien on Saturday morning to St. Michael's Church. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Very Rev. L. B. Garvin, while the graveside prayers were said by Rev. P. Murphy.

The bearers were James and Thomas McAvoy, Joseph Milne, Harry O'Neil, Vincent Lynch and Jack Farrell.

Ameliasburg Returns Council

AMELIASBURG — Ameliasburg township council was returned intact in yesterday's election—the first in 12 years.

Robert Smith headed the poll for returning councillors with 359 votes, Lorne Vanderburgh had 299 votes and H. Montgomery 272. Newcomer Robert Sheppard, making his first try for council, was defeated, with 184 votes.

Reeve Melvin Palmer and deputy reeve Clifford Smith were returned by acclamation.

Winnie's Secret Ability to Relax

HASTINGS, England (Reuters)—Winston Churchill, who has been the British prime minister without his wartime responsibilities has a unique ability to relax, take and "get right away from everything."

Lord Moran, presenting prizes to nursing students here Monday night, told how Churchill and the late President Roosevelt spent an hour and a singing Christmas carols at a White House dinner in 1941, two weeks after the Pearl Harbor attack which put the United States into the war. "All these methods helped them to throw away their cares," Lord Moran said.

Every police cruiser and patrolman in the city was alerted to be on the lookout for a black tractor with a white top.

Softball League Presents Trophies At Luncheon

The Belleville and District Softball Association sang down the curtain on the 1954 season last night at a buffet luncheon at the Sergeant's Mess in the Bridge Street Armouries.

Approximately 75 guests, including the league executive, team officials and players were present as various presentations were made. League president, Cord Steward, read a telegram from Frank Fever, secretary of the O.A.S.A. congratulating the Belleville teams on their fine showing in the playdowns.

Four presentations were made but because the city playoffs were not completed in the "A" and "AA" actions, these trophies could not be awarded.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market hit rough going today after Monday's sharp climb but managed a small forenoon advance despite profit-taking.

Papers, utilities, financial institutions, motors and manufacturers gained narrowly but constructions eased. Base metals, western oils and golds were all mixed to a little stronger.

Industrial price changes were mostly small. Western Tungsten in low-priced mines dropped sharply from the opening after losing an important contract. National Explorations touched 80 cents on an 11-cent climb.

Triad touched a 1954 high of $4.50 in western oils.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade continued very good with sales of steers too few to establish a trend at the Ontario stockyards today. Other classes sold steady. Receipts: cattle 700; calves 320; hogs 350; sheep and lambs 330; holdover from Monday 2,000 cattle.

Good heifers 17-18; mediums 14-16; common 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; good fed yearlings 22-23; mediums 18-21; good cows 10; light heifers cows up to 11.50; canners and cutters down to 9; good heavy bologna bulls 11-12; common light bulls down to 8.

Replacement cattle met a narrow demand with good stock calves 17-18; mediums 14-16; medium stockers 15-16; common down to 12.

Calves steady to the week's advance with good and choice vealers 25-28; mediums 15-22; common 10-15; grass calves sold for slaughter from 8-12.

Hogs 27 for grade A with 308 out Monday at 27.25; B1's 26; sows 18.50.

Lambs steady at 20-21 for good ewes and wethers; bucks discounted 1 and heavies from 2-4 a hundredweight; medium lambs 19-20. Good light shorn 15-16; heavy sheep 5-7; common 3-5.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings adequate for a steady demand.

Joe Gould, Newcomer Seeking Seat on Council, Heads Poll

TRENTON, (Special.) — For the first time in many years a newcomer seeking election to council office headed the polls. It was also the first time ratepayers voted a former R.C.A.F. member the responsibility of serving them in town matters.

Former W. O. 1 Joe Gould, prominent local merchant, in his first try for council office, collected 1,329 votes to lead the field of nine candidates aspiring for the council seats. Seasoned candidate Claude Graham was his nearest competitor with 1,231 and Dr. J. MacDonald a member of last year's council came third with 1,122 votes.

Chairman of finance on the 1953 board, Gerald Weaver who finished in top position last year, placed fourth polling a total of 1,116. N. J. McNair and Robert Smithrim both members of council in the Burtt regime last year finished fifth and sixth respectively.

Out of the running were Jack Goldberg, R. J. (Dick) Whitley and Harold Blakely.

Voters returned A. E. (Bert) Atkinson as Public Utilities Commissioner with an overwhelming majority. He polled 1,367 against rival Lyle Carr's 474.

In the election for three openings on the Board of Education Dr. J. E. Richmond, Doug Whitley and George Greer were successful. Dick Weaver (Pete) Aziz the fourth candidate lost out.

Entertaining sounded their voice on the Community Centre question. For 2,559 and 638 voted yes to 430 against. Only property owners were entitled to cast ballots on this authority. Now the committee can go ahead and raise $70,000 and the town will provide the remaining $100,000 by virtue of a debenture issue.

Results of earlier total vote across the town amounted to 23 per cent of the possible 5,500 or half of the number of ballots cast last year when keen interest was taken in a three-way mayoralty race.

Trenton's new council is headed by Mayor Ross Burtt returned by acclamation when four nominated for the job of Chief Magistrate failed to qualify.

Injuries Fatal

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Duffy, 70, injured when struck by a car near her home Dec. 3, died in hospital here Monday. Mrs. Duffy suffered a broken leg and a fractured pelvis in the accident. She was Toronto's 69th traffic fatality this year.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at discount of 3 5-32 here in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon, EST, today. Monday's noon rate was 96 7-8 cents. Pound sterling $2.70 1-4, unchanged.

Three Brighton Men Injured In Collision

TRENTON (Special) — Three Brighton men, employed at the Trenton Air Station were injured, one seriously, in a bad transport-car crash a half mile east of Smithfield on Highway No. 2 yesterday.

Ivan Brintnell, 30, driver of the car, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering from serious fractures and numerous cuts. His passengers, Herb Miller of Gosport, and Jack Clark, of Brighton, were released from hospital after treatment. The accident occurred during the rush hour. The trio were travelling home from the airbase where they work.

The tractor-trailer, owned by the Hughson Construction Company on a job at Brighton, left the highway and plowed into a field beside the highway. Name of the driver of the transport was not available.

Britain Faces Threat Of Railroad Strike

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britons learned today they may have a rail strike for Christmas.

Some 400,000 railway workers are asking for a general six-to seven-per-cent wage increase before the holidays.

The National Union of Railwaymen decided Monday, after a meeting with the British transport commission, to submit its demands directly to Transport Minister John Boyd-Carpenter.

Women Do Well In Municipal Votes in Ontario

In Ontario municipal elections Monday:

Two women mayors were re-elected, one for an unprecedented fourth term in her city;

Windsor ousted Mayor Arthur Reaume after 14 years in office; and Toronto elected its first Jewish mayor.

A farmer was elected mayor of the automotive city of Oshawa;

Belleville elected its first women alderman;

In the day's voting, nine cities got new mayors, four where the sitting mayor did not run and five where he went down to defeat. Seven re-elected their mayors. In seven others, mayors were elected by acclamation as nominations a week and more ago.

Mayor Charlotta Whitton went back into office at Ottawa after a scrappy campaign. She defeated two men opponents handily although in the early stages of the vote-counting the laggard behind. Al Woodstock in western Ontario mayor Bernadette Smith won a fourth consecutive term in a city which had never before given a mayor more than three in a row.

Oshawa's farmer-mayor is Norman Down, who owns a farm in a rural area the city annexed a year or so ago. He has been a member of the city council and he defeated three other aldermen—a contractor an insurance man and an auto worker—who joined in a four-man fight to succeed J. W. Naylor retiring.

Other re-elections: Kingston, George Clark Wright, member of a family which edited in Kingston in 1778, for a fourth term; Niagara Falls, Ernest Hawkins, for a fifth term; Sarnia, W. C. Nelson, who was first elected mayor in 1941 and since then has missed only the 1945 term.

Archie R. Sterling defeated a council veteran, Grant Newkirk, at Chatham, where Mayor W. A. Donovan retired. John A. Dewart, a manufacturer, won a keen fight at Peterborough where the sitting mayor, N. G. Graham, did not run. Alderman Wilfred Gregory, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, was elected at Stratford where the present mayor, Lawrence Feick, was elected as alderman.

Women's Auxiliary Arts, Crafts Program Includes 6 New Subjects

Commencing with the new year, six new subjects will be added to the fifteen now on the Arts and Crafts program.

These are "Fashion Modelling", under the supervision of Mrs. Mervyn Smith, a former professional model in Montreal and New York cities. Some of the organizations for which Mrs. Smith has modelled are, Holt Renfrew, Henry Morgan's, and the Chateau Laurier.

Estelle, as she is known to most of her group, also trained the models who participated in the last three Variety Shows at Station Trenton.

"Oil Painting," is to be taught by W/O J. A. McCaffrey. Mr. McCaffrey attended the College of Art in Nova Scotia, and before the Second World War exhibited his paintings in various exhibitions. He was a member and also secretary of the Nova Scotia Society of Art Association.

A "Home Nursing Course," provided by the St. John Ambulance Association, will have a registered nurse as the instructor.

The "English Course" will be taught by Mr. G. Dwyer, principal of the A/C/M Breadner School.

"Aluminum Etching," with Mrs. L. Carrier as instructor. Mrs. Carrier has found this hobby an interesting and inexpensive pastime and willingly consented to act as an instructor to all who were interested in the course.

"Physical Training" will be under the supervision of three able instructors, whose names will be given at the January meeting of the W.A.

25 Aircraft Are Destroyed At Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—A estimated 25 aircraft, ranging in size from a large DC-3 to a tiny Fleet Canuck and in price from $300,000 to $2,000 were destroyed Monday night in a spectacular fire which razed a hangar at Calgary's municipal airport.

Damage was unofficially estimated at $2,500,000. Investigation has started.

No one was injured although one airman collapsed from smoke poisoning.

The flames took 10 minutes to rush through the one-storey, 300-by-600 square frame structure. It took firemen two hours to bring it under control. Only one plane was saved.

PROSPERITY AND WAGES

"High wages are a result, not the cause, of prosperity."

That statement is the opening sentence in the leading article in the December issue of "Industry," published by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"It is not the amount of money in wages, but what that money will buy that is important," the article continues.

Those are statements which needed saying, badly.

And yet, unfortunately, while they are the truth and extremely important, they are not the whole truth.

During the war years and in the immediate post-war period, we heard much from Ottawa on the function of high taxes as a check on inflation. By draining off purchasing power, we were told, taxes and high prices from soaring and created the inflationary trend.

Now this was partly true, but it was not the whole truth, for a tax is often a cost of doing business. In a seller's market, the producer who has had no difficulty adding the amount of the tax to the selling price of the article he manufactures—and then adding a profit onto the cost, so that the price of the article is increased by the amount of the tax plus a profit on the tax.

The country generally, however, accepted the government's theory that taxes check inflation by reducing the purchasing power of the population.

It was natural, therefore, that when the post-war sellers' market ran its course and some prices showed a tendency to slump rather than to rise, the first attention of many Canadians should have been turned to the possibility of increasing purchasing power. If draining off purchasing power through taxes would keep prices from rising, then increasing purchasing power should prevent prices from falling, increase consumer demand and check the rise of unemployment.

There are, however, more ways than one of increasing purchasing power. Reducing taxes would be one, but the individual Canadian can do little about that. He can, however, try to increase his own purchasing power by seeking an increase in wages, that is what thousands of Canadians did and are still doing.

Unfortunately, as "Industry" points out, higher wages do not necessarily mean spring are purchasing power. The important point is not the amount of money in the pay envelope but what this money will buy.

That is the point made by "Industry" and that is one of the reasons why efforts to obtain prosperity through higher wages cannot be successful unless these higher wages reflect an increase in productivity.

Yet, as we said earlier, this is only part of the truth. It is also true that a decline in wage levels can drastically reduce consumption, even if this decline is offset by lower prices for many goods. Wage earners, like corporations, often have fixed charges which must be met, for example mortgage payments. These fixed payments do not decline and if a higher proportion of the wage-earner's income is required for them, then a smaller proportion will be available for the purchase of consumer goods.

So, though high wages are a result, not the cause, of prosperity, low wages can be a cause, as well as the result, of a depression.

Perhaps the key to the present controversy as to the best means to prevent the spread of unemployment is the failure of the experts to agree on the role which present wage levels are playing.

Are high wage rates pricing us out of overseas' markets and decreasing the effective demand in the domestic market because of the manner in which they force up the price of goods?

Or is the real danger a reduction in purchasing power caused by a decline in the purchasing power of the particularly farm produce, and lower incomes among urban workers as the result of unemployment?

What makes a decision so difficult to reach is that it appears probable that both these factors are operative at the same time.

If we grant this, it would appear evident that what is required is a balance. That, however, is much easier said than done.

Perhaps the simplest way to do so would be to reduce taxes—but with the world in its present state of armaments and defence spending essential, even this simplest method is no easy task.

THE RIGHT AGE TO STOP SMOKING

We learn by experience—not only our own but the experiences of others, too.

Alas, sometimes these experiences do not come early enough in life to justify us.

That is true in the case of David Hutchinson, who started smoking his grandfather's briar when he was one year old.

That, we will agree, was quite early enough for David to start smoking, but when David was one year old was too late in the lives of many of the rest of us to permit us to benefit from David's experience.

Now, at the age of six, David has decided to stop smoking. This makes the advantages of starting smoking when one year old obvious to even the most obtuse.

At six, David has only another less than a lifetime in which to accomplish his self-appointed chore of stopping to smoke.

Many of the rest of us have that long—and most of us find we need every day we have and then some.

HUMOR

I do not know that beast and bird
Laugh at each other now and then
And find in what has just occurred
The humor that appeals to men.

Such gems about its purpose here
And true, it seems, to do its best,
But still so grave they all appear,
I wonder if they never jest?

Has life for them no comic side?
Is it according to God's plan
That laughter was to them denied
And kept exclusively for man?

How rich are we, through good and ill,
Who live on earth a little while
Succeed and fail sometimes, and still Possess the privilege to smile

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 7, 1934

Mr. W. A. Jones was elected mayor of Trenton over Mr. Clifford Colliver in one of the most spirited elections held in that town for many years.

Mr. George J. Forhan is in Toronto today to arrange special attraction for his annual New Year's Eve frolic at the Belle Theatre.

Mr. Sidney L. Howell, B.A., barrister, and until recently associated with a leading law firm in Toronto, has become a partner in the law firm of O'Flynn and O'Flynn in this city and under the new arrangement the firm will be known as O'Flynn and Howell.

Mr. Howell comes from a family which is among the oldest settlers in the Bay of Quinte district. He is a nephew of Mrs. Fred S. Deacon in this city.

Under the auspices of the Hastings County Council, the annual public speaking contest open to junior pupils in the county assembled today in the auditorium at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School yesterday afternoon. The prize winners were: Gladys McGuire of the Consolidated School at Tweed, young daughter of Mr. A. W. McGuire, school inspector for Centre Hastings, and Edgar Burleigh, of School Section No. 19, Thurlow township. Each received a gold medal donated by the warden of the county, Mr. George Jordan. In addition to the gold medal donated by the warden for the best speaker in the district, Miss Mary McGuire also won the championship trophy in the contest, which was donated by Col. Roscoe Vanderwater. The judges were Mr. J. G. Hertly, the Rev. I. B Naylor and Mrs. C. Heard.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Something new in the line of door-to-door selling occurred at my house yesterday. A man wearing a cowboy hat and jacket and unlike a delivery man or chauffeur appeared at the door and briskly handed it a neat-looking parcel. My wife took it.

"That's six cakes of soap", he said, briskly.

He had a second, smaller package.

"This," he said, "is pumice soap."

He handed it over, with the same brisk, delivery man style. My wife took it.

She says she was under the impression I had ordered it, and it was merely being delivered. She started to back away and close the door, as you do when a package is received.

From under his arm, the delivery man produced a third packet, briskly like the first one, containing still

He extended it.

"That will be seventy-five cents," he said, "but this one we give free".

My wife promptly handed the packages back to him.

"Thank goodness!" she said. "My poor husband is a soap fiend. He keeps buying soap and sending soap home from the drug store, and from the department store. There's a soap stashed all over the house, up in the attic, down in the . . . I thought this was another hard luck story."

But the uniformed super soap salesman was already away down the walk, looking for his next prospect.

Would this suggest that door-to-door selling is starting to recover? Four or five years ago, hardly a day could pass without some thing in a mink coat coming to sell you a floor cleaning fluid, or home permanent. Gentlemen in black Homburgs visited to demonstrate vacuum cleaners that sweep up marbles. You never knew who or what would ring your bell.

If it is starting up again, we ought to be on the alert.

Soldier's View of Vesting

Is "London Cellar"

Lt.-General Sir BRIAN HORROCKS gives some impressions of the famous British commander under whom he served in the war.

In the years immediately preceding the last war the name of a certain General Montgomery was constantly being mentioned in British army circles. He was something of an enfant terrible to the older officers, who did not altogether approve of his unorthodox methods. He also had the reputation of being a man who did not suffer fools gladly, and who drove subordinates hard. Nevertheless it was noticeable that many of those who had served in close contact with Montgomery were loud in his praises.

One of the main reasons for his success lies in his extreme self-discipline. He leads a very strict, almost ascetic life—neither drinks nor smokes, eats sparingly, and always goes to bed early no matter what is happening. I believe I am correct in saying that he was only known up to the end of the fighting the whole war. He once explained to me that if a General was to survive the intense responsibility and high command in war he must have his mind fresh and his body must have plenty of sleep. That was why during the war, he lived at a small comfortable house, the Mas, C.s, Liaison Officers, and a couple of young ladies from the Red Cross ward as possible and usually quite a long way from his main headquarters. Consequently he can see the mass of visitors who arrived almost daily, for whom must of course meet the commander himself personally. This made him unpopular in certain circles, but was exactly the same today in his present appointment as Deputy-Commander to General Grumbler. Although his headquarters are at SHAPE near Paris, he lives quietly in a small part of the Chateau de Courance on the edge of the forestland, at his mill-house in Hampshire.

My first meeting with the by-now legendary Montgomery was in the early morning of May 14, 1940. I had been sent over to France in Belgium to take command of the 1st Battalion the Middlesex Regiment, then forming part of the 5th Division—Montgomery's Division—and I was told that the Divisional Commander wanted to see me. Incidentally, the previous night I had made our first contact with the advancing Germans across the River Dyle, and it was quite an exciting moment. As I approached the road, there was a halt in the traffic, and sitting in the back of a car, I was conscious of a small, wiry man, spry from piercing blue eyes. I little realised that this was the man under whom I was to serve continuously, except for a period in hospital, throughout the war. I thus had a unique opportunity of being able to study Montgomery at close quarters under every conceivable conditions. First of all, as a Divisional Commander during the withdrawal to Dunkirk, where he took over command of the 2nd Brigade during the evacuation. Then back in England when he was given command of the 12th Corps in Eastern Command — where the German invasion was expected. Suddenly he was disappeared, only to re-appear forty-eight hours later as the Commander of the 8th Army in Egypt. Then in quick succession came the battle of Alam El Halfa, Rommel's last all-out bid to capture Egypt, followed by the turning point of the war, El Alamein. The subsequent victorious advance of the 8th Army is now history: 1,850 miles in six months, culminating in the surrender of the German and Italian forces in Tunisia, the invasion of Sicily, Italy, and then, the most important task of all, as the Commander of all the ground forces for the Normandy landings in Normandy. Subsequently he served in the 21st Army Group, and received the final surrender of the German armies on Lueneburg Heath in May, 1945.

I would like to consider what were the particular qualities which made Montgomery such a successful commander — and the first I would mention is that though I have [illegible] these serving under him. After a visit from the Field Marshal almost anyone, even the humblest sapper, would be ready to march [illegible] paigne. No matter how black things might look, after one of his visits the whole atmosphere would have improved in some miraculous fashion. And, mind you, this is a very difficult quality to find in any commander. The type of man whose very name is to go round and find fault is quite useless under the conditions of modern war.

Another and very great asset was the skill with which he unerringly put his finger on the essentials of every problem. He had an extraordinary way of always seeing the picture as a whole, the surrounding trees; he could cut through nonessentials like an expert cutting nettles with a scythe. I remember well arriving in Egypt in August, 1942, and driving up to Montgomery's headquarters in the desert. He had then been in command of the 8th Army for only four days. Yet he put me into his map caravan and gave me a complete and accurate appreciation of the situation, followed up by a description of how he proposed to fight the battle of Alamein after the corps which I was to take over had repelled Rommel's final attack on Cairo. In other words, he was planning the battles ahead—and that is what he always did.

The contrast between Montgomery and Rommel always fascinated me. Rommel, the opportunist, the first-class armored-corps commander, 'always up in the front,' ready to take advantage of any mistake made by his opponent; but a great planner. Montgomery, looking ahead and planning all his battles down to the smallest detail with an eye to the future. He has been accused of being too cautious. In the early days in Egypt he probably was cautious, more cautious than Rommel, would have been in his place. But he once said to me in 1942: 'Up to the present we have had too many attacks in the war. What we want now is a steady series of attacks which I am not going to take any unnecessary risks.' The result was that he never lost a battle from 1942 until the end of the war. But he was personally prepared to take a risk if he thought one was justified.

It often has been said by his critics that he surrounded himself with his own 'yes men,' and whom must of course meet the commander himself personally. This made him unpopular in certain circles, but was exactly the same today in his present appointment as Deputy-Commander to General Grumbler. Although his headquarters are at SHAPE near Paris, he lives quietly in a small part of the Chateau de Courance on the edge of the forestland, at his mill-house in Hampshire.

Fix Height Of Everest

(Christian Science Monitor)

The Indian Government has announced it has settled the country's long dispute as to the exact height of Mt. Everest. It is not 92,000 feet, as was first reported, but 29,028 feet. It is 29,028, give or take 10 feet depending on the latest snowfall.

This first figure will be used impudently that all the people who have been living in the shadow of the world flight for fear the pilot would not know the figure but will clear the Himalayas can now go back to their desks and windowwarted scribblers can now go with their scribbling and fretted imaginations. Perhaps their writing will result perhaps not too difficult, in the production of more their children growing up with less inhibition; and the Brinks robbery may be solved.

But we're ashamed of that impulse and think of it no more. In fact, all the Indian Government didn't hold up some political ideology to Mt. Everest and fix its elevation at [illegible] parts per million. It merely measured it and left the point itself. Which must have cost a bit of money. And which leads us to ask, why?

Specifically, we can't know. In general, if it weren't for man's burning ambition to find out exactly "how deep is the ocean, how high is the sky" instead of having it to the songs writers we wouldn't have Tin Pan Alley or the Dark Ages.

We are glad to know that Mt. Everest is 29,028 feet high (more or less), and say so merely

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

DO HAVE SOME MORE OXYGEN

DR. BRADY

When I met the jolly professor of something I can't spell, he told me he has enjoyed my column for many years and that I might meet aunt, a widow of a fabulous wealth and no other poor relation, declares that my teachings account for her remarkably good health.

The professor opined there was more truth than poetry . . .

Woman with plenty of back and no one but a retired teacher to . . . Yahbut . . .

The professor held up his hand. He had a query for me—an idea that he had hoped . . . well . . .

Three million Ten million! Nonsense! It would be worthy of a much larger endowment, say forty or fifty million . . .

The professor rambled on and on . . . when I tried to cut in with the wish that I might meet his aunt and acquaint her with the project he raised his hand again and said: "Have you a bit of health advice do you considered important for most people?"

It was idle enough at the moment . . . for I was busy dreaming of a foundation or an endowment which would insure regular publication of this column or as much of it as an editorial board might approve it at least one daily newspaper in every town that has a daily paper and the distribution of pamphlets without the onerous necessity of counting the costs of printing, postage, wages and charging enough to cover.

Then my dream is as idle as the professor's query. Maybe people who testify to the value of my teachings, as his aunt does, are just giving me the old sauvilaquence (synonym for soft-soap) in anticipation of getting further from me. On the other hand maybe somebody's rich widowed aunt who has learned from me will cause something to the advantage of her health and happiness will take it into her head to set up some such foundation or endowment to help everybody to better health. Many a wealthy widow has done worse.

Now for the professor's query. I've thought about it many times and my belief—which I imagine many readers will share—is that the most valuable health advice I give is help toward.

I was going to plump for morning rolls, but I know a lot of people will be miffed when I say about that. They consider it ridiculous for one in his or her fifties, sixties or seventies to attempt to do forward rolls (what the hell are they, anyway, called somersaults) and therefore a doctor so-called, who recommends and does six or 'em every morning before breakfast must be retired and not a reliable health teacher.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IF WINTER COMES

To many people, the time of year when autumn is ending and winter is beginning is the oddest of all seasons. Colors of fall in foliage have departed, and they look forward with apprehension to the coming winter, with its promise of grey skies, treacherous roads, cold feet, and coughs. The daylight gets shorter; fuel bills increase; the prospect is unpleasant winter—and yet no one despairs, for the very presence of winter-is a promise of wonderful days to follow.

The changing of seasons, and in particular the coming of winter is an ever-present calendar of the flight of time. Where has summer gone? Spring was but a jot ago, and every summer has had its distribution of pamphlets without the onerous necessity of counting the costs of printing, postage, wages and charging enough to cover.

Then my dream is as idle as the professor's query. Maybe people who testify to the value of my teachings, as his aunt does, are just giving me the old sauvilaquence (synonym for soft-soap) in anticipation of getting further from me. On the other hand maybe somebody's rich widowed aunt who has learned from me will cause something to the advantage of her health and happiness will take it into her head to set up some such foundation or endowment to help everybody to better health. Many a wealthy widow has done worse.

Now for the professor's query. I've thought about it many times and my belief—which I imagine many readers will share—is that the most valuable health advice I give is help toward.

I was going to plump for morning rolls, but I know a lot of people will be miffed when I say about that. They consider it ridiculous for one in his or her fifties, sixties or seventies to attempt to do forward rolls (what the hell are they, anyway, called somersaults) and therefore a doctor so-called, who recommends and does six or 'em every morning before breakfast must be retired and not a reliable health teacher.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PEOPLE AND BOOKS

Many years ago I met and admired a brilliant newspaper editor. He was much of each other and it was an inspiring friendship. I recall one thing as we sat in a restaurant talking. All of a sudden he said: "Look up at the lights. We are creating copy for me." Today I have a dozen or so of the books of this friend. These authors get their material from people.

People are my books. As George Barr McCutcheon contended when he wrote a thousand little stories, "Books Once Were Men." There is an aliveness to a library all its own and in my office which gives me a great lift every time I enter each room. I love people speaking from books. There is no death to a great book.

Men and women who have never written a book are actual circulating books of themselves. I read the life of an interesting person every time I encounter him in talk. Some are walking anthologies, depicting themselves in small paragraphs, others are set in a while at an interesting chapter. And if you have been blessed long enough you will have read him as a fascinating and instructive book.

People are books. Some are walking poems, histories, romances, and scientists. But each person reveals only a partial story on himself. You have to get the truth, and the deeper side in the footnotes tfiat tell so much to any of us as we read books and look at pictures. Often these footnotes are more important than the book itself! They are the true footnotes to life.

Books have souls, just the same as human souls. Some are bad, and are sure to discover this fact if you have love enough and if they're not. Some are wonderful reading sort. I have books I handle as I would a baby born to me. I am precarious. On one of my visits to Yale University library I asked to see that which was first published in America, called "The Bay Psalm Book." It was bought for $150,000. I held it in my hands, as careful of it as though it had been a hummingbird's egg, or a suspended star from on high.

Could Do Without

(St. Catharines Standard)

Canada has too many people who do not lead thoughtful lives in order to have things they could do without.

Count Your Blessings

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

It's a bit monotonous to stop adding up your troubles and turn to counting your blessings.

THOMAS, TEMPLE

Complete returns were not available at press time but there was no possibility the by-laws would meet with the approval of the electorate even with complete returns.

With six returns to be counted the score by clear figures read "Yes—912." "No—1622." The parking by-law figures were "Yes —819," and "No—1653."

TRUSTEES ELECTED

Three public school trustees were elected on the ward system in Samson Ward—James O Brisbin won over Charles Main; in Ketchenon Ward, Gordon Trill defeated James Ritchie; Bruce Bishop won over Howard House in Bleecker Ward, while Lyle Langabeer defeated John Lennox and Beverley Quinney in Coleman Ward.

Two separate school trustees were elected in each of three wards for the first time in the history of the city. Two were returned in order to start the procedural rotation of school trustees every two years. In Samson Ward Carl Casey and Pat Hallorin defeated Twomey Black (this was close, not complete). In Ketchenon Ward, Paul Mercier and Richard Barrett were victorious over William Doyle, Terrence Kelly and Kenneth Soden while Tommy Mascaro and John Barrett defeated Thomas Hutchinson in Marmey Ward.

HALL NOT CROWDED

What was anticipated a fiery blitzkrieg failed to have developed into a rather quiet affair. The city hall council chambers where tabulators Drury Denyes, Leighton Thompson and George Whitman toiled to give an audience the latest returns was not crowded at any time. It was vastly different to the overflow crowd that spilled into the corridors in the 1951 election.

There was little demonstration on the part of the spectators with a occasional "Ah!" being heard as one or another expressed surprise, disappointment or approval.

Shortly after ten-thirty when Aldermen Thomas and Temple conceded the election to Mayor Both, there was slight cheering in the streets, when the mayor and party entered the city hall. A few raucous "toots" on automobile horns heralded the mayor party.

As a matter of fact there was scarcely a "corporal's guard" in the chambers when the last few returns filtered in. A couple of die-hard newspapermen "hung around" awaiting the final return which never came, and which was not compiled or situated until this morning.

The last return arrived at the city hall around 12.30 a.m., this morning and although the majority of the returns were more or less prompt in arriving, some half dozen held up tabulation activities. The spectators, it appeared were satisfied there would be no changes in the standing and gradually slipped out of the city hall and Dome.

Mayor Both was host at a victory party held in the Club Candadore.

There was never any doubt as to the outcome of the mayoralty fight. Mayor Both was given a 511 majority over Alderman Thomas at the advance poll, the first to be promulgated on the Whitman scoreboard, and from that point on, he never looked backward.

ELECTION MATTER OF TIME

His plurality over Alderman Thomas increased with practically every return and as early as the 11th sub-division report, when he held a majority of 270, it was evident his election was a matter of time.

With 18 divisions heard from the mayor led the field with a margin of 674 over Thomas, 838 over Temple. With 26 polls heard from the gap had widened to 943 and 1187 and at this point Alderman Thomas and Temple conceded the election. The mayor's plurality swelled until it reached the final figure of 1172.

Both defeated aldermen spoke briefly in the council chamber after conceding the election. Alderman Thomas thanked his supporters who worked "courageously for me today." He congratulated Mayor Both on his victory and expressed the hope all would go on to a bigger and better Belleville.

Alderman Temple also expressed his appreciation for the support given him. He wished the Mayor the best of success, also the council and citizens, adding he would do his best in the interests of the city.

SWEPT INTO EARLY LEAD

It was slightly different in the aldermanic battle although Mrs. Forrester swept into an initial lead that increased by length and bounds as the returns trickled in. Fifteen polling sub-divisions gave her over 100 votes with the highest, 183, coming from Samson Four.

Mrs. McCabe who finished fourth also gained an early lead, which she never relinquished. She polled consistently high returns and ended through her tabulations her election was practically conceded by veteran observers.

Alderman Gerald Hyde fell behind Mrs. Forrester and consistently high returns kept him in second place practically through the entire evening. Enos David kept pace and perhaps the positions did change occasionally but not for long. Alderman Clarke also maintained a steady return gait and his election was never doubted.

BATTLE FOR LAST PLACE

Alderman-elect Grandame rose steadily in the latter returns and he eventually pulled out and passed Alderman Clarke as the finals began to trickle in. Reeve Graham and Reid staged a more-or-less seesaw battle with the latter holding a lead in the final return was submitted this morning.

Eight of the defeated aspirants polled over 1,000 votes with all being closely grouped and the low votes separating them.

It was stated by a prominent city hall official that indications up to five o'clock last evening pointed to one of the highest votes in years. He had "gallup-polled" the majority of the subdivisions, he said, and the greater majority reported the lightest vote in years up to that time.

"After that," he said, "the candidates started the polling and the work. From five to seven the greater number of divisions were filled with votes. This, he believed, was the cause of the delay in obtaining returns.

At subdivision 5X and 5WH at the fire station in East Belleville, said to be one of the largest divisions in the city, voters crowded the polling booths between five and seven o'clock. It was stated they had to be taken into the fire hall in relays and their turn at the ballot box and this was the main reason why the subdivisions returns could not be counted last night.

A number of the successful candidates spoke briefly near the close of the election.

Mrs. Forrester said: "This expression of confidence is overwhelming. For me, after the shouting and the tumult, there is hard work. You can be assured I shall do all I can to fulfill the confidence you have placed in me."

ELECTED GIVE THANKS

"I am flattered and honored," smiled Alderman Gerald Hyde expressing his appreciation. "I will try conscientiously to do my best as I have done in the past."

Alderman-elect David said he was humble and grateful and appreciative of what the "wonderful people of Belleville had done for him." He said he would not make any promises but would always do his best to make decisions for the greatest good for the greatest number. He felt that in municipal government politics should be left at home and decisions made on a common sense basis.

Alderman-elect Grandame thanked his supporters saying he would do his very best to serve them, the same way he has done on the school board and other community activities.

Mrs. McCabe also expressed her gratitude for the support accorded here. She said, she would do everything in her power to merit the confidence placed in her—and would put all her efforts into it.

Alderman Clarke said he was glad to see a council elected that would be a credit to the city. He thanked the voters "who have put their confidence in me for the past 15 years."

Mayor John Both thanking his supporters said he was proud to be re-elected. "In this democratic country," he said, "it is the will of the people which shows the way to travel." He intended to work as vigorously in 1955 as he did in 1954 for the betterment of the community and the city as a whole."

Make-Believe Farm Family U.K. Equivalent of Soap Opera

By ARCH McKINNIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Ten million United Kingdom radio listeners are caught firmly each night under the rustic spell of the mythical village of Ambridge, home of a make-believe farm family called the Archers.

This folksy serial of domestic and rural life carried on the state-owned British broadcasting Corporation is the British equivalent of the North American soap operas—the suds. Thousands think it the real McCoy.

Crises that ebb and flow with the rhythm of the seasons spring from such sources as attacks of foot-and-mouth disease, a broken tractor, carburetor or a domestic spat. The Archers, their friends and farm help drop agriculturally-sound small talk about turkeys and tillage, mixed with current affairs, against a background of mooing cattle, tractor machines and bird calls.

PROGRAM HONORED

It was a major event when the Archers chalked up their 1,500th broadcast on Nov. 23. BBC Director-General Sir Ian Jacob attended a special party to honor the 31 family characters. Among a host of guests were the presidents of the National Farmers' Union and the National Union of Agricultural Workers.

The program's appeal makes special demands on the authenticity it features. Hundreds of letters follow a miscue.

Cynics, who have rarely seen a farm cow, quiz it calves appearing out of season. Meat, milk and egg prices have to be up to the minute, and the program once had its knuckles rapped for referring to a "pair" of pheasants, rather than a "brace."

There have been frequent requests for permission to camp at Brookfield Farm. A Scottish contractor applied when Mr. Archer wanted 30 tons of fertilizer, and more than 50 applications were received when the script called for a hired man.

AVOID POLITICS

As befits a BBC non-party production, the Archers go to almost any lengths to avoid political controversy. Nevertheless, the National Union of Agricultural Workers has indicated that the program does not present a true picture of rural life, and that the Archer farmhand had better get a union card.

The Communists say that the said hired man, Simon Cooper, pays too many visits to the village pub and otherwise lives too high a life to be a true representative of British farm employees.

In analyzing the Archer appeal, the critics feel that the listener reveels in reflected tranquility, and the little give and take of domestic life as painted slightly. They also believe the Archers satisfy the British passion for the rural life, a mild form of "escapism" that says it can only subsist in a garden, if they have one.

EX-PUBLISHER DEAD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Barclay H. Warburton, 58, former publisher of the old Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, died Sunday.

Five Children Perish in Flames

FRANKLIN, Mass. (AP) — Five helpless children, trapped in their bedroom by flames, died a few minutes before midnight in a roaring farmhouse fire.

The five, ranging in age from 2 to 7, were the son and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald de Baggis.

De Baggis, 30, a polisher at a jewelry plant, rescued his wife, Maureen, 28, and their youngest child, six-month-old Diane.

The five who perished were Shirley, 7, Donald, 6, Margaret, 4, Joanne, 3, and Regina, 2.

De Baggis said a kitchen oil stove exploded as the family was preparing for bed about 11:45.

The five older children were asleep directly above the kitchen. Their parents and the baby were downstairs in a room adjoining the kitchen.

Montreal Murder Still Mystery After Year's Work

MONTREAL (CP) — A Bourbonnieres street woman looked out of her kitchen window about a year ago and uncovered one of Montreal's greatest murder mysteries.

In the alley behind her east-end home she saw the headless, handless and footless body of a man whose identity, to this day, has not been established.

Police say that countless checks have proved worthless a year after the still-warm torso, clad in long winter underwear and wrapped in a blanket, was found.

Assistant Inspector Henry Bond, head of Montreal's homicide squad, says "we are not any further advanced today than when the body was found."

FBI HELPED

Law enforcement agencies such as the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation and the RCMP also investigated leads and published photographs and descriptions of the victim in their official magazines.

Police said the victim was "identified" at least 36 times.

All went wrong although the victim's head was eventually found. It had been battered possibly crushed in a tobacco press—but science permitted its reconstruction.

The feet, too, were found . . . but the hands are still missing.

Police assumed that they were permanently done away with to prevent identification through fingerprints.

Wesley United Church Elects 1955 Officers

The regular meeting of the Wesley W.A., was held recently at the Deanes' home.

The president, Mrs. E. Windover, opened the meeting with a short meditation.

Mrs. Saylor, was in charge of the "Devotional Part of the program was opened by singing "A Charge to Keep I Have". Mrs. F. Deanes read the Scripture; Mrs. G. Heutis the meditation and Mrs. H. Hunter led in prayer.

There were 13 members and one visitor present.

The members accepted an invitation to meet with the Thorrnacle church here at their December meeting. Plans were made to have a candlelight service in the church again this year.

The treasurer gave a good report with $132 cleared at the bazaar.

The Christmas meeting will be held at the Deanes' home, with exchange of Christmas gifts.

Mrs. F. Deanes, supplimented Mrs. Windover for her fine leadership through 1954, and Mrs. Windover thanked the members for their splendid co-operation.

1955 OFFICERS

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton took charge of the election of officers for 1955: president, Mrs. E. Windover; secretary, Mrs. H. Ruttar; treasurer, Mrs. J. Stewart; flower convener, Mrs. C. Rutter; card convener; Mrs. D. Gunn; press reporter, Mrs. W. Deeyes.

The president closed the meeting.

OES Chapter 55 Holds Annual Christmas Party

The Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., held its annual Christmas party, Friday evening, in the form of a pot-luck supper in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple.

The hall was a beautiful Christmas picture: decorated for the occasion with the usual Christmas tree, Santa Claus and his reindeer running across the platform.

Two hundred and 50 members and friends sat down to a banquet of plenty.

The tables were lovely with red and white tapers in candlesticks and fancy centrepieces, artistically arranged on each table.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Anne Davidson and Worthy Patron, Mr. Morley Hancock, their complete staff of officers for 1955, D.D.G. Matron, Mrs. Ida Brooks, Grand Martha of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, Mrs. Edna Dobbs, and Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, were invited to the head table.

The program was short but excellent entertainment.

Mrs. Beverly Shaw, accompanied by Mrs. Ina Miller, sang three lovely solos.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Morley Hancock, W.P., introduced the guest speaker, of the evening, Archdeacon Creeggan who left the message "Christmas is an act of God for the sake of man." This was an inspiring address.

Bro. Everett Liddle, P.W.P., was a capable Santa Claus and distributed gifts to one and all.

Bro. John Good extended season's greetings to one and all and thanked the refreshment and decorating committees for their excellent work.

Mrs. Grace Wilson was pianist for the evening.

Kiwanis L.A. Enjoys Tasty Pot-Luck Supper

The last monthly meeting for this year of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held Thursday evening in the Kiwanis Centre. The Christmas party atmosphere of the pot-luck supper was greatly enjoyed by all. Mrs. H. G. Emerson, president, welcomed the guests and members and Mrs. A. S. Robb pronounced the invocation.

The lovely, seasonal table decorations and the serving of the food was capably handled by Mrs. H. H. House and Mrs. J. L. Black and their committee. Small gifts for all the members were piled under a beautifully decorated table tree and added much to the festive atmosphere.

After the delicious supper, a short business session was held. A new member, Mrs. R. Walton, was introduced to the Auxiliary, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Mrs. B. I. Joss. The president, Mrs. H. G. Emerson, thanked Mrs. A. Drysdale for her wonderful work on the monthly bulletin, and Mrs. C. S. Funnell for handling the press reports.

A president's rose was presented to Mrs. H. G. Emerson for her faithful work throughout the year as president, to Mrs. Walton's membership committee, and in the absence of Mrs. H. Cross, a rose was presented to Mrs. H. C. Argue, co-chairman of the hobbycraft group for their splendid sophisticated work in the church again this year.

Special refreshment convener, Mrs. C. Lamb asked for donations of sandwiches and cookies for the Hobbycraft Christmas Christmas party and for the Christmas party given each year at the county home. Mrs. A. B. Duffy, reported that the welfare group have been busy and have special plans for Christmas.

It was voted to donate the annual cheque to the Children's Aid.

GUEST SPEAKER

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. V. White, who called upon Mrs. C. Lamb to introduce the speaker for the evening, Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon, who delighted the members with a most interesting and informative talk on "Home Economics" featuring wonderful ideas for Christmas decoratiqns, food shopping, preparation and serving, all designed to have Christmas arrived so well planned and prepared that one could truly enjoy the day.

Mrs. H. R. House, graciously thanked the speaker.

The gifts from the Christmas tree were received by the members and guests, and a most enjoyable evening was concluded with Mrs. D. Slaight on pianist, playing the National Anthem.

WOMEN WORKERS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — More than 20 per cent of Canadian women are employed outside the home, a meeting here was told by Margaret McIlvride, of the Ontario regional federal unemployment insurance commission. She estimated the women's percentage of the total labor force in Canada has increased from 13 per cent a half century ago to 22 per cent now.

Women's Institute

PARKDALE W.I.

Mrs. W. Heasman was hostess for the November meeting of Parkdale W.I. The meeting opened in the usual manner.

Roll call was answered by 22 members, each giving her homemade apron.

It was decided that the members would go out to supper after the New Year.

Volunteers were called upon to help wrap parcels for the Christmas party to be held on Dec. 15.

The singing of Christmas carols followed.

Mrs. W. Brown, convener for 'Citizenship, and Education' took charge.

The motto "A stitch in time saves nine," was prepared and read by Mrs. W. Cone.

Mrs. C. Doyle reported on current events, after which some "Helpful Hints" were heard. A poem was given by Mrs. D. Burley. Mrs. G. Palmer gave a detailed report from the convention held in October and Mrs. W. Heasman gave a short reading on 'Color Discrimination'.

Mrs. J. Jones proved to be the best buttonhole maker, with Mrs. A. Shannon second. Mrs. Palmer winning a prize in the garden contest. Mrs. W. Cone and Mrs. W. Burley were chosen for making the most songs with a color in the title.

The meeting concluded with refreshments.

Fashion Editor Sets Out Rules For Proper Dress

VANCOUVER (CP) — Women who want that "well dressed look" might follow the basic rules of Marie Morosa, Vancouver fashion editor.

At a charm clinic here, Miss Morosa of the Vancouver Sun set out 10 rules for proper dress. Here they are:

1. Keep it simple. Simplicity is the one fundamental of good taste.

2. Give proper care to the hairdo. It need not be the latest, but it must be suitable to the individual.

3. Wear the simplest possible shoes — plain pumps in well-polished calf or kid or well-brushed suede. No open toes or open heels, no ankle straps.

4. Save the glamor clothes for after five. You needn't carry slimness to wearing a tweed skirt and a sweater to tea.

5. Don't overload yourself with accessories. You can make a silly-looking effect out of a nice dress if you overload it with jewelry.

6. Keep your hat smart but simple. It should not draw attention from your face. Only the simplest costume can take a fancy hat.

7. Don't overdress. It's far better to be underdressed for an occasion than overdressed.

8. For ordinary evening wear, short dresses are most becoming and practical, except for formal dinners and formal dances.

9. Gloves should be simple. Immaculate and expensive. Nice gloves raise the tone of a whole outfit.

10. Jewelry should be simple unless you have a real flair for the use of real diamonds. Then the sky's the limit. The only fake jewels that can be worn in quantity are pearls.

Miss Morosa calls them "the safe rules." She says: "If you follow them you will never be improperly dressed."

MEN OUTNUMBERED

LINGFIELD, England (CP) — The local Darby and Joan club — where old folks get together — has 45 members. Only four are men.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Holds Christmas Party

Some 40 members of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church on Monday night enjoyed their annual Christmas party, which took the form of a potluck supper with a great variety of delicious foods.

The tables, spread with Christmas cloths and gay with glistening trees, snow men, Santas and tall red candles, with a candy cane and serviette at each plate, were most attractive.

Mrs. Verrell Smith, president, extended a welcome to all and wished all a happy holiday.

APPRECIATION VOICED

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan expressed his appreciation of the work of the Evening Branch through the year and of their willingness to help with Missionary Meetings and Mrs. W. Heasman gave a short reading on 'Color Discrimination'.

Rev. J. Cantrell and Rev. E. P. Smith voiced their pleasure in being present and extended compliments of the Christmas season.

Following the singing of favorite carols, an entertaining program, arranged by Mrs. A. Sergeard, was enjoyed. Mrs. M. B. Button and Mrs. J. Hibbard played as a piano duet, "Dance of the Ride". Mrs. L. Mason and Mrs. Button rendered a vocal duet, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," followed shortly by a short skit, with appropriate stage setting, "Christmas Journey," by Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. T. Clark.

The president mentioned four members, who through illness, were unable to be in attendance and spoke of a layette recently completed being sent to Birch Hills, Sask.

A letter was read from Fire Chief Gerald Vance, on behalf of the Belleville Fire Department, thanking the organization for their work of bagging 300 pounds of candy given out to children following the Santa Claus parade on Saturday.

Mrs. Button thanked all who had played any part in the success of the recent bazaar, and Mrs. Smith thanked those who had conducted the supper and entertainment.

Mrs. T. Clark, as Santa, was that each one present received a gift from the tree and Rev. J. Cantrell closed with prayer.

Wesley United Church Holds Christmas Bazaar, Afternoon Tea

The chilly rainy day failed to dampen the spirits of the many patrons who visited Wesley United church for its recent annual bazaar.

Yuletide decorations were carried out throughout and provided a pleasant picture to all who came. Sprays of pine with cones and multi-colored ornaments were used in the windows, and a color scheme of blue and silver was used on the plans with tall, white tapers rising from silver tulips collars set in crystal holders.

Receiving the guests at the door were, Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. E. Windover, president of the Women's Association.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

While the guests were entering Mrs. Ed. Bird made the atmosphere more delightful with a pleasing selection of Christmas music lending a festive air to the occasion.

Mrs. A. Daniels favored with a solo at this time accompanied by Mrs. K. Bird.

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton officially opening the bazaar with a word of prayer and a warm welcome to all present.

Mrs. C. Lang acted as treasurer for the most successful affair.

The first booth to be visited was the parcel post, conveyed by Mrs. Harry Frederick assisted by Mrs. Ovens. This table was most attractive with a silver sleigh full of multi-colored parcels and sprays of pine. The gaily wrapped boxes were readily sold at an early hour and proved to contain articles both useful and amusing.

HOME-COOKING

Next to be visited was the home-cooking table convened by Mrs. Harold Wright assisted by Mrs. D. Rush and Mrs. Frank Leach. This was most attractive with its white cloth and Christmas decorations and the variety of good things to eat were soon purchased.

There was a large array of pies including berry, cherry, raisin, apple and pumpkin, taffy and berry tarts, chocolate and white cakes, cup cakes, date bread and freshly baked home-made bread, cookies of all kinds, pickles, canned goods and delicious chicken salad.

The candy table was made attractive with various Yuletide decorations and was convened by Mrs. Harry Rutter, assisted by Miss Mabel Brown. There were small containers of assorted candy and boxes of chocolate fudge and maple cream and divinity fudge. These ladies also sold a pleasing array of ferns and plants along with freshly cut pansies.

VARIETY OF APRONS

The apron booth was well supplied with a large variety of aprons. This was convened by Mrs. Fred Denyes along with Mrs. Ed. Bird, Mrs. C. Heutis and Mrs. J. Stewart. There were aprons of every color and style including lady styles and all-over aprons and some children's.

The attractive centre was made of print flowers and green broadcloth leaves which were also for sale. Around this were grouped pot-holders, hankies, doll clothes, fancy bags, needle cases, pillow slips, luncheon cloths, tea towels, pin cushions, bath towels, fancy goods and one lonely Negro doll dressed in a pretty red coat.

The tea table was appointed with white damask cloth centred by the Yuletide motif and illuminated with tall candles and was also most decorated with pine cones and multi-colored Christmas balls. This was flanked with tall white tapers capped with golden tulle collars in crystal holders. Each end of the table was graced with a gleaming silver tea service and attractive china cups and saucers.

PRESIDING

Presiding for the first hour, were Mrs. Ed. Bird, wife of the pastor of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, and Mrs. Floyd Dudley, of White's church. Relieving them were Mrs. L. F. Reid of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, and Mrs. Edgar Ray, of Centenary.

Mrs. Walter Jones was convener of the tea room and invited the many guests to tea.

Arranging the plates were, Mrs. J. Saylor, Mrs. E. Segar and Mrs. C. Doolittle.

A delicious brew of tea was made by Mrs. C. Wilson assisted by Mrs. Fred Wallis, in their most capable manner.

A most successful bazaar and W.A. and all who so generously helped.

Women of The Moose Plan Activities

The last meeting of the month was held in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Michaelina Calbury presiding. A large attendance was present.

Balloting on candidates was held with the ballot being favorable. The following were received from Louella Bull and Mrs. Meeker. It was decided to hold an open meeting on December 9th when the Regional Director of Oshawa, Leo Robb, will be present to show films of Disneyheart and Moosehaven.

A draw was donated by Sable Thompson and won by Edith Burrows.

A donation of money was given to Chaplain Marg Mallette to be used for a needy person.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas supper on December 9th. The supper will be held at 6.30 with all girls to wear their gowns and gifts are to be brought to exchange on the Christmas tree.

Belleville being second honor chapter in Ontario, the mid-winter conference will be held here on January 30th.

A progressive euchre was convener of the tea room and invited the many guests to tea.

Arranging the plates were, Mrs. J. Saylor, Mrs. E. Segar and Mrs. C. Doolittle.

A delicious brew of tea was made by Mrs. C. Wilson assisted by Mrs. Fred Wallis, in their most capable manner.

A most successful bazaar and W.A. and all who so generously helped.

Women's Activities

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

The December meeting of the Kingston Road W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. H. Walkem with a large attendance of members and two visitors present.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. M. Le Rue.

Mrs. MacDonald had charge of the program, which was opened by all singing a Christmas carol, and then the following readings were enjoyed:

"No Room in the Inn", by Mrs. MacDonald; "Thoughts by the Way," by Mrs. Blakley; "Letter to Santa Claus," by Mrs. Ryan; "Give Yourself This Christmas," by Mrs. M. Reid; "Let's Keep Christmas," and "Looking Back Fifty Years," by Mrs. MacDonald.

Several carols were sung throughout the program. Mrs. J. Parrott accompanied at the piano.

After the program, correspondence was read and a business session followed. An account of the bazaar, held in November, was given by Mrs. Le Rue and all were thanked for their help in making the bazaar a success.

A social period followed the close of the meeting during which gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Walkem, Mrs. Holway and Mrs. J. Haig.

Christmas Gifts From The Kitchen

No doubt plans and preparations for Christmas are well under way at your house. One of the nice things you have probably planned to do is to give small jars of your precious jams, jellies and pickles to some friends whom you know cannot make their own and only enjoy them very much. They do make such an acceptable gift, especially if trimmed up a little. One effective way to decorate the jars is to cover the top of each one with a white or colored paper doily and tie it down with Christmas ribbon. The lacy edge of the doily should extend well beyond the neck of the jar so that it will make a attractive frill. Another idea is to paste a big Santa Claus sticker, one big enough to cover the top of the jar, and flute a collar of white or red paper around the neck of the jar.

Little boxes filled to the brim with an assortment of your Christmas cookies and small cakes will make another acceptable gift for some folks who will not be able to drop in to see you at Christmas. If you don't mind your too tempting to touch if you can spare a few with cellophane, tape it down over the edges and put a sprig of holly or a bow at the corner.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest the following assortment of Christmas goodies for you and your family but for your Christmas gift boxes.

SHORTBREAD

1 cup butter
1-3 cup fruit sugar
2 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose (bread) flour

Cream butter very well until pale yellow in colour. Add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Reserve 1-4 cup for finishing the board during kneading. Add remaining 2 cups flour to butter and sugar mixture, one half cup at a time. Mix well after each addition. Turn dough out on to floured board and gradually knead in remaining flour. Divide dough into two parts and knead each one about five minutes or until all cracks in the dough have disappeared. Chill in refrigerator until stiffened, 15 to 20 minutes. Roll out each piece of dough separately to a thickness of 1-4 inch. Cut into diamonds, one inch in diameter or into other fancy shapes. Be sure to cut right through the dough to the board. Place pieces of shortbread an ungreased baking sheet about one-half inch apart. Bake in a slow oven 300 deg. F., 25 to 30 minutes or until slightly golden. Makes about 36 shortbreads.

SCOTCH CHEWS

1-3 cup butter melted
4 cups quick cooking rolled oats
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-4 cup honey
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 1-2 teaspoon vanilla

TOPPING

1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips or pieces
1-4 cup finely chopped nuts

Pour melted butter over rolled oats and mix well. Add sugar, honey and seasonings and mix thoroughly. Firmly pack into well-greased eight inch square pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375 deg. F. for 13 minutes or until mixture is rich golden brown. (Mixture will still be bubbling.) Place pan on wire rack and let stand until completely cold.

Melt semi-sweet chocolate bits in top of double boiler over hot water, and spread on top of rolled oat mixture, sprinkle with nuts and chill until chocolate is firm. Cut in small squares or fingers. Makes 36 pieces 1 1-4 inches by 1 1-4 inches.

SUGAR COOKIES

1-2 cup butter
3-4 cup sugar
1 egg
1-2 teaspoon flavoring
1 1-2 cups sifted pastry flour
1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt

Cream butter, add sugar and cream well together. Add beaten egg and flavoring. Mix and sift together flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture, blending thoroughly. Roll out with cookie cutters into desired shapes and place on a greased cookie sheet, or drop from teaspoon and flatten with a fork or make into fancy shapes with cookie press. Bake in hot oven of 400 deg. F., 8 to 10 minutes. When taken from oven sprinkle lightly with fruit or fine granulated sugar, colored green or red. Makes 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

MERINGUE BALLS

4 egg whites
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup fruit sugar
1-2 teaspoon almond or vanilla flavoring, nuts, dates, cherries

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Beat in sugar very gradually. Add flavoring. Put this meringue in refrigerator to keep cool. For centre use nuts, use ground filberts or almonds or a mixture of ground dates, candied cherries and nuts. Add enough of the meringue to bold

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW MANY VICTIMIZED MOTHERS-IN-LAW DO YOU KNOW?

Right now, I am going to make a statement that will undoubtedly bring me a barrage of angry letters. And I hope it will, because I would like to be able to think the statement is not true, in some instances at least, though I am certain the majority person will confirm it.

Here goes, then, with the statement: It is the rarest thing in the world for a mother to live up to the image of a married daughter and have things go along happily and harmoniously. For I am convinced that when the average mother goes to live with her average married daughter and her average h u s b a n d, she brings along with her a bag of emotional dynamite that sooner or later will blow the roof off.

That is why our answer to a mother who writes to say that her life with her daughter and son-in-law is "a nightmare," can be given in five short words: "Get out of there!" Not because this woman says that she is well able to work and support herself, but because a registered nurse years ago, before her own marriage, had told this mother-to-be-being what it is, she's quite certain that she has been guilty of the same thing to her former career if she finds herself with the same disagreeables which have developed in the years she has been away from it.

Hers is an extreme case, it is true, but the basic cause and principle is the same, whether the case be flagrantly unusual or not. And I've said that, because unusual it may be, its like is by no means rare.

This woman declares that, after her husband's death, she did not want to go to live with her daughter, who was an only child, because she felt that young couples should be by themselves. But both the daughter and the husband begged her to come and share their home, so she finally yielded to their persuasion.

Their real reason for begging her to come to live with them quickly apparent: they wanted a housekeeper and cook for free.

"I do all the housework," she says, "cook the laundry, scrub my son-in-law's shirts, go to the stores and do the marketing, and wait on all the meals." While the daughter lies in bed until 10 o'clock in the morning, she gets up at 6 to serve her son-in-law his breakfast and go him off to his job. Once the daughter is up, she lounges around the house in a dressing gown, reading novels, while her mother pushes the vacuum cleaner stops the kitchen floor—after she has served the daughter's breakfast, of course.

When the morning chores are done, the mother makes a sandwich and a cup of tea for herself. The daughter, having breakfasted in the middle of the morning, wants no lunch, but enjoys a mid-afternoon snack brought to her on a tray. By the time the son-in-law arrives home, the daughter has managed to get herself dressed and they are both ready for the hearty dinner the mother has cooked, after which they usually go out for the evening.

In the face of all this, it seems incredible that the woman should stop to write and ask whether she should stay where she is or set up her own home, live by herself and earn her own money. Since she has taken the trouble to ask for advice, however, I will make it very simple for her. Here it is:

Get out of your daughter's house just as fast as you can. If you leave the room unswept, the furniture undusted, the beds unmade and the breakfast dishes piled in the sink, so much the better. Find yourself a place to live, go back the work you already know and be independent and self-respecting. Sooner or later your interests and start getting something out of life for yourself.

If your daughter invites you to her house for Sunday dinner, make sure you are not going to be the one to cook it. But I suggest that you don't see your daughter too often. Make it clear to her that you have a full life, and a busy one.

You have been doing her no service by permitting her to lead an idle shiftless woman. For her sake, as well as for your own, you should get as far away from her as possible.

Bonus Readers' Column

By Mary Moore

Until I am caught up with my answers to readers in this Christmas season I will have to use more space here for the recipes they are wanting before the big day.

Mrs. M.C.C. writes: "Dear Lady: Please could you send me a list of things I need to make this statement is not true, in some instances at least, though I am certain the majority person will confirm it.

Mrs. M.C.C. writes: "Dear Lady: Please could you send me a list of things I need to make Christmas cookies. Could I make this amount in one batch or would I divide in two. Also, if you have anything else you can let me have as regards candy I would be pleased.—M.C.C.

ANSWER:

Please see Thursday's and Saturday's columns of this week for more candy recipes.

Do not try to make a 5 lb. batch. Make 2 2 1-2 lb. batches.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

(2 1-2 lb. batch.)

NOTE:

This recipe is increased from one which makes 1 1-4 lb. batch so be sure to make it in a large pan over a wide burner so that there is a wide surface to boil off moisture. Place over low heat and stir until mixture is smooth 2 cups whole milk and 3 squares (3 oz.) cut up unsweetened chocolate. When smooth stir in 6 cups white sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Cook gently, stirring from time to time bottom occasionally, to 236 deg. Fahr. It is advisable to use a candy thermometer, but if you do not have one, a little syrup dropped into cold water forms a soft ball at 236 deg. Fahr. Remove from heat and add 4 tablespoons butter, then, cool to lukewarm without stirring, then add 2 teaspoons vanilla. Beat well until thick and no longer glossy. If desired 2 cups cut up nuts may be added now. Turn into waxed paper and form into a 12-inch roll or spread in buttered pan and cut into squares.

QUESTION:

I enjoy your column so much but I always get a let down when a recipe calls for refrigerator or uncooked oven. I have a wood cook-stove but I do not seem to understand how to bake or cook right. Should I have the oven rack under the cake pan? Even if I don't the cake gets done on the bottom long before the top. Or, I make all my batter with lard. If I use a recipe that calls for shortening should I use less lard?

Can I make a small cake, double with good results? The recipes are too small for our family. Hope you keep up your column for a long time yet.—Mrs. I. W.

ANSWER:

As you know the draft in a cookstove draws the heat from the fire pit across the top of the oven down the back and under whatever is baking. I think your cookstove must have an unusually good draft. If so, you should stand the cake on the bottom baking. Use less grease should reduce the amount of lard if you use it instead of shortening because shortening contains moisture. Often lard does not. Use 1-3 less lard than shortening. The recipe for Tumbler Cake that you wrote our sounds like an economical fruit cake to me. Without making the cake up I would be hard put to correct the recipe. Would you settle for one of mine that is tested and smaller?

INEXPENSIVE DARK FRUIT CAKE (6 lbs.)

One lb. seeded raisins are cooked with 1 1-3 cups each water and sugar for 5 minutes. Add 1-4 cup margarine and stand aside to cool. Sift all-purpose flour then measure 3 1-2 cups and sift it with 1 teaspoon each baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon each salt, cloves, allspice. Add to the flour mixture 1-2 cup thinly sliced citron and 1 cup chopped walnuts. Beat 2 eggs until very light and fluffy and add the cooled raisin mixture to them, then stir in the flour mixture. Beat in 1 cup jelly. Pour into well-greased 8-inch loaf pan, and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. (a slow oven) for 1 1-2 hours.

Do not double small cake recipes. Let me know what large-cake recipes you want and I will mail them to you.

I promised to give this recipe today for

WIENER SCHNITZEL

(Not a wiener dish.)

Ask the butcher to slice you 2-3 to 1 inch veal as thinly as possible. Cut in serving pieces and dip in salted flour crumbs then egg diluted with 1 tablespoon cold water, then in cracker or red currant jelly are good accompaniments.

Fresh thickness is ideal for the veal if you can persuade the butcher to do it.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGES . . . FRIENDSHIP RECOLLECTIONS

"Christmas greetings," says old Charles Dickens, who, as we know, was very knowledgeable about the meaning of Christmas, "are a great accumulation of friendly recollections." Let's look at it for a time. Christmas bells in your thoughts these days? Are you are assembling your list of friends to be greeted, "Friendly recollections" . . . heartwarming treasures of remembrance!

"SPINSTER DINNER" SAME IDEA AS "BACHELOR DINNER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is a "spinster dinner". I've never heard of this, and I've just received a note of invitation to a "spinster dinner" from a friend of mine who is to be married quite soon. But since I am married I wonder if I'm supposed to be invited. Please explain.—Mrs. K. H.

In some communities the bride-to-be, the "spinster" gives a "spinster dinner" for her friends, the way the groom-to-be, the "bachelor", gives a "bachelor dinner" for his friends. Very often these two affairs are given on the same evening. But "spinster" applies to the hostess and "bachelor" applies to the guest . . . the guests at either dinner may be either married or unmarried.

SHOWER HERE FOR MOTHER-TO-BE OVERSEAS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is with the Army overseas, his first wife is with him, and they have a baby boy born around the first of March. A group of very wonderful friends of my son's wife have asked me if I thought it would be proper for them to give her a shower in the home of one of the group, each one to bring a gift she would have brought if the shower could have been given with the mother-to-be present. I thought it to have a baby shower idea, and I agreed with them that it would be a nice surprise for her. I write her all about the party and myself her the gifts, which probably would be things she most would want, and might not be able to get there. Please, I would like your opinion of this idea.—Mother.

I agree with you that this is a very charming idea, and I heartily approve of the plan . . . it will make the mother-to-be very happy, and she will be proud of such devoted and abiding friendships. I hope the group appoints someone to "record" (perhaps the tape-record) the showers gifts, to send to your daughter-in-law. The presents should be opened at the shower, then removed as they were presented, and all mailed in one box.

SEE TIPS ON HOW TO ADDRESS YOUR CHRISTMAS CARDS

You chose your Christmas cards with care and taste. You should mail them with pride in the careful way they are addressed. The envelope should be addressed with such pleasant attention that they will smile your Christmas greetings to your friends even before your Christmas cards speak your greetings.

Here are 6 tips to give your envelopes the well-groomed look they should have:

1. Write in your "very best" handwriting. Carefully. Legibly. Illegibly gets you nowhere . . . and too often gets your letter in exactly the same place. "Adress your Christmas card envelopes plainly" is the well-phrased plea of the Post Office Department. This is good, practical advice. It's thrifty advice, too, for carelessly-addressed envelopes may not receive where you wanted them to arrive, or they may futilely detour around the country in an effort to find out just what you did mean by some of the illegible and abbreviated scrawls you scribbled in the address. Write carefully, dear writers . . . your friends want to receive your Christmas cards, and you want them to receive your Christmas cards.

2. Do not abbreviate. Exceptions: "Mr." and "Mrs." Abbreviate? Is it any person's way of writing. Remember: It takes only a second or two to write a word in full . . . just about as long as it takes to make the pencil glide the abbreviation. Try it!

Warning: Abbreviations are the chief reason for mishaps to envelopes. Particularly in the names of states and provinces. It is often difficult to figure out whether it is N.J. or N.Y.; Mo. or Me. or Md.; Neb. or Nev.; Col. or Conn.; Ont. or Ariz. Write in full: Street . . . Avenue . . . Road . . . Park . . . North, South, East, West.

3. Do not write "City" as an address. If the letter must be forwarded, this leads to confusion.

4. Do not write any unnecessary curlicues. No "To" or "For" before the name. No "Mr." before the street-address. And no need for a comma after the street-number . . . this too only leads to misreading.

5. Use the Zone Number wherever possible . . . that's what it's for. And remember: the Zone Number should be written after the name of the city . . . not after the street-address, and, please, no comma before or after the Zone Number.

Your lines are generally best: (1) name; (2) street-address; (3) city; (4) zone.

Now Legend of Fleet Street, Hannen Swaffer in 76th Year

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Hannen Swaffer, a lanky, mournful - looking newspaper legend, marched into his 76th year the other day with hard work and plenty of conversation.

A newspaper man for 58 years—51 of them on Fleet street—Swaffer was feted by friends and employees past and present. Age has not staled his crusty quips.

"The year 1879 gave birth to some remarkable people," the dean of Newspaper Row announced not long ago in his high-pitched voice. "There was Max Aitken, (Lord Beaverbrook). Sir Thomas Beecham, Lady Astor, Hannen Swaffer and Joe Stalin."

Swaffer—Swaff to everybody including his long-listening wife—still writes for a living. He's on hand for three publications and has considerable justification for his flamin' egotism with which he valiantly cloaks a kind heart and an undiminished social consciousness.

SHAPES MAJOR EVENTS

On-the-spot witness of most of the major happenings in Britain in the last half century, he has shaped some of them. He pioneered newspaper gossip writing with the Daily Mirror and is credited with strongly influencing the format of the modern journalism newspaper. He has held every newspaper post except editor.

Related on his mother's side to the poet Keats, Doctor-to-be Hannen was a contemporary of Thomas Hardy, interviewer of Sir Henry Stanley of Dr. Livingstone fame and an intimate of Mary Pickford. He chatted with Lloyd George, talked with Winston Churchill and Bernard Shaw and heard Chaliapin sing—to the audience.

As drama critic, Swaffer had his long fans slapped by American actress Lilian Lorter in the posh Savoy grill in 1929. She died several years ago. Then there was the woman who slapped Swaffer.

He was barred from 32 of the 41 London theatres at once because of his stinging phrases.

AIDED "IMITATORS"

With his flowing hair, black hat and stock, high collar and sombrehued garb, stained with cigarette ashes, Swaffer was the original of his "boy imitators," but welcomed them to his apartment for advice and help. He has lived above Trafalgar square for 37 years—"what's good enough for Nelson is good enough for me" — and said he never leaves it except for television arrive.

Once he returned from a George V Buckingham Palace garden party to predict gloomily: "The old king's fidgeting. I standing as close to him as I am to you. He never recognized me."

There is some justification for his saying at one of his Fleet street parties: "I have conducted many campaigns and I have won the ruddy lot."

He was one of the first to attack Hitler—earning No. 3 spot on the Nazi death list, so the story goes—and spoke and wrote out vigorously against capital punishment, anti-semitism, naval life on the lower deck and slight club corruption.

FAVORITE SPEAKER

He has been a lifelong Socialist. His oratory, tinged with the fervor of a divine, makes him a favorite party platform speaker, a flamboyant drawing card for speakers well known in their own right.

In an interview, he ranged out briskly over the world in general.

"Shaw? An idiot in many ways. Churchill? A hack writer in the Commons. St. Laurent? Another Laurier."

With Lord Beaverbrook, Swaffer probably gets as close as his prickly nature will stand to a mutual admiration society.

"He had his weaknesses, but he was the best editor I ever had," said Swaff. "Canadians perhaps don't realize the part he has played behind the scenes here. I count his role during the Second World War second only to Churchill's."

UNDERPRESSED BY CANADA

In turn, the Beaver, who sent a special congratulatory telegram from Canada on Swaffer's birthday, has said that the days are the "most remarkable figure that has walked down Fleet street in our time."

Swaffer is a visitor to Canada twice, but, as a confirmed big city dweller, was not impressed.

"It looked like a large village," he said, half-apologetically, of Toronto, 1936 vintage.

Modern British journalism? In an American rut. As for cheese cake, the daddy of newspaper picture layout advisers?

"Cut it off at the shoulders. We know they've all got busts."

NewDeal'Legacy' Saved U.S. Reuther States

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CIO president Walter Reuther said Monday a "legacy" of new deal and fair deal legislation inherited by President Eisenhower's administration has helped save the nation from a full-blown depression.

Reuther said in a report prepared for opening sessions of the CIO's annual convention the economic future looks none too bright unless there is a big increase in consumer buying power through higher wages and increased government spending.

"It is better," he said, "to have an unbalanced budget than to have an unbalanced economy in which a few are prosperous and the many are in need."

PREVENTED CUTS

Accusing the Eisenhower administration of "do-nothing, care-nothing unemployment policy," the CIO chief maintained that union collective bargaining and social measures enacted under prior Democratic administrations have prevented economic collapse.

NEWFOUNDLAND MINING

1,300 Miners Dig Under Floor of Ocean for Iron Ore

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BELL ISLAND, Nfld. (CP)—Three miles out from this Conception Bay island, under the floor of the Atlantic ocean, 1,300 miners have dug away at the largest known iron-ore deposit in the British Commonwealth.

The huge ore mines, on this rocky, 13-square-mile island, are enjoying unprecedented activity as nearly doubled in the last five years; 2,200 employees get year-round employment at top wages; markets are bright; equipment is modern, and the submarine ore potentialities are virtually unlimited.

As a result, Dominion Wabana Ore Limited, a subsidiary of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, has launched its second major development program since 1951. This will take 10 years, about three times as long as a $12,000,000 program completed last February. That program included installation of the world's longest and highest slope conveyer belt.

HUGE DEPOSIT

No one knows the full extent of the good grade ore deposit but estimates range from 1,000,000,000 to 10,000,000,000 long tons, with the most popular 4,000,000,000. H. P. Dickie, manager of the company which employs two-thirds of Newfoundland's miners, agrees: "It from a different angle, saying: "There's enough for 1,000 years."

The Bell Island deposit compares with known deposits of 417,000,000 tons in the rich Lorraine area.

Annual production is more than 2,000,000 tons, a record output of 3,000,000 tons.

The payroll for the mining industry in the province last year was 12,500,000 with $8,250,000 of this earned at Bell Island.

When the new 10-year development program is completed, two of the island's three pitheads will be closed and the growing seams will be reached through one long slope; a new concentrating machine for separating waste from ore will be erected; a two-mile horizontal conveyer belt will go into operation, and the company's workings, now scattered miles apart, will come under a 225-acre area.

TO COST MILLIONS

This program, says Mr. Dickie, will "cost millions." The new belt alone will cost $1,500,000.

Bell Island, a typical mining town, almost solely dependent on the one source of income:

The development program, including the slope conveyer, underground crushers, mechanical loaders, mobile drills and surface modernization, was started in 1951 after Germany and the United Kingdom signed five-year contracts for nearly 2,000,000 tons of ore a year.

Until then, markets were shaky, production methods were slow, and most of the 1,600,000-tons output went to the Dosco mills at Sydney, N.S.

Following the war, markets picked up and soon demand exceeded production.

As a result, the three-mile slope conveyer belt that starts 1,600 feet below the ocean floor, was tested and installed for $2,500,000. The working force was increased from 1,400 to 1,900 and production, within two years, shot up to 2,- 400,000 tons, enough to meet demands.

WINTER STORAGE

During four winter months when shipping is not open, trucks dump the ore into an 80,000 ton storage pocket, a natural cavity in the cliffs. When this is filled, the ore is dumped near the top of the cliffs and moved down in the spring method as used for loading ships from the pocket.

Since Bell Island began operations 35 years ago, 44,700,00 tons of ore have been mined by men who earned slightly more than $100,000,000 in wages. This has always supported about 85 per cent of the population of Bell Island, now 12,000.

The company spends about $1,- 000,000 in the province each year on materials and power and another $3,000,000 on the Canadian mainland for supplies.

Wabana is the sole source of supply for the Sydney steel plant where 3,400 workers are employed and since one-quarter of Nova Scotia's coal output goes to the Sydney plant, miners, too, benefit indirectly from the Bell Island operation.

All in all, it is estimated that directly and indirectly Wabana is responsible for $40,000,000 spent in Canada on wages and supplies.

Stevenson Thinks Eisenhower Can Be Beaten in '56

By JACK BELL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said Monday he reported advisory party leaders he believes President Eisenhower can be defeated in a 1956 re-election bid if Democrats passed away at what he regards as the unpopularity of the Republican party.

Stevenson's views, as interpreted to those who talked to him during a Democratic rally which ended here Saturday, are that Eisenhower has himself likely to retain for the next two years a measure of the personal popularity which gave the general his sweeping presidential victory over Stevenson in 1952.

But Stevenson evidently believes that Republicans will continue to demonstrate in the next two years what Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman-elect, Sunday called "incapacity to govern."

SEES LACK OF FAITH

Stevenson made it clear he thinks the November elections which gave Democratic control of Congress proved the people don't have nearly as much faith in the Republican party as they demonstrated in the past for Eisenhower.

On this basis, Stevenson has told friends he believes that other Republicans in time will draw Eisenhower down to their much lower level of popularity and that the strongest will be vulnerable if he runs again.

CBC Reports Net Surplus Of $6,567,862

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC today reported a net surplus of $6,567,862 for the 1953-54 fiscal year, during which slightly less than 84 per cent of this revenue came from the public treasury.

Television was the highlight of the report, which forecast higher expenditures on television for the future. The report covered the fiscal year ended last March 31, the first full 12 months of television operations.

The publicly-owned corporation reported revenues of $37,630,725, made up largely of a statutory annual grant of $6,250,000 for radio broadcasting operations, and $18,139,894 in excise tax on radio and television sets and parts.

Thus roughly $25,000,000 of CBC revenue came from the treasury. THE BUDGET

The corporation spent on programs more than three times what it received in commercial broadcasting revenue. Expenditures for television and radio programs totalled $11,703,315, biggest spending item and about $3,500,000 more than in 1952-53.

Meanwhile, revenue from commercial broadcasting was $3,895,254, about $750,000 more than in 1952-53.

Commercial radio broadcasting netted $3,471,48 for the CBC which paid three times more on radio programs, or $7,575,178. About the same proportion existed between the CBC's commercial television income of $1,334,785 and its expenditures of $4,128,139 for television programs.

The outlay on radio and television sets and parts is specially earmarked for CBC coffers. It replaced the old $2.50 annual radio receiver licences as a source of revenue for the CBC for the first time last year.

SURPLUS LARGER

The annual report to Revenue Minister McCann, who reports to Parliament for the corporation, showed total revenues of $18,- 696,238 for the fiscal year.

The surplus was 18 times larger at March 31, after bringing forward 1952-53. The accumulated surplus at March 31, after bringing forward past programs and other bookkeeping items, was $7,074,085.

In the 1953-54 fiscal year, revenues totalled $13,129,353 compared with expenditures of $14,304,618.

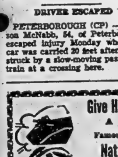
Next to higher program spending, which rose by more than $3,- 300,000 from the previous year's figure, the largest expenditure was for engineering works which cost $4,307,941, more than double the $2,084,430 spent in 1952-53.

The CBC had a deficit of $8,- 363,118 in seven months of television operations in 1953-53. Last year, the same operations resulted in a surplus of $5,283,966.

Five Persons Killed

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Five persons were killed Sunday in a five-car accident one mile north of nearby Oxford.

Dead are: Harold Magnum, 21, Charles Nelson, 36, Lynn Best, 27, Max Smith, 30, and Edna Kuck, 21, all of the Oxford area.



Police said five persons also were injured, none seriously.

STRONGEST TV

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP) — Jules Brillant, president of Compagnie de Pouvoir du Bas St. Laurent, Sunday officially inaugurated Quebec's most powerful television transmitter. The 60,000 watt transmitter at station CJBR-TV, he said, will bring TV to an estimated 300,000 persons within 80 miles of its tower St. Lawrence town.

May Have Been Sister

SARNIA (CP) — A Petrolia woman said Monday the girl whose body was found last Tuesday, in the bush near Collingwood may have been her sister who vanished last June while hitchhiking to Toronto.

Mrs. Stan Wilson said her sister, Mrs. May Oliver, 31, of Petrolia, was about the same height and age as those given in the police description of the body.

Mrs. Wilson said, however, that her sister did not wear false teeth. Police said the dead girl had a full top denture.

Mrs. Oliver, mother of six children, set out to visit a sister in Toronto and intended to stay only a few days, Mrs. Wilson said.

Mayor Whitton Whips Two Men For Third Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Spunky Charlotte Whitton did it again.

The capital's voters rallied behind the controversial welfare worker to help her land a knockout punch against two bunky male opponents in Monday's biennial civic elections.

This was the second time the short, 58-year-old mayor went to the polls against men opponents and plucked victory from the platform based on what she described as honest government and performance.

In power since 1950 when the death of Grenfell Code left room for her to the boss job from a controller's post, she defeated former controller Len Coulter in 1952 and Monday night trimmed E. A. Bourque, a former mayor and veteran campaigner, and David Burgess, a civil servant who made clear he had no love for the woman he considered was playing havoc with the city fathers.

This was a tussle Charlotte once considered called up. During preliminary manoeuvres she cried that the opposition was too heavy and that she would quit. A howl of despair from her supporters changed her mind.

WEATHER COLD

The voters trooped to the polls in 15-degree weather and overcame several streets to show they still support the woman who lives by herself, talks politics with a stinging tongue and writes with a soft, loving touch about the Ottawa valley in which she was born.

Final count with all 402 polls reported: Whitton, 25,541; Bourque, 22,779; Bourque, 13,583.

The electorate also chose four controllers out of a field of seven, returning two and picking two new ones. It also picked 18 aldermen from a field of 34.

Senior controller and deputy mayor will in newcomer George Nelms, optician, who polled the most votes, 16,000 for a one-year second term are Paul Tardif, 44, paint company manager; and Roy Donaldson, 43, chemical manager. Elected also was Ernest W. Jones, 44, a life insurance underwriter.

Toronto Man Charged With Manslaughter

BRANTFORD (CP)—Andy Mudrik, 29, of Toronto Monday night was charged with motor manslaughter in connection with a two-car crash here Sunday night which took four lives.

Provincial police said Mudrik was the driver of a car which collided with a car driven by Jacob De Jong, 36, of nearby Scotland on highway 24 south of here.

De Jong and two of his children—Dirk, 10, and Alice, 3—were killed in the crash. The fourth victim was Mrs. Stella Frykabowski, 29, of Brantford, a passenger in De Jong's car.

Another of De Jong's children, nine-year-old Watkja, was reported in "fair" condition in Brantford General Hospital Monday night.

Watkja was most seriously hurt but five other persons suffered severe injuries when the two autos crashed head-on on a straight stretch of No. 24 highway 10 miles south of here.

Mrs. De Jong, the other occupant of her husband's car, received an "injury" condition in Brantford General Hospital Monday night.

OLD HAWKEYE

"Nobber" Day, the old sharpshooter, who generally fires four or five shots at a sitting duck before he ruffles a feather, is quite different when he is swiping pucks at an opposing rival-keeper. For the third member of the Moscow "Three-D" trio tops the goalgetters of the Beauchemin, to the scoring records revealed today. The "Nob" has beaten opposing goalies eleven times besides helping with three others to give him a point total of 14.

The Duncan twins, however, are back at their old tricks and at present top the troops with Ed, good for six and eighteen, for a total of 24, and Erwin, nine and ten for nineteen. Bob Wilson is the "bad man" of the club with 38 minutes spent in the hoosegow. The club has drawn three misconduct penalties and the same number of majora.

NEW COACH

Word comes out of Oshawa that Manager Wren Blair has turned over the coaching duties of the Whitby senior hockey club to Ron Gagnon, hard-playing defenceman forerunner of the club. Blair needed more time to look after the business interest of the club.

Whitby, it says here, has secured the services of Alfie Treen, hard-hitting defenceman just released from the Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, Indians of the NOHA. Jed Wilson, who played with the club last year is working out with the team, while efforts are being made to bring Les Colvin, last year's goalie, out of retirement.

WORTH A TRY

If you want to be a bowling champion or a member of a champion team this year you have to be a strict individualist. You will have to rely on a good bowling arm and eye—and nothing else. Your handicap, if any, has been washed out. You will be judged strictly on performance.

That's the gist of the rules of the 1954-55 Molson's Bowling Classic. The sudsery has tossed $14,000 into the prize kitty, and the individual singles champion, gent and lady, plies the championship team has a neat little pot o' gold waiting at the end of the alleys rainbow.

All centres in the region will hold forth on the same day, so winners can be adjudged with a minimum of delay.

There is no entry fee. Regional playing dates have been announced and this region, extending from Brockville to Belleville will go into action on December 11 and December 18. Lady bowlers will show their wares on the first date. So yeuse eyes and gals who are not entered by us, at flipping the magics had better get your entry in to Bill Bateman at the Bowl-O-Drome right pronto.

Here is how the champions will be decided. The fifty high scorers of both sexes in the regional contests will play in Kingston, regional headquarters at a date to be announced.

Naturally, the top scorer in these contests will be named the regional singles champions. The next four high will compose the regional five-man team. Jim MacKenzie of Belleville, last year's singles champion will round out the quad through virtues of his 1953-54 championship effort. The same applies to the ladies.

Now, if you are lucky, or good enough, or both, to win a championship, or a spot on a championship team, here is what awaits you.

The all-star team preliminary round will be held at the O'Connor Lanes, Toronto, March 5, 1955. The all-star team finals will be held at the Sportsmen's Show, Toronto, on March 11 and 12. The ladies' and men's Eastern Canada singles championships will be held at the Sportsmen's Show from March 14 to March 19. The Eastern Canada champions, singles and team, will also win an all-expense trip by air to Winnipeg to compete in the Dominion championships in April.

Living allowances will be paid singles competitors during the competitions held at the Sportsmen's Show.

These competitions are open to all bowlers in Canada 18 years of age or over as of January 1, 1955. Remember there are no handicaps, no entry fee, no membership cards necessary. You pay for lineage only.

And as a reminder the gent's competition in Belleville are slated for December 18 at the Bowl-O-Drome, ladies on December 11.

Heart Seizure Killed Grid Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of Dave Sparks, 26-year-old tackle for Washington Redskins who collapsed two hours after playing a football game Sunday, was listed after an autopsy Monday as caused by coronary thrombosis.

Dr. Williamson Welburn said Sparks had suffered a minor heart seizure less than 24 hours before the game and that if he had gone to a doctor he'd be alive today."

Welburn said his investigation turned up no evidence that Sparks had complained about the previous ailment.

Welburn said the exertion of playing had aggravated the condition caused by the early attack and that this "may too great a strain on Sparks' heart.

Grid Coaches Hired, Fired

NEW YOR K(AP)—Two coaches were dismissed and another hired in the latest developments of the fast-changing United States college football coaching picture Monday while Maryland's Jim Tatum is rumored headed for North Carolina.

Harvey Robinson of Tennessee and John D. McMillan of the Citadel were added to the coaches casualty list while John Michelosen was signed for three years to succeed the ailing Lowell (Red) Dawson as Pittsburgh coach.

Meanwhile, the Miami Daily News reported it learned from "an excellent source" that Tatum would resign from Maryland to North Carolina to succeed George Barclay. Tatum was not available for comment.

Three Wins in Three Starts Consolidate Second Position; Habs' Big Four Riding High

MONTREAL (CP)—For a team whose highest scorer is 14th in the individual records, Toronto Maple Leafs are doing all right by themselves.

The Leafs were the only National Hockey League club to come out of last week's tussles with a perfect mark—three wins in three starts. Their leading scorer, Ted Smith, picked up only one goal. He now has 10, plus six assists for a total of 16 points, exactly half the total of Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

The Leafs' perfect performance made their second-place position over Detroit Red Wings more secure and trimmed the leading Montreal Canadiens' margin from six points to four.

The official figures show no headway was made by the scoring fraternity of five clubs which comprise the Big Four—Montreal, Detroit, Toronto and Boston.

Richard Impact Rocket Smith, the big him two short of the coveted 400 in his NHL career, and has 398 to date.

Beliveau, with a one-and-one count last week, has 29 points and Mosdell, with two goals and an assist in three games, has 28.

Clarence Campbell, quartet of point-getters are Fleming Mackell of Boston Bruins and Jim (Bones) Raleigh of New York Rangers, each with 20 points.

Detroit's Gordie Howe, NHL point-scoring champion who has missed six games because of injuries, began to pick up ground He bagged two goals and two assists and 4 points to tied for 14th spot with Smith, George Sullivan of Chicago and defenceman Doug Harvey of Montreal. Next highest Toronto man is Sid Smith, captain Ted Kennedy, with three goals and 12 assists for 15 points.

The league's leading Canadiens couldn't match Toronto's performance for the week, but enraged defeat on a three-game road trip, getting one win and two ties. The Leafs and Canadiens meet in back-to-back games this week—in Toronto Wednesday and in Montreal Thursday.

Detroit Red Wings broke even in four games and now trail Toronto by three points. New York Rangers for the week, getting one tie in three games, and now share fourth place with Boston Bruins who won two and lost two. The tail-end Hawks could get only one tie in three outings.

Love No Reason For 'Love' On Courts

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP) — Lew Hoad's mother denied today Lew cupid may be the culprit responsible for the Australian Davis Cup ace's slump in form.

Commenting on reports Hoad's romance with tennis player Jennifer Staley may have caused his recent poor play, Mrs. Boonis Hoad said: "I think it is utterly ridiculous to suggest it."

"Jennifer and Lewie' girl friend last year and you saw what happened then," she added.

Asked whether the romance was serious, Hoad's mother said: "I hope so. We all love Jennifer very much."

Miss Staley, a leading woman player, was beaten by Thelma Long last week for the Victorian championship.

Hoad's loss of form and indifferent attitude toward tennis were worrying Australian Davis Cup selectors.

Yet another Davis Cup development, Harry Hopman, Australian Cup captain, said today Rex Hartwig was certain to have a last chance to play the doubles assignment in the challenge round that wrecked their loss to America's Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert Monday.

At the same time he said the "Australia can expect to meet a much tougher Seixas-Trabert combination."

He added that Trabert showed improved form in the last set of the tournament and that Seixas started sluggishly at the net Monday. Saturday singles match with Ken Rosewall.

"I am sure Vic will be a fitter man in 20 days," Hopman said. .

He blamed Monday's loss on the poor serving of Rose, who was "tired and lost accuracy," but added: "Mervyn Rose could show such improvement of form before the challenge round that I am sure the selectors will not rule out Rose and Hartwig as a doubles pair."

Most observers believe we were sure Hoad and Rosewall would be Australia's doubles selection.

Hopman noted that Seixas and Trabert failed to use the cross-court scissors tactics employed in confusing Hoad and Hartwig in the challenge round match and predicted this bit of strategy was being held up for the Americans' sleeve for the big Davis Cup moment.

Miami's Chance In International Goes Glimmering

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's chances of picking a berth in the triple-A International Baseball League died Monday.

There seemed to be only one way to bring it about—for the city to buy the baseball stadium owned by Joan Aleman Jr. That possibility was too remote to consider.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League who conferred Monday with Aleman, said after the meeting that Miami Stadium is so badly tied up that it would be impossible to put a club here this year. And in another year only a one-year lease could be obtained.

Bernie Guest, farm director of Kansas City Athletics, who owns the Ottawa franchise in the International League, said "there is nothing we can do now. We had been willing to transfer the Ottawa franchise to Miami."

Guest said Ottawa probably would keep its franchise now that hopes for Miami were ruled out.

The Ottawa people still have time to pick up their option," he said.

Pro Grid Boss Wants New Rule

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League Monday advocated a new rule to prevent linemen from getting up and running after he has been tackled or knocked down.

The commissioner said his proposal would prevent rough play and piling on.

"I want to see a rule written in that would say that a man is spot where the carrier or ball touches the ground. He will not be allowed to run if he is not in the grasp of an opponent," Bell said.

Up to Kansas Says Gorman

OTTAWA (CP) — Sports promoter Tommy Gorman, who holds the lease on the baseball park in the International League clubs have played here for the last four years, said Monday night that Kansas City Athletics now will have to decide what to do about the franchise they hold in the triple-A league for an Ottawa farm team.

Commenting on a report from Miami, where baseball operated here last year by Philadelphia Athletics will not go to that Florida city next year, Gorman said "any action now will have to come from Kansas City."

Gorman said his option to buy the club expired Dec. 1 and he did not buy it. That left it up to Kansas City, where the Philadelphia Athletics went after they were sold.

Gorman's lease on Lansdowne Park remains in force for another four years. For the last four years he has rented the park to Ottawa Athletics, a Philadelphia farm club, until the American league club announced it was not going to operate here next year shortly before it was sold.

Lark-Loaded Big Four Team Named East All-Star Squad

By WILF GRUBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four all-star offensive team, boasting one Canadian in its lineup and dominated by players from the powerful Montreal Alouettes, today was named without any changes as the eastern all-star first team.

The selectors—football writers, sportcasters and coaches in the senior football cities in the East—passed over players from the Ontario Rugby Football Union and the college ranks in making the all-Eastern first team a carbon copy of the Big Four offensive squad.

The ORFU, however, was not entirely overlooked for all-eastern honors. One of its players, triple-threat quarterback Bob Celeri of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen was picked on the second team. Celeri's selection as runner-up to Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry of the Alouettes, the quarter on the first squad, was the big surprise in the lineups of the two mythical teams. The second team includes three Canadians.

The men were picked for The Canadian Press and voting was weighted to give equal balling strength to each city. It is the second straight season one of the positions on both squads went to Big Four players. The intercollegiate union missed out for the second successive year in having at least one player named to either team.

Chuck Hunsinger, whose misuse in the closing minutes cost the Alouettes to lose the Grey Cup final to Edmonton Eskimos, was picked as one of the halves on the second team. The selectors voted before the Grey Cup game but Hunsinger earned his all-eastern ranking for his brilliant offensive playing for the Alouettes during the Big Four regular schedule and the playoffs to clinch Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The first team:

Flying wing; Joey Pal, Montreal; halves: Alex Webster, Montreal, Gene Wilson, Toronto, Bernie Custis, Hamilton; quarter: Sam Etcheverry, Montreal; centre: Tom Hugo, Montreal; guards: Ray Ciesla, Montreal, Herb Trawick, Montreal; tackles: Tex Coulter, Montreal, Vince Mazza, Hamilton; ends: Red O'Quinn, Montreal, Ray Ramsey, Hamilton.

The second team:

Flying wing: Bobby Simpson, Ottawa; halves: Lou Kusserow, Hamilton, Avatus Stone, Ottawa; Chuck Hunsinger, Montreal; quarter: Bob Celeri, Kitchener-Waterloo; centre: Red Ettinger, Hamilton; guards: Eddie Bevan, Hamilton, Vince Scott, Hamilton; tackles: Jim Staton, Montreal, Les McLeland, Hamilton; ends: Harold Patterson, Montreal, Doug McNichol, Montreal.

Montreal, who made a runaway of the Big Four regular schedule with 11 wins in 14 games and then defeated Hamilton two straight in the league playoffs, took eight positions on the first team. Hamilton placed three men on the squad and Toronto Argonauts one.

On the second team Hamilton is represented by five players, Montreal four, Ottawa two and Kitchener-Waterloo one.

The only Canadian on the first team is flying wing Joey Pal of the Alouettes. The three Canadians among the second-team choices are flying wing Bobby Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders, guard Eddie Bevan of Hamilton and end Doug McNichol of Montreal. Last year Simpson was the only Canadian on the first squad. The number of homebrews on the alternate team this year fell to three from five in 1953.

The selectors recognized the brilliant passing, kicking and running of Celeri, voted the most valuable ORFU player, in selecting him as runner-up to Etcheverry as the top quarterback in the east.

Red O'Quinn, the top individual star of the Grey Cup final for the Alouettes, and Vince Mazza, veteran Tiger - Cats tackle, were named to the first team for the third year in a row. Etcheverry, voted the most valuable player in Canada, centre Tom Hugo of the Alouettes and tackle Tex Coulter of the Als made the first team for the second successive year.

Besides Simpson, halves Lou Kusserow of the Tiger-Cats and Avatus Stone of Ottawa were two other 1953 first-stringers relegated to this season's alternate team. McNichol, Montreal's big, crashing defensive end, was picked for the second team for the third straight year. Centre Red Ettinger and guards Eddie Bevan and Vince Scott, all of Hamilton, were chosen for the second successive season. Ettinger, Bevan and Scott were on the first team in 1952.

Don Meade Tries Comeback

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Don Meade, America's leading jockey in 1939 and 1941, who was barred from racing 10 years ago, plans to apply for a permit as a trainer.

Meade, now 41 years old, appeared before the Florida state racing commission Monday and asked that he be allowed to return to the tracks.

Meade was barred from racing for using abusive language to a steward at the Hippodromo de las Americas at Mexico City.

White Sox Get Gray, Nieman, Dropo For Ferris Fain, Two Other Players

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK-(AP)—Frank Lane, the trade-conscious Chicago White Sox general manager, was at it after the Kansas City Athletics today in an effort to add to the two deals he completed Monday that brought three players from the Baltimore Orioles and three from the Detroit Tigers.

Without actually naming the athletes he hoped to pry loose from the Athletics, Lane left no doubt in the listener's mind that he was after third baseman Jim Finigan and pitcher Arnie Portocarrero, the two most desirable trading commodities in manager Lou Boudreau's assortment of cellar-dwellers.

"We're ready to trade some more," the free-talking Lane said. "Only the surface stopped us from completing a third deal Monday night. We know what Boudreau wants. He's looking for a good number of players.

"So doesn't expect to pick up any top guy. We've got enough players now to give Boudreau the guys he needs.

Lane figured in the only deals among Monday as baseball's annual baseball league convention got under way with the National and American leagues meeting in the same hotel but in separate rooms. The two leagues were scheduled to close out the two-day convention today with a joint meeting.

The White Sox dealt off seven players to get six. First they sent Catchers Don Johnson (6-7) and Don Ferrarese (18-18 at Oakland), catcher Matt Batts (.235) and infielder Fred Hatfield (.301) to Baltimore for catcher Clint Courtney (.270) pitcher Bob Chakales (5-7) and infielder Jim Brideweser (.266).

In the second transaction, Chicago acquired first baseman Walt Dropo (.281), outfielder Bob Nieman (.283) and southpaw Ted Gray (3-5) from the Tigers for first baseman Ferris Fain (.302), utility infielder Jack Phillips (.307 at Cincinnati-.247 at Atlanta).

No cash was involved in either deal.

Paul Richards, Lane's former manager, now has got rid of all three players he had on his roster since they took the job of field general manager of the Orioles three months ago. Monday's deal came 18 days after his gigantic deal with the Yankees that resulted in the departure of eight Orioles.

800-Foot Telegram Sent To 'Cheer Chuck'

MONTREAL (CP) — A 63-word telegram with 21,847 signatures was started on its way Monday to a football player who fizzled a play in the most important game in Canada.

Canadian National Telegraphs officials said it will probably take 12 hours to deliver the message through to Harrisburg, Ill.

There Chuck Hunsinger will learn from the 800-foot telegram that the thousands of Montreal fans want to cheer him up and see him back next year.

The Montreal Alouettes halfback's miscue in the Grey Cup game at Toronto Nov. 27 allowed Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos to set up for a touchdown that gave Edmonton a 26-25 victory.

Hunsinger's fizzle, on which Parker capitalized, has been called three times while and a weird attempted pass.

The "cheer up Chuck" campaign was started by Montreal radio station CJAD. Each fan contributed 4 cents toward cost of the telegram.

There was quite a ceremony in getting the telegram on its way. Mayor Jean Drapeau not only headed the list with $5 but actually plucked out his name on the telegraph keyboard.

FATTI PAID TOO

The last name was that of singer Patti Page, who arrived in Montreal Monday, declared herself a football fan and sympathized for Hunsinger and paid her dime.

The dime's list of Montreal to Harrisburg, via Canadian National and Western Union, was routed through Toronto, Windsor, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis.

CJAD officials said the telegram is believed the longest ever sent from Canada to the United States.

The message said:

"Cheer up, Chuck. This list of thousands of your faithful supporters is longer than Parker's Grey Cup touchdown run. Radio station CJAD on behalf of these fans invites you to use this as your welcome mat back to the Alouette dressing room next fall."

Major Baseball Drew 16 Million Last Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball attendance boomed to 15,- 285,881 in 1954, an increase of 14.1 per cent with Milwaukee Braves showing the way at 2,131,386.

Official figures were released Monday by both majors. The National finished with 8,013,517, an eight-per-cent increase and the American hit 7,822,364, up 14 per cent.

The fine attendance at Baltimore was the big factor in the American. Orioles drew 1,060,910 as compared to the 297,238 who saw them play at St. Louis Browns in 1953.

Eight clubs showed gains and eight dropped back, four in each league. Milwaukee, New York, St. Louis and Cincinnati picked up the National and Cleveland, Detroit Chicago and Baltimore the American.

Low spot in the majors was Philadelphia where the As, since shifted to Kansas City, drew only 304,666.

German Will Replace DeMarco

BOSTON (AP) — The Callahan A.C. announced Monday night that German middleweight champion Peter Mueller will replace Tony DeMarco against Gene Hall in a Saturday night's nationally televised fight at Boston Garden.

DeMarco, a ranking welterweight from Boston's north end, withdrew from the bout after suffering a deep chin cut two days ago in gym training with spar-mate Jimmy Montgomery.

Massachusetts boxing commission doctor Samuel Sandler reported earlier Monday that DeMarco suffered a two-inch, lacerated wound with considerable swelling. Dr. Sandler ruled him out of the Saturday match.

Cantankerous 'Clint' May Prove Asset To Chicago White Sox in Flag Drive

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There's one thing about Paul Richards — he can't be accused of playing favorites. If the deep-thinking boss of Baltimore Orioles surrendered his pitching staff to the Yankees, as some claim, he's evened matters up by turning his catching corps, Clint Courtney, over to the Reds, Frank Lane of Chicago White Sox.

It is possible that Lane, by being patient and awaiting his turn as Richards, came up with as sthlete who will have as great an influence on the 1955 American League-race as will Bob Turley and Don Larsen, the two pitchers the Yankees extracted in the first major operation on the Orioles roster.

Courtney, whose nickname is "Scrap Iron" and who without much argument is the battlingest player in the game today, could prove a key man in the White Sox pennant aspirations. If the driving will to win, plus his burning hatred of the Yankees, might well keep the Sox from losing off in the stretch, as they have the last three years.

We are happy to see the bellicose backstop get his chance with a contending club. We predict, too, that the hard rock from Louisiana will make the grade and feel in a hurry, as he was not able to do—except on violent occasion—while toiling with the dismal St. Louis Browns and Baltimore the last three years.

The first time we met the squat, bespectacled young catcher was in the spring of 1949, shortly after he had reported to the Yanks. We had been partially prepared for the meeting by Rogers Hornsby, who had managed Courtney the previous season at Savannah. Hot Cha'ah said that Clint was his kind of ball player, who should have been a tipoff, but the rookie's opening remarks still came as a mild jolt.

"That Yogi Berra might be good," he conceded, "but he ain't the only catcher in the world. If Bess Birdsall only give me a chance I'll show 'em I'm just as good as he is."

Quakers Edge Stampeders 3-2

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatoon Quakers rounded out their longest Western Hockey League winning streak of the season, three-straight, here Monday night with a 3-2 victory over Calgary Stampeders, co-leaders of the circuit with Edmonton Flyers.

The win put the lacklustre Quakers within four points of fifth-place Vancouver.

Ray Manson, rookie Dick Lamoureux and playing coach Doug Bentley scored Saskatoon goals. Gerry Couture and Archie Scott replied for the Stampeders.

It was the only league game of the night.

NOISE-MAKERS

Cymbals, or round metal plates, were used in bands and music by the ancient Egyptians and Greeks.

SUPERTEST EXTRA MILEAGE

The kid (he's 28 now) wasn't being flip, and he didn't crack even a small smile as he went on to tell why he should be the first string catcher for the world champions. And he has never ceased to see that the Yanks sent him to their Kansas City farm and then sold him to the Browns without having given him a shot at Yogi's job.

The '53 campaign wasn't well under way before Courtney looked over Billy Martin of the Yanks, an old antagonist from their minor league days, and was slapped with a $100 fine for fist fighting. Again, in April, 1953, he and Martin set off a free-for-all at the stadium which brought fines totaling $350 to him and five other players who joined in. Before that season was out he was socked still another $100 for his part in a brawl with Detroit Tigers.

For some reason the shift to Baltimore in last season appeared to cool the Courtney temper somewhat. There is no record of a fine having been levied against him all season. The only time he incurred the wrath of umpires was when the umpires caught him driving balls into the business end of the bat.

Courtney, except for the value of his fierce competitive spirit on his teammates, has never yet quite lived up to his own estimate of his ability. He is slow on the bases and does not hit for distance. But he'll hit you a solid .270 or .280, and he'll make your club hustle, or else. We believe that Lane got himself quite a lad.

Battle Plans Drawn For Pacific 'Invasion'

NEW YORK (AP)—Battle plans were being drawn today as the National and American leagues raced to become the first to invade the lucrative Pacific coast territory.

Officials of the two major leagues admitted they were discussing possible expansion to a 24-club operation. Los Angeles and San Francisco territory are the objectives.

After the American League announced its realignment committee had been increased to four members headed by Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox, the National loop admitted for the first time it had discussed the "golden west" at a meeting of the draft sessions here Nov. 22.

The American League committee will report at the summer meeting in Minneapolis next July. However, the National League will assemble in New York again in February to look over the west coast program.

Phil Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League, submitted a financial report to the National League at the secret session Nov. 22.

His report, giving details for Los Angeles and San Francisco, also included reports on Montreal, Toronto and Minneapolis - St. Paul Twins. The report listed travel mileages, transportation costs and a sample schedule of 182 games.

Gagnon KO's Cleo Ortiz

QUEBEC (CP) — Canadian bantamweight champion Fernando Gagnon of Quebec Monday night knocked out Cleo Ortiz of Puerto Rico and New York at 1:44 of the sixth round in a 10-round nontitle fight here.

Both fighters weighed 118½.

A crowd of some 1,000 watched the fast, action-filled bout. Ortiz took the first round on points but Gagnon bored in with sharp infighting to take the rest.

Harry Sonshine To Scout For Argonauts

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Sonshine, who played for Toronto Argonauts for three seasons 1937-39, has been appointed team director of the Big Four football club and given the job of finding players to make the Argos a football power again, it was announced officially Monday night.

Argo president Bill Ross made the announcement at a press conference and said Sonshine will work with coach Frank Clair in the search for top-flight American imports.

"Clair is top as a coach, but he has been overloaded in doing the two jobs," Ross said. "His salary will not be interfered with."

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

It's a couple of years since this column raised its voice in favour of eight other cities getting a first-hand "live" peek at the Grey Cup battle. Nothing happened, although the feeling for a more equitable division of the colorful spectacle is still growing. Montreal Alouettes, for instance, have come out flat-footed for a home-and-home series. Before now, the team representing Canada's biggest city was scarcely in a position to push its Grey Cup claims, for the pace in which it was playing, built for baseball, had neither the proper yardage, nor pace properly arranged seats.

But this year the Alouettes moved to the massive McGill bowl, a perfect football stadium with a comfortable seating capacity of 23,000. There are now representative gridsters originally voiced in this column, namely, that the two cities awaiting the clubs which clash in the final are entitled to a Grey Cup game each.

Toronto, in proportion to its population perhaps the most sporting on the continent, has had a monopoly on the Grey Cup games in recent years. This great eighth-of-a-million crowd threw thousands of football followers to that city. Montreal, and undoubtedly every other city that boasts a major football team—five in the West and three others in the East—is drooling at the economic delights of such a sports invasion.

There will be talk, of course, that such a gathering holds great advertising value for the city concerned. Don't let that fool you. Every city concerned is thinking in highly practical terms of the economic windfall accompanying the Grey Cup game, which could run into half a million dollars or so.

Quite apart from this, we believe the West is entitled to a portion of the spectacle that the other half of the Western champions possible by paying at the box-office to support it, should have a glimpse at the finals. And the same for the Eastern cities, now fretting a little because Toronto, whose Argonauts didn't make the Eastern play-offs again, gets the big plum, sporting and economic.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Most bridge players have beat their brains out for years trying to learn the game by numbers-point system. To decide what their second bid should be many of them are going around in circles.

Do you know how many rules there are for the second bid by an opener? In each of the two most popular complicated systems there are more than four dozen rules. In my system, one simple general rule.

If partner responds with a new suit skipping a suit, the inference says a game zone opener who bids no-trump should jump. His jump is to two no-trump under certain conditions; to three under others.

His jump to two no-trump is not forcing and shows four or more tricks in stiff, a guard or two in both unbid suits. His jump to three no-trump shows five honour tricks or more and nine stoppers.

Goren says the jump to two no-trump is not forcing and shows 19 to 20 high card points. His jump to three no-trump shows 21 or 22 high card points. Stoppers are assumed to be there.

Accordin' to Gordon, the second bid by opener follows the T-A-N (takeout, assist, no-trump) routine; any one-jump is forcing to a game; the jump in no-trump shows six or seven high cards.

Open one heart with the south hand shown here:

♠ K 8
♥ A Q 7 4 3
♦ A Q 10
♣ K Q 10

If partner responds with a takeout to a new suit bid of one spade, you have no suit bid of any kind a the second round. So, the T-A-N routine tells you to bid no-trump.

Any suit response by partner promises two high-card honour tricks. With seven high cards in your own hand you can raise to the pair; enough for game in no-trump. Jump to two no-trump; a game forces.

You may decide there is a game in no-trump by the number of the honor tricks you discover. Or by the number of points you can total. Or by how many high cards you see. Choose your weapons.

UN Is Expected To Back Demand Airmen Be Freed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Western diplomats predicted today that the United Nations assembly will vote speedy approval of a resolution by the 16 Korean allies demanding release of 11 American airmen held in Red China on spy charges.

The 15-country steering committee voted over bitter Soviet opposition Monday night to call for urgent assembly debate Wednesday on the allied proposal.

The resolution, agreed upon after a series of private talks by the 16, touches on three main points:

1. It charges that Red China violated the Korean armistice agreement by holding the fliers.

2. It declares the assembly should condemn such violations.

3. It asks the assembly to call on secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold to use "unremitting efforts" to obtain release of the men and report back to the assembly by Dec. 31.

Say Red Chinese Have Volunteer Air Squadron

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — An official Nationalist Chinese news agency says the Communists have an international volunteer air force based on Hainan Island, supplied with Russian planes manned by Russian pilots.

The interior ministry's Taiao agency, which claims underground contacts on the mainland, says 36 Soviet-built MIG fighters were flown to Nanking last week to form the nucleus of the new organization.

Another unconfirmed press report says Russia recently transferred to Red China some 300 IL-28 fighter bombers and a few MIG-17s. The IL-28 is an efficient bomber. The MIG-17 is a twin-engined radar-equipped fighter.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE COUNTRY PARSON" ARE YOU YOUR BROTHER'S KEEPER?

The age-old expression whether or not we are our brother's keeper is at last solved in the film version of Astor Pictures Corporation's "The Country Parson", now playing the Capitol Theatre to great acclaim.

R. M. Savini, president of Astor, one of the pioneer films in distribution, says that the film brings out forcibly and convincingly that we are all our brother's keepers. In it the story of Pastor Armin Ritter, one of the finest sermons of ministers, ever brought to the screen, depicts the real sacrifice and kindness for one's fellowmen really means.

In an era of modern pictures which is reeking a high in quality, Astor's "The Country Parson" teaches a lesson of tenderness while not losing sight of the fact that a picture must entertain. The scenes of the natives trailing the injured man, the daughter of the town doctor learning from her home, the moment of death of Pastor Ritter's son is a great tribute against strife and the manner of his dying, are all highlighted in one of the greatest religious pictures of any year.

See this picture with the one you love. A special pre-Christmas attraction brought to you at prices you can afford. A special matinee Wednesday, Dec. 8, will be shown at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE McCARTHY

Ronny Graham's Double Service

In addition to displaying his many abilities as a performer, Ronny Graham is one of the powerful forces behind the scenes of the CinemaScope musical "New Faces," now at the McCarthy Theatre. He wrote many of the sketches enacted by him and other performers in the picture, as well as a number of the songs which were performed by Robert Clary, Alice Ghostley, himself and various other members of the company.

In addition to his fame as an entertainer and contributor to "New Faces," Ronny Graham is already a big name on the upper-crust night club circuit, headlining at New York's Blue Angel, Ruban Bleu and other spots. Originally from Philadelphia, Ronny first scored emphatically on a stage in Cambridge when a suburban Boston theatre there mounted a show called "It's About Time," which also served to spotlight British comedienne Hermione Gingold, later a Broadway success in "John Murray Anderson's Almanac."

It was television star Imogene Coca who made the discovery of the first "New Faces" revue back in the 1940's. She brought Ronny to stage producer Leonard Sillman's attention. Ronny has also done TV shows of his own, on Ed Sullivan's "Toast to the Town" variety show, the Two-and-Nine show and other prominent spots.

"Rosebloom," featuring Richard Widmark, Ida Lupino and Cornel Wilde is the second feature.

Music Plays an Unusual Role in Walt Disney's "The Living Desert"

Music plays an important role in any Walt Disney production, plays an unusual role in Walt Disney's "The Living Desert," True-Life Adventure feature, showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Composer - conductor Paul Smith has written his score for the film which is in Technicolor, to include the various personalities of cactus plants and animals.

All True-Life Adventure music, explains Smith, must pace the picture, must point up the action,

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Look who's running a college of sex appeal now—Gilda Gray.

The shimmy queen of the twenties has been hired by producer Herbert Aldrich to school four sultry starlets in how to act sexy in the new Mickey Spillane opus, "Kiss Me Deadly." This may sound like publicity stunt, right. It could be one. But it offers intriguing possibilities.

Why, there's no end to what Gilda could teach the girls. Consider these possible lectures: "How far should the neckline plunge?"; "Confidentially, you slink"; "Hips, hips 'hooray'"; etc.

Gilda, whose own career is perking again after a long battle to regain her health, is taking her new duties seriously. Well, pretty seriously.

"I wasn't the 'it' girl," she told Sue, "but they did call me the 'S.A.' (sex appeal) girl. Folks said it was the ripples of the shadows in the flaming youth era. So maybe I can teach these girls a thing or two.

"If wouldn't say I had the Mickey Spillane type of sex appeal, that is, I never went around in a trench coat with nothing on underneath but my appeal is a pretty universal thing.

"It seems to me that sex is overdone by the glamor girls of today. Isn't it something that should flaunt. You shouldn't try to push it at people; you should serve it up with a little mystery.

"Sex isn't something that you can purchase. Those glamorous women who get themselves all dolled up with fake eyelashes and fake bosoms and everything are making a mistake. That's not sex.

"It's that inner quality that counts. A woman should be herself. If she's got sex appeal, it will shine through plain."

Many housewives, she argued, are sexier than Hollywood's finest stars.

"That's because women have to get it from themselves," she said.

Gilda added that more women have sex appeal today than in the flapper era, when sex went rampant.

She said must make the emotional content more poignant.

Since animals are on an instinctive level, the music must interpret. Hence the ludicrous, the romantic or the brutal must all be put on auditory as well as visual basis if the score is to be effective.

The music for "The Living Desert," has a sweeping theme with a guitar as the motif. Against this the incidents occur episodically. The suspense musically is act to square dance music, for that is the pace; the music must be in another mood, the romantic tortoise has a slow-moving pace, the music becomes snake an exotic moonglow melody.

Since nature's actors cannot speak, the music must explain their hopes, characteristics, and fears. Thus the score musically, in terms of human understanding, what each might be saying. In the task of Paul Smith, the composer and conductor of Disney's True-Life Adventure series.

Lyndhursts Drop From Senior B

TORONTO (CP) — East York Lyndhursts, Canada's representatives at the world hockey tournament in Sweden last spring, have dropped out of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B group, it was announced today.

The Lyndhursts, who reached the finals of the world tourney only to be decisively beaten by the Russians, have lost 14 games in 14 starts this season.

Harry Provost, the team's sponsor, decided to drop his sponsorship after watching the Lyndhursts absorb a 12-2 drubbing by Orillia.

Greg Currie, Lyndhurst coach, said difficulty in obtaining players was the principal reason for the team's failure this year.

Big Golf Match Slated For Sunny 'Cal'

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Professional Golfers Association team matches between the United States and Canada will be held in California next month on invitation of the La Jolla Country Club, San Diego, it was announced Monday night.

The matches will be played Jan. 18 and 19 as a prelude to the $15,000 Convair-San Diego open.

Known as the Hopkins Trophy matches, the tournament was originated in 1952 by John Jay Hopkins, international industrialist. The United States has won all three matches played, two in Montreal and one in Toronto.

The announcement by the sponsoring international Golf Association said the Canadian team will be headed by Stan Leonard of Vancouver, as Canadian PGA champion. It is understood all the selection committee will receive invitations to compete in the Bing Crosby open.

Under regulations for choosing the Canadian team, four players are selected on the basis of points scored in the Canadian open, the Canadian PGA championship and the $25,000 open. Three other players are chosen at the discretion of the selection committee.

Other than Leonard's name, the others have not yet been announced.

Your Horoscope
By FRANCES DRAKE
WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8, 1954
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A day for using tact and diplomacy. Be sure no untoward act of yours offends worthy co-workers, those in authority, or your family. New, unusual, valuable interests favored.
April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Today calls for patience, application and the proper distribution of energies. Time is not neutral; it's an ally for those who work with it.
May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Self-restraint and a co-operative attitude should bring you ahead on all directions now. Don't neglect your own or family's needs. Both can be worked together nicely.
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Mildly favorable rays holding over from yesterday's focus on pect will become benefic tomorrow, but other planetary aspects still indicate the need for extra care in all important matters.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Splendid Sun and Uranus aspects should help those seeking earned advancement, improving their status generally. Sound matters, the use of new materials, equipment, etc., favored.
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Your Mercury adverse, so against hasty decisions, acts. Substantial matters, industrial trades, work with the soil, tools, machinery, making needed improvements highly sponsored.
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Read Taurus. It will be helpful to you now. Personal goals may not be wholly or quickly achieved but all good work done willingly will eventually bring benefits. Be more patient than usual.
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your Mars is among the planets that stress self-control, a waiting attitude rather than rushing ahead without proper preparations or advice. Heed the suggestions of those in authority; be amenable.
November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Point action to coincide with your best qualifications; don't take undue risks with income, holdings, any valuable assets. Hard work, application to familiar matters can result in gain.
December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—A well-allocated schedule with time for study and planning and no last-minute rushing can return better-than-satisfactory results. Not an easy period perhaps, but it can be gainful with proper effort.
January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Not all of us have such encouragement as you today—with your Uranus and the Sun in benefic positions. But do be alert so as not to miss advantages. And do be consistent.
February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—An unobtrusively friendly day but there are restrictions and admonitions from several planetary aspects, so be sensibly cautious about signing agreements, in buying, selling, in all matters.

YOU BORN TODAY innately possess high aims and ideals, are energetic, willing to work for your goals. You are self-reliant, gentle, generous, roundly capable and talented; have a tendency to overdo, perhaps go to extremes and wear down health. These traits should be curbed now. You are frank, above pettiness and never a bore. Perhaps your frankness may verge on bluntness at times. Soften any such tendency for you do not wish to be unkind. You can attain sound success in either a profession, trade, or religious calling if you live up to your fine God-given attributes. Birthdate: Horace, Roman poet.

Little Benny's Notebook

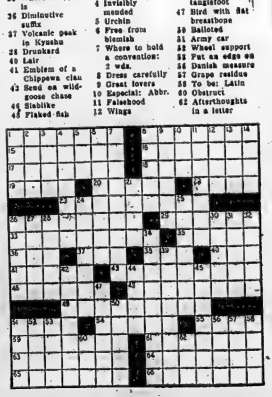
Yesterday at breakfast pop was mad on account of Mr. Jones snoring so loud next store that pop had to listen to him through his window instead of going to sleep, and he said to ma, "This has got to stop. If it was the first time, I wouldn't mind so much, but it's about the 38th time, and I mind more and more. I could have the man arrested as a menace to public health, he said.

Ma said exactly see how, ma said, and pop said, He's forcing his neighbors to close their windows and keep indoors all in fact bothin'.

Why dont you imagine it's the sound of waves breaking on a beetch? ma said. I've known you to sleep through that without threatening to have it stopped, she said, and pop said, That's a very poetic suggestion, But I'm afraid I'll have to return it with thanks.

The poor man probably cant help it, ma said, and pop said, Then I'll help him to help it.

Now William, you can't very well yell out the window in the dead of night, ma said, and pop said, if he does it again tonight I'll take a shoe tree and bang on the window ledge with it.



Being what he did last night, and this morning he said to ma, I told you it would work. It took a lot of banging, but it worked, he said, and just then the telefone rang, and it was Mr. Jones to talk to pop, and they came back mad, trying to ma, That's the limit, that's the last straw.

Do you meen he didn't apologize? ma said, and pop said, Apologize? He accused me of disturbing his rest by banging pictures at one o'clock in the morning.

Seeming funnier to me and ma than what it did to him.

Three-Millionth Free Chest X-Ray Will Be Given

TORONTO (CP)—The 3,000,000th free chest x-ray by Ontario government equipment will be given Tuesday in London, Ont.

Celebrating the occasion will be officials at the Ontario department of health which finances the service, and Dr. C. C. Brink, director of tuberculosis prevention, who has guided the mass survey since its beginning in 1942.

In 12 years mass x-ray has discovered 2,130 cases of active tuberculosis and another 7,000 cases of inactive TB have been brought under supervision.

Besides this, some 60,500 cases of other chest abnormalities showed up.

In an interview Dr. Brink said that although "TB deaths have dropped 70 per cent in the last decade there is still a high incidents of the disease—especially in older age groups."

INFANTICIDE CHARGED

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A 19-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., mother was charged with murder Monday when her 11-day-old daughter died after being thrown from a speeding auto. The child's father, Robert Akins, told police he saw his wife open the door of their car near Lexington but did not miss the baby until they arrived in town.

Weather Delays Army Exercise In Sub-Arctic

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LA PEROUS BAY, Man. (CP): Exercise Bull Dog II thawed itself out on the sub-Arctic tundra as 500 officers and men of the army and air force prepared for the sixth time in three days to try to complete the winter training schedule.

The mercury scooted up from 22 below to 22 above zero Monday and frigid winds diminished. The weather also eased the fingers and predicted similar conditions for today.

The two guesses rightly—he has been well below-average so far—airborne units of the Royal Canadian Regiment of London, Ont., and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery of Shilo, Man., were to drop from seven RCAF planes on a frozen lake, 100 miles west of this base on the Hudson bay shore just after dawn.

They also collect their parachuted equipment and attempt to capture a weather station originally taken by the "enemy" last Friday.

The enemy, represented by 80 men of the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec City, has been having a good time on the tundra: They have "killed" more than a dozen Rangers (civilian spotters), captured a Ranger station, complete with rations, and spent their offhours sleighing down the snow-banked slopes of the gravel promontory on which their camp is situated.

Ceylon Leader Leaves Canada For U.S. Visit

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Sir John Kotelawala, prime minister of Ceylon, Monday ended a four-day good-will visit to Canada, topped off with a taste of French-Canadian hospitality.

The last day and part of a second of his visit were spent in this French-Canadian city where Mayor Jean Drapeau personally acted as host to most of the time.

The prime minister arrived at nearby Dorval airport early Saturday night and was driven to a downtown hotel.

Freshened up, and reunited with a treasured swagger stick and a comfortable fur fedora during talks with Prime Minister St. Laurent, Sir John drove to the Montreal Curling Club for a dinner given by Transport Minister Marler.

SNOWBALL DEPUTY

Mayor Drapeau took him on a personally-conducted tour of Montreal. The official reception stops on the prime minister's itinerary of the final official function of his visit in the United States. He had previously visited President Eisenhower —Central Press Canadian.

Sub-Committee Begins Series Of Open Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy's investigations sub-committee today began a series of open hearings on communism in United States defence plants —but it was uncertain whether the Wisconsin Republican senator himself would be on hand.

McCarthy's core elbow was reported troubling him again. Monday. He did not appear for closed-door hearings in the afternoon which had the groundwork for public testimony in the new investigation.

Witnesses scheduled for today included Herman E. Thomas of Allentown, Pa., a former FBI undercover agent, and a number of workers in a steel plant at Bethlehem, Pa.

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.), who conducted the first part of the session, said Thomas named several men who now are working at the Bethlehem plant, but did not say the former FBI agent called them Communists.

The South Dakotan said the first of these men, the only one he heard: "took the fifth amendment." He later said others also declined to answer questions, invoking the constitutional guaranties against forced self-incrimination.

Thomas, who for 10 years was in undercover man for the FBI in the Communist party, appeared before the Senate internal security sub-committee last Oct. 13.

At that time he named 230 persons whom he testified he had known as Communists. Mundt said he believed these were different from the many Thomas testified about Monday.

McCarthy last week said the hearings would involve defence plants in the northeastern part of the country. He said he hoped and believed plant security officers would fire employees who declined to answer questions, invoking the constitutional guaranties against forced self-incrimination.

ARTILLERY SPOTTER

The British Auster plane, now used by the Canadian Army as an air spotter for the artillery is to be replaced by the American Cessna L-19. Flying in the army is at least 12 years old and there now are some 53 soldiers trained to fly light planes and helicopters. (CP from National Defence).

Army Purchases 16 New Cessna Light Planes

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—If only fighter planes were as cheap as army artillery-spotter planes. . . .

The army has just purchased 16 new Cessna L-19 light planes at a total cost of about $270,000 for artillery spotting and training. This is about $20,000 less than the price of one Sabre jet fighter.

Flying in the army is at least 12 years old and there now are some 53 soldiers trained to fly light planes and helicopters.

MAINTAINED BY RCAF

So far, the army's air work has been confined to spotting and pinpointing targets for artillery. And though the army owns its own planes and army pilots fly them, the RCAF does all the maintenance work.

With the increasing emphasis on mobility, it is possible that the army eventually will get more planes to supplement trucks in the movement of personnel and equipment from railhead to corps.

In the future the army might also take over maintenance of its own vest-pocket air force. This would mean training of ground as well as aircrew.

The army now has one flight of five planes attached to the 1st infantry division at Camp Petawawa, Ont. The second flight is at Camp Shilo, Man., which would become headquarters of a 2nd division in the event of war.

Because army pilots' work is to act as the eyes of the artillery, army aircrew are taken mainly from the artillery branch. They train for three months at the Brandon, Man., flying club and then for six months at Rivers, Man., the joint Army-RCAF air training centre. At Rivers, army pilots do the instructing but the final check-out is made by an air force pilot.

The army makes sure that, once trained, a pilot doesn't lose the knack of flying. Since 1952, pilots who have gone back to desk jobs after their three-year air hitch have been given four hours a month in the air at civilian flying clubs.

The American-built Cessna L-19 will replace the British-built Auster now used by the Canadian army as its standard air observation post aircraft. The Auster was used extensively in the Second World War and in Korea in an artillery-spotting role.

Four officers now stationed at army headquarters here take the "continuation flying" at civilian clubs. They are Capt. Joe Liston of Ottawa; Capt. R. M. Dey of Salmon Arm, B.C.; Capt. H. J. P. Tecbarke of Kelowna, B.C., and Lieut. Keith Johnstone of Ottawa.

Liston is a veteran artillery spotter of two wars. He flew in northwest Europe during the Second World War and in Korea until shot down in August, 1952. He returned from a Communist prisoner-of-war camp in September, 1953.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue in all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.1 in a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied — your money will be refunded promptly. "Trade Mark"

Don't squeeze blackheads. Get two ounces of PEROXIDE POWDER from any drug store and apply one tablespoonful to the affected parts. Your complexion is transformed by the rich deep lather.

SIXTEEN FOR CANADA

Sixteen of these American Cessna L-19 light planes have been bought by the Canadian Army as artillery-spotter planes. With the increasing emphasis on mobility in the army it is possible the soldiery will get more planes to supplement trucks in the movement of personnel and equipment from railhead to corps. The new planes are being serviced by the RCAF at Trenton, Ont., before being handed over to the army. (CP from National Defence).

Momentous Year in History Of Canada's Foreign Relations

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The year 1954 was one of the most momentous in the history of Canadian foreign relations.

Before the Second World War Canada, despite its ties with the Commonwealth, remained free of any foreign attachments.

This policy was changed by the cold war. Canada became one of the agonies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, pledged to go to the support of any member that might be attacked.

The decision taken in July to serve on the Indochina truce commissions with India and Poland was still another departure from long-established foreign policy.

For the first time, Canada found herself more than simply on one side in an argument. She was right in the middle in the role of an international umpire, even though the Indochina armistice terms did not require her to back up any decisions with force.

So this Christmas there will be some 345 Canadians in Indochina trying to see that the armistice terms arrived at in Geneva last July are upheld in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the three associated states of Indochina.

Canada this fall played a part in the agreement to bring West Germany into the Atlantic alliance. The Paris agreements for German rearmament and membership in NATO will come up for ratification in Parliament early next year.

Canada continued to maintain an infantry brigade group and air division in Europe and kept up its shipments of military supplies to European allies. This country's military aid to Western Europe now comes to $1,100,000,000.

On the other side of the world, Canada decided in September to reduce its forces in Korea by two thirds. Most of the troops being withdrawn are expected home by Christmas.

"Operation Reduce" followed similar action by the United States as the Republic of Korea army took over more and more of the policing duties previously done by U.N. forces.

At the same time, Canada made it plain it will not support any move by President Syngman Rhee of South Korea to reunify Korea by force.

Relations continued on a fairly even keel with the United States.

During August, the two countries reached agreement on construction in the international section of the St. Lawrence seaway. The U.S. will build locks and canals at Barnhart Island on the U.S. side; Canada will build on the Canadian side at Iroquois, Ont., and has retained the right to build on the Canadian side of Barnhart Island in future if it wants to do so.

The Colombo plan conference met here in October, Canada has contributed $100,000,000 during the last four years for economic aid to south and southeast Asia through the Colombo plan.

Possible Canadian recognition of Communist China was a periodic subject of debate during the year. The government considers that the Communist regime should not be recognized until it shows a more conciliatory attitude.

There was much international visiting during 1954.

Prime Minister St. Laurent made a round-the-world goodwill trip in the spring and External Affairs Minister Pearson was often in Europe on one errand or another.

Prominent visitors to Canada included Queen Mother Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, Prime Minister Yoshida of Japan, and the commander and deputy commander of NATO forces in Europe—Gen. Alfred Gruenther and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have found that their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at embarrassing times. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Then eat and laugh and talk as they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Illustrated—Buick "Super" Riviera
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

All this—and more miles per gallon too!

Be sure to try out the phenomenal effect of "variable pitch propellers" in Dynaflow Drive®!

MAYBE—among the current crop of new 1955 models—there's another car with an advance that can hold a candle to this one.

But we doubt it. We doubt it because nowhere—among the features of other cars that we have heard about or seen is there anything to compare with what's happened to Buick.

It all started with the fact that modern air liners get two big advantages because they can change the pitch of their propellers.

First, they get off the ground hundreds of feet sooner than they used to.

Second, they can stretch their gasoline by setting propeller blades at just the right "pitch" for cruising.

So Buick engineers asked themselves—"If you can do it with air, why can't you do it with oil—the oil inside a Dynaflow Drive?"

And to make a long story short—they could, and they did.

They engineered the propeller-like blades inside the "stator" of a Dynaflow Drive so they can change their pitch as much as 75 degrees.

That provides one setting for more-miles-per-gallon, and another for an instant surge of power when it's needed.

All you have to do is push the accelerator pedal the last half-inch beyond the full throttle position—and away you go!

Of course, there's a lot more to make a visit to our showrooms the "must" of the new-car year.

There's a step-up in styling as sensational as the step-up in power.

And the step-up in horsepower is this: 236 in the ROADMASTER, SUPER and CENTURY—188 in the SPECIAL.

But the thrill of the year is Buick's latest engineering "first"—and what it does for the man or woman who drives the latest and greatest Dynaflow Drive.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Pay-off on progress! Buick today go a lot further on a gallon of gas thanks to constant improvement in Dynaflow and its engine design. Even the 236 h.p. ROADMASTER averages more miles per gallon than Buicks of six years ago.

Thrill of the year is BUICK

Five Men Killed When Mine Floor Erupts Violently

Crushed by Tons of Debris In Coal Mine in Nova Scotia

MAYOR-ELECT

Michael Patrick, 36, has been elected mayor of Windsor, Ont., ending the 14-year reign of Mayor Arthur Reaume. Mr. Patrick served as alderman for seven years before making his bid for the mayoralty. He polled 18,-133 votes compared with 15,568 for Mr. Reaume. (CP Photo).

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—Five coal miners were crushed to death under tons of falling debris early today when a violent upheaval of the floor erupted at the 11,800-foot level of the Nos. 2 and 3 pits.

Four of the men were dead when found and the fifth died before he reached the mine's surface. Rescue crews had to work six hours and cut through an iron beam to reach one of the bodies.

The victims, all from the Springhill area, were identified as:

Layton Dakin, 25; Jack Fear Jr., 29; Wesley Hunter, 28; Harold Lemmer, 47, and James Copeland, 18.

AREA WAS BUMPY

The five men, under overman Hunter, were reported examining the spot to determine if it was safe for working after some miners said it was "bumpy."

The pit is operated by the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company.

Miners call today's accident a "bump." It is a violent upheaval of part of the mine's floor but its exact cause is not known.

The accident came only five months after a four-ton boulder thundered down the pit and killed two men. Another mine-ups a bump in the pit claimed two lives in the worst mine accident of 1953.

Mayor-Elect Nathan Phillips Will Get Facts

TORONTO (CP) —Mayor-elect Nathan Phillips promised Tuesday to clear up the mystery surrounding a 19th-floor hotel suite.

He said that, unless he gets "full ministerial control" of the suite he claims was the plush headquarters of a city hall clique, he will press for an official inquiry.

His statement came as an aftermath to Monday's civic election which saw Leslie Saunders swept out of the mayor's chair by what he was appointed in mid-year in succession to Allan Lamport who resigned to take a Toronto transit commissionership.

Mr. Phillips, in his third try for the office, became Toronto's first Jewish mayor.

SUITE CLEANUP

At a press conference Tuesday night he said he will press for an early cleanup of city slums, see that something is done about his pre-campaign proposal for a civic auditorium and lead advocates of amalgamation of the city and suburbs together in a campaign to get "a long-range square deal for city taxpayers."

He said he intends to campaign for world-wide competition among architects for a design for a new auditorium "to lead Toronto architecture out of the dark ages." The auditorium would be used as a cultural and convention centre.

Mr. Phillips said he also wants to find ways and means of bringing another large hotel to Toronto. He will also ask for preparation of a long-range policy on redevelopment for the centre of the city early in 1955.

AWARDED $80,000

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — A former Pennsylvania railroad engineer charged, and was cleared, when he was unjustly accused of stealing a pound and a half of gold and then fired, Tuesday was awarded $80,000 damages by a jury. Carl Torgensen of Elizabeth sued for libel, slander, false imprisonment and breach of contract. He had sought $600,000 damages.

WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The centre of low pressure approaching James Bay from the east is expected to stall there. As a result cautioned cloudy, slightly milder weather with strong westerly winds and a few snowflurries is forecast for most of Ontario today.

A disturbance over Oklahoma is expected to move eastward causing unsettled weather and a few more snowflurries on Thursday.

Continue Talks On Ford Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Labor Minister Dalley today met with officials of Ford Motor Company of Canada and striking United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO-CCL) in a continued effort to settle strikes at three Ford plants in Ontario.

The latest in a series of talks to try to resolve the walkouts started Tuesday under the chairmanship of Mr. Dalley and Louis Fine, provincial labor officer for the labor department.

No statement was released to the waiting reporters after the preliminary talks were adjourned.

Mr. Dalley met with the talks Tuesday was made up of representatives of the three striking UAW locals, in spite of the fact that Mr. Daley had asked that Local 200 representing the 5,700 striking workers from the production plant here, attend the early talks.

Neither Mr. Daley nor the union officials would give any indication as to whether the representatives from the other two locals will come to sit in on the discussions.

The company had previously refused to negotiate with the union on a collective basis, and insisted that it meet each plant separately to affect a settlement.

Production at the Ford plants at Windsor, Oakville and a plant near Toronto, are from three to four weeks old. The workers are demanding wage and fringe benefit increases.

Central and Western N.Y. State Buried Under 12 Inches of Snow

NEW YORK (AP)—Central and western New York state, peppered by a series of snow storms the last few days, struggled today to dig out from under a fresh deluge that has thickened the heavy white blanket to as much as 12 inches.

At least one person died in the battle against the night's wind-whipped storm. Hundreds of men and plows fought to clear roads choked by drifts from the deepening layer.

The state Thruway threw 38 plows into the struggle to keep the cross-state express highway open. High winds helped create drifts across the section between Syracuse and West Utica, as well as change south of Rochester. Schools were closed in some areas.

The snow has been falling intermittently since last Saturday, and since early Monday has been heavy.

Snow measured 21 inches in Adams, 20 in Fulton and 15 in Rochester.

State police warned that driving conditions would remain tough throughout the area between Syracuse and Rochester. However, few serious accidents were reported.

Elsewhere in the state, the snowy country continued its overnight mantle, for the third straight night, in Jefferson and St. Lawrence, both for a warming trend Thursday, but meanwhile forecast more cold and scattered snow flurries in central and northern sections.

B. K. SANDWELL DIES OF CANCER IN 79TH YEAR

Stubborn Will to Live Shown by Noted Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Bernard Keble Sandwell, 78, editorial columnist of The Financial Post since 1953, died Tuesday night. A generation of Canadians knew him as editor-in-chief of Saturday Night.

He died of cancer of the lung, complicated in the latter stages by a general paralysis. He had received cobalt radiation treatments, but doctors said it was his stubborn will to live "which prolonged his life in the latter stages of his illness.

BORN IN ENGLAND

Born in Leeds, England, in 1876, he never lost his English accent.

He came to Canada when 12, attended Upper Canada College, Toronto.

He graduated top boy, and went on to take an honors BA in classics at the University of Toronto in 1897.

Graduating at 21, he returned to England, began a journalistic career that was to have considerable influence on him and on the dean of Canadian newspaper men and helped to form Canada's general personal journalists.

OUTSPOKEN EDITOR

Experience, reading and conviction made him an outspoken liberal, at all seasons and with the popularity of any cause he undertook once persuaded he was right. His writing often increased his friends in the process.

He first met The Mail Street as a secretary, then to the Hastings Observer as a cub reporter. His first big job was that of editor of the old Hamilton Morning Post at 25 years later.

Between 1905 and 1911 he held a variety of posts with the Montreal Herald — from mirgue reporter to associate editor and drama critic.

Then followed seven years as associate editor and business editor of the Montreal Financial Times, before the late Stephen Leacock, then head of economics at McGill University, invited him to join him as a research assistant. There began a partnership beneficial to Canadian economic, cultural and political development known as the humorist - economists collaborated on many books.

In 1923 B. K. went to Queen's University, Kingston, as professor of history, and stayed for the department. He was discharged after a year's probation, on the grounds of became public—while vacationing in England with his wife, it was said that it resulted from jealousy over the popularity of his lectures.

Between then and his appointment to succeed the late Hector Charlesworth as editor-in-chief of Saturday Night in 1933 he lived as a free-lance writer and speaker.

The weekly developed under his guidance into a national force.

Among the honors that found their way to his editorial chair were Companion of Honor, an honorary doctorate conferred on him by the university that helped in demanding wage and fringe benefit increases.

Pontiff Takes Several Halting Steps on Arm of Physician

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands of Roman Catholics were packed Rome's great basilica of St. Mary Major to hear a sickbed blessing from the Pope closing the Marian year.

Pope Pius' blessing as well as an Ave Maria and a few words of greeting were recorded for broadcast from his sick bed by Vatican radio and the radio networks of other countries. Arrangements were made for the Pope's words to be heard both inside the basilica and in the square outside, where thousands unable to find a place inside gathered.

The Pope's blessing was "urbi et orbi"—to the city of Rome and of the world.

The Marian year was inaugurated a year ago today to honor the Virgin Mary upon the centenary of the dogma which proclaimed her immaculate conception.

Last Dec. 8 Pope Pius rode in ceremonial procession from St. Peter's basilica to St. Mary Major. Even then he was not a well man. Today he was so ill that the fact he had walked his first few steps, leaning on the arm of a physician, was world news.

Earlier the pontiff had been carried to an easy chair for five minutes while his bed was remade. It was his first time out of bed since a serious collapse last Thursday raised grave fears for his life.

An authoritative source said the pontiff's physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, plans to walk his patient daily, gradually increasing the number of steps, as a precaution against ill effects from prolonged immobility.

A television set installed in his bedroom brought to the Pope a close up of today's street celebrations and church services in honor of the Virgin.

The Pope assisted this morning from his bed in celebration of the early mass. He recited prayers to the Virgin Mary with Rev. Robert Leiber, the German Jesuit who is chief of his personal secretariat.

Thunderstorms disturbed the Pope's rest during the night but the skies over Rome and Vatican City were bright and sunny today.

A Vatican spokesman said except for the storm's disturbances the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church passed a relatively good night."

Today was an important one for the pontiff, who inaugurated the Marian year just a year ago to honor the Virgin and commemorate the centenary of the dogma of her immaculate conception. The dogma established was Roman Catholic faith the belief that Mary alone of mankind was born without the stain of Adam and Eve's original sin.

Roman Catholics throughout the world have been holding special services and congresses in her honor.

The Pope approved from his bed a decree for the causes of beatification and canonization of Pius IX, who proclaimed the dogma 100 years ago.

The Pope had desired keenly to participate in today's final ceremony of the Marian observance in Rome's Basilica of St. Mary Major. His collapse of last Thursday, following a recurrence of acute gastritis and hiccups, made that impossible.

Mass, sung by remote control Tuesday night lighted an electric torch at a seaside Sicilian shrine of the Virgin Mary.

The telegram set at the bedside brought to the rallying pontiff today the faces and songs of Rome's school children, carrying flowers in a day-long procession to the tall column monument of the Immaculate Conception in Rome's Spanish square.

By mid-morning the base of the monument was a mass of many-colored blooms. The column is topped with a statue of the Virgin, her hands outstretched high over Jesus Rome's rooftops.

THREE KILLED AND 3 INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

RCAF Bomber Plunges Into Field in Manitoba

By BRUCE HOGLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HEADINGLEY, Man. (CP) — A low-flying RCAF Mitchell bomber with flames belching from its fuselage crashed into snow-covered stubble fields one-half mile from here Tuesday night, killing three of the six airmen aboard.

Two of the survivors walked away from the wreckage while the third was extricated from a rear turret seat by two rescuers.

All dead are: FO. K. W. Daly, 25, of Vancouver, pilot of the craft; FO. A. G. Adams, 33, of Glasgow, Scotland, navigator; and FO. G. R. Hann, 33, formerly of Loreburn, Sask.

Mr. Daly left a widow and two sons.

Names of the other men were not released but they were all reported to be in good condition.

The crash occurred around 5:30 p.m. CST on the 750-acre farm of Jacob Penner.

The Mitchell was returning from a routine training flight when the accident of unknown origin happened.

RAW FLAMES

Witnesses all gave similar statements as to the red and blinking lights of the plane and the presence of flames prior to the crash. Wreckage was spread over a 250-foot area.

Jacob Penner, Sr., whose farm adjoins the crash field, was in the kind his chicken house when he heard the uneven grumblings of the plane's motors.

"I didn't see the lights and thought at first that the plane was quite high," he said. "Then I saw the lights and thought something was wrong—it was with too close to the ground.

"Suddenly the bottom portion of the plane burst into flames. A few seconds later it crashed and there was a terrific roar.

WITNESSED CRASH

The first arrivals at the wreckage were three men and a boy who had finished supper when they heard the plane zoom over their farm and then crash-land.

Seconds later they witnessed the crash. They rushed to the flaming plane and discovered two of the survivors walking around in a daze.

Joe Kelly, Melvin Hanford and Bobby Hanford, 12, led the pair into Winnipeg Deer Lodge Hospital.

Lawrence Kelly remained at the wreckage and with the help of 15-year-old John Loeppky aided the third survivor from the tail end turret. Deanne Snare, 14, took off on his bicycle and pedalled to the nearest the airman until the ambulance arrived.

Headingley is 13 miles west of Winnipeg.

The RCAF board of inquiry will investigate the crash.

Andre Lacroix, 23, Booked As Drunk By Regina Police

Called Reporters to Hotel, Said He Killed Missing Girl

REGINA (CP)—The Leader-Post will say today a young Quebec man Tuesday night told two of its reporters, and then police, he was the killer of Marion McDowell.

The paper says Andre Lacroix, 23, of Chicoutimi, called the reporters to a Regina hotel and told them he killed the 17-year-old blonde secretary who has not been seen since she was abducted from her boy friend's car in the Toronto suburb of Scarboro a year ago last Monday.

Lacroix then repeated his story to a plain-clothes- detective, was arrested and booked on a drunk charge.

Maclyn's disappearance is still an unsolved mystery but police in the Toronto area are convinced she is dead, the victim of a sex slayer. The Leader-Post published an account of the case Monday, the anniversary of her disappearance.

Toronto police said they take a sceptical view of the Lacroix confession.

POLICE ARE SILENT

Regina police refused comment on Lacroix's statement until today. They said they do not accept evidence from persons charged with drunkenness.

The Leader-Post says reporters Norman Elliott and John Coleman met Lacroix in the hotel after a man with a French-Canadian accent twice phoned their office and said he could "tell you something about Marion McDowell."

The reporters said Lacroix, while drinking two glasses of beer in the hotel tavern, told them he killed Marion "with these"—raising his hands as though he would use other details. They quoted him as saying it was the "anniversary of the thing" and he wanted to surrender to police but called the newspaper first because he was "afraid the police would hold me and make it tough unless the newspapers knew."

The paper says Elliott then called police while he and Tommy Maegee in plain clothes to pose as another reporter.

Lacroix repeated his story and was arrested.

Inspector Harold Graham of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigation branch and Inspector Harold Adamson of Scarboro police said they think he is seeking free transportation to eastern Canada, after being stranded in Regina with $1.46.

They said there is no indication in Marion's diary that she knew anybody by the name of Andre, although she kept an elaborate day-to-day account up to a few months before her abduction.

Police said they have had Lacroix speaks with an accent. Jim Wilson, Marion's escort when she was kidnapped, was positive the man involved had no accent.

UN Assembly Likely to Ignore Red Roadblocks

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The 16 Korean allies looked for Russia to throw up procedural roadblocks today in an effort to delay United Nations General Assembly debate on Red China's jailing of 11 United States fliers as spies.

Most diplomats feel, however, such Soviet tactics will not hold up action for more than a day on the allies' demand that the UN denounce the Chinese seizure as a violation of the Korean armistice and seek the release of the men.

With most UN members apparently lining up behind Indonesia, word spread that the Soviet Union planned a determined effort to block discussion of the issue, scheduled to start in the assembly this afternoon.

COULD DELAY

Russia's Jacob Malik, who dogedly fought the item when it was first brought up in the steering committee Monday, could delay things a while by:

1. Arguing that the assembly has no right to handle the case, on the ground that it deals with espionage rather than prisoners-of-war.

2. Demanding that the case be allocated first to the political committee instead of going direct to the assembly as recommended by the steering committee.

Malik said Tuesday that Red China be invited here to give her side in the debate.

The assembly must decide on all such points before turning to discussion of the resolution put forward by the U. S. and her 15 Korean War allies.

Quaint Professor Chosen by Artists To Succeed Salty-Tongued Painter

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Royal Academy of Arts has elected Professor Albert Richardson as president to succeed Sir Gerald Kelly, 75-year-old salty-tongued portrait painter who is retiring next year.

Prof. Albert E. Richardson, who at 74 will be able to serve as president only one year before he has to make his retirement mandatory, is the quaint professor who was the butt of life 200 years ago. His subdued temperament provides a sharp contrast to that of Sir Kelly, who widely advertised his love of "rude words" when he was not in public.

After his election Tuesday night, the stocky, bespectacled Richardson made typical diary entry: "Portrait of a Lady." "Perfect sweetie pie."

"Television puts things over extremely well to the public," Richardson said. "But reticence, extreme reticence, is necessary."

At his 18th-century home in Bedfordshire, Richard will continue to dress his dinner guests up in 18th-century clothes and serves them 18th-century food.

He has no use for modern architecture, and considers "skyscrapers a joke" and has taste been so depraved in the history of architecture."

The 186-year-old Royal Academy, founded by George III, controls the making headlines, chiefly because of the painter's unbridled way with words about art.

Early this year he surprised millions of television fans by revolting in Rubens' "Nice taste in lovely flesh."

"I don't think there is anything more lovely than two juicy luminous nude bodies," Kelly exclaimed —and thousands of converts flocked to see pictures at the staid Royal Academy's museum.

Sharp Decrease in Rural Population Predicted by Ontario Deputy Minister

J. H. Carroll, assistant deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario, yesterday said the time would come when the rural population will represent only ten percent of the entire population.

However the decrease will be more than offset by the increased efficiency of the farmers.

Mr. Carroll was speaking on "The future of Canada" to the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club here. Theme of the meeting was agriculture and seven reeves of both Hastings and Prince Edward county councils attended with their respective wardens.

Enlarging on his subject after his address, Mr. Carroll laid emphasis on the necessity of training youth to face the eventual decrease in the agricultural community.

"They are going to be better trained than before and with that and increased industrialization we can look forward to the future with confidence."

In his speech he noted that "Canada is being industrialized faster than any country in the world" and that in Ontario "the very pivot of that new power is being centralized."

The expansion of industry being a Smith transport jackknifed on the curve east of Shannonville and slid into the ditch causing about $100 damage. The driver escaped injury.

The decrease in rural population, the population has increased and he attributed this increase to the maintenance of high prices in certain agricultural products, including beef cattle.

Regarding the exodus of labor from the farms, answering the call of industry, he foresaw fewer hired laborers and that we are going to have to pay them higher wages.

However, despite the emigration from the farms, production has been raised due to the increased efficiency of the farmers.

He also deprecated basing comparisons with standards at present-day living with those of previous on the value of the dollar instead of wage-earning power, by presenting statistics of the value of a work-hour today with that of 30 years ago. These showed that in 1924 one hour's work earned the following, compared with today:

1924			1954
Milk	Beef	Butter	Cheese
3.3 quarts	2.8 lbs.	1.1 lbs.	1.2 lbs.
	1954
7.3 quarts	1.4 lbs.	1.5 lbs.	2.3 lbs.

Mr. Carroll was introduced by Elmer Sandercock, MPP, and thanked by Rod Punchard. Among the guests were Fred Mitchell, warden of Hastings County; Don Walker, warden of Prince Edward County and A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative of Hastings County.

Annual presentation of the Kiwanis Club trophies to 4H Calf Clubs in both counties also was made at yesterday's meeting. This year's winners were Jack Vermilyea, RR 5, Belleville, of the Belleville 4H Calf Club and Io Bill Pettingill, Hillier, of the Ameliasburg-Hillier club. Presentation was made by president of the club L. A. Hall.

This is the second time in two years that Jack Vermilyea has won the award and it now becomes his permanent possession.

Again this year the club is presenting a $100 scholarship to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, for the outstanding student entering his second year there. This year's winner is J. E. McComb, RR 5, Belleville. The presentation will be made at the semi-annual prize-giving banquet, to be held this month in Guelph.

Presenting this report to the club, Ken Burkett, chairman of the Kiwanis Agriculture and Conservation committee said the club in presenting the trophies and scholarship, "is creating a better understanding between those who live on the farm and those who live in the cities and is giving encouragement to deserving young farmers in our district."

Little Porker Did Not Want To Go Home

"This little pig went to market; this little pig stayed home," and so on went the old nursery rhyme.

But this is a story about a little pig that did not want to go home.

Shortly after one o'clock this morning city police officers Richardson and Hart were surprised to see a little pig running down West Moira Street, near the upper bridge. The officers of the law took chase, captured the porker and brought him to the police station to await his rightful owners.

The little pig had been sold at the livestock auction north of the city and was being taken to his new home when he escaped.

Firemen Given $100 Increases In Accordance With Promise Made at Beginning of Year

In keeping with verbal promises made early in the year city firemen received a $100 increases by city council at their final meeting of the year held Tuesday evening.

Speaking to the recommendation calling for across the board increases for firemen Alderman Angus Duffy as chairman of the fire committee, stated this was the result of a verbal agreement made last January during salary negotiations when firemen were promised a further increase over and above that received if through arbitration members of the police association got more than a $100 increase.

Police were awarded a $200 salary increase by the arbitration board with result that firemen placed their request before council. The recommendation for increases to the firemen was passed without dissent.

At the same time, however, council also laid over a request of city hall employees for similar treatment with the firemen. A recommendation to this effect was laid over and the original motion calling for the larger request was carried.

Harold C. Seldon and A. C. Campbell were present as members of the Quinte High School District Board. The appointment to replace Donald Ross as high school board will be made in the new year.

BY-LAW OUTLINE

The local board of health will be required to give council as much time of the health services being provided for public school pupils in the city and at the same time an outline will be established of the services given by the Township of Thurlow for children at the St. Joseph and Holy Rosary separate schools at the city outskirts.

Alderman Duffy noted that a tentative agreement between the city and township that Belleville would provide health services at St. Joseph's school, while Thurlow would provide the services for Holy Rosary. However, it was felt the services given by the city should be complete and as result the parents of city pupils attending Holy Rosary school would be paying for services they were not receiving.

The alderman noted it would be impractical for two doctors to function both these separate health services.

A request from the local suburban planning committee for the services of city building inspector Clarke was referred to the 1955 board of works committee.

The report of J. T. Ransom on levels taken in the industrial area following levelling carried out by F. E. Hinson was referred to the board of works committee for considerable discussion. A bill of $80 as the city's share of the cost of Mr. Ransom's report, was ordered paid.

Alderman Clarke announced that the debenture committee had sold $766,113.40 in city debentures to a syndicate headed by Lazard Freres & Co. at a price of $101.329 with interest at the rate of 3¾%.

LIST TO BE PROVIDED

Under Inquiries, Alderman Argue asked what sign licences and franchises in the city were presently in arrears. He was told the list would be provided for the next meeting.

Alderman Argue pressed for an answer on the franchises in arrears and was told that the Dodson Bus Company franchise amounting to $1,200 was still outstanding.

Alderman Smith noted that all the hits around Ward one and the Belleville Hockey Club was using the Rawson buses for trips to Kingston that cost was being applied against the franchise.

Alderman Argue wanted to know what kind of an arrangement this was. "Looks like a case of business," he commented.

Council was assured, however, that everything was in order and treasurer Drury Hayes said that the amount owing by the bus firm would certainly be collected.

Under Inquiries Ald. William Argue asked the mayor if anything had been done with respect to appointing a committee to act with solicitor in the pending suit with the McFarland Construction company. An argument ensued with the alderman demanding that the question be answered and the mayor both stating that if the alderman did not quit interrupting while he was trying to give an explanation, that he would have him removed from the meeting.

The alderman, however, was insisted that he receive an answer. He asked that if a committee had not been appointed, then why was it done within minutes of previous meeting were the matter of solicitor in the pending suit with the McFarland Construction company was mentioned and when

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market has been advancing steadily toward a record high all week and finally made it today.

The industrial index in first-hour trade today gained about a half point to 375.44, highest since the exchange began the index in 1934.

Utilities and financial institutions moved well up but liquors were lower and other industrial groups mixed. Ford A touched a 1954 high of $107.

Junior base metals, uraniums and low-priced golds climbed but senior base metals were mixed. Several low-priced mines turned active and strong, including Lorado which touched $3.30. Consolidated Denison touched $1.78, Malargo touching 18 cents and Roche 22.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO. (CP) —Trade was very slow today at the Ontario stockyards. Sales on steers were too few to establish a trend. Other classes sold slowly at steady prices.

Receipts: Cattle 300; calves 125; hogs 200; sheep and lambs 150; boldover from Tuesday 1,600 cattle.

Medium heifers 14-18, common 12-14; heavy steers and heifers 18-22; good fed yearlings 22-23; good cows 10; canners and cutters down to 5; good beef bologna bulls 12-12; common light bulls down to 8.

Replacement cattle sales were restricted to medium stock calves at 14-16.

Calves' steady at 23-25 for good and choice vealers; mediums 15-20; common 10-13; grass calves sold for slaughter at 8-12.

Hogs unchanged at 27 for grade A with 26½ and 28 Tuesday at 21.25; sows 18.50.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings adequate for a steady demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded in fibre cases; A large 34; A medium 29-30; A small 22-25; B 28; C 24-25. Wholesale to retail: A large 39; A medium 34-35; A small 30-31; B 33; C 29-30.

Butter solids: Canada, 1st grade, 60%-61.

Cheese Exchange

A total of 3,629 cheese were boarded on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last night sold at 30 cents for both white and colored. Breakdown of the total was: 2,923 colored cheese, 278 white and 426 specials.

The next meeting of the Cheese Exchange will be Dec. 21.

PROMPT RETURN OF BALLOTS ASKED

The primary ballot for election of the board of directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has been mailed to members.

Members are being asked by the Chamber to nominate six persons for the final ballot. The ballots must be in the mail by noon, Thursday.

Scrutineers for the election are H. W. Ackerman, Charles D. Lundy and D. W. Kingdon.

County Council Approves Folder On Publicity

Hastings county councillors have given their collective stamp of approval of the work of the county publicity committee and that of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce in the publication of this year's publicity booklet.

In giving a verbal report of the work of his committee Reeve Rhoads Wells of Marmora as head of the publicity committee, noted that his committee had worked in co-operation with the city and the chamber of commerce in putting out the booklet.

"That is," he said, "we made $500 available and the chamber of commerce did all the work. That they did a good job on the folder is shown by the fact that the folder won third place in a Dominion-wide competition."

He said he was pleased that the county had gone in with the city and the chamber of commerce and would recommend that it go in again next year. This year's booklet had cost $2,500, paid by the county, the city and chamber of commerce.

He noted that the tourist booklet had been distributed through chambers of commerce offices all across Canada and from tourist reception centres at various rolling points.

Reeve "Bud" Price of Elzivir township agreed that a commendable job had been accomplished in publication of the booklet and said the county had received a fair share of the publicity along with the city.

News Vending Stand Moved To New Location

The news vending stand owned by Mr. William Lane, local blind news vendor, will be moved to a new location outside the post office.

This was decided by city council last night when a recommendation to have the stand moved was put forward.

Alderman Bruce Smith as chairman of public works said the removal of the stand from its present location had been requested by certain Bridge street merchants and also by the police department, which had termed the small building a traffic hazard which could cause an accident resulting in serious injury to Mr. Lane.

Alderman Smith said the approval of the postal department at Ottawa had been received allowing placing of the building on government property.

Alderman Argue opposed the removal of the building from its present location near Front street, asking if Mr. Lane had been asked to have the building moved. "Mr. Lane's building is not nearly the menace to traffic that the Rawson Bus company is by cluttering up eight street corners in the downtown area," he said.

Alderman Smith said the building could have been moved two months ago but did not want the matter to become an election issue and also he wanted approval from the department in writing before any action was taken.

Two Break-ins In Apartments Are Reported

Break-ins at two downtown apartments were reported to city police late yesterday afternoon, the entries being made during the absence of the owners. Cash was reported stolen in both instances.

Police reported that the apartment of Raymond Lloyd, 227½ Front Street, was entered and also that of Mr. Pasco at 274½ Bridge St. East. In both instances the apartments were ransacked as the intruders apparently looked for money.

Bell Pioneers Make Plans For Anniversary

Decisions taken in Belleville today by officers and committee members of the Charles Fleetford Sise Chapter—the Ontario-Quebec branches of the International association of Telephone Pioneers of America, are expected to have far-reaching effects as they affect plans and preparations for next April 29, when the employees and pensioners of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada will hold their 75th anniversary celebrations throughout the two provinces to mark that company's 75th anniversary of incorporation.

Meeting here during the past two days members of the chapter executive and historical committee have been discussing a varied agenda of subjects largely relating to the preservation and perpetuation of many historical aspects of the communications industry. Telephone pioneers are men and women of more than 25 years' service in that business. Their association, numbering more than 177,000 persons, is the largest social organization of its kind in North America.

Yesterday the Pioneers meeting here made a conducted tour of the electronics departments of the Northern Electric Company plant in Belleville.

The chapter Historical Committee is represented here by William McNeill, chairman; Walter Keyser, F. H. Robinson, Toronto; E. S. Dibblee, G. M. Crossgrove, past chairman; S. Bonneville, A. J. Cranston, Montreal; C. M. Brady, London; W. A. S. Hunter, Ottawa; C. H. Fleming, Oshawa, and George L. Long, secretary, who is Bell Company Historian in Montreal.

Officers in local attendance include also: Thomas Lawrence, Montreal, Canadian vice-president of the association; Lloyd H. Campbell, Toronto, former president; E. Bert Colton, Montreal, vice-president; Earle Lymon, Montreal, secretary-treasurer; Leo Bourguignon, Ottawa, president of the J. S. MacPherson Council in which territory Belleville is situated.

Reg Turcoe, Northern Electric; Grant Proctor and H. J. Code, Belleville Bell manager and traffic superintendent, respectively, officially welcomed the visiting Pioneers to this city at a meeting last night in the Hotel Quinte.

TAX EXEMPTION FOR YOUNG COUPLES?

The executive of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association, meeting in Peterborough over the week-end, passed a resolution urging the federal government to "give immediate consideration to an improved tax exemption schedule for married couples during the first five years of marriage."

The suggestion has much to commend it. A good start is often half the battle, in marriage as in many other undertakings. There has been, in recent years, an encouraging trend towards earlier marriage. Most people, we think, will welcome the desirability of this.

The steadily lengthening period of training necessary before entrance into many of the professions, and for some other jobs also, erects a formidable barrier to marriage at that period of life when young people, answering the call of their natural instincts, would normally be starting to think seriously of marriage. Moreover, postponing marriage carries other hazards besides the delay in establishing a family. Every marriage involves a period of adjustment and young people make these adjustments much more readily than those who, growing older, have become, in an aptly descriptive colloquial phrase, "set in their ways."

However, the trend towards marriage at a younger age has not always been accompanied by a trend towards the establishment of normal family life. In many instances the wife has continued to work after marriage, to assist in the establishment of a home. Desirable as is this objective, it has nevertheless had the effect of delaying the establishment of a family past the period when father and mother can, in a sense, "grow up with their children."

The suggestion by the Young Progressive Conservatives for a special tax exemption for married couples would provide a possible remedy for this condition.

Still, it unfortunately appears that any such a policy would involve problems too complicated to solve.

What if the couple were not young but old?

What if the couple were not poor but rich?

What if the couple did not stay married for five years? Would the government then claim tax arrears, or would the man and wife, upon getting a divorce, divide the profits derived from the tax-exemptions they enjoyed during their brief marriage.

Perhaps the only solution does not lie with tax officials at Ottawa, but with the bridegrooms and brides. Perhaps they want too much, too soon. While prepared to work for it, perhaps they are not willing to wait for it.

Waiting has its virtues, too.

A VOICE IN THE WILDERNESS?

Is Hon. C. D. Howe a voice crying in the wilderness? If we understand correctly what he said at Geneva Monday, we fear that he is.

Canada's trade minister was addressing the meeting held in connection with the general agreement of tariffs and trade.

He said that the Canadian government "has no intention of wholesale abandonment of existing preferences" in its tariff system, but that "the time is ripe for a new attack on the problem of quantitative restrictions." Such restrictions, he said, "should become the exception instead of the rule."

Mr. Howe, apparently, would like to see an end to the practice of imposing import and export quotas on goods of various types, with governments relying on dependence on tariffs to provide protection for home industries, where necessary.

The quota system, however, will likely be with us for many years. Mr. Howe said that discriminatory trade measures hurt everyone. "The people who are hurt most are in the countries which impose them," he said, "because of the higher prices they pay for imports." But it is not one or another of the import quota system, perhaps the only advantage, the fact that it permits governments to control the volume of imports by means other than by regulating the flow through the tariff gates.

Tariffs increase the prices of goods to the consumer, but import quotas involve no tax on these imports and the system can be operated in such a manner that the price of the goods to the consumer remains under strict government control.

This, of course, involves direct government interference with the import trade — but relatively few governments today would hesitate to impose such controls on this account.

Among those who may cheer Mr. Howe's expressed views most vigorously there will surely be a large proportion who will entertain grave doubts whether his advice to the nations of the world will fall on receptive ears.

THE PLEASANT SEASON

It's amazing just how pleasant people have grown to be.
The other night at dinner time a waiter noticed me
And he asked me what I wanted
in a most obliging way
Which I don't expect to happen
on my ordinary day.
So as Eugene Field once said it in a manner more prefect
"Yes" fore Christmas" everybody's being nice.

The postman may be burdened with a lot of needless mail
And his pouch may be too heavy,
but to smile he doesn't fail.
The man at my paper's at the door,
my paper's at the door,
So I needn't search the bushes for my copy any more.

I can get two cups of coffee for the posted single price,
"Yes 'fore Christmas" everybody's
being nice.

The elevator captain says, "Good morning" now to me
And he asks me how I'm feeling, as if much concerned were he.

I am greeted like a brother by the man who sells me gas,
But I'm saddened by the knowledge that these pleasant days must pass.
Old hearts are getting warmer that once seemed as cold as ice
"Yes 'fore Christmas" everybody's being nice.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8th, 1934.

Mr. Frank M. McKeown of this city was elected vice-president of the Eastern Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association at the annual meeting which was held in Brockville yesterday.

On Wednesday of this week two wedding anniversaries were observed in this city: Mr. and Mrs. S. Schryver, Highland Avenue, celebrated their fifth anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Carter, West Belleville, observed the tenth anniversary of their wedding. Both parties received many congratulations and good wishes of many friends.

Miss Lillian McRae and Mrs. Ralph Hyslop left yesterday for St. Petersburg, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

Mrs. Dorothy Jones, Alexander Street, has returned home from Montreal, where several months in New York City.

The Rev. Father Thomas McCarthy has resigned as pastor of the parish at Read, Tyendinaga township, after fifty years of faithful and successful service. His resignation will take effect on Dec. 31st. Father McCarthy expects to spend the winter in the south.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Parochial Guild, in connection with St. Thomas' church, the vice, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, presided for the election of officers which resulted as follows: hon. president, Mrs. A. Beauchamp Payne; president, Mrs. Frank Potter; 1st vice-president, Mrs. S. Bigham; 2nd vice-president, Miss Amy Wallbridge; secretary, Mrs. Harry Arbuckle; treasurer, Mrs. John Watson. Mrs. Beauchamp Payne, the people's warden, called during the meeting to express to the members of the guild the appreciation of the wardens for the great assistance given by them during the year.

30 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8th, 1924.

At the annual meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 17 Sons of England in the following officers elected for the ensuing year: president, E. Lemmey; vice-president, V. Dack; secretary-treasurer, John Fenn; chaplain, Bro. A. L. Green; assistant secretary, W. E. Armitage; committeemen to order guard, E. J. Follwell, Is. Renouf, F. Follwell, F. Fleming; inside guard, C. Waltron; outside guard, W. Bennett; delegate to Grand Lodge, E. J. Follwell.

The sum of $475 was subscribed to the Rotary Club's crippled children's fund at an entertainment which was sponsored by the club at the Belle Theatre on Sunday evening. The theatre was filled to capacity and many persons could not gain admittance. Mr. Charles M. Ketcheson acted as chairman in a pleasing manner and the program of music was in keeping with Sunday. The congregational singing of favorite hymns was inspiring.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Latta, of Latta, Ontario, celebrated the 50th or golden wedding day of their wedding on Nov. 28th, and many relatives and friends gathered at their home to extend congratulations and express good wishes.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An old friend who recently died, after a fairly slow and patient approach to the end, had some rather interesting things to say about the fear of death.

"Our generation," he said, "is the crowded with men who, in the two wars, faced up to the thought of death a great many times. In Britain and Europe, countless women are included in those who had this experience, due to bombing, or as refugees. There must be hundreds of thousands of men, maybe millions, who genuinely feel we are living on borrowed time. In forty generations of war a man or woman passed severely they used to say they were living on borrowed time. But you take the pilots and aircrew of the last war who had operational tours of duty missions. They could hardly have experienced much risk, or have seen the things they saw in that time, without having stood face to face, in their own minds, with death, and solved the matter one way or another, with religion or without. The same, of course, is true of soldiers and sailors who were in action often enough to have had to deal with the after-thought as well as the fore-thought. By that I mean that having faced up to the expectation of death, it is often a little harder to face up to the realization, after the battle, that you could have died a dozen times during the action, but did not. And here you are, spared for another action yet to come. A few times over those jumps, and you lose the fear of death, and the natural to peaceful man.

"Sometimes ex-service men are a puzzle to their families and friends. They behave oddly, and badly. Sometimes in a while, they go off the deep end. It seems to me, now that I have nothing else to do but contemplate death, that a man who has offered enough in war to be able to perceive he is living on borrowed time can be excused if he occasionally behaves his borrowings about carelessly. Borrowers have not as much respect for the loan of life as have the careful hoarders."

Will Sell Milk By Gallon

(Christian Science Monitor)

The quart-size milk bottle is "on the way out" according to a manager of a farmers' cooperative. In several American cities it is being gradually replaced by the gallon jug. Insofar as this means greater milk consumption, lower prices, and more income for farmers, who will cavil?

But with the shape of ice-cream cones changed, with automobiles no longer frightening horses, and with no horses to frighten—well, one just instinctively resists further change in the American scene.

Of course, there will be compensations when the gallon jug has taken over.

Forgetful vacationers returning home after two weeks will not have to face anywhere from 14 to 28 quarts of milk on the back porch—just three to eleven gallon jugs of same.

The sleepy head-of-house who forgot to put the cat out before going to bed will no longer wake the whole neighborhood with the clatter of enormous milk bottles falling down the back steps—just with the thump of a gallon jug.

The family who forgot to pay last month's milk bill will no longer be confronted by the dismaying fact that payment is overdue for fourteen bottles, or four quarts of milk—only for 8 to 30 gallons.

But all this is sociology and economics.

What about sentiment? To the person who likes the waiting quart bottle of milk is a welcome home on the doorstep; a gallon jug will be no such thing.

What about memories and romance? The milkman himself hasn't changed shape in recent years its size is still reminiscent of the days of the horse; nor has a certain girl on her way home and carrying groceries changed her. Would he have offered to do so if the bag had contained a heavy gallon jug instead of a manageable quart?

And then there is he, rather, that the milkman is literally horse—what will we have to remind us of how that hoary creature looked when the quart milk bottle is no more?

Bifocals In Missouri

(Kansas City Star)

Fifty years ago very few people wore glasses. Those who did were known from "eye doctors"—in fact, few owned spectacles.

When the farmer found difficulty in reading the grain and livestock reports in his daily newspaper, or his wife could no longer see to thread a needle, they bought a pair of reading spectacles from an itinerant peddler. The object of the peddler was to try out each pair in the peddler's pack to find which pair was best suited to their eyes.

Although the specs (as they called them) might be a few cents, the same pair was used by the farmer and his wife. She would borrow them a few minutes to thread the needle and he would borrow them to read the paper.

Sometimes he could not see in the corners of the room with his reading specs, so usually he would push up his nose low enough so that he could look over the top. Occasionally he would look over the noisy in their ploy while father was reading the paper. Then they must quiet down when father looked at them with a frown over the top of his specs.

Grandpa had such weak eyes when he was reading that he used the specs he could buy from the peddler were strong enough for him to read the paper, but he objected that by wearing one pair of specs

Grandpa finally bought himself a pair of bifocals. He really enjoyed his new glasses, and how the youngsters how he could read through them and how he could see to walk with the specs pushed up. One day when grandpa had a old single lens specs on the shelf in place of his bifocals, little Johnny put on them wore them a long while. The youngsters had a good laugh at grandpa when they showed him he hadn't noticed the difference.

Then another night put on reading specs while reading his text-book to them. He was in the pulpit while expounding firstly, secondly, thirdly and fourthly. One of the favorite expressions of the Town community near Cameron, Mo., was used by the late J. J. Garvin. The preacher had forgotten his specs that Sunday and was having difficulty reading his text. That was in the days before song books were printed. So, the preacher left for the preacher to read a verse and the congregation to sing the verse to the one tune used for all singing.

After a few minutes of fumbling through his pockets in search of his glasses, the preacher said: "My eyes are dim; I cannot see; I did not bring my specs with me."

The congregation thought that was a verse to be used for the morning hymn, and they sang it loud and strong.

American View Of Churchill

(New York Times)

To be immortal and still alive, to be 80 years old and bursting with vitality, to have the admiration of everyone who cherishes freedom and who knows a whole man when he sees him—is not bad a thing? Sir Winston Churchill should be envied today as he enters his ninth decade. He has been given to few men in history to have lived such a life as he has so long, so rich, so varied, so important.

The qualities that go to make up such a man are varied. Courage, intelligence, wisdom, high principles—one could make a long list, but each man's eightieth birthday is a time for singling out a few. Prime Minister of Her Majesty's Government, the characteristic that is most striking is his vitality. This is a quality that can always find great use, even when housed in frail bodies, but with Sir Winston it inspires awe. Into his engaging capacity for being mischievous is unimpaired, as he showed only last week in divulging that he would have been willing to use chemical soldiers to help to stop the Russians if they did not prove willing to withdraw armies as a consequence of disease, not as the cause of it.

At about the same time Dr. Gofman, working in another laboratory of the same university, stated that what he called giant cholesterol molecules form in the watery walls at the onset of hardening of the arteries.

ies or joints of individuals who had for years had hardened arteries or rheumatic and, being ignorant, carefully jumped to the conclusion that the calcium caused the arteriosclerosis or the rheumatism.

From the newer knowledge of biochemistry and nutrition acquired in the last 40 years, we know today, that the average American does not get enough calcium from their food to maintain good nutrition and good health, and, second, that when calcium is deposited in an artery wall or in the tissues of the joints it is in consequence of the pathological processing in tissues which we know as degeneration. Degeneration occurs when the body can no longer produce new cells to replace the cells that wear out and die by millions every day. In place of new cells which function in place of the worn-out or dead cells, the body can now only patch up the degenerated tissues or organs with inert tissues such as scar tissue or a kind of plaster of Paris—calcification.

At the time your trick specialist or "clinic" racketeer tries to frighten you about "calcium deposits" causing hardening of the arteries—oh, well, of course, you can't blame him, but in case your "leading" quack ever does hand you that line, just tell Dr. Osler's teaching ought to comfort you. In his famous Practice of Medicine:

"Calcification of the arterial walls is rarely associated with sclerosis and atheroma."

And we may add, no quick-acting "specialist" has shown that Osler was wrong about it.

HOW GULLIBLE CAN THE WISEACRES BE

Now, some readers are aware that I appreciate the value of nice soft arteries. In fact I have been taking mucilene for the past twenty years to keep mine that way—a good dose of cornersault before breakfast every morning.

Drs. Moon and Rhinehart of the Medical School, U.C., concluded from five years of study of scores of persons ranging in age from infancy to 90 years, some of whom had died of heart disease, some from accident, that cholesterol is responsible for the arteriosclerosis as a consequence of disease, not as the cause of it.

At about the same time Dr. Gofman, working in another laboratory of the same university stated that what he called giant cholesterol molecules form in the watery walls at the onset of hardening of the arteries.

THOSE HUNDREDS OF SERVANTS

How do you get along with the servants in your home?

"Oh," you say, "we have no servants. At these prices!" To which the insistent answer must be that you do have servants and that whether your house is large or small, you have 730 servants working for you every day.

"Ah yes," you reply, smiling; "you mean a government employee." No, I mean nothing of the sort. I mean that every man, woman and child in this country has 39 horsepower working for him or her, and one horsepower is equal to the labor of twenty men working continuously.

Amazing as it may seem, 91 per cent of this horsepower is under the hood of your automobile engine. The electric light company, the steel companies, and the other manufacturing plants use only a small percentage of that horsepower. You have most of it every time you slip into the front seat of your automobile.

Watch out, brother, how you drive. One equivalent of 70 men work all the time to keep the engine of your car going, but the equivalent of the continuous labor of 710 men is in your automobile engine. Countless lives are in your hands. Ponder this responsibility.

SOUP

How important is soup? It must be more important than any of us realize, for ever since it was first invented, it is being served and healthily enjoyed. Several hundred versions of soup are known, and the number of soups that can be compounded that soup might come in its most nourishing form of a meal in a dish, or simple all over the earth.

A bowl of hot soup can make wonders for a hungry stomach. I often heard the late Arthur Brisbane say that soup could settle their life many years if they would make a practice of taking soup before lunch or dinner.

I am no cook but I have had soup explained to me frequently. It is cooking that was a generous meal in itself. A soup can be so inexpensive that it becomes the most greater than many full meals. France is the champion. Russia its borsch. Scotland its mutton broth, and here in America we have adopted and created endless varieties of soup. Many a shoulder has attained fame, and there are many eating places that have specialized on soups, such as vegetable soup, and combinations of meats and vegetables.

In many a home the most valuable essence of vegetables goes down the drain that ought to be saved for soup, such as the water from boiled potatoes, and the souvenir from canning of vegetable tops. The expert cook, who specializes upon soups, knows that there is the smart school-boy dod's his alphabet.

A soup is a soup, sealed into cans, and sold at all grocery stores by the million each day. I have proved a boon to new housekeepers, small families, and those of limited budget who want to get a meal in itself! And think how these cans of soups have assisted explorers, adventurers in the out-of-doors, and for emergencies. Soup is mighty and will be King, how well, then, that of the Queen of foods!

Cigaret Cases At Potsdam

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

We so enjoyed a story about Sir Winston Churchill on the other day that we feel we must pass it on. It seems that when Stalin, Churchill and Truman were meeting at Potsdam, there occurred a lull in the conference and Churchill seized the opportunity of a similar lull to offer 6 gold cigaret case inscribed: "To Harry—from his admirers in Congress". In the evening, Stalin found a moment, after dinner, to pass around his cigarets. His case was platinum, with a diamond in its centre, and encrusted around the edge with alternate diamonds and rubies. It was inscribed: "To Olga— from the Grand Duke Nicholas."

CAMPBELLFORD

St. John's Y. A. Club Presents 'Varieties of 1954'

CAMPBELLFORD. — The "Varieties of 1954," presented last Wednesday and Thursday evening by the members of the St. John's Young Adults' club, in the basement of the United church, pleased large audiences both nights.

Don. Baldwin, over-all director of the program, had prepared an evening's entertainment packed with wit and humor, backed by an enthusiastic group of young adults, of which Wayne Gunter was the capable head man.

Mrs. Ruth Thompson relieved Don. Baldwin of much of the work in the direction of the one-act play, "Lemon Pie for Andy", which, for the benefit of all young unmarried ladies, might have been entitled "One Good Lesson in How to Lose a Suitor."

STAGE SHOW

The Rev. D. Mansell Smith, who appeared in the production in numerous roles, playing a part as a baseball umpire, fully lived up to the latter's reputation as "robber" and stole the show in this role.

Master of ceremonies was George Nicholls, and the group attributed much of the successfulness of the program to his capable management of his part.

Besides the play, the entertainment consisted of a series of funny skits and some numbers by talented members of the Young Adults.

PRESENTATION

At the conclusion of the final performance on Thursday night, members of the cast remained for a light lunch at which Mr. and Mrs. Don Baldwin were presented with a handsome table lamp on behalf of the club members, by Ila prevident, Wayne Gunter.

The proceeds of the two nights will be devoted entirely to the Young Adults' contribution to the church building fund. Henry Oliver, treasurer, revealed a most satisfactory return.

Weddings

LANDON — INGRAM

Faraday United Church was the scene of a pretty double-ring wedding on Saturday, November 27th at 3 p.m. when Fern Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ingram, R.R. 2, Coe Hill, became the bride of Vaughn Harold Landon, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Landon, R.R. 1, Coe Hill, Ont. The Rev. L. J. Hardy officiated.

The Wedding March was played by Mrs. Roy Ingram, sister-in-law of the bride and during the signing of the register, Miss Heather Gordon sang "A Perfect Love."

The church was decorated with white and pink streamers and white wedding bells.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a wool gabardine suit in medium blue with black accessories. She carried a white Bible with white feathered carnations and baby Sweetheart roses knotted in long white satin streamers.

Miss Marjorie Tivey was her bridesmaid wearing a dusting suit of blue-grey with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. William Ingram, brother of the bride was groomsman, and ushers were Messrs. Edwin Ingram, brother of the bride, and Elgin Landon, brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony the usual greetings of confetti and snapping of cameras took place in front of the church. The bride and bridegroom and attendants left to have pictures taken.

Later a buffet luncheon was held in the W.A. hall.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, white, trimmed with hearts and silver beads topped with a crown of white.

The bride's mother received in a gown of grey crepe with black accessories and corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in navy with black accessories and corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

For the wedding trip to the south the bride wore a grey suit, black accessories and corsage of Bettertime roses and natural color top coat.

On their return they will reside near Coe Hill.

Guests were present from Faraday, Coe Hill, Gilroy, Apsley, Bancroft, Corbyville, Pickering, Kemptville and Anson.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at two showers, one a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Arlene MacDonald, Coleman St., Belleville; a pantry shower given by Miss Marjorie Tivey, was held in the Guild hall, Coe Hill.

A lovely wool blanket was presented to her by fellow-workers of the Northern Electric Company, where she was employed prior to her marriage.

Mrs. Charles B. Allison Celebrates 100th Birthday

PICTON. — On December 3 1854, there was born in the township of Hillier, Prince Edward County, Emma Frances Crandall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Crandall. Today, the former Emma Crandall, who became the wife of Charles B. Allison, of Picton, celebrates her one hundredth birthday.

Though the centenarian is confined to Prince Edward County Hospital, she is bright and cheerful.

With her on this auspicious occasion will be her son, Dr. Gerald Allison, Picton, and her daughter, Mrs. Joseph S. Bolton, of Montreal, whose husband is assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal. There are two grandchildren, Major Conger Allison in London, England, and Mrs. Frank Wells, R. H. Picton, also three grandchildren, Marilyn and Carol Ann Waite and Mrs. W. F. Rickart of Toronto, and one great, great grandchild, John Paul Rickart.

WINDOW OF DRUGGIST

Widow of a pioneer druggist and prominent citizen of the town, Mrs. Allison looks back on a life of service to her community, her family and her church. A life member of Sir Thomas Picton Chapter I.O.D.E., Mrs. Allison was Regent for ten years. For many years she was a member of the choir of the Methodist church. Her home was always a hospitable one and her gracious personality won her many life-long friends. The many distinctions were by members of her family in their professions and public life have been a source of pride to the centenarian.

Kinette Club Enjoys Fine Turkey Dinner

On Tuesday evening St. Thomas' Parish House was a gala garb with Christmas decorations when the Kinette club enjoyed a sumptuous turkey dinner with all the trimmings, served by the ladies of the parochial guild.

The occasion was the annual Christmas meeting of the club and president Mary Lang, occupied the chair.

Prior to the meeting, the club members were entertained by Mary Codling at her home.

At the beginning of the business session, the girls stood for one minute's silence in respect to the memory of the late Clifford Hodges, of Kingston Kinsmen, governor of District No. 6, with which Belleville club is associated.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

A letter of thanks from the Belleville Kinsmen club was read in which appreciation was expressed for the gift given them by the Kinette club during the recent drive for flood victims.

A donation of $25 was made to the Kinsmen T.B. Christmas seal fund and the club voted to buy an electrobook talking-book machine for blind persons in this district.

It was noted that five machines have previously been purchased and donated by the Kinettes.

The Salvation Army Christmas Cheer fund was voted $25 and a special donation of $25 was made to Wa-Wa. All canned goods and gifts which the members brought to this meeting were also to be given to Wa-Wa to be used when and where the committee saw need.

SANTA CLAUS

Santa Claus arrived amid sleigh bell and shouting and distributed a small gift to each and all for which he received a big kiss.

After the tumult died down, the members spent the remainder of the evening singing carols under the able direction of song-leader, Bonnie Boynton.

Fines were much the order of the evening and were extracted in a lively manner by Margaret Bolzy.

NUTRITIOUS FOOD

Most vegetables when grated can be eaten raw with salad or in sandwiches.

Christ Church C.C. Elects 1955 Officers

The final business meeting of the season was held by the Contact Club, Christ Church, on Monday evening, with a good attendance of members. President, Florence Lennox presided, and a great deal of business was brought to a successful conclusion. The president announced that the parish bazaar and tea had been an outstanding success. She thanked the members for their efforts in this undertaking.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale later this week and all were urged to donate rummage and be on hand to help.

Evelyn Wareham gave a report on the sale of the Contact Club "Cooking Secrets"; this project has been a most successful one.

Margaret Cooke invited everyone to the club Christmas party next Monday evening.

To conclude the business of the year, it was decided that the Club would contribute the sum of $150 to the Sunday School to help with the purchase of a film projector, $10 to the Kinsmen T.B. fund, $10 for Christmas cheer baskets and $5 for Christmas flowers for the church. Card tables will also be purchased for use in the parish hall.

THANKS TENDERED

Archdeacon the venerable A. L. Cresgan then spoke to the girls, thanking them for their work, especially in the nursery during Church service, and also for their efforts during the year. He reminded them that all organizations should work together as a happy family and urged them to keep up their enthusiastic work.

The Archdeacon then presented the following slate of officers for 1955, which were elected by acclamation: president, Betty Ling; vice-president, Dorothy McCormick; secretary, Margarite Cooke; treasurer, Joyce Woodley; telephone convener, Barbara Sweet; social hostess, Nadine Thorner; Sunshine fund, Evelyn Wareham; nursery, Doreen Mills; Layettes, Bunny McLean; sewing machine convener, Mary Wiggins.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Doreen Mills, Marjorie Scott and Lois Beeby. Hostesses at last week's meeting were Terry Burch, Evelyn Clarke and Frances Rogers.

Young Couple Feted With Many Gifts

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bedell entertained about 50 guests at a reception in honor of their son, Glen, and his bride, who arrived from Montreal, where they had spent a few days.

During the evening, Mr. Ted Dobbs invited Glen and Hannah to take seats of honor beside a table laden with many beautiful and useful gifts for their new home.

After a few remarks and best wishes from some of the men present, Glen unwrapped the gifts. Both expressed their sincere thanks and appreciation to all present and invited all to visit them at their home in Toronto.

The hostess' daughter, Mrs. Charlie Woods, assisted by Misses Margaret and Marilyn Brickman served bountiful and delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

All joined in wishing the newlyweds a long, happy and prosperous life and extended a welcome to Hannah to the circle of relatives and friends.

Belleville H.D.C. Club Holds Christmas Party

On Monday evening the Belleville Handicapped and Disabled Citizens' club held a Christmas party for crippled children in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium with 34 children receiving gifts from Santa. Pictures of all attending were taken by Bill Riley.

Chairman John Nesbitt greeted all the children and asked them to sing "God Save The Queen". Mrs. June Elarby played the piano and Peggy Minzi led the sing-song of many carols and "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer". Also "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus."

During a brief intermission, all were served soft drinks.

Barbara Dimmick graciously brought some of her dancing class to entertain with Gail Tremaine doing a toe tap, followed by Judy McKnight. Linda Lennox did an outstanding job of dancing on roller skates. Gail Clare, Karen Flindall, Jane Grey, Gail Tremaine, gaily dressed in lovely costumes, all did novelty tap dances. To captivate the hearts was little Iris Lonis who kept the children spellbound with her acrobatics. Judy McKnight, Brian Mooney, and Linda Lennox all did tapping numbers and to end the program Gail Juby sang and danced.

A big hand was given Barbara Diment and troop.

SANTA PRESENTS GIFTS

Santa arrived to give each attending a gift, candies, apples, oranges and candy canes. Conveners for this lovely program for the children were, Mrs. Fairhead, Edith Burrowes and Irene McMurter. Guest of honor was Mr. Herb Reed, of the employment office. Chairman of the club is John Nesbitt and secretary, Gerald Woodworth.

Assisting the Belleville handicap club for the evening were Jr. Grad Regt. Ruth Minzi, Recorder Nellie Scryngeour, Mooseheaven chairman Willie Burke, and co-worker Marian Madden, of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 433.

Great appreciation should be shown to this handicap club for the lovely thing they did for these children who are not as fortunate in life as others.

Acting as Santa was Reg. Bullpitt.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, ice cream and pop were served.

Edith Burrowes thanked the Women of the Moose for assisting.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THEY QUARRELED AND BROKE UP—HE WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a woman in my late twenties, and for a time was engaged to a fellow two years younger than myself. We had known each other practically all our lives, and grew along very well, despite the fact that we were of different faiths.

His mother, however, was dead set against having me for a daughter-in-law on account of my different faith, and when my boy friend would come home on leave after being drafted, we had many arguments on the subject and finally broke up.

Now, 10 months later, I have received a letter from him saying that he went back into service because he wasn't happy at home. He tells me that he still loves me and wants me to give him another chance to prove himself, to show me that he has grown up and to make up for the heartache he caused me.

I must admit I still care for him, but I feel very uncertain about whether or not I can trust him. Should I give him another chance or should I forget him? — F.M.

Dear F.M.:

Since this young man has, of his own accord, made a move toward a reconciliation with you, and since he feels that he has a more mature attitude now and wants to prove it to you, and again since you say you still care for him, then I think your right well give him another chance.

If I were you, however, I wouldn't agree to pick up the engagement again right away, instead, I would tell this fellow that you would like to try again and see if you can understand each other better, so you propose that you resume your former friendship, but on an informal basis for awhile. That is, you would see each other and write to each other as you did before, but neither of you would feel that you were committing yourself.

This would make things simpler if you found that the necessary try was no more successful that the first one, whereas, on the other hand, if you found that everything went happily, you could then make your decision to become engaged again. But take plenty of time to find out what you want to do. I would say you should wait a minimum of six months before making any decision, perhaps a year. There are many vital points on which agreement must be worked out before two young people of different faiths should marry, else trouble can easily arise after marriage.

SHE'S RIGHT—HE'S INTERESTED ONLY IN HIMSELF

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old, and the boy I love is 24. We have been going together for almost two years.

What makes me is that he tells me he loves me but, if the subject of marriage comes up, he makes light of it or changes the subject. At the same time, he wants me to be intimate with him, and says that all kids in love are intimate with each other.

If there was any reason why we couldn't be married, I would understand his attitude, but, as it is, I don't know whether he really loves me or is just interested in himself. — P.M.

Dear P.M.:

I would say it was very plain indeed that this young man is interested only in himself and his own desires, and I think you would be extremely foolish if you let yourself believe anything else. As people of your age, who have gone together as long as "almost two years," certainly should know whether or not they wish to be married, and if this young man has not asked you to marry him by now, but suggests an affair with him instead, you can be very sure he is not thinking about a wedding.

I advise you to turn down his proposition in no uncertain terms, in which case more than likely you will find a young man of more character.

Mother's Helper

YOUR CHILDREN can make charming cards to send at Christmas time. Turn these loose with a box of inexpensive note paper (so there'll be matching envelopes). Let them use bright crayons or water colors, with a ballpoint pen for second lines. The combination of "togetherness" is fun.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BRIGHTENING DRAB HAIR

Experimenting with hair dyes has been a feminine diversion down through the ages. Even the most serious-minded women flirt with the idea now and then for dyeing has become respectable, like make-up and the facelift, though once upon a time even the mention of a tophat suddenly changed colors.

Women with drab hair complain the most since they feel that they are neither flesh, fowl nor good red herring at the beauty feast. Certainly they are neither blonde or brunette, and they would prefer to be definitely classified.

Sometimes it happens that a woman is born with golden hair only to have her locks become tarnished and then assume a nondescript hue. In that case she may have retained a fair, peaches-and-cream complexion, which is some consolation, and she feels entitled to seek the substitute gold to be found in the peroxide bottle.

When she comes to a decision, however, she should consult an operator who specializes in bleaching and dyeing since skill and expetience are required if the hair is not to be damaged by over treatment. The peroxide has no ill effects upon the shaft. It is the ammonia which is added that causes harm to break.

If the first treatment finished the project, there would be no problem, but it goes merrily on sending forth a darker growth that must be touched up every six weeks or so. One application of the bleaching agent must not overlap another else the hair will be streaked.

Less expensive are the new temporary coloring rinses. Sensible too; you aren't stuck with a shade of hair you do not fancy.

Glamorizing a Plain Onion

By Mary Moore

It was our privilege to have dinner this past week-end with a famous gentleman who visits my brother every few years. He loves creamed onions the way Wyn, my sister-in-law, prepares them, and so do I. He expects her to serve them some time during his visit and she does. ☺

Wyn's menu was:

Fresh Cider

Frikasseed Chicken Legs

Creamed Onions with Peas

Glazed Sweet Potatoes

Celery Radishes Apple Jelly

Angel Kitchen Pouring Cream

Coffee

The vegetables and the Kuchen were so popular with me that I want to pass the methods on to you, for I know you will have extra entertaining to do this month and will welcome some vegetable ideas.

CREAMED ONIONS WITH PEAS (Serves 8)

Out of a basket or bag select 16 1-inch and 16 1-inch cauliflory cooking onions. (You should use small onions because part of the beauty of the dish is the fact that the onions are whole.) Peel and cover with boiling water. Boil 2 minutes and drain. Recover with boiling water and boil until nearly tender. (Don't boil them so long that the centres slip out and the onions go soft.) Drain. Cook 1 package frozen peas until barely tender in 1-2 cup boiling water. Make a white sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, add 3 tablespoons flour and when blended stirring in 2 1-2 cups whole milk until thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. (Wyn added 1-4 teaspoon MSG. It is very good but not necessary.) Add drained vegetables to the white sauce and serve in hot vegetable dish.

GLAZED SWEET POTATOES

Boil 1 medium-sized sweet potato for each person to be served. To serve 4, after peeling and slicing potatoes (4) put in shallow baking dish and sprinkle with 7-8 cup light brown sugar and dot with 4 tablespoons butter and sprinkle with salt. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 40 or 50 minutes, carefully turning once.

APPLE KUCHEN

One cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup sour thickening, 1 egg, 1-4 cup milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, about 3 large apples pared and cut in 12 lengthwise wedges (apples should be tart—Spies are good), 1-3 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives, until like coarse meal. Stir in combined egg and milk with fork. Spread in buttered shallow pan about 10x8x2 inches. Brush top with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Arrange apples in parallel rows on top, with the polished edges down. Sprinkle with the cinnamon and nutmeg mixed with the remaining 4 tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle with remaining butter. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve warm with pouring cream or hard sauce.

TRINITY W.M.S. - W.A.

MADOC — Trinity United W.M.S. and W.A. joined for their December meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Empey on Wednesday afternoon, with an attendance of 30.

Mrs. D. Cameron, president of the W.M.S. welcomed all the ladies and conducted the business period.

Reports were given by the supply secretary, Mrs. Holmes; community friendship by Mrs. F. Fleming, and stewardship by Mrs. A. Empey, who offered prayer for the missionary, Miss Youdan.

Mrs. Brinkwater read the Christmas Bible story as written in Luke's gospel.

A talk on the theme, "God's Gifts," was given by Mrs. Carmen. Mrs. Hewson, president of the W.A., had charge of the program, and Christmas being so close the program was entirely on the festive season with the singing of Christmas carols and readings by several of the members on "Customs of Other Christmas."

Mrs. Albert Bailey gave a reading on the "Origin of the Christmas Tree"; Mrs. Bennett on "The Holly"; Mrs. Ivy Brennan on "The Poinsettia"; Mrs. James Nickle, "The Mistletoe"; Mrs. B. Holmes read a poem, "There'll Always be a Christmas" and Mrs. W. McCoy a reading on "The Legend of the Christmas Window Lights."

The meeting closed with the singing of several Christmas carols and prayer by Mrs. Jackson.

A Christmas contest was enjoyed by the members and a pleasant social half hour, with bounteous refreshments served by the hostess and her assistants concluded a pleasant meeting.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SATIN vs. TAFFETA FOR BRIDAL DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and I have a problem about what I should wear, that is, what material I should choose for my dress—at my large, formal church wedding in the late Spring. Mother thinks that satin (white or candlelight) is a 'must' for the bride at a formal church wedding. But I have never liked satin, and as I am a bit on the plump side, I just don't think satin is for me. I love taffeta, and in the past few years I've worn only taffeta evening gowns and afternoon dresses. Mother and I would like to know what your point of view is about what would be the appropriate material for me. Alma R.

Since you have this feeling about satin, I say don't wear it . . . no reason to, for today bridal material isn't a 'must' for the bride at a formal wedding. There is a wide range of bridal materials these days, and please wear the material that you will wear most happily, that you consider the most becoming. Many nearly brides-to-be are so joyously enthusiastic about taffeta as you are, and the new soft taffetas are lyrically beautiful, and cooperate most artistically with so many bridal-dress designs. Taffeta is, usually, (and apparently would be in your case) since you so much enjoy wearing it, feel comfortable in it) also most acceptable for wearing . . . and year-round wearing . . . after the wedding.

BEST TASTE: SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS FIRST CLASS MAIL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a heated discussion we are having concerning sending our Christmas cards, please answer this question for us: Is it considered good taste to send Christmas card envelopes unsealed, that is, not First Class Mail?—The M Family.

It's considered first class taste to send Christmas card envelopes First Class Mail. This gives them the right look to make the right first impression. If economy is the idea, it's in far better taste to buy less, expensive cards and send them correctly.

Also, sending your cards First Class Mail has these advantages:

1. Your cards may carry written messages.
2. They are sorted and delivered first.
3. If necessary, they are forwarded to a new address.
4. If undeliverable, they are returned if the sender's return-address is on the envelope.

HOLLOWAY ENERGETIC CLUB

The Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church held its regular meeting in the church parlors on Friday and enjoyed an evening of fine fellowship with the Good Companions of Tabernacle United Church as their guests.

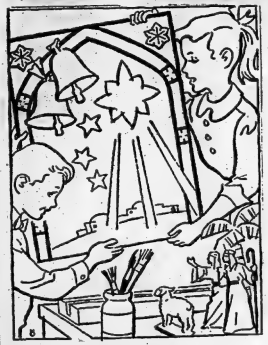
To get acquainted, a unique bingo card was presented to each person on entering, and each was required to fill the squares with autographs of the other club. Names instead of numbers were then called and prizes were presented to winners.

Maitland Duff opened the devotional with his call to worship. Scripture was read by Frank Wilson and a meditation was given by Vera Wannamaker. Ron Jones led in prayer.

Jeanete Ostlindyke then read a beautiful story of the visit of a young minister to Palestine and the inspiration he received while visiting the places where Jesus travelled and taught long ago.

Accompanied by Mr. William Connor at the piano Ethel Scriven gave two lovely solos, "O Holy Night," and "Mary's Lullaby." After which Mr. Connor gave two piano selections. "Christmas Chimes" and a "Waltz by Chopin" which were very much appreciated.

Mrs. Middleton was then called on to speak to the group and won her way into the hearts of all by her delightful Scottish humor and kept her audience in gales of laughter with her jokes interspersed by occasional serious thought.



Bill Stewart was entertaining with his performance, complete with black face white gloves and walking cane, gave out some real old Southern songs accompanied by records.

Refreshments were served and the evening closed with the friendship circle and benediction.

CARMEL W.M.S.

The December meeting of Carmel W.M.S. was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Homan. The president, Mrs. M. Ross, conducted the worship service. Mrs. John Homan read the Christmas story from Luke 2.

In the absence of Mrs. Bart Deboe the recording secretary, Mrs. S. Homan, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Urch reported sending a Christmas parcel for teen-age boys to the Presbyterial supply secretary.

The January meeting will be held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Porter with Mrs. Merle Robinson in charge of the program.

Mrs. Clare Horton took charge of the candle lighting service which was most impressive. She told the story of the Babe of Bethlehem with Mrs. Norman reading the Scripture and Mrs. S. Homan offering prayer. Carols were sung between the lighting of each candle.

Mrs. H. Deboe gave a reading and Mrs. Robinson gave the astronomer's version of the star. "A Gift for the King" was given by Mrs. S. Homan.

After the meeting was closed the hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was spent. Mrs. J. Patterson thanked Mrs. Homan for her kind hospitality.

CENTRE, VICTORIA, REDNERSVILLE W.M.S.

The December meeting of Centre, Victoria and Rednersville W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Vanclaef with an attendance of 17 members and visitors. The meeting opened with the singing of "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," followed by a Christmas verse and prayer by Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Mr. Townsend presided for the election of officers which resulted in the same officers being returned for 1955.

The January meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Winston Pulver.

The W.M.S. was reminded that December is the whole day in day on the various appointments.

A card, signed by those present, was sent to Mrs. Clara Best, express sympathy in her recent bereavement.

Mrs. Townsend extended a warm welcome to the visitors who had come to the meeting.

CANDLE CEREMONIAL

The candle ceremonial from the Missionary Monthly was given by Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Frank Townsend, and Mrs. Winston Pulver, followed by prayer by Mrs. Townsend.

A reading by Mrs. Ralph Stafford said in conclusion—"whereas the United Church of Canada has appealed to its members throughout Canada in an effort to restore the Christian emphasis to Christmas, Resolved: That we commend this effort and urge all members to make this Holy Day more Christian in observance. May you find great joy this Christmas-tide as you show loving kindness to others."

Mrs. Frank Townsend gave a reading, "Let's Keep Christmas". "All feel the pressure of approaching Christmas—you are thinking about presents—wondering what in the world you can get for so-and-so. Maybe there is nothing in a store that they need. But what about some token of love—and friendship . . . and understanding . . . and consideration. . . and a helping hand . . . and a smile . . . and a prayer?"

"You can't buy these things in any store, and these are the things people need. I thank God for Christmas. Would that it lasted all year. For on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, all the world is a better place, men and women are more lovable. May we keep Christmas in our hearts, that we may be host in a hope."

KEEPING CHRISTMAS

Mrs. Townsend gave a meditation on "Keeping Christmas". "Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people and to remember what other people have done for you— to ignore what the world owes you and to think what you owe the world—to close your book of complaints against the universe and look around where you can sow a few seeds of happiness? Are you willing to do these things? Then you can keep Christmas. Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world and that the life which began in Bethlehem 1900 years ago is the Image and Brightness of Eternal Love? Then you can keep Christmas. For behold, I bring you good tidings of great Joy."

After a social time and refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend favored with two Christmas songs which were much enjoyed.

BUSY TIME

Two Film Star Daughters Keep Life Moving for Mother

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Two film star daughters keep life moving for Mrs. David Miller from North Bay, Ont.

"I have no chance to become mundane or bored," said the good-looking mother of actresses Mandy Miller, 10, and her sister Jan, 17. "There's always something happening."

Mrs. Miller is a slim, dark woman of 43 who goes everywhere schoolgirl Mandy is called in the course of making movies.

"Location for the Millers is generally in the rain around Manchester," she said with a smile during an interview. "We never land Italy or France."

KEEPS HER BUSY

It's hard work. When Mandy is filming, Mrs. Miller is generally out from seven in the morning until seven at night. She keeps her own two-floor flat, doing the cooking herself for house guests and parties.

Mrs. Miller married an emigrant Scot when she landed in North Bay to open a radio station in 1933 and just can't figure how she brought up two film stars. Her motto: "Never treat them as film stars—you'll be lost if you do."

Jan—real name Eleanor Anne—was the first daughter to get the film bug. But it was Mandy who shot to box-office recognition in the film "Mandy." She had previously scored in a small part as an urchin child in Alec Guinness' "The Man in the White Suit."

Mandy—real name Carman—got her film chance when she visited a studio with Jan. Then she, she was offered a screen test. The visit was arranged by Miller, who is a producer in the BBC variety section.

Mrs. Miller says there has never been any jealousy over Mandy's success. Jan's chance may be on the way. She has just played a lead role opposite Kenneth More in "Raising a Hat," story of a father left to cope with his three active offspring while mother visits Canada. Mandy is his daughter and his son is played by 10-year-old Gary Billings, son of dancer Jack Billings of Hamilton, Ont.

This is the first time the Miller sisters have acted together. Jan plays an American girl who falls for Kenneth More.

Now Mandy is making her first television film, for North America, and Jan spends time away from the studio doing photographic modelling.

Mrs. Miller seems to have an inborn camera sense," said Mrs. Miller, [illegible] under contract and offers of film parts are mounting.

Mrs. Miller's biggest regret is that each year she plans to visit Canada "and something comes up to stop it." The family want to visit grandmother Miller in Toronto and Mrs. Miller's sister, Mrs. W. H. Edey, Haileybury, Ont.
